The ast-named (Miss Julia Kent) makes a dashing representative of Robin Hood, and, in one of the scenes, scores brilliantly as the son of a millionaire, in diamonds and gold brocade.

Miss Julia Kent, the principal boy, is a very sprightly and dashing young lady with a good voice. She has many songs, but "Down at the Old Bull and Bush" is undoubtedly the most popular of them. It goes with a hearty swing.

Stage.

Miss Julia Kent, a very prepossessing and taking principal boy, ought to be given more opportunities than she has at present as Robin Hood. She acts with considerable go, looks well alike in Lincoln green, in white, in black (as a schoolboy), and in crimson with armour, as the rehabilitated Earl of Huntingdon, and makes a good deal of her songs, "The Bull and Bush" and "The Millionaire," the latter with topical allusions. Miss Kent, who has previously won popularity in Islington, has a duet, "The Peacock and the Crow," with the Maid Marian.

"THE COUNTRY WIFE."
By Wycherly, Revised by David Garrick.
Special Production of
"DAVID GARRICK."
Played over a Thousand Times.
Extract from Folkestone Express, Nov. 7.
The play was mounted and dressed superbly, being, in fact, an exact replica of the Haymarket Theatre. . . . The company which Mr Norman has brought comprises several most able artists. Mr Norman himself has a splendid reputation. His representation of Gil de Berault on Monday evening was one of the finest pieces of acting Folkestone theatre-goers have ever witnessed, and he well deserved the applause which was accorded him. The leading lady, Miss Beatrice Wilson, is a mistress of her art. Nothing could be finer than her byplay with the fop Captain Larolle, or than that great scene between her and Gil de Berault, in which he shows how great his love, to which the audience listens spellbound.

More London Newspaper Opinions:—
Throughout there is a quaint flavour of fun and genial sentiment, and a capital supply of scenic and spectacular effects, very cleverly designed and most effectively carried out. Secures hearty approval, and unqualified praise must be given.—Lloyd's.
The pantomime is delightfully staged. Induces mirth throughout. Plenty of fun, for which Albert and Edmunds' Troupe are largely responsible.—People.
The book is full of quips and cranks likely to produce wreathed smiles and plenty of laughter. Patrons roared over the business. The very name of Albert and Edmunds Troupe is eloquent of fun, and here there is fun in full measure.—Referee.
Managers of Important theatres Requiring a certain Mascot for next Christmas Season are cordially Invited to Witness this Production. Everything has been (and would be) done to assure Success. Refer to Mr Wm. Bailey re Perfect Advertising and Unique Specimens of Letterpress, &c.
The Show is Wide-awake in every Department, and could be Guaranteed to hold its own Anywhere and Everywhere against all Opponents. Produced by Edmund Edmunds and the Author. General Manager, W. SCOTT PHIPP. WEST LONDON THEATRE, Four Weeks; then Six Weeks' Tour (Midlands).

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERTILLERY.

THEATRE METROPOLE.—Lessees, Messrs Arthur Carlton and Sam Duckworth; General and Resident Manager, Mr Geo. W. Ventom.—Mr Wentworth Croke's No. 1 company is here in the drama The Christian. Mr Hilliard Vox plays the Hon. John Storm with remarkable dignity; Mr Chas. Hill does well as Parson Quayle; Mr Stanley Radcliffe scores as Father Lamplugh; as also does Mr Chas. E. Dering in the rôle of Archdeacon Wealthy. As Lord Robert Ure Mr Char. B. Bodells soon ingratiates himself into the good graces of the audience; Mr Jackson Wilcox plays the part of Horatio Drake in good style; Mr Oswald Marshall is responsible for a good delineation of Mr Lorimer; Miss Gertrude Homeward gives a pathetic rendering of the much-wronged Polly Love; Miss Bella Moody, Miss Dorothy Clifton, and Miss Molly Hayden as Betty, Letty, and Netty are very charming; Miss Clara Nicholls plays the part of Mrs Callander in good style; and Miss Grace Chalmers renders Glory Quayle excellently, and scores a great success.

ALDERSHOT.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr George E. Williams.—Alice in Wonderland is being played here by Mr Trevor Lowe's company. The staging is tastefully carried out and the scenery and effects employed are, from a spectacular point of view, a source of attraction. The company, which is as follow, work hard and their efforts are successful:—Misses Lina Nazeby, Rosie Dane, Florrie Bevan, Winnie Luker, Maude Murray, Milly Cockerell, A. Grace, Messrs Frank Lincoln, Lewis Gilbert, Jas. Hussey, Jas. Worley, Thos. Pauncefort, F. Forbes-Robertson.

ALTRINCHAM.

NEW PAVILION OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs Budd, Howe, and Taylor; Acting-Manager, Mr Arthur Gilman.—The management continues to give considerable satisfaction by providing enjoyable entertainments. The engagement of Calvo, a double-voiced vocalist, has proved quite an attraction; Irene Herbert, a comedienne and vocalist; and Gilbert Serony, a burlesque comedian and comic conjuror, also appear. The other artistes include Joe Phillips and Eddie Howe, comedians; and Fred and Florence Budd, vaudeville artistes. A complimentary benefit was given to Eddie Howe on Friday evening.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr Armstrong Fairbairn.—The pantomime, Little Bo-Peep, has been fairly launched here, and is now sailing smoothly.

ASHTON HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Chas. Revill; Director of Entertainments, Mr F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr L. Campkin.—This week's bill includes Tom M'Inerney, wrestler; Tennyson and Wallis, popular comedians; Henri Bekker, conjuror; the Brothers Ambey, clever speciality artists; Tom Johnstone, actor-vocalist and mimic; Wood and Merrion, American vocal entertainers; Willie Walker, ball puncher; the Three Sisters Adrienne, burlesque artistes, sand dancers, and whistlers. New and amusing pictures continue to make the Bioscope a popular part of the programme.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr Wm. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr W. Leech.—Numerous pleasure-seekers were attracted by the programme for the present week, which includes Ginnett's Rejected Remounts; Chard's dogs and collies; Eddie Stidder, trick musical eccentric; the Ettenas, with their globe speciality; the Bell, Pearl, and company, male and female artistes, in their musical vaudeville A Bit of String; the Provenie Family, cyclists; H. Tomlinson, character vocalist; Cribb and Cribb, in the burlesque After the Ball; Harry Gray, comedian; and Jack Horsley, novelty bag puncher. The Cinématograph pictures are part of the programme.

ATTERCLIFFE.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Resident Manager, Mr Claude Seaton.—The Belle of Haslemere is the attraction here this week, the present tour being under the direction of Mr Charles A Chandler, who has got together an excellent company. As the hero, Frank Beresford, Mr Leonard Yorke gives a forcible interpretation. Mr C. A. Chandler as Captain Vere, Mr Montague Turner as John Silkstone, and Mr Fred F. Allen as Joseph Thorndyke render excellent service, and form a trio sufficiently villainous for all melodramatic purposes. Mr Douglas Hamilton is very good as Matthew Brookfield and Mr Charles Cecil a breezy Rueben Armstrong, and with Miss Stafford Smith, a clever Dorothy Tremble, win appreciation for their comedy. Mr Charles Clark is seen to advantage in the small part of Patrick Desmond; Miss Harrietta Polini plays with care and finish as Evelyn Brookfield; and Mary Northcote finds an able exponent in Miss Mary Hardacre. Miss Florence Chandler is a winsome Nora Desmond.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr T. Allan Edwards; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Lacy Lyne; Assistant-Manager, Mr W. Massey Baker.—Another good list of attractions is provided for the present week, one of the chief items being that presented by Texas Hattie, a clever juvenile, who gives a startling performance on the tight wire, at the same time playing a violin. Blake and Adams have an amusing sketch, The Man in Possession; Master Henri proves himself a smart juggler; Gertrude Moore contributes a novel singing and dancing transformation scene; and other contributors are the Venola Brothers, gymnasts; Caselli and James, banjoists; and Charles Russell, comedian and vocalist.

AYR.

NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry W. Day.—Very appropriate to the New Year festive season is the visit of Mr Fred Karno's comedians in His Majesty's Guests, for the musical, panto-farce nature of the production makes it very acceptable. The laughter created by the antics of Sergeant Lightning, Mr R. H. Kitchen, is merry and prolonged. Mr Charles F. Howard and Miss Jessamine Newcombe represent Lord and Lady Easem; Mr W. Smith is successful in the part of Mr Miffin; and Mr James Ross as Selina and Mr C. Leoville as Bunker are exceedingly funny.

BACUP.

NEW COURT THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Denman-Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr Richard Nightingale.—Messrs J. K. Murray and J. M. Dawson's company in the pathetic drama Driven from Home is here this week. Mr A. J. Williams wins favour as the old servitor Jabez Mr Cyril Harrison skilfully undertakes the part of Geoffrey Waring, the villain. Mr Sydney Grant gives an excellent and pathetic representation of Willie, an outcast. Mr Jack Dawson as Walter Hatherleigh does full justice to the character. Mr C. Standhope as the kind-hearted lawyer, Marley, achieves distinction. Mr Fred Hadskis as the cold and cruel Anthony Raybrook plays with a finish and intensity that are fully appreciated. Miss Ella Sennett submits a sympathetic rendering of Laura Raybrook, and Miss Gladys Murray appears to advantage in the dual rôles of Barbara Ashdown and Walter Hatherleigh the younger. Mr Algy Spalding as John Anderson and Miss Emile Dawson as Margaret keep the house fully amused. Mr Edwin Turner as a bad sample of a British workman is decidedly good, and the "Nipper" is well represented by Miss Ida Murray.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.

ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr George Stone.—Mr Walter Melville's combination in A Girl's Cross Roads, under the author's management, is the New Year attraction here this week. Miss Hilda Beverley in the rôle of Barbara Wade displayed great histrionic ability, and the artist was fully entitled to the success she achieved. Mr Charles Franmore's interpretation of John Meddows was excellent; the part of Constance Cornell was charmingly rendered by Miss Grace Richardson; Mr Cecil A. Melton was remarkably good as Jack Livingston, as also were Mr Charles Terry as Dr. Weston, Mr Barry Lewars as Cuthbert Lumley, Mr Fred Ingram as Tobey Turvey, Miss Lila Norden as Tilley Vane, all of whom contributed very considerably to the success of the play.

TIVOLI THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Stage-Manager, Mr Wm. Whiting.—The Stavordale Quintet of banjoists and harpists are the star turn here this week. The Bensons, American speciality artists, are a popular turn; Kisbey is successful in his unique speciality, his patter being greatly amusing; a novel turn of rope-spinning and manipulation is given by the Buffaloes; Mayon and Marle in their comedy sketch cause roars of laughter; Mabelle May is a comedienne and dancer of a high order; and Blanche Haddon has a pleasing voice and sings some nice ballads.

BATH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr Lewis A. Long.—Goody Two Shoes has entered upon the second week of its short run with every sign of success. Always smart from the first, it now, if possible, plays even closer together, the artistes having settled down to their respective parts. Several new songs, dances, and jokes have been introduced since our last visit. The popular numbers, "Bluebell" and "Could you be true to eyes of blue?" are well sung by Miss Nell Richardson as Crispen; Miss Eva Bevington, the smart Margot, gives the ear-haunting "Sammy" with capital effect; Mr Harry Buss continues to be the life and soul of the production as Dame Durden; and Mr F. G. Thurstans (Godiva) and Mr Will Gane (Peeping Tom) also add their share to the fun-making. Miss Jessica Deane remains a charming heroine, and her cultured vocalism is still a delightful feature. Miss May Hart, the sprightly Chevalier, has become a prime favourite, her rendering of a "Shoeblack" song proving quite successful.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr W. Trussell.—The programme offered this week would be hard to improve upon. We have the Magic Kettle, and the marvellous experiments with liquid air are watched with keen and close attention. After a lengthy absence the Wartenburg Brothers return to perform their wonderful foot feats, and meet with a capital reception. The banjo playing of the Clarkes surpasses anything of the kind that has been heard locally; Lauri Wylie and his mimicking mannikins are highly amusing; Marco continues to improve rapidly; Stanert and Yondi present a versified comedy and musical act that wins much applause; Martine and Son, American song illustrators, readily gain the goodwill of the house; and Jennie Reeve, comedienne, opens the ball in an acceptable manner.

BELFAST.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr James M'Cann.—Puss in Boots is running merrily here, and it is readily admitted that no more brilliant spectacle has ever feasted the eye than the "Procession of Silver Warriors." Cinquevalli's fame as a juggler is enough to make the fortune of any pantomime; and the other principals are fast becoming immense favourites. In addition to other capital songs, Miss Minnie Jeffs sings "Angeline," with its catchy chorus, and dances admirably, being doubly encored nightly. Mr Martin Adeson, the principal comedian, is even funnier than ever, his item on the "Soldier's Life" being especially mirth-provoking. Mr Adeson has every reason to feel proud of his success. Miss Florence Esdaile's vocalism enraptures all; and Mdlle. Stella sings "Navaho" and dances capitally. Mr Fred Lyne's Dame is worthy of all commendation. It is wonderfully clever. The Ceolian Glee Singers are deservedly encored for their sweet and cultured vocalism, and the Superbas' saltatorial display is remarkable. We congratulate Mr Warden on the undoubted success of this remarkably attractive pantomime.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr John P. Beardmore.—The celebrated Dayton Troupe head the bill here, and their startling acrobatic feats have been enthusiastically received. Mr and Mrs Neil Litchfield stage a very humorous sketch, Down at Brook Farm, which is well acted and has had a capital reception. A novelty is supplied by Mons. Slippere, the blind pianist, who is assisted by Miss Ramsay, his performance being extremely clever. Another feature of the programme is the entertainment entitled Jimson's Pets at Home; or, the Burglar's Surprise, the feats of some well-trained dogs being surprisingly clever. Sinclair and Parr, actor-vocalists, have been loudly and deservedly applauded for their latest success, An Appointment, and Mr George Penn moves all to uncontrollable mirth by his up-to-date patter. As a musician he is excellent. Messrs Tate and Tate, acrobats, and Mr Bert Holmes, vocalist, also appear.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Brock.—Mr Tom Edmonds, an exceedingly clever ventriloquist, heads the bill here, and creates roars of laughter by his most acceptable act. Hugh Stanton and company, including the charming actress Miss Jessie Burgwitz, return with their attractive satire For Reform, and a capital reception has been extended to Griff, whose witty and up-to-date patter, combined with a most amusing juggling act, has kept the audience delighted beyond measure. The Sarnthalers, a splendid troupe of national singers and dancers, gain hearty approval by their clever performance, and Vesper, facial mimic, commands success by his unique and realistic impersonations. Also appearing are Mr Jimmy Shields, one-legged comedian; Miss Fanny Robins, burlesque actress; Mr Tom O'Neill, comedian; and Miss Florrie Cooper, juvenile actress, who made a big hit on Monday.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr Henry T. Downs.—The Four M.P.'s (the Musical Palmers) head the list and delight all with their musical performance, which is certainly first class. Mdlle. Haydee provides a very smart performance with a mannikin theatre, and well deserves the huge reception accorded. The latest and most remarkable animated picture, "Whirling the World," has been exhibited here this week by Weisker Bros. with great success. Miss Daisy Almer is a talented dancer, and the comedy acrobatism of Adrim and Oram is well calculated to please any audience. Prof. Ted Heaton, assisted by Sacha, furnishes a splendid exhibition of trick and fancy swimming in a glass tank; and Hurman, an expert juggler and hoop manipulator, astounds the audience with his marvellous feats. Also appearing are Mr Frank Whiteley, patter vocalist, who was most successful on Monday; Louis Murray, character vocalist; and Miss Alice Oakley, balladist.

IMPERIAL HIPPODROME AND CIRCUS.—Proprietors, Messrs Carter and Bosco; General Manager, Mr Irving Bosco; Assistant-Manager, Mr Geo. Dobler.—Messrs Carter, Bosco, and Dobler have achieved success here with Siberia. The proprietors have reverted to the one-house-a-night system, and the change has been very satisfactory. Frequent matinées were given last week, and were all largely patronised. A capital variety company has been secured, including M'Cann's wonderful performing Irish terriers, whose feats are certainly remarkable, and their performance has been loudly cheered nightly. Les Bois, comedy jugglers, are certainly very smart, and Mr C. Weimer, Lord Roberts's trumpeter, submits a unique wire act, which is worthy of much commendation. Others on the programme are the talented Sloan Family of equestrians; Princess Annie, in her daring jockey act; and Burgess, the exceedingly droll clown.

BILSTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Batteraby.—A couple of pantomimes in successive weeks by Gus Levaine's companies are something to go on with for holiday-makers. The Babes in the Wood finished on Dec. 31, and was succeeded on Monday by Sinbad the Sailor. The story of the last-named is presented in ten scenes of the usual description, Miss Kitty Bishop proving a capital principal boy for the title-rôle. She sings and dances well, and finds a suitable companion in Miss Marie Harding, a charming Princess. Another well-matched couple are Misses Elsie Ide and Flo Richardson as Prince Izon and Fatima, who contribute much that is vocal and saltatory. Miss Letty Young is well chosen for the Fairy Queen. In Messrs Ernie Clyde, Charlie Howard, Edward Haswell, Charles Arnett, and Tom Ashby we have a rare quintet of funny men, who keep the house in continual laughter. In addition to the lady dancers, the specialities include the clever Zola Troupe of acrobats; Alberts, on the wire; and the Bros. Loyal, on the high perch.

BIRKENHEAD.

THEATRE METROPOLE.—Lessee, Mr W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Pell.—Mr Howard Hinton's pantomime, Dick Whittington, is in the second week of a successful season. Miss Kitty Phelps, the Dick of the production, continues to increase the number of her admirers, and Mr Harry Renior is well established in favour as Idle Jack. A brisk harlequinade is a leading feature.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Pell.—Mr Gus C. Livesey's capable combination is presenting The Crimson Club with excellent results. A telling impersonation of Richard Fenton by Mr Livesey is popular. Mr Lionel Thompson is a capital representative of Sir Philip Garside, Bart.; and Mr Percy Shaw is effective as Reginald Adolphus Garside. Miss Lily Day as Sophonisba Garside is excellent; Julia Marsden is well played by Miss Bertha Cousins; and remaining parts are in good hands. The piece is carefully staged.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr D. J. Clarke.—A company of Mr Fred Karno's comedians, headed by Mr Harry Roxbury, are continuing a highly-successful engagement in His Majesty's Guests. The Brothers Dixon, eccentric comedians of merit, give an interesting musical turn; the Rushforths, in their illustrated songs, are popular; and Mr Julian Mack is a comedian of ability. King Leo, a smart ventriloquist; Mr Harry Cotton, character comedian; Mr Fred Elton, in a similar line of business; and a good display of the Bioscope are also included in the programme. Mr Ernest Denney is musical director.

BIRMINGHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing Director, Mr Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr Philip Rodway.—The Babes in the Wood continues to elicit the warmest admiration for its manifold and manifest beauties as a production, while the full strength of the cast is now exploited to the extent of its capacity. Mr Bert Gilbert leads as the Baron, throwing all his energies into his part, and Mr Fred Walton as the Toy Soldier, albeit an extraneous rôle, is the delight and admiration of young and old. Miss Lily Iris succeeds in her sprightly assumption of Robin Hood, and Miss Gladys Ward in her dulcet singing and graceful acting as Mariam; the Misses Phyllis Dare and Maidie Andrews are the most successful of Babes; Miss Mabel Lait as Will Scarlett and Miss Monica Sayer as Dorothy, with Mr J. F. M'Ardle as that weak, but indubitably droll woman Flossie, score well.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Rodgers, Limited; Manager, Mr J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr Henry Johnston.—The Forty Thieves—save that for one or two performances the popular and versatile manager, Mr J. F. Graham, has impersonated Mr Wilkie Bard's rôle of Ali Baba—pursues the course indicated in our last week's issue. This course promises a long run, and Mr Bard, restored to his part and in excellent form, is aided by a cast with the heart and the ability to please all dispositions. Mr George Le Clerq as the little fellow of infinite jest has a most successful foil in Big Ben Brown. Mr John Brabourne strikes a capital vein of humour as Cogia; Mr Ainslie Burton is comic and dramatic as Cassim; and Mr Phil Smith is successful among the comic element as Hassarac.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr J. W. Turner; Manager, Mr V. Turner.—The Turner opera company is meeting with deep appreciation and good patronage on its present visit. On Monday Faust occupied the bill, when Mr J. W. Turner in the title-rôle was accorded a veritable ovation. Miss Alice Boaden in the rôle of Margaret displayed rich vocal charm and sympathy; Mr Sydney Clifford was powerful as Mephistopheles; Mr Tom Griffiths did good service as Valentine; and Miss Jessie Dennis as Siebel once more gained enthusiastic plaudits. The Lily of Killarney and Hansel and Gretel are also in the repertory.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Lester Collingwood.—Dick Whittington is one of those productions which improve on acquaintance. Miss Florence Burns has stepped into popularity with her mellifluous singing and prepossessing bearing as Dick; Miss Nelly Valentine as the dainty Alice scores with her popularly rendered songs, including "The Airship," with its effective "Fiscal" verse; Miss Hilda Corelli as Algernon De Mashe is perfect in every movement, singing "My Honey Girl" and dancing her way into favour with a celerity and skill wonderful to behold; and Miss Gertie Douglas acts as the Captain in a vivacious manner and sings capitally.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Walter Melville; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Hindle Taylor.—The Ugliest Woman on Earth is fulfilling a most successful engagement here.

CARLTON THEATRE, SALTLEY.—Owner and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr Ben Sydney.—The Blind Foundling appeals most successfully here. Miss Amy Dalby as Fairy, the Foundling, presents a pathetic figure which moves all hearts. Miss Florence M. Daly expresses all the charming attributes of the heroine, Viola; and Miss Florene Lloyd acts well as the "other woman," Isabel. Mr Lawrence Brien stands out in bold relief as Parson Ray; Mr Hubert Humphreys creates much exasperation by the clever way in which he enacts the rôle of Mark Redman. Mr Chas. H. Phelps is successful as Gerald Dalton, and the comedy parts, Dick and his wife, are excellently rendered by Mr Arthur Ferris and Miss Ethel Ashbury.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Lessee, Mr Charles Barnard; Manager, Mr Dan Barnard.—Florodora receives excellent justice here, the performers being highly proficient in their parts and the public enthusiastic in its praise. Mr Albert Bruno as Tweedlepunch displays a rich store of fun; Mr T. Ellis-Buxton as the "proprietor" plays an invaluable part in the success; Mr Cyril Dane as Frank Abercoed appears to advantage both as actor and singer; and Mr Derick Knowles fills the part of Captain Arthur Donegal also to advantage. Miss Rene Steadman displays the effervescent spirit of Lady Holyrood; Miss Daisy Byford is successful as Angela; and Miss May Desmond is vocally and dramatically strong as Dolores.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr A. W. Matcham.—Winona Winter and W. H. Banks are presenting their comedy playlet, When I Help Ma Do the Washing, to packed houses. Staley's transformation company remains another week; the popular comedian, Charles Coborn is well receive; and Charles Stevens, Horace White, and Johnny Gilmore evoke roars of laughter. Some remarkable contortionism is displayed by Nello. Carl and Mary Ohm, with their trained animals; the Three Donalds, Continental athletes; and Lillian Lowe add to the attractions of the bill.

GAIETY THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr Albert Bushell.—An exceptionally good programme is submitted here this week. Cruickshank is making a big impression by his general eccentricities. The M'Connell Trio, in their operetta, A Musical Mistake, are far above the average, and are loudly applauded. The Three Sisters Finney, in their clever aquatic entertainment, are interesting; Haidee Lee and Wallace Kingston have a good sketch; and Haig and Novel, in their speciality; Edie Gray and her white coons; Grace Merton, vocalist; Eily Adair, comedienne; the Terras Brothers, acrobats; and Harry Clifford, comedian, complete the bill.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—An acrobatic display of a most daring nature is performed here by the Yulians, who prove themselves experts. Mr and Mrs 'Gene Hughes, in their American sketch A Matrimonial Substitute, are applauded for their smart acting and funny business. Leo Dryden displays all his old attributes to popularity, his songs being repeatedly encored. Other popular items are Mdlle. Marvelle's cockatoos and macaws; Nellie and Nora, society musical entertainers; Henri Abdy's canine hippodrome; George Collins; Stanley and Vandyke, comedians; E. F. Reynard, ventriloquist; and a series of up-to-date animated pictures.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr Edward Foster.—The principal item this week is the Japanese Guards, whose exhibition of lightning cavalry drill is very smart. Most expert acrobats are the Wolpert Trio; the Vasilescu Troupe perform some difficult feats on the horizontal bar; Preston and Balmaine render their illustrated songs and duets with effect; Harry Lawson, Harry Morris, and Little Ulpts are clever comedians; and Flo Melville and the Loro Quartet add to the success.

CURZON HALL.—The Harry H. Hamilton's Excursions continue to draw packed houses; the Watson Trio have an excellent sketch, The Tramp in Trouble; and Urma, the jester, and Hoppitt, Tony, and Terry are amusing.

BLACKBURN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr Harry Yorke; Business-Manager, Mr Reginald Yorke.—The Silver King, under the direction of Messrs Polini and Melford, is paying another visit this week. The piece is well played, and has evidently lost none of its drawing powers. Willrid Denver is portrayed by Mr Herbert Ford, and Nellie Denver by Miss Lillian Bethell. Mr Edward J. George repeats his familiar impersonation of Jaikes; Mr Charles Levey appears as the Spider; Mr James L. Power is amusing as Corket; Miss Phyllis Dailley as Olive Skinner and Mr Arthur Rooke as Coombe are both good.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr E. H. Page.—As Midnight Chimes is the attraction this week. The company is under the direction of Mr Edward Marris, and includes Mr Melville Bickford as Luke Dezzard, Mr Frank E. Petley as Dave Stannard, and Mr James Salter as Tat Spavvin.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr F. Macnaghten; Genral Manager, Mr Will Murray; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry Drury.—The pantomime of Aladdin is still running here with great success. Messrs Bishop and Vale have been added to the other attractions.

EXCHANGE HALL.—Lessee, Mr William Kenyon.—For the first time in twenty years we have received a visit from the Royal Carl Rosa opera company. On Monday night was given a fine performance of Lohengrin before a crowded and delighted audience. Mr E. C. Hedmondt appeared as Lohengrin, and Miss Lizzie Burgess as Elsa. Faust was presented on Tuesday, and on the following evenings Rigoletto, Maritana, Tannhäuser, and Carmen were staged. A fine band and full chorus lend brilliancy to the performances. Mr Kenyon deserves every praise for his plucky enterprise.

BLACKPOOL.

HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE.—General Manager, Mr J. R. Huddlestone.—Dick Whittington and his Cat is still the attraction here, and the various artistes referred to last week continue to give pleasure and delight. The pantomime is produced under the direction of Mr John Tiller.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr T. Sergenson.—Miss Daisy De Roy's Sinbad the Sailor company is still here.

PALACE.—General Manager, Mr G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr Fred Waller.—The company here includes Beatty and Blanche, clever duettists and dancers, and Angeline supplies some remarkable juggling feats. Clark and Gold are expert banjo players; Cheevers and Kennedy do exceedingly well as quick-change artists; the Jackley Wonders supply an acrobatic turn; Marzello and Millay score a huge success with their grotesque business on the cross bar; the Motramos contribute a musical act; and Fatmah Diard is a pleasing vocalist.

BLYTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr George E. Good.—The Grip of Iron, now played by Messrs E. H. Knight and George Denham's company, continues to be a popular favourite here. Mr Fred Powell retains his old place as Jagon, alias Simmonet, a part he has made his own, and as of yore holds his audience spellbound by his wonderful delineations of the central figure of the drama. Mr Denham gives a manly rendering of Paul Blanchard, whilst the Cora of Miss Georgie De Lara affords satisfaction, and to Miss Helena Walbran praise is due for a fine performance of Sophie Blanchard. As the detectives, Messrs Harry Agar Lyons and John Brittain are prominent.

BOLTON.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Hermann.—For the new year's holidays Mr W. H. Kirby's company is appearing here in the musical comedy The New Mephisto. The chief characters are in the hands of Mr Albert Weston (Mephisto), Mr W. H. Vernon, Mr Clarence Lindon, Mr Herbert St. John, Mr Arthur Randal, and Miss Nellie Burdette, Miss Marion Armitage, and Miss Dorothy Cecil. More than a word of praise is due to Miss Marion Armitage for her clever and original impersonation of Becky Pilgrim. The Thalian glee singers are with the company.

GRAND THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry Kenyon.—There is a good holiday programme submitted here, comprising the Mackweys, who appear in an original wire act, and are well received; Dora Clifford, comedienne and dancer; Arthur Page, comedian; Les Bollingers, "the Paris rag-pickers," who go through a pleasing performance; Mdlle. Victoria Dagmar, on the trapeze, and clown; Emilie Alvena, vocalist; T. W. Barrett, "the nobleman's son," eccentric vocalist; Carr and Rose, in a vocal comedy act; Captain Alphonso Gerard, with his highly trained African lions and tiger dogs; Edie and Harry Finden, variety artists; and the Imperial Bioscope.

OHMY'S CIRCUS AND HIPPODROME.—This popular place has had a busy time during the holidays, the items on a good programme comprising Bellong and Brennabor, cyclists and gymnasts; Mons. Rentreag, in a juggling and globe performance; Claude Ohmy, wire-walker; the Two Weltons, triple bar performers; Mons. Zasma, gymnast; Mr Swallow, Miss Daniels and Claude Ohmy, equestrians; and Dick Turpin's Ride to York.

BOSCOMBE.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr F. Mouillot; Manager, Mr Rowland Stewart.—Mr Mouillot's company is paying a return visit here this week with A Message from Mars. Though there have been several changes in the cast since the last visit, Mr Mouillot has been fortunate in retaining for the two principal rôles such able players as Mr Rawson Buckley and Mr Wm. H. Brougham. Mr Rawson Buckley as Horace Parker is particularly happy in skilfully interpreting the vein of humour which does so much for the success of the piece, while Mr Brougham lends to the rôle of the Messenger a fitting dignity and impressiveness. Mr Bruce Lindley gives an eminently interesting study of the Tramp, and plays the part in a manner which reflects the greatest credit on his ability. Mr Frank G. Duun impersonates Arthur Dicey in a satisfactory manner, and Mr W. Maxwell is effective as the Policeman. Miss Flora Hastings is wisely retained for the rôle of Miss Parker, and Miss Joan Meredith is seen to advantage as Mrs Clarence, while Miss May Saker combines ability with charm of manner in her rendering of Minnie Templer.

BOURNEMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietors, David Allen and Son; Sole Lessee, Mr Mouillot; Manager, Mr Rowland Stewart.—Mr Mouillot's Cinderilla, written by F. Leslie Moreton, and composed by Frank Barrett, opened here on Boxing night, since when it has been playing to good business. Mr Mouillot, through his able and courteous manager, Mr Rowland Stewart, has provided his patrons with an entertainment full of fun and novelty, without a suspicion of vulgarity to offend even the most refined taste. We cannot remember a more delightfully droll impersonation than the Baron Hardup of Mr Lionel Braham, who kept his audience in fits of laughter from start to finish, and was a source of great strength to the production. Quite a hit was made by Miss Florrie Saunders as Cinderella, a part which gave her admirable opportunities for the display of a charming figure and voice. As Baroness Fly-by-Night Mr F. P. Wilford was excellent, and as the two ugly sisters Mr Fred Pollard and Mr Edward Pollard extracted plenty of fun, much to the amusement of the younger generation. Miss Mary Thorne looked and held herself well as Prince Paragon, and scored successes in both her songs. She was excellently supported by Miss Lena Willard as her more or less confidential valet, Dandini. Mr Edward Carlton as Buttons, a page from a fairy book, was most humorous, and we should have liked to have seen more of him. There was a very clever turn by the Neros, who as contortionists gave quite an unique display, both being clever comedians as well. As Cinderella's Godmother Miss Violet Kenyon was good, and as the Footman Mr Bay Russell made the most of his part. The admirable grouping and singing of the chorus helped materially to make up a very strong show. To J. B. La Fane as stage-manager great praise is due for the admirable manner in which he, in conjunction with Mr Rowland Stewart, has been responsible for the production of one of the best pantomimes seen in Bournemouth for many years.

BRADFORD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr Jno. Hart; General Manager, Mr J. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr F. Pemberton.—Cinders is now running smoothly, and it bids fair to rank as one of the best of Mr Hart's successful efforts. Mr J. W. Rowley is quite at home in his part of the Yorkshire Baron; Mr J. E. Nightingale is diverting as his wife; and charming Katie May wins all hearts in the title-rôle. As the two Ugly Sisters Miss Marie Daltra and Miss Irene Verona are much in evidence. Mr Frank Calvert works hard as Chump, and so does Mr Fred Fowler as Dandini. As the Prince Miss Leonora Grieve is very smart and attractive. Messrs Harry Grell and Fred Grey are a source of great amusement as the nimble Flunkeys. Carlton's "spoofing" elicits very hearty laughter, and the lovely scenery and electric effects elicit great applause.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Francis Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr N. Hepworth.—There is a marked improvement in the pantomime of Robinson Crusoe, which is running merrily, and the company works with praiseworthy energy. Miss Adele Roze is bright and animated in the title-rôle; and very charming is Miss Lily Black as the heroine Polly Perkins. Mr H. A. Gribben as Will Atkins, Mr Tom Fancourt as Dame Crusoe, Mr Ernest Stevens as Friday, and Messrs Elliott and Conroy as Drymasth and Sackless respectively keep the fun going.

EMPIRE.—Moss Empires, Limited; Resident Manager, Mr J. J. Kelly.—Mr Peter Eland's merry pantomime Red Riding Hood has proved a source of delight to matinée audiences, and the evening programme provides plenty of enjoyment. Hagedorn's wonderful Fairy Grotto is very beautiful, and a perfect blaze of light and colour. The Two Butterflies are a clever pair of juvenile gymnasts. Geoffrey and Benson are most entertaining in their sketch Spoofed; and Barney Vox gives an amusing ventriloquial entertainment. In a clever acrobatic performance Keno, Welsh, and Montrose do some novel feats. Prince Kokin, the Japanese juggler, is wonderfully clever; Frazer and Mac's musical comedy is diverting; the Four Burnellys give a clever performance on stilts; Harry Bent, comedian and mimic, contributes an acceptable turn; and Florrie Gallimore, comedienne, renews her acquaintance with her admirers here with her usual success.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr J. W. Berry.—"Dida" is the novel sensation here this week, a performance that is clever and perplexing in the extreme; Percy Hannan has an excellent voice; Gintaro, Japanese juggler, is expert; A Daughter of Pleasure is a dramatic sketch well performed by Zerlina Harrington and G. Grahame; the Rozells are clever and funny in a bar act; the Marconis give some wonderful experiments in wireless telegraphy; Alf Levarni's wire act is smart; a good comedy sketch, Saucy Maud, is submitted by Mr and Mrs Clifford Bronte; and Astley's American Circus introduces some cleverly trained animals.

BRIGHOUSE.

ALBERT THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr T. Morton Powell; Business-Manager, Mr M. Manley.—Miss Mary Austin and company have had a hearty welcome here this week in The Cotton Spinner. Mr John S. Haydon is excellent in the title-rôle. His imitation of the Lancashire dialect is perfect. He is supported by Messrs E. Vivian Edmonds, Edwin F. Fysher, Ernest C. Edwards, Frank Eaglesfield; and Misses Mary Austin, May Grimshaw, and Bella Power. A special attraction in the evening's entertainment is the Bioscope, which is shown between each act.

BRIGHTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager, Mr Harcourt M. Beryl.—Mr George Dance's company entered upon the second and closing week of their engagement here last Monday, and, repeating their admirable performance of Veronique, have attracted crowded and delighted audiences. The charming singing and acting of Miss Maud Boyd as Agatha, Miss Ruth Lincoln as Veronique, and Mr Scott Russell as Florestan; and also the humorous portrayals by Mr Leslie Holland as Mons. Coquenard, Mr Ivan Berlyn as Loustot, and Mr Tom Shelford as Seraphin have been warmly appreciated. The duties of conductor have been ably carried out by Mr Victor Champion.

AQUARIUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Bernhardt; Acting-Manager, Mr H. De Groot.—The fairy play, The Old Woman who Lived in a Shoe and the Spelling Bee is doing good business here. Little Miss Decima Brooke as Beatrix, Mr Arthur St. George as Mistress Shoe (the old woman) and Mr J. G. Forde as Sir Balfy Goff are great favourites; and the special engagement of Mr Arthur

Hill, who gives ventriloquial and living Lilliputian sketches, proves very popular.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr W. F. Crowe.—The pantomime, Little Red Riding Hood, is attracting crowded and enthusiastic audiences, and its complete success is well deserved, for it is not only bright and humorous, but refined and free from vulgarity. Every praise must be awarded to Miss Blanche Vincent (Prince Peerless), Miss Madge Campbell (Miss Muffit), Miss Rosie Campbell (Red Riding Hood), Miss Irene Rose (Fairy Sunshine), and to the fun-makers—Mr Dave O'Toole (Dame Trott), the Tally-Ho Trio (W. Doust, Eric Farr, and E. Chester), and Messrs Sandford and Lyons (Johnny Stout and Jimmy Green).

ALHAMBRA.—Managing-Director, Mr J. L. Graydon; General Manager, Mr Ernest Lepard.—The following are here this week:—John Grun Marx, the modern Hercules; Paul Martinetti's American pantomime company, in Robert Macaire; Unthan, the armless wonder; Post Mason, in his song-scena Son of the Desert am I; Minnie D'Aubyn, burlesque artiste; Esmond and Evelyn, in the comedy sketch Her Ladyship; Fred Terry, comedian; Boyd and Gilfain, in Mixed Drinks; Frank Maura, "the Mexican wonder;" Tiny Arnold, "the queen of all midgets;" and the Alhambra pictures.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—The following are here this week:—Alexander, trick cyclist; Lily Flexmore, comedienne and legmania dancer; Ed. and Nettie Masse, comedy jugglers, in "Frolics in a Dining-room;" the Bennecelli Troupe, gymnasts; Nellie Wallace, eccentric comedy artiste; Lew Wells, in a novel musical comedy act; Addie Dorina, in her latest success, How She Did It; Browning and Wally, in their acrobatic and strong teeth act; T. Nelson Downs, "King of Koins"; the Falcons, in a new comedy act, humorously expounded; and animated pictures.

WEST PIER.—Secretary and Entertainment Manager, Mr A. D. Norman.—Bluebell in Fairyland is drawing crowded and delighted audiences here. Miss Rosalie Jacobi as Bluebell, and Mr Walter Cranch as Dickie and the Sleepy King achieve conspicuous successes; and they are ably supported by the remaining members of the company. The fascinating extravaganza seems destined to have a long and prosperous career.

NEW PALACE PIER THEATRE.—Under the personal direction of Mr Drew Mackintosh.—Mr Henry Eglington's pantomime, The Babes in the Wood, is enjoying well-deserved popularity here. Mr Henry Eglington as Dame Tabitha Durden is a host in himself; he is humorous but acts with artistic restraint. Miss Florence Brandon sings charmingly as Maid Marian, and Mdlle. Ella Rose as the Fairy Glowworm displays artistic vocalisation. Genuine fun is provided by Mr Harry A'Ban and Mr Angie A'Ban as Dusty Rhodes and Casual Warde respectively. The specialities by the Three Geronds, lady vocalists and dancers, merit praise.

COLISEUM.—Licensee and Director of Entertainments, Mr Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr C. Smith-Wilkes.—The following are here this week:—Fannie Leslie, burlesque actress; La Paloma, vocalist and operatic dancer; Annie Albon, comedienne; the Three Cliffords, lady mandolinists and vocalists; Lavater's Canine Kilties Band; Harry Brett, comedian; Fred W. Newham and company in their repetition of a good old English harlequinade; and the Coliseum Pictures.

BRISTOL.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr James Macready Chute.—The Sleeping Beauty is attracting large houses at each performance, and has done so since the opening night. The pantomime plays very smoothly under the experienced stage-management of Mr Henry Turner, and all the leading members of the capable company are highly effective in their respective parts. Miss Lil Hawthorne presents an excellent portrayal of Prince Florizel. She has several good songs, including "Tessie" and "Radium," both of which are popular. Miss Zena Dare is in every way pleasing as Beauty. She dances gracefully and scores with her songs "The Owl and the Moon" and "Karama;" and Miss Maud Darling is smart and vivacious as Trixie, and both sings and dances well. The comedians, Messrs Lionel Victor, W. H. Rawlins, George Miller, and Albert Le Fre are all capital in their respective parts; in fact, the whole company do full justice to their various characters. The scenic effects are again quite up to Mr Chute's high standard; perhaps the final scene, "The Butterflies' Ball," an elaborate full set with most tasteful colouring, is the most exquisite display ever attempted here. The costumes worn in the grand procession of butterflies are charming, the colours blending admirably, and at the close a giant moth descends from the flies, its wings and body being artistically illuminated with coloured electric light. From all appearances a very prosperous run may be anticipated for The Sleeping Beauty.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Ernest Carpenter.—Robinson Crusoe appears to suit the popular taste, judging from the large attendance each evening. The pantomime plays closely, and concludes in good time. It is certainly a pretty and amusing production, nicely staged, and well played by a very competent company. In the way of scenery Mr Carpenter has been very liberal this year. The final set, The Sultan's Palace, is a fine example of Moorish architecture, the decorated pillars receding to a raised terrace, beyond which is seen an Oriental garden. Miss Ethel Campbell is highly popular in the title-rôle; she plays the part excellently, and sings pleasingly. Miss Margery Moore is a capital exponent of Polly Perkins; she is bright and vivacious, and can both sing and dance in good style. The Sisters Warner are well placed as Billie Taylor and Nancy Lee, and their specialities of song and dance are much appreciated. Miss Florence Melville acts well and "looks" the part of Captain Mayne Brace; and Miss Minnie Love is refined and pleasing as the Princess Carina, she also having some pretty song and dance specialities. The comedians, Messrs Rob King, Walter Kooney, Harry Karr, Edgar Budder, Tom Risto, and Will Risto are all amusing; and Mr Ernest Laws displays dignity as the Sultan and sings well. The pantomime was produced by Mr Ernest Carpenter, the libretto being also by him and Mrs Ernest Carpenter.

PALACE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs Livermore Bros.; Resident-Manager, Mr Horace Livermore; Secretary, Mr F. J. V. Welchman.—An equestrian sketch, The King's Highway, heads the programme, the company being under the direction of Mr Frank Gerald. The sketch is founded on "Rookwood," and a clever mare is introduced. The Ragamuffins do a musical turn of quartets, duets, &c., with success; the Jumas Ostoroons, miniature Christie Minstrels, present a pleasing entertainment, the interlocutor being Miss Amy Tilley, a lady a few years ago very popular here both in pantomime and on the music hall stage; Peter Kelly amuses as a character comedian; the Jalvans do some good Oriental juggling, &c.; Alf Chester, comedian, does a good turn; Russell and Roper amuse as vocal speciality artists; Ellis and Watts entertain with song, patter, and dance; Clyo and Rochelle have a good speciality; Miss Amy Elvira, comedienne, both interests and pleases; and some good Animated Pictures (Vernon's) conclude the entertainment.

EMPIRE.—Proprietor, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—Miss Lizzie B. Raymond heads the programme with a pleasing turn of serio-comic and coon songs, obtaining much appreciation. Charles Baron's burlesque menagerie causes a lot of fun, his ferocious-looking lions, &c., being but dogs capitally made-up and excellently trained. The Carina Sisters present a pleasing and refined instrumental turn far above the average; the Brothers Ashley have a good sketch, Next, Please, in which boxing is introduced; Charles R. Whittle, comedian, is successful with some good songs; the Sandor Trio are expert gymnasts; the Schutzenliesel's, a quartet of lady singers and dancers, present a pleasing turn; Alphonso Silvano does many clever equilibristic feats; and Reddick Anderson is successful with some good songs. The entertainment concludes with some good animated pictures.

COLSTON HALL.—Mr Charles W. Poole's Myriorama is attracting a large attendance. There is a good band under the direction of Lieut. G. Howard, and a strong variety company.

BROMLEY.

LYRIC THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Arthur Carlton; Resident Manager, Mr F. B. Woolstenhulme.—Mr Carlton who has taken over the lease of the Grand Hall from Mr William Morton, reopened the hall as the Lyric Theatre on the 29th ult., with Mr Ben Greet's company in La Poupée, and the popular comic opera proved a great attraction. Mr Algernon Lee as Launcelot made a capital unsophisted novice; Mr Joseph A. Brull sang and acted well as Father Maxime; as Hilarius Mr Bert Danson was very amusing and original; Mr Harry Bishop as Loremois and Mr Stanley White as Baron Chanterelle were both capital representations. Miss Cissie Wade in the part of Alesia was a charming doll, her singing and acting being much admired. Miss Alice M'Farlane was a dignified Madame Hilarius; and Miss Eva Ellis was quite a pert Henri. The theatre has been entirely redecorated and fitted with electric light by Mr Carlton, and possesses a capital orchestra under the direction of Mr H. H. Shaw.

BROUGHTON.

VICTORIA LTD.—Managing-Director and Licensee, Mr James W. Haworth; Manager and Secretary, Mr James M. Hardie, jun.—The sensational drama, When Woman Hates, had a good reception on Monday. Miss Nettie Ware as Dora Daintry and Mr Oscar Adye as Godfrey Lawson gave an excellent performance. Mr John B. Shinton was capital as Lieut. Fred Rokeby, Miss Louise Brandon was successful as Edith Rokeby, while Miss Jennie Hughes as Marie Rokeby and Little Ivy Herrigan as Nellie Rokeby did well. General Sir Henry Rokeby, Bart., and Colonel Hiram B. Vancutson were in the safe hands respectively of Mr Wm. Yates and Mr Maurice Drew. A large amount of comedy runs through the play, and Mr Will Percy as Constable Patrick O'Brien, Miss Ethel Tinsley as Miss Sally Potts, Mr Murray Yorke as Alphonse Picolot, and Mrs Edgar Colona as Mrs Sally Potts kept the house in excellent humour. As Bill Smasher Mr Eric Campbell was very droll.

BURNLEY.

GAIETY.—Proprietress, Mrs Culeen; Manager, Mr Jas. E. Culeen.—On Monday a large audience welcomed the production of The Sledge Hammer, as performed by Messrs Alfred Northway and W. V. Garrod's company. Mr Alfred Northway submits a thoroughly successful depiction of Everard Derrick; a capital portrayal of Jacob Derrick comes from Mr W. V. Garrod; Mr H. Barrington plays with vigour as Simon Derrick; Mr Chas. Halling renders good service as Tom Walker; Mr Frank Dallas is a diverting Sammy Shaw; Miss Martha Kingston gives a charming impersonation of Rose Maywell; and Mr Lawrence Conrad shows exceptional ability as John Merlo.

EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr W. C. Haines.—A capital programme has been provided here this week. The Apollo Prize Quartet obtain an enthusiastic reception. Miss Lue Laid is a pleasing turn; the Bros. Zampah give a good performance; Vernando, ventriloquist, is greatly appreciated; Mysto, the handcuff king, performs some difficult feats successfully; the St. John's, comedy musicians, are very good; the Empire Biograph shows a capital variety of pictures.

BURY (LANCS).

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—Mr John Wainwright's company is playing It's Never Too Late to Mend. On Monday Mr Wainwright was unable to appear, having sprained his ankle at Rochdale last week. His part of Tom Robinson was played remarkably well by Mr Davies. The other characters are in good hands.

OLYMPIA CIRCUS OF VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—The great attraction here this week is the mysterious trio, Servais Le Roy, Mdlle. Talma, and Leon Bosco, undoubtedly great magicians. Other artistes include Matt. Wilkinson and company in a funny sketch; Violet Beatrice, vocalist; Percy Farrimond, the Wigan collier; Herbert La Martine, vocalist and dancer; and the Brothers Babusian, Continental acrobats.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr W. Broadhead.—The good programme provided here includes the Four Maisanos, musicians; Stoll Brothers, comedy wrestlers; Curtis Leo, ventriloquist; Harry Wenburn, comedian; Wood and West, comedy mélange; Fred Balham, Rivington and Gordyn, and Chris Masters, comedians. The Cinématograph pictures are very good.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.

NEW THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr John Waller.—Mr Frank Wilson's company occupies the boards here this week with The Marriage of Kitty, a dainty little piece which is well played by a good cast. Miss Vera Fordyce is quite at home as Katherine Silverton and proves herself a finished actress. Miss Kate Harwood acquits herself with distinction as the injured Madame De Semiano. Sir Reginald Belsize, Bart., finds a vigorous exponent in Mr Leslie Tyler; and Mr Frank Wilson as John Travers gives a masterly conception. Mr J. F. Leighton as Norbury and Miss Elsie Savile as Rosalie both do well and appear with success in the curtain-raiser, Jerry and a Sunbeam.

CAMBRIDGE.

NEW THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.—The pantomime is always looked for eagerly here, and the management have provided an entertainment eminently suited to the audience in Milton Bode's Cinderella. Miss Hebe Bliss as Prince Brilliant deserves great praise, being gifted with a good appearance and nice voice. Miss Florence Beech has made a particular success of Cinderella, having a charming personality. The two ugly sisters are well played by Mr John Nolan and Mr Percy Dawson. Mr Leo Sterling works very hard and with great humour as Baron Balmy. Miss Marie Reeves merits praise for her impersonation of Dandini, her dancing being especially noticeable. Miss Blanch Marion is a dashing Rosie Romp. Mr George Antill by his antics as Capers causes amusement. The variety items introduced are of excellent quality, Miss Maud Dewey scoring a success as a lady whistler. Leo Sterling, in his musical speciality act; Major Harry Sitherland, rifle and baton manipulator; and Bert Woodward, coon trick cyclist, are all remarkably clever in their various acts.

CARLISLE.

ALGIE'S HIPPODROME.—Proprietress, Mrs P. E. Veitch; Manager, Mr C. Algie.—The management have secured strong attractions for the New Year holiday week, and excellent houses are the rule. One of the most taking items is Melita, a graceful and clever little lady, whose exhibition of step and character dancing brought down the house on Monday. Rozel, aerial gymnast, creates quite a sensation by his daring act; the Lulaine Darrell Troupe, described as Roman ring artists, contribute a novel and pretty performance; as laughter-makers the Two Leons are bad to beat; a quite uncommon turn is provided by the Jetneys, coloured comedians; Herr Blumenfeld's troupe of dogs is a big attraction; and Miss Lulu Valdez, lady baritone; Miss May Young, descriptive vocalist, and some amusing pictures on the Biograph complete a programme of quite unusual excellence.

CANTERBURY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr E. Graham Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr H. Bernard.—Mr Graham Falcon's Christmas pantomime, The Forty Thieves, opened here on Monday, and has already secured good bookings for the week. The play is well put on, and goes with a swing, some good variety business by the Raynors, and by Mr and Miss Cyrus, filling the unavoidable intervals in the representation of the well-known story. Several of the performers are old favourites at Canterbury, notably Miss Frances Manners (the Dick Whittington of last year), who figures well as Abdullah, but unfortunately has temporarily lost her voice. Her lieutenant, Miss Mildred Vaughan, sings capitally, and has done much to fill the gap, while the Ganem and Morgiana of Miss Amy Randolph and Miss Cissie Harcourt are extremely sprightly and pleasing representations. Mr W. Cyrus as Ali Baba contributes largely to the success of the piece. Mr Hyam Good takes the part of Cassim, and his dramatic burlesque in the Cave scene, notably his imitation of the miser in, Les Cloches de Corneville, is well done, and tells. Mr Arthur R. Carlton as the Dame is as amusing as ever with his witty sayings and topical hits, the credit of which he shares with Mr Willie Kloof, with whom he is largely associated. Mention must also be made of Mr George Dix, Miss Minnie Parker, Miss Rosa Charles, and Mr B. Albert.

CARDIFF.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Robert Redford.—After a weeks' hard work Dick Whittington has settled down into shape, and the artistes are now quite at home in their respective parts. Universal praise is heard of the scenery and costumes, it being the opinion that Mr Bode has never before produced a pantomime so lavishly staged. Perhaps the artiste who is becoming most popular is Miss Madeline Rees, who gives such a fine dashing performance of Dick. Miss Minnie Duncan can hardly gain fresh laurels, her reputation as a clever artiste having long been established, yet by her excellent delineation of Alice she is winning the hearts of all. Mr Bob Hutt has become a great favourite, the crowds that throng the theatre looking forward with the greatest impatience for his appearance as Alderman Fitzwarren. Mr Arthur Godfrey's Idle Jack is undoubtedly a successful impersonation, and his duets with Miss Duncan form one of the best features of the pantomime. Messrs Alfred Lester and Clifford Morgan as Captain Soupper and Bill Oakum are responsible for a good deal of the fun, Mr Morgan being encored night after night for his finely rendered bass songs. Mr Fred Dark is also doing well and causing much laughter. Miss Florence White, Miss Janet Reynolds, Miss Nelly Lauraine, and Dainty Lillian Graham are all now in perfect trim.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Bateman; Business-Manager, Mr Robert Sawin.—The interesting drama played by Miss Olga Audré's company, entitled The Mockery of Marriage, occupies the boards here this week. Miss Audré cannot be too highly praised for her capital portrayal of Alva Kenyon. Mr Arthur Winpenny as Dick Kenyon acts with artistic vigour. Mr Charles Boult displays much ability as Jack Stanley, and Seth Pearce finds a truthful exponent in Mr James Dalton. Mr Will Skelton is decidedly funny in his impersonation of Toby Wright, and he is ably supported by artists of exceptional merit. A great attraction is the appearance of the Four Aces in their marvellous acrobatic performance.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Lea.—A capital performance is given this week by the following artists:—Mark Melford and company, in Black and White; the Szarvasi-Ferencz Troupe of Hungarian singers, dancers, and acrobats; the Alaskas, jugglers and comic tumblers; Burke, Audrus, and Frisco, in a funny sketch; the Levinos, in a musical sketch; John Alexander and famous company in the sketch entitled Troubles of a Tourist; the Three Ronay Sisters, lady clowns; the Picquays, acrobats; Clown Ferreros, assisted by his dog musician; and Burke, Moller, and Teller, in the farce-comedy sketch entitled The Professor and His Pupils.

CHATHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr Lionel Barnard; Secretary, Mr Geo. G. Ridley.—Chatham playgoers are having the advantage of witnessing Sergeant Brue at the beginning of its provincial tour. The company is sent out by Mr Frank Curzon, who is to be congratulated upon the judgment exercised and the completeness of the general staging of the piece. Mr Willie Freear is a big favourite in the title-rôle; Michael being capitally played by Mr Percy E. Rogers. Miss Constance Leigh makes a delightful Aurora. Miss Eliza Earle is a lively little Daisy, and Miss Lillie Maxwell a pleasing Mabel. A good study is Mr Cecil Burt's Mr Crank. Miss Violet Dene scores as Lady Bickenhall, and is recalled in several songs, and a very clever impersonation is the Crookie Scrubbs of Mr George Barrett.

BARNARD'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor, Mr L. B. Barnard.—A great local favourite, Marie Kendall, tops the bill here. She is supported by Tom Yorke, coster comedian; Ranji Sanga, illusionist; Zaro and Arno, in a comedy bar act; Steve M'Carthy, the Irish coon; Lal Atlee, ballad vocalist; Lacy's Erascope; and Leonard Mortimer's sketch combination.

GAIETY THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Captain H. E. Davis; General Manager, Mr Frank J. Donne.—Captain Davis announces a good engagement in Datas, the living almanack. James Shingleton, the singing collier, and Grant and Allen, comedians, are on a return visit. Other attractions in the bill are Alice Maple, serio and dancer; Lord, Murray, and Lord, in a comedy athletic act, The Intruder; Herry Maynard, actor-vocalist; the Edisonograph; and the Sutcliffe Troupe of acrobats, pipers, and dancers.

CHELTENHAM.

OPERA HOUSE.—General Manager, Mr H. Oswald Redford.—Mr John Walter's pantomime company opened a three weeks' engagement here on Boxing Day in Robinson Crusoe. Mr Bert Albert Rutley has written an excellent book, and Mr E. W. Vaughan (the musical director) and Mr Geo. Sheldon have composed and arranged the music in an admirable manner. The scenery is new, Mr T. E. Ryan being responsible for most of the scenes, notably The Palace of Treasure. Miss Rose Harvey as Robinson adds nightly to her popularity; Miss Fannie Adamson as Polly Perkins charms all beholders; Miss Katie Major is a "taking" barmaid; Mrs Crusoe, in the hands of Mr Shaun Glenville, is a great favourite; the Brothers Obo as Julius Cutpurse and Ebenezer Gongeye keep the house in a roar; the "Two Daniels" are great as King One Lung and Hoop-de-Do-Do, his general; and one of the best turns of the evening is supplied by the Eight Little White Coons.

CHORLEY (LANCS.).

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr G. T. Sante; Secretary, Mr J. Clay.—Messrs Collins and Stevenson's pantomime company opened here on Monday to two exceptionally large houses. The pantomime entitled Sinbad the Sailor is nicely mounted and dressed. Included in the cast are Miss Gertrude Rowan, who undertakes Sinbad with excellent results. The Fairy Enterprise is charmingly rendered by Miss Emmie Westcroft. Miss Florence Goldstone plays successfully as Zaza. Messrs Fred Lake as Tinbad; Billy Moore, Capt. Scuttleum; Eddie Clay, Davy Jones; Dan Harley, Baoca Stopper; and George Casey, Mrs Sinbad, sustain the various humorous characters with distinct ability. The specialities include the Zaza Girls, acrobatic dancers; Percy Victor's clever dog minstrels; Dan Harley, acrobatic clog exponent; Billy Moore, gun and mace expert; and Eddie Clay, the tramp musician.

CASTLEFORD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr Chas. Gadsby; Business-Manager, Councillor Hy. Masterman.—Miss Marie Dagmar's company, in A Life's Revenge, is drawing good houses this week. The play is capitally presented throughout. Miss Marie Dagmar is a charming Princess Vanda Ivyala, and she sustains the part with confidence and ability. Miss Amy Eliam is responsible for a clever delineation of Marcia Vittoria. A fight with swords in the second act between these two ladies is exceedingly realistic. As the cowardly and villainous Prince Boris Strogoroff Mr Fred C. Somerfield shows a care for detail which stamps him as an actor of more than ordinary ability. As Michael Orloff Mr Walter Roberts supplies a portrayal which is full of lifelike and convincing touches. The part of Paul Staroritch is played by Mr John F. Traynor. Manly, convincing, and at times pathetic, it is throughout a praiseworthy performance. Mr T. G. Vane is excellent as Maurice Trevor. As Colonel Tumbleoff Mr Charles E. Warne causes much fun. Clarence Chesterfield finds a capable representative in Mr George Clive Hall. The comedy part of Daphne Dashaway is in the safe keeping of Miss Maudie Grayson, who ably assists Mr Sidney Ernest in relieving the more thrilling parts of the play. Mr Edwin Cheetham makes a capital General Mikhaloff, while Miss Amy Hughes is seen to advantage as Accoulina.

CLYDEBANK.

NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Wilson.—The attraction here this week is Mr Arthur Rose's company, in The Follies of Youth. Mr Walter Bentley, the well-known Scottish actor, undertakes the character of Captain Ronald Druce, and displays histrionic ability; Miss Violet Macaree in the part of Gwendoline Murdock is highly successful; and Mr Arthur Rose gives a careful reading of that of Ralph Murdock. Bob Roberts is smartly enacted by Mr Fred Haming; Miss Laurie A. Pardy makes a charming Dorothy Dornton; Miss Ena Russell is a sprightly Kitty Hawthorne; Mr Carter Lingford is a good Colonel Druce; Nat Thistle is satisfactorily portrayed by Mr David Beattie; Mr Bert Wallace is amusing as Matthew Merryweather; Mr F. Johnson as P. Constable Smart does not belie his name; and Little Ruth is cleverly delineated by Miss Bertha Hanbury.

COLCHESTER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Chas. Macdona; Resident-Manager, Mr F. Graham Macdona.—Mr W. H. Hallatt and company are presenting Two Little Sailor Boys this week, and drawing good houses in the cheaper parts of the theatre. Mr Hallatt himself impersonates Captain Tom Yorke in a thorough manner. Miss May Day and Miss Ethel Frances as the two sailor lads are excellent. The part of Ben Baxter is capitally taken by Mr Tom Sinclair; also that of Jack Jolly, A.B., as presented by Mr Oscar Power. A capable pair of villains are Mr Leonard Booker as Lieutenant Redstone and Mr Ambrose Horton as the burglar. Miss Blanche Steele is clever as the adventuress, and Miss Mabel Scudamore does well as Mildred Grey. The part of the hero is ably impersonated by Mr W. H. Sams.

COLNE (LANCS).

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Gerald Harding.—A Woman's Redemption is being admirably presented here by the Ruggles and Rees company. Mr Frank Graham in the rôle of Bernard Sutcliffe is exceptionally clever; Mr J. Leighton Leigh as the Rev. Granthony is capable; and Miss Elizabeth Ruggles as Ruth and Miss Gladys Rees as Mary Griffiths also do well.

CORK.

OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr John Horgan.—Messrs Addison Bright and Walter Maxwell's company produced here on Monday night for the first time in Cork Little Mary. Miss Evelyn Neilida as Moira Loney was most effective, her acting, both in the humorous and pathetic parts, being artistic and refined. Miss Henrietta M. Leverett as Eleana Gray, Miss Alice Beresford as Lady Milly, and Miss Elspeth Dudgeon in the part of Countess of Plumlaigh were successful in their respective parts. As the Earl of Carlton Mr Arthur Holmes-Gore was admirable; Mr Arthur Kightley was very good as Lord Rolfe; Mr George A. Brandram made a dignified Sir Jennings Pyke; Mr Malcolm Wilson gave a clever rendering of the part of Terence Reilly; as Dr. Topping Mr Ean M'Donald was all that could be desired; Mr G. H. Thomas filled the part of Dr. Deighton; and Mr Lewis Edgard made a capital Earl of Plumleigh. Little Mary was preceded by a curtain-raiser called The Bugle Call.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Henry Kemble.—There is an excellent programme here. The Cee Mee Troupe of aerial gymnasts remain over from last week. Their performance is most attractive. The Werners, cyclists, in their turn, circling the circle, are clever; as a conjurer Costello greatly pleases, and is warmly applauded; Clarice Netta, who possesses a sweet soprano voice, is heard to advantage in two songs; Royal Best, character mimic, pleases; and Bessie Hemming, comedienne; and Dan Maxford, comedian, also contribute.

CREWE.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Henry Taylor.—Mr Henry Swinerd's No. 1 company in the musical comedy Dare-Devil Dorothy, is here this week. Mr Arthur Verne as Silas Crump is the mainstay of the piece, and his cake walk, assisted by Miss Nellie Harcourt and ten local children, has proved a great success. Miss Kathleen Garnon as Ruth Montrose is greatly appreciated, and Miss Marjorie Cecil, and the Sisters Blake, acrobatic and speciality dancers, are well received. In act four a variety scene is introduced, and much appreciated by the audience.

CROYDON.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Lawson Lambert; Acting-Manager, Mr Reginald Lawrence.—Mr George Dance's company in The Cingalee has proved a great Christmas attraction, the bookings for the fortnight having been exceptionally heavy.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr Newman Maurice.—Sinbad the Sailor is in full swing and has fairly caught on. The smart comedians, Messrs Jack M'Kenzie, Dan O'Connor, Sid Morton, Dale, and O'Malley, have elaborated their parts, and are responsible for never-ending fun. The ladies are very good, and much credit is due Miss Daisy Silcott, Miss Ethel Dove, and others who are in the cast. The harlequinade, which was hurried on the first night, is now well worth seeing, and makes the youngsters shake with laughter. Mr Charles Sando is great as clown; Miss Nancy Chaplin is a nimble harlequina; Mr Con Silo a droll pantaloon; Mr Bob Graham a smart policeman; and Miss Violet Hurley a pretty columbine.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—Resident General Manager, Mr Eustace H. Jay.—The entertainment here has again been carefully selected. Mr Fred Eustace and powerful company are excellent in the sensational sketch Our Curate, in which Miss Mary Eustace acts with skill as Mary Neville and Mr Fred Eustace shows histrionic ability as Jack Russell. Stanley and Greenop are very good in speciality banjo act; Queenie May submits an interesting turn; Miss Alice Yorke and company are delightful in the duologue entitled A Yacht for Sale; and Mr Maynard Dakin, comedian, is well up to his business. The following also deserve mention:—Miss Preis, ballad vocalist; Miss Kitty Chandon, burlesque actress; Kuroki, Japanese conjuror; Miss Flo Banks, comedienne; Mr Ernie Williams, comedian; Mr Trevylin David's Ye Merrie Peasants, in operatic sketch Country Courtship; and the Sisters Gilbert. Mr Eustace H. Jay has a keen insight into the requirements of visitors to this house, and is a successful manager.

CONSETT.

NEW THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr Lloyd Clarance.—Mr Frank E. Burdett's company is providing the holiday attraction here this week with The Indian Mutiny. Mr H. Ryeland Leigh is an excellent Lieut. Manley, and as Capt. Manley Mr Reginald Fox does well. Major Ingleby is in the capable hands of Mr W. S. Tindall; Mr J. Hignett is excessively funny as Terry O'Brien; and Mrs Major Ingleby by Miss Kate Bruce is equally good. Miss Agnes Kingston is an attractive Kate Ingleby; Mr Ernest Keand gives a striking portrayal of the part of Ba Goonga; and as Ghuznah Miss Maud Digby is a thorough success.

COVENTRY.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr Wm. Bennett.—Mr George Dance's company, in the musical play A Country Girl, is proving a great attraction here. Mr Cyril Thompson makes a capital Geoffrey Chaloner; Mr H. C. Morton as Sir Joseph Verity is a typical country squire; Mr St. John Hamund is very good as the Rajah of Bhong; Miss May Glen shows ability as Nan, her singing being excellent; Miss Maud Harvey makes a capital Marjory Joy; Miss Addie Lennard is great as Madame Sophie; Miss Nina Carlton as Princess Melaneh leaves little to be desired; and Mr J. Osborne as the redoubtable Barry is very good indeed.

CROOK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Wallace Davidson, Limited; Managing-Director, Mr Wallace Davidson.—Mr Fred J. Kirke opened on Monday with The Naval Detective. In the title-rôle Mr Kirke was good; Miss Louie Fountaine in a dual-rôle won admiration; and Mr Hy. Ray, a capable Captain Hustle, reminded one of the famous Captain Kettle.

DARLINGTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manageress, Mrs T. W. S. Jennings.—The attraction here this week is Sherlock Holmes, presented by Mr Charles Frohman's company. Mr Kenneth Rivington as Sherlock Holmes plays the cool, resourceful detective in excellent style. Mr Arthur B. Murray scores as Professor Moriarty. The James Larrabee of Mr Ernest Gray is a well-played character. As Doctor Watson Mr Fred Inwood is seen to advantage, as is also Mr Clive Ross as John Formad. Messrs Howard Laing, Harry G. Wright, William Wilson, and Charles Chaplin fill other parts in a capable manner. Miss Florence Radcliffe is much admired as Alice Faulkner, and Miss Carrie Lacey is successful as Madge Larrabee.

DARWEN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr E. L. Ormsby.—Mr and Mrs F. G. Kimberley's company is the attraction here this week in a sensational sporting drama, Bound to Win. Mr F. G. Kimberley gives a masterly portrayal of the part of Harry Lyndon, and is ably supported by Mr James Hont as Ned Oakley and Mr Sydney Rennef as Squire Forbes. Mr H. Custins is good as Willie Wilkins, and Mr F. Strickland makes a capital Philip Ayr. The part of Gladys Orme is cleverly impersonated by Miss K. Eckhart, and Miss Nina Blake Adams is a capable Marion Forbes. Miss Edie Macklin and Mr E. Morgan contributed largely to the merriment of the piece as Winnie Oakley and Horatio Buffet respectively. A pleasing feature of the piece is the introduction of a couple of thorough-bred horses in act four.

DEAL.

ODDFELLOWS' HALL.—On Saturday Dick Whittington, produced under the direction of Mr Cecil Clayton, was a great success. Miss Millie Beckett played the part of Dick, and made herself a general favourite. Miss Gertie Lovedale was an ideal Alice, singing and dancing bewitchingly. Mr J. Glover as Idle Jack made a hit with his songs and dances; Mr Tom Kenealy as Angelina, the cook, was very funny; and Mr Albert Evremond scored in the part of the Alderman. The Cat was well acted by Mr Clayto. The specialities included Clayto, gymnast and contortionist; Eddie Sidder, musical clown; the Gaiety Girls, acrobatic dancers; and Hercules, the strong man. The pantomime has a pretty transformation scene, Blue Bells in Fairyland.

DERBY.

PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. Allan Edwardes.—The Sisters Petram, with their marionette circus, form the star turn here this week, and are warmly received; the Seltina Troupe prove themselves capable acrobats, and their efforts are heartily appreciated; Clarke's Nippers are as deserving of commendation as ever in a clever club manipulating, ball-punching, and boxing act; Brothers Vance are decidedly amusing instrumentalists, and have also some smart patter; Haldyne Duo, comedy couple, cause any amount of amusement; Will Bacchus, actor-vocalist, meets with general acceptation; Brothers Levette, chair vaulters and tumblers, are both clever and amusing; and the Bioscope is also responsible for a number of interesting pictures.

DONCASTER.

NEW GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. W. Chapman.—Mr Charles R. Stone's musical comedy company opened the new year here on Monday with two distinct and complete performances of What Became of Mrs Rackit? and My Sweetheart, and in each signal success was scored. Mrs Racket was well played by Miss Edith Madelle, who had the advantage of the valuable support of Miss Emily Kelsey as Mrs Talman. Miss Daisy Stone, an engaging Katy, gave distinct emphasis to the rôle. Mr Charles Ross, who essayed the representation of Timothy Talman, was exceedingly smart and alert, and Mr J. F. Hayward was in happy vein as Obadiah Dawson.

DOVER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Dover Theatres, Limited; Managing Director, Mr F. C. Dew.—Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr Mark Blow's company is appearing here this week in Under Two Flags. Miss Emelie Polini makes a capital Cigarette. Miss Hope Mayne combines womanly dignity with charm of manner in her impersonation of the Princess Venetia; Miss Lucy Carr is graceful as Lady Beatrice Guinevere; Miss Joan Stean is excellent as the Countess Olga; and Miss Daisy Carlton is a dainty and captivating Lavinia. To Mr Mark Blow must be given the honours of the evening for his powerful impersonation of Bertie Cecil. Mr Reginald Harley-West, too, is excellent as Barkile. The rôle of Lord Rockingham is forcibly and naturally rendered by Mr Walter Thornton. Mr Will Hook scores an emphatic success by his vivacious impersonation of Rake. Mr Charles Brook is impressive as Lord Royellieu, and Mr Charles D. Pitt is responsible for a clever portrayal of Colonel Chateauroy. Mr Albert Rogers submits a humorous character sketch of the money-lender, Ezra Baroni, and Mr Sydney Richards is good as Captain De Chanrelion. The play is preceded by an amusingly acted farce, entitled Aunt Rebecca, in which parts are upheld by Messrs Will Hook, R. Harley-West, Walter Thornton, and Miss Lesley Wynne.

DUBLIN.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessees, Michael Gunn, Limited; General Manager, Mr Charles Hyland.—The pantomime, The Sleeping Beauty, entered on its second week on Monday, and is drawing crowded houses.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr A. Armstrong.—The Moody-Manners opera company continues to attract large and appreciative audiences. On Monday Bizet's charming opera Carmen was excellently played. Mdlle. Zelie De Lussan gave a delight was particularly good, and sang the Toreador song with great success. Miss Kate Anderson was most effective as Michaelo, and Miss D. M'Carthy as Mercedes and Miss N. Childs as Frasquito were admirable. On Tuesday night The Jewess was performed, when Madame De Vere in the title-rôle, Mr Chas. Manners as Cardinal De Brogni, Mr Joseph O'Mara as Eleazar, Mr Wilson Pembroke as Prince Leopold, Miss K. Anderson as Princess Endossia, and Mr Chas. Moppett as Ruggero were all successful in their respective rôles. Faust, Il Trovatore, The Puritan's Daughter, La Traviata, and The Lily of Killarney are also in the week's bill.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. W. Whitbread; General Manager, Mr Kennedy Miller.—Mr Kennedy Miller's company entered on its second week here on Monday with J. W. Whitbread's successful Irish drama Sarsfield, which continues to draw excellent houses.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr A. S. Figgis.—The leading feature here this week is Vasco, the mad musician, whose selections meet with deserving applause. The acrobatic feats of the Five Olracs are appreciated, as is also the aerial act of Alexandra and Bertie. Mabel Hind, comedienne, has many admirers, and Barton Howard is a capital mimic. Sybil St. Elmo is a comedian of no mean order, and Lyane and Gek are successful contortionists. Charles Cardow, comedian, has scored, and the Empire pictures are also good.

TIVOLI.—General Manager, Mr Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr H. A. Murphy.—There is a capital bill-of-fare presented here this week, the premier position being allotted to Widger and Ware, whose comedy cable act, "A Dry Job," is well received. Appearing also with success are Collins and Croft, song illustrators, and Barney Armstrong, comedian. Unita and Paul, in their stage aerial act, make a decided hit, and Marie Winsome, male impersonator, also scores. Hector and Paulus are clever comedy acrobats, and Winnie Scott is an excellent comedienne and dancer. Ormond Penstone gives an interesting pot-pourri act, and Jenny Love is a pleasing vocalist. Ben Hur, the undefeated athlete, is warmly applauded, and Geo. Mackintosh is an expert clog-dancer.

PAVILION, KINGSTOWN.—Manager, Mr John H. Stevenson.—The following artistes are appearing here:—Mr J. Wellesley Lynn, who gives a very mystifying entertainment, including the "Flying Lady;" the Mona (Welsh) Ladies' Orchestra, who appear in national costume, also contribute some excellent selections; and the electric Bioscope is worked with success.

WORLD'S FAIR AND MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr C. A. James.—The company engaged here include Messrs Pettigrove and Son's Imperial Marionettes, in the pantomime The Babes in the Wood; Eugenie, palmist; and Geo. Harcourt, descriptive vocalist

DUDLEY.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr J. W. Tilley.—Pantomime still holds the sway here, Mr A. E. Smith supplying another well-mounted one in Aladdin. The "immortals" form a bevy of fair ladies remarkable for their beauty and physique. Miss Rita Resdan is a bonny and vivacious Aladdin; Miss Elsie Douglas, a pretty and engaging Princess, sings sweetly; Mr J. H. Maxwell scores well as Abanazar; and Mr Fred Ramsell is highly diverting as Widow Twankey.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Tom Prichard.—Cameron, the conjuror, is proving a great attraction here this week, as also is Miss Rose Elliott, a favourite comedienne with some good songs; Mozzetto, the boy juggler, performs some very smart tricks; and A. P. Boswell is very droll. Very good turns are also given by Bob Pearson, comedian; Lily Pinder, in "An Irishman's Adventures;" Tom Hayes, comedian and mimic; and M. P. Bentley, patter comedian.

DUNDEE.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; General Manager, Mr Sandon Perkins.—The pantomime opened here on Monday, and was well received by a house completely crowded in every part. The subject chosen this year is The Babes in the Wood. Everything went without a hitch, and with a really first-class company of principals a really admirable entertainment is given. The scenery and dresses are excellent, and the music is catchy and up to date. Much credit is due to all concerned in the production.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Will Parker; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr Alf Ross.—The top of the bill this week is assigned to a sketch entitled The Children's Party, and is largely composed of local children, who acquit themselves very creditably in song and dance. Sinclair and Whiteford present a laughable comedy sketch, which is greatly relished by the audience. The remainder of the company are up to the usual high-class standard.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Will Percival.—A strong dramatic attraction is here this week entitled The Guilty Man, and is played by a really good company, who do justice to the requirements of the drama.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Dobell Lyle.—The pantomime Aladdin runs merrily on here, and continues to attract large attendances. The whole show goes along with a delightful smoothness, and new business is being continually introduced.

KINNAIRD HALL.—Hamilton's Excursions are paying their annual visit. A capital variety show is given by a talented company.

DUNFERMLINE.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr W. E. Potts.—Miss Lillie Mowbray's fifth pantomime, Robinson Crusoe and his Man Friday, was presented here on Dec. 30. The pantomime is written specially by Arthur Lee Tod, with original music by J. W. Harrison. Miss Mowbray makes a capital Robinson Crusoe; Miss Louie Rodney is a fascinating Dolly Mayflower; Miss Maggie Mowbray is good as Tom Trunnion; Miss Alice Campbell makes a sweet Polly Hopkins; Mr A. L. Tod scores as Captain Teapot; Mr Claude Morton is exceptionally clever as Mrs Crusoe; Mr Anthony Gordon as Blizzard was a great success. The specialities, the Eight Sunbeams, special dancers; Vic Verney, the marvellous whistler; Chump and Chant, comedy artistes; the Ver Vains, the famous coon and buck dancers; Frank Le Sewell, the great American Tramp pianist; Mantell and Ward, contortionists, are all excellent in their respective business. All the other parts are in capable hands.

EASTBOURNE.

DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr A. Standen Triggs.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison's company was here on Monday in Cousin Kate. Capable work was done by Miss Edith Walker, an effective and attractive Kate Curtis; Mr Walter Ringham was an interesting Heath Desmond; Miss Nina Cressy was a delightfully homely and pleasing Mrs Spencer; and Miss Hilda Honiss, a refreshing and girlish Amy. Miss Betty Castle made the most of her limited opportunities as Jane. Mr Donald Maclean did very effective work as the precise Rev. James Bartlett, and Master Vyvian Thomas as Bobby was boyish and animated. A Case for Eviction preceded. Mr J. Bannister Howard's company appeared here on Thursday in The Darling of the Gods.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr George Hayes.—A good variety programme is being carried out here this week. The Oallaw Trio give a clever and daring exhibition of strength, equipoise, and tumbling, and with the aid of wire very novel feats are performed Signor Almasio is an accomplished juggler and jumper, effective help being given by a companion; Mr Morris Harvey, a realistic mimic and capital elocutionist, gains deserved encores; Mr Will Cornish returns with his hand-bell solos; Silent Tait is a most amusing wizard; the Victorian Troupe of dancers are pretty and smart exponents of their art; Messrs Ryan and Hall are extremely clever in their eccentric and contortion act; Mr Arthur Gilbert is a comedian of much ability; Miss Phyllis Yorke is a dainty little vocalist and dancer; and Mr Joseph Hennessy an expert club manipulator.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Samuel Lloyd.—A capital programme is offered here and business continues good. The Mezzettis are exceptionally clever in their triple-bar act. The Bros. Andreassen exhibit great strength and skill in their novelty acrobatic act. Miss Rosie Lloyd remains from last week, and her gay songs again please. Mr Thomas E. Finglass, assisted by a lady, contributes a good turn as a Negro comedian and dancer. Miss Lottie Albert is a bright comedienne; Mr Charles Somers and Mr Harry Sheldon are both good comedians in different styles; the Sisters Leigh are expert skipping-rope dancers; and the Hippodrome pictures conclude the entertainment.

ECCLES.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Potasch and Wardle; Manager, Mr P. Potasch; Acting-Manager, Mr P. Ryan-Smith.—Local playgoers have this week their first opportunity of seeing Sherlock Holmes. Mr Charles Frohman's company gives a capital representation; Mr H. A. Saintsbury essays the title-rôle, and plays it with conspicuous ability; Mr W. F. Stirling is effective as Professor Moriarty; and the part of Dr. Watson is in the capable hands of Mr Lawrence Leyton. Miss Vera Longden is an admirable Alice Faulkner; and others who should be mentioned are Messrs Leslie Carter, Pelham Rayner, Marc M'Dermott, and Miss Maud Linden.

EDINBURGH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs Howard and Wyndham, Limited; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter Hollister.—This has been a busy week here, Jack and the Beanstalk having been played twice daily to immense audiences. The pantomime goes with wonderful effect, and the principals are warmly praised for their spirited performances.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs Howard and Wyndham, Limited; General Manager, Mr G. T. Minshull.—The Cingalee continues to run splendidly, and is greeted with hearty favour by crowded houses nightly, the daily matinées, of which several have been given, also drawing an overflowing attendance.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr H. E. Moss.—The attraction on Monday was Mr Fred Karno's company of comedians in the lively pantomime, Early Birds, which has gone as well as ever. There was a big holiday crowd present on Monday afternoon, and the performance was received with hilarious delight. Of the rest of the company, the experienced Mr George Bohee pleased with his enjoyable banjo playing, and Miss Alice Simmons made an excellent impression as a ballad vocalist, her singing being cultured and effective. The Three Mascotte Sisters performed a number of daring feats on the rings and high trapeze; and Joko and Koko, a couple of highly-trained monkeys, were introduced in an interesting equestrian act. Mr Charles Vincent's comic songs were effectively delivered and cordially received; and the plantation singing and dancing of Clive and Clark was warmly applauded. The Raies danced cleverly; and the Three Victorias, vocalists and dancers; and Miss Rose Archer, lady mimic, complete the company.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Eade Montefiore.—Cinderella is in full swing, and has been well patronised all the week, the pantomime being played twice daily, to the full satisfaction of appreciate audiences.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Tom Ellis.—Mr Auguste W. B. Kingston's engagement continues at this house, his répertoire performances being most attractive. The management opened the new year auspiciously with an afternoon entertainment specially designed for children on Monday, and in the evening played drama to two houses, an admirable arrangement for preventing overcrowding. As it was, two big audiences assembled, the earlier one being regaled with a fine representation of Mr Garrow's interesting drama, Robert Burns, and the second with the four-act play, Old Edinburgh, dealing with the joint career of the notorious Burke and Hare, a piece that never fails to draw. Mr Kingston and the members of his well-organised company scored all round, and were the recipients of much well-merited applause.

COOKE'S ROYAL CIRCUS.—Proprietor, Mr John Henry Cooke.—Aqua Wreck increases in popularity with each succeeding representation. Of these there have been twenty-one this week. Surely a record for a full circus programme, and a sensational spectacle embracing water effects of so stupendous a character as this. New features on Monday were a trapeze display by La Belle Lily and Albert, Clown Domino's performing donkey, the Dunvilles, musical experts, and the Yoricks with their mechanical statue. The hat throwing of the Leotards was also well received.

WAVERLEY MARKET.—This busy centre of attraction has been thronged daily from dawn to dark by crowds of delighted visitors, who have thoroughly enjoyed the feast of novelty provided for their amusement by the marvellous Mr H. E. Moss.

EXETER

THEATRE ROYAL.—Secretary and Manager, Mr Fred Pollard; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy M. Dunford.—Crowded houses are witnessing Robinson Crusoe, and there is no doubt this year's pantomime in Exeter has established a record. Mr Percy Cahill as Will Atkins proves even more amusing than on first acquaintance, and comes in for a large share of applause. A characteristically funny creation is the Dame Crusoe of Mr Mat Melrose; and the quips and cranks of Mr Charles Stephenson as Billy Crusoe keep the house in continual merriment. Miss Rose Helene makes a vivacious and sprightly principal boy, several solos being rendered by her in capital style. In the popular song "Sammy" Mr Percy M. Dunsford, the ubiquitous and genial acting-manager, adds to the effect by appearing in costume. Polly is played with verve and charm by Miss Mary Conroy; hearty laughter is evoked by the antics of the Almonte Troupe; and the Floro dora Girls have enhanced their popularity. The music, composed and arranged by Mr W. J. Damant, is well played. The augmented orchestra is under his personal direction.

FALKIRK.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr Horace W. Ebbutt.—The pantomime Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves has had a most successful run at this theatre, where it was played by Messrs Little and Darcy's company. This is the second week of the production, and the business at the beginning of the week was quite unprecedented. The Sisters Silcott have made a hit with their catchy song "Blue Bell." The fun of the Forty Thieves has found great favour with young and old, and the pantomime from first to last has proved a brilliant success.

TOWN HALL.—Walker's Cinématograph exhibition has been given to crowded audiences, beginning last Saturday, for four days. The show is one of the best of its kind on the road. In addition to a variety of capital pictures, there is a most enjoyable concert programme.

FOLKESTONE.

PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr H. W. Rowland.—Mr J. Bannister Howard's company, in The Darling of the Gods, was here for the first part of the week. Mr D. Lewin Mannering as Zakkuri was exceptionally good; Mr Alfred Goddard gave a satisfactory rendering of Kara; Mr L. St. George Lowther as Inu, the dumb slave, proved himself a most capable actor; Miss Edith Anton Laing as Rosy Sky rendered good service; and Miss Inez Bensusan as Yo-San acted in the best possible manner. Mr and Mrs Calvert Routledge and company, in The Cricket on the Hearth, was the attraction for the latter end of the week.

FARNWORTH.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr T. Morton Powell.—This week Mr T. Morton Powell's company is paying a farewell visit in Honour Thy Father. Mr J. W. Evelyn gives an excellent performance as Gabriel Garth; Jack Halyard is a manly character in the hands of Mr Douglas B. Watson; and the crafty Duncan Bly of Mr Juan De Alberti is an outstanding feature of the performance. The humorous element is well looked after by Mr W. H. Melrose and Mr W. Dale as Ned Pennycomequick and Mike Copplestone; Gertrude Garth has a capable exponent in Miss Kate Newton; and Miss Kitty Russell as Mercy Merry gives an artistic and natural representation.

GAINSBOROUGH.

KING'S.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton.—Miss Lena Stanton's pantomime company occupies the theatre this week with Whittington and His Cat. Miss Stanton is a dashing Dick. Miss Marie Gerrard appears as Alice. Alderman Fitzwarren, the Cook, and Idle Jack are played by Messrs Geo. James, Bruce Green, and Alf Brooks. Some clever speciality turns are introduced by Pauletti, cyclist; Levall, acrobat; Jay, ventriloquist; Little Keeno, juvenile comedian; and the Cecil Troupe of lady acrobatic dancers. Mr Alf Morn is successful as the Emperor.

GATESHEAD.

METROPOLE THEATRE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Resident-Manager, Mr J. Straughan.—The Royal Tokio Troupe of acrobatic Japs provide the principal turn here, which is of a most interesting character. Mike Gray with his performing dog is responsible for much amusement; the blind musician Martin Henderson submits a good turn, as also does Gerald Mount, vocalist and mimic. Les Rubens, society entertainer, and Will Dalton, comedian, are responsible for good business, while other entertaining shows are provided by Sidney Lee, magician; Wal Croft, Scotch comedian; and Robins and Collier, who provide a good sketch.

GLOUCESTER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Owners, Messrs C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr W. H. Weller.—Miss Beatrice Isaacson's company is playing the drama A Great Sensation this week. Mr Sydney N. Hallows presents the hero Jack Damer capably; Mr Tom V. Mustoe realises the villainous Henry Escombe in approved style; Miss Beatrice Isaacson as the persecuted Eva Dale wins sympathy; Sidonie is powerfully enacted by Miss Madge Devereux; and Mr William Ames is humorous as "Whiley" Jones. Comedy is introduced by Mr Cecil Morand as Peter the postman and Miss Marion Mayne as Ria. Mr George Collinson is noticeable as Bruce and Miss Maud Hetherington does well as the Waif.

GOOLE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr John E. Tomlinson.—This week the drama, The Anarchist Terror, is being played by Miss Lole Esmond's company, under the direction of Mr Edward Neville, who infuses much villainy into his performance of Karagoon. Mr C. T. E. O'Connor as Lieut. Armstrong and Mr Gus Bowerman as Ishmael play well. Mr Harry Rose creates plenty of amusement as Mikey Doolan; Miss Lole Esmond puts all the "go" necessary into her acting as Kitty Malone; Mr J. Nelson-Turner is an excellent Silas Washington Goldstraw; Miss V. Hammersley is a charming Columbia Goldstraw; Miss Cecile Byrne scores as Zara; and Miss Annie Brunette ably sustains the difficult rôle of Morita. The Sorrows of Satan is announced for the latter part of the week.

GRANTHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Edward Marris.—Local playgoers invariably have had to wait for a pantomime until somewhat late in the season, but, thanks to the energy and enterprise of Mr Marris, they have had the pleasure of seeing Dick Whittington this Christmastide. The book has been expressly written by Stanley Rogers, Harry Lowther, Edward Marris, and W. H. Kirby. Dick is impersonated by Miss Winifred Preece, who makes a really smart principal boy. Miss Mamie Iris as Alice acts with a due appreciation of her part, and is also responsible for an effective sand dance. Miss Cordelia Knight makes a charming fairy, with pretty songs; as Idle Jack Mr W. H. Kirby is uncommonly droll, being ably assisted in the humorous element by Mr Dickie Clare as Alderman Fitzwarren and Mr H. A. Griffiths as Betsy. The scenery is decidedly good, the costumes are effective, and the songs and music are tuneful and pleasing. The specialities include Lillian Sivado, trapeze performer; the Dunlops, comedy cyclists; the Three Rays, dancers; and Messrs Ryde and Beeman, acrobats.

GRAVESEND.

GRAND THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr David Hart.—Holding premier position in this week's bill is the Great Northern Troupe of International dancers, who are clever artists. The Denmark Pair are bright duettists; Fred Alsopp is a droll comedian; My Fancy is an unique sand dancer; Charles Harvey, comedian, does well; Flo D'Orville, versatile artiste, is highly appreciated; and Florrie Beckwith, comedienne, meets with considerable applause. Johnny Holland and company in their comedy, The Looking Glass, cause roars of laughter.

GRIMSBY.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr J. H. Curry; Assistant-Manager, Mr S. Tolfree.—A new musical comedy, Miss Mischief, has been seen here this week. It embraces a number of attractive songs, and the dancing is also a pleasing feature. Kitty Malone is represented by Miss Evelyn Hughes, who gives an excellent idea of the madcap heiress. Mr Cecil Curtiss is satisfactory as Captain Jack Bethune, but has not a great deal to do. Mr T. E. Conover is responsible for a large share of the comedy, but plenty of fun is also caused by Mr John Sandy as the millionaire and Mr Frederick Mantell as Lord Percy Fitz-Sherry. Miss Crissie Francess makes a sprightly Mary Anne, and mention may also be made of Mr Harold Stanley as Admiral Bethune, Miss Eileen Guilbert as Lady Orrery, and Miss Ida Canpioni as Frau Schmutts.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr T. Allan Edwardes; General Manager, Mr H. F. Millar; Assistant-Manager, Mr H. H. Watson.—The pony that has been exhibited here this week by Mr James De Voye is far in advance of the educated pony usually seen on the stage and elsewhere. It not only solves arithmetical problems and indicates the time of day, but is an adept at playing "Nap." Weiland, an American artist, has presented a series of novel juggling feats, and has combined a lot of amusing business with them. Very smart gymnastics have been performed by the Fitzroys. The Sylvesters have proved themselves clever equilibrists, whilst the Woolhafs have occasioned much fun with their songs and patter. Others who have contributed to the programme have been Frank Hope, trick cyclist; Harry Zetter, comedian; and Deller and Oxford, comedy artistes.

NEW PALACE THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr Frank Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr Steuart Cecil.—Carl Hertz has considerably astonished the audiences here this week. As an illusionist he excels, materialising all manner of articles from apparent nothingness. The turn given by Martinetti and Grossi is also full of surprises, they manufacturing music out of the most unlikely mediums. Ada Fawn, a favourite burlesque actress, has again proved highly popular. Good dancing and acrobatic work was accomplished by the Three Novells, and an amusing speciality, Dry Comedy and Wet Paint, was presented by the M'Kays. Other artists appearing were Read and Write, dancers and duettists; Clarke and Argyle, dancers and pipers; Flo Deighton, vocalist; and Cissie Reece, dancer and comedienne.

GREAT YARMOUTH.

ROYAL AQUARIUM.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. W. Nightingale.—Messrs Forge and Dalton's pantomime, Cinderella, has increased in attractiveness, and delighted audiences applaud the pretty songs and dances, and admire the picturesque and handsome scenery and the bright and dainty dresses. Miss Chummie La Mara as Prince Paragon and Miss Lizzie Primmer as Cinderella continue first favourites, and other artistes as enumerated last week help greatly to secure success.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr Geo. Gilbert.—The services of the Savonas have been retained this week, and their brilliant musical entertainment delights the large audiences which assemble to hear them. Miss Flora Platt pleases as a song illustrator; Prince Fee Lung gives an extraordinary conjuring turn; Zenora and Foden contribute a clever turn as equilibrists; the Three Rickards astonish with their wonderful acrobatic feats; Mr William Tudor's performing ponies give a pleasing display; the Elliotts repeat their last week's success as cycling wonders; and fun is afforded by Little Rabbit.

GREENOCK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, the Executors of the late Mr Alex. Wright; Managers, Messrs A. B. Wright and J. J. Wright.—Mr George Dance's A Chinese Honeymoon company is proving a strong attraction here, and large holiday crowds are being nightly delighted by the vivacious acting, singing, and dancing of an unusually capable company.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. L. Skivington.—Atroy, hoop roller and juggler, heads the bill here, and gives an excellent turn. Lily Turner is a charming comedienne; Tony Iveson, the versatile "ragman," is very amusing; Allis and Cassatti are seen in a funny comedy act; Mr and Mrs Paul Knox are retained for another week, and are loudly applauded for their novel entertainment; Hilton and Hilton perform amusingly on the horizontal bars; and Violi, lady instrumentalist, plays a number of weird musical instruments tunefully. The Cinématograph, with new pictures, completes an excellent performance.

TOWN HALL.—Poole's Myriorama is proving a great attraction here. All the latest pictures are shown and are interesting large audiences. In addition, a first-class variety company performs, which includes Mr Frank Freeland, the favourite guide and vocalist; Mr Harry Sullivan, an amusing comedian; Telsa, lady instrumentalist, who is very clever; Sulli and Saroni, pleasing dancers and duettists; Captain Howlett's Marionettes, who are very good; Walloween, the comedy man, who gives an amusing turn; and the Magnet Sketch Party in a funny piece entitled In a Looking Glass.

GUERNSEY.

ST. JULIAN'S HALL.—Director, Mr C. Robb Perkins.—This week A Message from Mars is here on a return visit. That capable and popular actor, Mr Rawson Buckley, cleverly represents Horace Parker. Minnie is delightfully played by Miss May Saker, a charming actress; a consistent and excellent performance is the Tramp of Mr Bruce Lindley; Mr W. H. Brougham gives a scholarly rendering of the Messenger; Mr Frank G. Dunn as Arthur Dicey submits an admirable portraiture; Miss Flora Hastings appears as Miss Parker, Mr W. Maxwell is an ideal Policeman, and Miss P. E. Yeoman is of signal service as Bella.

HALIFAX.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr William Robinson; General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—The New York Nippers are here again, and are enjoying a well-deserved popularity; Imro Fox, a clever and humorous artist in the mystifying line, gives a clever performance; the Three Henriques do a neat acrobatic act; Nellie Martell finds favour; Carlile and Walker, vocalists and dancers, do a good turn; a farcical sketch entitled Three Husbands is well performed by Frank Purcell's company; Rose Endon, comedienne, wins applause; and Sydney James does a good musical turn.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Frank Macnaghten.—A varied and versatile performance is given here this week by Dinah Morris and her smart company of ten artists; the Langdons, song illustrators, are popular; the Four Burnells do a musical comedy act which causes much hilarity; Mr and Mrs Prosper Benn have a musical sketch which is enjoyable as well as cleverly worked; Frances Haskoll introduces an electrical musical novelty; Carne Curre has a well-trained and intelligent dog; the Five Bon-Bons do an acrobatic and pantomimic sketch, in which traps are cleverly worked with dexterity and skill; and the Tom Davis Trio repeat their wonderful cycling performance on the elevated miniature track.

VICTORIA HALL.—Manager, Mr Henry Drake.—Mr Charles Harrington's company is here in the ever-popular play Uncle Tom's Cabin. The part of Uncle Tom is played with sympathy and feeling by Mr J. Carr; Mr G. P. Ellis does well as George Harris; Legree has a good exponent in Mr J. H. Rodgers; Mr Harrington plays Phineas admirably; and Marks, the lawyer, is made a most amusing character by Mr F. Charles. Topsy is admirably portrayed by Miss S. Stella, and the Eva of little Minnie is an intelligent and faithful portrait.

HARROGATE.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr Smith.—Mr John Tully's company opened here on Monday in Uncle Tom's Cabin. The piece was smartly staged, and included some tuneful Negro ditties, clever dancing, and an abundance of the comic element. The characters were ably interpreted by the members of Mr Tully's company.

HARTLEPOOL.

EMPRESS.—Proprietors, Councillor Everton and J. W. Cragg.—Houses filled in every part are nightly appreciating the holiday fare submitted here. The bill is headed by the Mannings Entertainers, in a brisk sketch, A Turkish Bath Rubber, into which some clever acrobatic tumbling is introduced. Bessie Travis is certainly the best lady ventriloquist that has been this way; a double encore is awarded to Fred Land; and old favourites are represented by Marie Yorke, comedienne; Mdlle. La Roland, and Dan Noble, who are maintaining a well-deserved reputation. Burns's Bioscope completes the bill.

HASTINGS.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Geo. H. Gaze.—That very amusing comedy Saturday to Monday is on a return visit, and was performed on Monday by the capable company organised by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison. Mr Stuart Champion gave a good performance as Lord Culvert of Alcester. Miss Frances Vine retained her rôle of Mrs Wendover, and submitted a refined and clever impersonation. Mr Dallas Welford was very effective as Stanley Pidding. Miss Adeline Lester again presented a good performance as the Lady Diana Porchester. Mr Jack Hampton as Probyn Dyke proved very successful. Miss Madge Burton as Miss Ursula Toop added considerably to the success achieved, and Miss Charlotte Mead again appeared with marked effect as Miss Skeet. Able assistance was also rendered by Mr Edward Ling as the Rev. Lemuel Toop. Miss Olive Loftus Leyton as Thompson and Mr Augustus Davenport as Jarvis complete the bill. The performance was preceded by Judged by Appearances.

HASTINGS PIER PAVILION.—Pier Manager, Mr R. Turner; Entertainment Manager, Mr J. D. Hunter.—Mr Hunter's pantomime Aladdin is still attracting large audiences. Mr Hunter as the widow Twankey is funnier and more amusing than ever. The sweet-voiced operatic vocalists sing harmoniously, and the Verona Quartette of ladies trip it gracefully and lightly.

ST. LEONARDS KURSAAL.—Pier Master, Mr Elvey Thomas; Entertainment Manager, Mr Drew Mackintosh.—The concerts of the Kursaal orchestra are daily given here during the season, and this week Mr Percy Banks, a baritone of considerable power and expression, has made his appearance. His songs are much appreciated.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr Harold Penny.—The entertainment provided here this week is the means of drawing a host of admirers. Miss Ena Richards is an attractive comedienne. The express vocalist, Mr Will Farrell, is quite a novelty. Very smart card manipulation is shown by Valan, the newsboy. Muir and Bartlett join in a laughable clerical combination. A performance by skilfully trained ponies and dogs is given by Mdlle. Yvette. The Sisters Albert, duettists and dancers, are warmly welcomed. Mr Leslie Race proves himself an excellent comedian. The evolutions of the comedy gymnasts, the Brothers Doran, are much enjoyed.

HAWICK.

NEW THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr W. Payne Seddon; Lessees, Messrs W. Payne Seddon and Gordon Starkey.—On Monday Mr Herbert Fuller's company commenced a week's engagement in Fiends of London. Mr Herbert Fuller in the part of the jockey, Bob Archer, met with great success; Mr Hugh Carmichael gave an admirable impersonation of Captain Crawley; and Mr E. H. Gibbons was sinister as Peter Shark. Mr Francis Everard did well as Sir Horace Bream; Mr Harold Weston was well placed as Joe Ormerod; Laurie Christie found a capital representative in Miss Agnes Collier; Miss Emily Lewis acted in a capable manner as Flossie; and Sophie Shade was well played by Miss Nelson Ramsey.

TOWN HALL.—A welcome visit is being paid by Mr Chas. Macdona's company in A Chinese Honeymoon. Mr Bert Monks causes much amusement as Mr Pineapple; Miss Alice Cheshire as Fi-Fi is exceedingly clever; Miss Nellie Groves makes a charming Soo-Soo; Mr Arthur Bishop gives a good representation of Tom Hatherton; Mr Edmond T. Sayers plays with taste as the Emperor; Miss Kitty Kirwan gives a capital study of the official mother-in-law; Mr Pineapple is in the capable hands of Miss Dorothy Payn; and the Lord Chancellor is cleverly portrayed by Mr Fred Pollard.

HEBBURN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr W. A. Jackson; Acting-Manager, Mr Thomas Robson.—The excellent variety company submitted here this week includes the Goldini Trio, who exhibit wonderful skill in their acrobatic novelties and carpet spinning; the Bransbys, clever character duettists; Russell Hatton, who is responsible for some attractive Dickens sketches; Dave Hallie, a comedian of considerable ability; Dock Watson, the American coloured comedian; Doyle and Gibson, eccentric comedians; the Fordyces, clever juvenile vocalists and dancers; Mable Comley, comedienne; Otto Roseno, Continental novelty artist; and James Foy, the local tenor.

HEREFORD.

GARRICK THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton; General Manager, Mr Louis Karpe; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank J. Pitt.—This week a change has been made, drama giving way to a Biograph exhibition of Colonel Cody's (Buffalo Bill) Wild West and Congress of Rough Riders of the World. During the evening variety turns are given by Mr Tom Carrick, comedian; Gilroy, ventriloquist; and Miss Lily Carrick. Every item is well received.

HORWICH.

NEW PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Sandiford.—Horwich is enjoying the first pantomime that has been produced here for two years. Madame Willoughby's Babes in the Wood, under the stage-management of Mr B. Gardner, is the attraction. The various scenes, painted by Mr W. H. Bankes (formerly manager here), are very elaborate and picturesque, and the dresses exceedingly handsome. Mr Gardner as Demon King and Wicked Uncle is quite a host in himself, being gifted with a fine physique and a telling voice. Messrs Brown and Harker as the two Ruffians have plenty of scope, their songs, dances, and cross talk being most entertaining. Mr J. A. Halma as Friar Tuck has a very good part, his speciality juggling in the Palace scene being very smart and clean. Mr Alf Foy as the Dame is extremely diverting, his songs and dances being a great feature. Miss Beatrice Dudley's Robin Hood is a capital performance, and Miss Winnie Wentworth is a very fascinating Maid Marion. Misses Violet and Daisy Mottley as the Babes are excellent, their songs and their acrobatic and step-dancing creating quite a furore. The Sisters Allen give a fine exhibition of international dancing, Miss D'Alberte's Fairy Queen is a very pretty performance, and the singing and marching of the Amazon Army could not be beaten. The whole show is bright and melodious, and the musical numbers, under the direction of Mr Percy Woodroffe, are thoroughly up to the mark.

HOYLAND.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Owner, Mr Arthur Carlton; Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Geo. S. King.—For the New Year's attraction we have Mr R. Abbott's company here in A Wife's Triumph. Mr E. R. Abbott as Robert Dewhurst evokes applause, and in the title-rôle Miss Ada Abbott is deserving of the highest praise. Mr G. C. Doughty as Frank Wilton plays his part with skill, and Ellis Gordon is well played by Mr W. H. Garbois.

HUDDERSFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy G. Arthur.—The play Sunday, which is being presented during the week by Mr Louis Calvert's company, is one of the most acceptable productions seen here for a long time. Miss Jean Stirling Mackinlay in the title-rôle held her audience in thrall by her interpretation of the sweet-minded, pure-hearted treasure of the mining camp. In less skilful hands the part of Colonel Brinthorpe might easily have been wrecked, but Mr J. Edward Pearce never lost his grip or allowed pathos to lapse into bathos. Mr Frederick Powell gave a grimly, honest presentation of the fine spirited, rough miner, Towzer; Mr John H. Manley as Davy and Mr T. Norman Walter as Lively providing cleverly varied contrasts as his comrades. Mr Whitford Kane as Jacky, their young associate, played with fine appreciation of his opportunities. Mr Charles B. Vaughan as Arthur Brinthorpe, Mr Ernest A. Douglas as Tom Oxley, and Miss Elizabeth Watson as Mrs Naresby upheld fully the high standard of the piece, which was very effectively staged.

HULL.

EMPIRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Jno. Sylvester Sage.—Alvanti, on the slanting wire, is the principal turn here, and Mark Anthony is also successful.

CIRCUS.—Manager, Mr E. Emerson.—Jasper Redfern's animated pictures are concluding a successful visit. Amongst the variety artists Apollo gives a clever musical turn, and Fred Hudson, vocalist and mimic, also appears.

HYDE.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Joseph W. Maloney.—Mr Peter Thompson's pantomime, Babes in the Wood, which broke all previous records at this house on Boxing Day, is still having a most successful run. Everyone has now settled down to work, and, thanks to the spirited endeavours of the principal performers, the interest is never allowed to flag for one moment. Several new songs have been introduced, including "Bull and Bush," which is rendered in capital style by Miss Maude Beaumont, who, in the rôle of Robin Hood, has made herself a great favourite here; "Accidentally Done," by Mr Willy Barrett (Simple Pimple); "Queen of the Earth," by Miss Kate Lever (Bluebell); and "The Old Sun Dial," by Miss Minnie Moran.

ILKESTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr L. F. A. Rogers; Musical Director, Mr C. Keith Smith.—The boards are occupied this week by Mr Ian Maclaren and company, who play the drama entitled The Prince of Rogues. Miss Ruby Maclaren (Winifred Harwood) and Mr James F. Frith (Frank Farrell) are capable exponents of the rôles entrusted to them; Mr Johnny Fisher as Josh Buggins provides much amusement; and Miss Kythe Mackenzie as Polly Dibbs gives suitable support. Mr Henry Howard is praiseworthy as Richard Harwood, and the same may be said of Mr A. P. Wilson as Gilbert Kenry. Mr C. O. Scott as P.-C. Wykes creates a good impression with his abnormal stature; Mr Maclaren himself appears as the evil genius, Geoffrey Flint, and is ably helped by Miss Dorothy Mackenzie as Rita Congeire.

IPSWICH.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Manager, Mr G. W. Fisk.—Mr Charles Macdona's Three Little Maids company has been playing here this week. Miss Vera Vallis sang and acted with much vivacity as Ada Brancombe, and the other two Little Maids had charming representatives in Miss Nellie Groves and Miss Mabel Lavelle. Madame Iima Norina was excellent in the part of Lady St. Malory; and other female parts had efficient representatives in Miss Laura Wright, Miss Mabel Garl, and Miss N. Cunningham. Mr G. Arthur Longley was a humorous Lord Cheyne, and Mr W. Piercy a satisfactory Vicar. Messrs Sidney Lindon and Gus Oxley also rendered good aid to the cast.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr G. Barrett.—Some attractive novelties were engaged here for the New Year week, and the two performances a-night have been well attended. Fred Dunstone made a decided hit as a comic singer; Long Amos, another eccentric comedian, was amusing; Miss Rosa Gilbert's singing and dancing was well received; and the Three Schaffers are clever equilibrists. Onda and Leon were nimble on the triple bar; a couple of young ladies, called the Solaro Duo, pleased as instrumentalists; the Leopold Leglere Troupe proved to be exceptionally good acrobats; and some living pictures pleased immensely.

JARROW.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Hugh Robertson.—This week Messrs W. Howard and Alfred Paumier's company is paying a welcome visit with Under the Russian Flag. Mr F. W. Freeman gives a perfect rendering of the part of Ivan Romanoff; Mr Eric Mayne is a powerful Michael Romanoff; Mr Walter Howard an excellent Captain Demetrius; Mr Alfred Bennett is well placed as Alexis Skopolophi; Mr Hal Forde does well in the part of Peter Poluski; Mr Charles Liddon is effective as Wolf Marischla; Miss Ellen Snow is a striking Luka Marischla; Miss Ada Champion a winsome Vera Vassiloff; and Miss Agnes Howard makes the most of Ogarita.

JERSEY.

OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr C. Robert Perkins.—Mr Mouillot's company, in My Lady Molly, is paying a return visit here. Miss Zoe Gilfillan is a captivating Alice Coverdale. Miss Beatrice Edwards is admirable as Lady Molly Martingale, her handsome presence and fine voice being greatly appreciated. Miss Madge Carr as Hester and Mdlle. Ella Darcier as Madeline Mirabeau do justice to their respective parts. Mr Ernest Morgan plays well as Lionel Bland. Mr George M'Closkie as Micky O'Dowd adds much to the merriment of the audience, and his dancing is excellent. Mr H. Hearder as Captain Romney and Mr H. Goodwin Hunt as Sir Miles Coverdale ably sustain their rôles, and Mr Frederick Silvester appears as Reuben Oates. The remaining characters are in safe hands.

KENDAL.

ST. GEORGE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr R. F. Chorley; Manager, Mr J. W. Butler.—Mrs Bandman-Palmer, supported by a clever company, has been welcomed here this week. The répertoire consists of Sapho, East Lynne, Mary, Queen of Scots, Hamlet, and Jane Shore. The first-named was presented on Monday, and Mrs Bandman-Palmer gave a powerful study of the title-rôle. Mr F. Skein's Jean Gaussin is marked by care and conscientiousness, and a sound performance of Dechelette comes from Mr A. St. Aubyn. Other important parts are satisfactorily played by Mr Sydney Bland, Mr E. Fenton, Miss Newman, Miss K. Herbert, and Miss Irene Hodgson.

KIDDERMINSTER.

NEW OPERA HOUSE.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr Jas. P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr R. C. Gudgeon, jun.—This week we have a return visit of the American-Indian actress Go-Won-Go-Mohawk and American company in the sensational drama entitled Wep-ton-no-mah. Go-Won-Go-Mohawk in the title rôle is clever, and Mr C. W. Charles impersonates the part of Colonel Stockton in an artistic manner.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors, Messrs Lester Reekie and Howard Stephens.—Another really excellent company is attracting large audiences here. The Radium Girls sing and dance in an artistic manner; Walter Gurney is a versatile comedian; Alex and Cole present a laughable sketch; Miss Dorothy Alexander's songs are catchy; Miss Lillie Mason is popular; and Mr Lister Reekie's monologue, "Scrooge," is powerful.

KING'S LYNN.

NEW ROYAL THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Bannister Howard; Business Manager, Mr Herbert Leonard.—Messrs Edward Marris and W. H. Kirby's pantomime Dick Whittington opened here on Monday. Miss Winifred Preece makes a dashing Dick, acting and singing gracefully. Alice is charmingly played by Miss Mamie Iris. Mr W. H. Kirby is very droll in the part of Jack. Mr Dickie Clare works hard, and keeps the house in good humour as Alderman Fitzwarren. Messrs Ryde and Beeman are capable knockabouts. The specialities are the Two Balzens, Japanese balancers; Mamie Iris, sand dancers; the Dunlops, comedy cyclists; and Lilian Sivado.

LANCASTER.

ATHENÆUM.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Hy. Wilkinson.—This week When London Sleeps occupies the boards, and is exceedingly well played by Mr C. Finch-Hatton's company. Miss Mabel Cleur is quite a success in the sympathetic part of Queenie Carruthers; the character of Hilda Carode is in the capable hands of Miss Hilda Clyde, who plays her part well; Mr Tom Ronald as David Engleheart, the hero, does credit to the character; Mr Walter H. Wilson scores as the scheming Capt. Haines; and the humour of the piece is contributed to by Darcy Kelway and Sammy Blythe. Other parts are ably filled, and the scenery is most effective.

PALACE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs W. J. Fergusson and John Porter.—The bill of fare at this bijou palace is this week headed by Miss Madge Grey, dialect comedienne, and right well is she received; Eno, the king of mimics, in his impersonations, brings down the house; as also does Miss Mabel Kessler, bugle soloist. Hughes and Elliott, in a dancing comedy act, are appreciated; and James Brady, comedian, merited a well-deserved encore; whilst Wilfred, a contortionist, was recalled again and again. Walter Payne's animated pictures are also an attraction.

LLANELLY.

ROYALTY THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr John Tully.—The attraction here this week is Mr J. H. Clyndes' company in A Royal Revenge. Mr James Willoughby gives an able representation of Nicholas Vargas; Mr John Cecil cleverly enacts the part of Count Urio Uzeda, the Hunchback; and Azen Ben Musid, a Moor; Miss Bessie Elma as Angela, the Unknown, is pathetic; Miss Evelyn Shannon as Cora, the Gipsy girl, is charming; Miss Jessie Roberts as Eulalie is also very pleasing.

LEAMINGTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Manager, Mr Harry Esden.—On Monday Mr Ben Greet's excellent company in La Poupée made a welcome appearance, and the piece, which has not been seen here for some years, instantly renewed all its former success. Miss Cissie Wade in the rôle of Alesia gave an entertaining and dainty study, and Mr Edward Thirlby's Hilarius was a most effective sketch.

LEEDS.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Richardson.—Under the energetic supervision of Mr Cadman, the grand production of Robinson Crusoe is amply realising the favourable impression made on our first visit, and promises to rank high in the annals of Mr John Hart's pantomime successes at this theatre. The principals are one and all imbued with a rare enthusiasm, whilst the numerous and efficient ballet and chorus also revel in their heavy work. Mr J. R. Hale, Mr Mike S. Whallen, Mr Lionel Rignold, and Mr Harry Dent are a quartet of prolific funmakers. The charming vocal work of the ladies, notably Miss Georgina Delmar, Miss Daisy Wallace, and Miss Beryl Somerset, constitutes a big feature, and the clever speciality of the Haytors also comes in for due appreciation.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr R. Ernest Liston.—Record crowds are the rule here nightly to witness Mr Macnaghten's sumptuous pantomime Cinderella, and all things augur well for a long and successful run. The principals have settled well to their parts, and provide a feast of fun, whilst the intricate and gorgeous stage display is a much-admired feature. Some clever specialities are in evidence, notably Mr John Kurkamp, the singing conductor, who from his chair renders solos in good style. Miss Ivy Lane's dancers find opportunity for effective work, and Lorenzi's performing animals provide an amusing interlude.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Dottridge and Longden; General Manager, Mr C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Bush.—Mr J. G. Kiddle's admirable pantomime Cinderella is doing well here.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Moss Empires, Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr T. Gerald Morton.—Chas. R. Sweet, the musical burglar, heads the bill here, and presents a smart and entertaining turn, combining clever business and patter with conspicuous musical ability. A return visit of the renowned violinist Jan Rudenyi arouses great interest; and the presentation of an effective dramatic sketch entitled V.C. is a popular and pleasing feature. A trained dog show by Mdlle. Emmy finds great favour; that popular song and dance artist, Daisy Mayer, is enjoying good success; the Sisters Jonghmanns enjoy a big local reputation for harmonious vocal work; the Nelson Sisters are clever speciality dancers; and some very fine acrobatic business is done by the Four Melons and the Three Georgis. The bill also contains an exhibition of expert trick cycling by the well-known Tourbillon Troupe.

TIVOLI.—Proprietor, Mr Thomas Barrasford; Managers, Messrs Charles Weldon and Edgar C. Waller.—This popular hall still presents a holiday appearance at every performance, and an enjoyable bill is topped by Charles Morritt, the magician, in a remarkably clever turn. Expert acrobatics by the Sulima Matrapa Troupe are a feature; and Michele and Sandro also do clever things in equilibristic acrobatics. The screaming farce Nicodemus, by Chas. Vandyke and company, is thoroughly enjoyed; a fine vocal turn is submitted by the Young American Quintet; and two excellent comedy duos are here in Starr and Jerome and Fielding and Hall. Further contributions in the acrobatic line are done by the Cattaneos; whilst Florence Hill, burlesque actress, and Ida Ross, comedienne, complete the bill.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr F. W. Wood; General Manager, Mr J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr S. Jones.—The strongest feature of the City bill for this week is a farcical comedy sketch entitled The Silly Burglar, smartly presented by the Waldrons. A fine vocal turn by the Crown Trio is deservedly successful; Onda and Artell do gymnastic feats in expert style, and the Laure Brothers are comic acrobats of ability. The comedians include Wake and Dean and Larry Lewis, both very entertaining; and other successful turns are submitted by Herbert Maden, character vocalist, and the Sisters Redfern, speciality artists; whilst the animated pictures are a most interesting lot.

LEICESTER.

ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; Acting-Manager, Mr C. D. Leigh.—Messrs Charles and Frederick Renad and company entered on the second and final week of their engagement here on Monday in the musical pantomimical comedy, The Swiss Express. As James and John Messrs Charles and Frederick Renad continue to extract fun and laughter from their parts; and Mr Wilford Bailey as Dr. Gull and Miss Dolly Doyle as Virginia, the bride, are both good. Other parts are capitally played by Mr George Martin, Rob Rollingstone; Mr Alec Wylie, Dudley Green; Mr George Power, Rhino; Mr H. Alexander, Mr Septimus Squeeze; and Miss Nellie Fern, Mrs Septimus Squeeze. The Four Brighton Girls are smart vocalists, dancers, and lance and sword experts. The novel stage effects are well worked, and the various songs and dances introduced prove attractive.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; General Manager, Mr John H. Clarke.—The Fatal Wedding, presented by Mr Bert Coote's company, is the attraction here. Mr Ernest Owttrim is an excellent representative of Howard Wilson, and Miss Helen Russell is admirable as Mabel Wilson. Mr Cecil Collins as Robert Curtis is well placed, and as Cora Williams Miss Beatrice Whitney is capital. Miss Gladys Rose Jones is to be highly complimented on her embodiment as Jessie, Miss Carrie Fenton as Bridget, Mr J. Carl Lyle as Toto, Mr Shirley Lea as Peter Schwartz, and Mr Jack Waring as O'Reilly are all deserving of special mention. In the third act specialities are introduced by Miss Gladys Rose Jones, who proves a clever reciter, and the songs by Miss M. Barber and Little Emmie are popular. Another feature which calls for special praise is the song and dance entitled "The Cake-walk in the Sky," sung by Miss Annie Shirwell and arranged by Miss Ada Russell.

PALACE THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Leonard Vidal.—A great attraction this week is Horace Goldin, an ingenious magician. It is always a pleasure to watch Goldin's show, his remarkably clever tricks being done with a smartness and deftness that prove quite bewildering. He is assisted by Miss Jean Fransiola, and has quite an ovation at the end of his turn; Richard List's performing and wrestling bears display great sagacity in their various performances; Harry Champion, a popular and versatile comedian, is scoring a success; the Labakans, acrobatic grotesques, with the wonderful dog, Folly, give a clever show; the Bostons, novelty showmen, are causing merriment with a very good turn. Little Nelusco is an adept at conjuring, and other artists entertaining with success are Miss Kitty Bell, vocalist and speciality dancer; L. B. Athol, character comedian; and Charlie Baymar, eccentric Negro comedian.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter Lapworth.—Max Sterling, illusionist, gives a good show here. The Darrell Trio appeared with an enjoyable and refined musical act; Miss May Darrell displaying exceptional cleverness on the banjo. Florence Gwynne, in her scena "The Stage-Struck Servant," is seen to advantage. Dolly, Agnes, and Maud, singing cardboard box makers, are popular. The Three Sisters Lee, acrobats, vocalists, and dancers, are smart, and other turns are contributed by Walter Wallis, comedian; Leslie Murray, magician and card manipulator; and Cecil Blanchard, character vocalist.

LEIGH.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Dewhurst; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Dewhurst.—Mr Will Hebden and company are here this week in a musical comedy, entitled A Day in Paddy's Market. Mr Will Hebden in the many rôles he undertakes is the life and spirit of the play, and displays some good character acting as Johnny Kelly, Ellen Golightly, Maggie Dooley, and Dr. Quakerino Philphaker. Mr L. Maitland as William Henry Percy Fitztalbot, a dude, is very good; Mr Charles Lyndon is well suited as Daft Jimmy; and Michael O'Hennessy is in the capable hands of Mr Charles Locke; and Miss Jennie Clare plays with much force as Mary Manners; and as Mrs O'Hennessy Miss D. Fairley is well suited.

LIMERICK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr Robert Fogerty.—Mr F. R. Benson's North Shakespearian company opened here on Monday in Twelfth Night. Mr T. A. Shannon acted with great histrionic power the rôle of Orsino, and as Sebastian Mr Alex. Begbie was most impressive. Mr James Annand looked the part of the sea captain, Antonio, and as Valentine and Curio Messrs Courtenay Foote and Guy Leigh were excellent. Mr F. Owen Chambers was a capital Sir Toby Belch, and as Sir Andrew Aguecheek the acting of Mr C. H. Croker King was cleverly artistic. Mr Henry Herbert scored as Malvolio; Mr Arthur Fayne was an admirable Jester; Miss Maud Garth was Attendant on Duke of Illyria, and also sustained the rôle of Maria with great ability; the rôle of Olivia was finely acted by that brilliant artiste Miss Roxy Barton; and Miss Catherine Boyce was graceful and pleasing as Viola.

LIVERPOOL.

ROYAL COURT THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr Arthur Lawrence.—After a week's run the pantomime has settled down into a smooth groove, and rattles along quite merrily. Mr Walter Groves seems to grow funnier as the days roll on, and his Mrs Dessicated Edwards is perhaps the best character of its particular type on the Liverpool stage. Mr Horace Mills, who was indisposed for a few days last week, is back again, creating great laughter with his idle apprentice, a rôle which contributes largely to the fun of the evening. Miss Hetty King's Dick Whittington continues to grow in popularity, and Miss Fanny Dango is an acceptable companion as Alice, the principal girl. Large contributors to the fun are Mr Edward Lewis as Alderman Fitzwarren, Miss Amy Height, and Messrs Alexandre and Hughes. The beautiful scenery and dresses are much admired.

SHAKESPEARE THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. M. Hardie; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Gaffney.—In addition to the spectacular merits of the pantomime here the array of leading artists is a strong one. Mr George Graves scores largely with his Widow Twankey, and provokes continuous laughter, having as a valuable companion Mr Frank Danby, the Abanazar. As Aladdin Miss Carrie Moore has earned golden opinions, and it would be difficult to improve upon her excellent embodiment.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. H. French; Acting-Manager, Mr Sidney Beltram.—The children's pantomime of Little Red Riding Hood continues to interest the younger members of the public. The work runs very smoothly, and the little performers exhibit a large amount of ability for their ages. Master Paddy Mills is a youthful comedian with a keen sense of the ludicrous; and his Sunny Jim makes even grown-up people laugh. Dame Trott, performed by Master Dan Dougherty, is also extremely funny; and Miss Molly Rafferty has earned popularity with her dainty Little Red Riding Hood. Her singing and dancing are very creditable for one of her age.

ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr M. Montgomery; Licensee, Mr J. G. Howard; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Montgomery, jun.—The pantomime of Little Aladdin has received considerable patronage, the north-end house being crowded nearly every evening. The production is certainly very bright and entertaining, while its mirth-provoking qualities are great. Witty Wattie Walton creates much laughter with his Widow Twankey, and Miss Marie Beresford's assumption of the part of Aladdin is very charming. The scenery is picturesque, and the latest topical songs are introduced.

LYRIC THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Henry C. Arnold; Directors of Entertainments, Messrs T. Barrasford and F. Willmott; Acting-Manager, Mr Fred Coles.—This week's attraction was originally headed by Peggy Pryde, but unfortunately this artist, through an attack of bronchitis, could not appear. The management happily were able to secure the services of Nellie Adams, whose songs were so well received last week. Barton and Ashley, who now top the bill, are again accorded a hearty reception. T. W. Royal is an expert dancer and is loudly applauded for his efforts. Coram is without doubt a clever ventriloquist and his originality is very laughable. Barton and Franklin are clever musicians and dancers. Hannah and James are smart and original foot equilibrists. Stylo is always worth watching manipulating his hoops. The Athlones as athletes come in for a good share of the applause, Harry Haytor has a good song.

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr H. Fineberg; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Simmons.—After an absence of nearly a year, The Traitor has paid a visit. Mr Harris Fineberg's No. 1 company has played the drama during the week to crowded houses. Each artiste shows high capabilities, particularly Mr Stephen E. Scanlan, "the traitor" and "No. 1"; Mr John C. Carlyle as Prince Rudolph and Colonel Nervi; Miss Isabel Hunt, who undertakes with success the man's part of Lieutenant Nicholas; Miss Anena Walton, a neat little Japanese; Mr Edwin Jenner, a capital type of a naval captain; Miss Lily Roselle, a dignified Countess; and Miss Hettie Senior, whose rôle of a Frenchwoman was played with success. Miss Ruth Shepherd, a clever young actress, is to be congratulated upon her assumption of the somewhat difficult part of Zula, the avenger.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs Carson and Granville; Manager, Mr Fred Granville; Acting-Manager, Mr F. L. Arthur.—A good attraction has been here this week in Defending His Honour, from the pen of Mr Lingford Carson, author of several successful plays. The company, which is that of Messrs Carson and Granville, is a numerous and capable one, principal among them being Mr John Davidson, who presented a capital Douglas Bryce; Mr Clifton Boyne, Mr Fred L. Arthur, who proved himself a host in the lighter side of the drama; Miss F. Melrose-Millett, Miss May Smart, Miss Dienley Dainton, and Mrs Edmond Lyons.

EMPIRE THEATRE, LIMITED.—Acting-Manager, Mr T. A. Cook.—The company engaged here for New Year week is a strong one. At the head is Fred Karno's sketch Saturday to Monday, which played by a numerous array of comedians creates uproarious laughter. Mr Fred Kitchen as John Willie Jorgs, the reluctant bridegroom, is highly diverting. M'Phee and Hill present a number of new tricks on triple horizontal bars; Bijou Russell is a comedienne and sand dancer of ability; B. F. Gallagher and Irene Wild submit a neat comedy turn, the former proving himself a capital dancer; Sid Moody and Edie Wright are a couple of smart comiques; some clever acrobatic work is performed by the Brothers Damm; and Walter Munroe renders several Irish songs which have catchy choruses. Others in the programme are George Adams, baritone; Ella Retford, comedienne; and Pia Carozzi, harp virtuoso.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—Heading the bill here this week are Walton and Ella, with their dog show. The turn is a very neat one, the animals being made to go through cake-walks, looping the loop, &c., in an astonishing style. The Hilgart Arkas Troupe present a capital all-round entertainment, entitled Scenes in a Restaurant, in which are introduced some excellent acrobatic feats, combined with humour. The Vaudeville Trio of vocalists, comedians, and dancers submit an acceptable turn, harmony and amusement being pleasingly combined; Miss Nellie Ganthony's humorous and musical sketches are very agreeable; Keen and Waller keep their audience in a continuous state of laughter with their eccentric acrobatic act, "Parson and Sport"; and others on the programme are Nancy St. John, comedienne and dancer; Harry Leybourne, comedian; Alix Lukos, with his "Pictures in the Fire"; and the Brothers Teviotdale, Scottish athletes.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr F. O'Toole.—Miss Madeline Clifford's sketch company is here this week with When Rogues Fall Out, written by J. K. Murray and Rex Pole. Miss Clifford, Mr Harry Tresham, Mr Gordon McLeod, and Mr Raymond Thomas play the chief rôles. Variety turns are given by J. W. Howley, a smart juvenile comedian and sand dancer; Houston Bros., who present a laughable turn; and Frank Mulvan, swell comique. The cake walk competitions continue to attract.

NEW PARTHENON.—Proprietor, Mr Edwin W. Smith.—This popular little place has an excellent bill-of-fare this week. The Violas, with their mysterious thought transmission act, are at the top, and create a deal of interest; the ever-welcome Johnny P. Dane brings a budget of old and new songs; Charles Best is a smart comedian, his M'Bunker, the mountebank, being very funny; Walter Adams renders a number of amusing songs; Hart and Rudd are a pair of expert dancers and comedians; George Edney sings very agreeably; and Millie Henshaw is a graceful comedienne and dancer.

PADDINGTON PALACE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr J. Kiernan.—The Gregson Comedy Trio are at the head of the bill with their laughable trifle The Dummy, which proves very diverting; Smith and Johnson, a popular pair of coloured duettists, bring some new songs; the Delamere Trio of comedy equilibrists submit a neat turn; Sam Dalton has some capital topical songs; and the Two Gems are able comediennes and character duettists. Others in the programme are Lily Lever, burlesque actress; Henriette, 'cellist-vocalist; Lilian Travellie, soubrette and vocalist; and Arthur M'Nab, juvenile vocalist.

WESTMINSTER.—Proprietor, Mr M. Montgomery.—A strong attraction is here this week in the person of Charles Matthews, described as the human kangaroo, who performs some wonderful jumps; Field and Acres, a pair of eccentric comedians, provoke great laughter with their trifle, Keep Off the Grass; the Brothers Hannaway are amusing with their patter; Harry Naylor is a man with a funny voice, and sings funny songs; Speeks and Thorne are a couple of clever comedians and dancers; and the remainder of the bill is occupied by Connie Lane, comedienne and dancer; Lilian Rigby, vocalist and dancer; and George Goldburn, comedian.

PARK PALACE.—Director, Mr James Kiernan.—George Pitt, the collier strong man and instrumentalist, is in big type here this week, and performs great feats of strength; Cambo, the musical man monkey, has an interesting speciality act; Alec Swann and Elsie Stanley provide some clever impersonations of well-known people; Bill Bailey, a quaint comedian, sings several funny songs; and others who appear are Maisie Pelham, comedienne; T. E. Gilbey, with his rocking ladder; Lil Gorman, vocalist and dancer; Bert Lytton, swell comique; Kid Johnson, club manipulator; and Little Beattie child artiste.

LONDONDERRY.

OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor, Mr W. Payne Seddon.—Mr Edmund Tearle is here this week, and is appearing in Jeanie Deans, Three Musketeers, Ingomar, and Under the Red Robe. In the first-named piece as Counsel for the Defence Mr Tearle is very good, Mr T. W. Benson plays Dumbledyke capitally, and Mr W. Raynham is a clever David Deans. Miss Kate Clinton acts Jeanie Deans with great power, and Effie Deans is finely portrayed by Miss M. Campbell.

LONG EATON.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr T. Meakin.—For the first time The Manxman has been produced in Long Eaton, and Mr Alfred B. Cross and his company have met with a pleasing reception this week. Mr Cross has a big share of the acting as Pete, and Miss Minnie Watersford has the difficult rôle of Kate. Amongst others prominent in the cast are Mr Richard Vane as Philip, Mr Henry Heller as Cregeen, and Miss Rosie Kearns as Nancy.

LONGTON.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr H. S. Howard.—The Drama of Life is being presented here by Messrs Carson and Granville's company. Mr Jerold Ord is all that can be desired as Harry Beech. Mr John J. Hooker sustains the character of Walter Beech with telling force. As Count De Fol Mr Vernon Dalby must be commended. Both the Jack Lawton of Mr Bulwer Pitt and Dave Crane of Mr Leonard Thackery are good. Miss Marie Murray fills the rôle of Master Robert Beech most satisfactorily. As Betty Black Miss Nellie Daly gives a finished performance, and Miss Cissie Bellamy plays well the sympathetic part of Sylvia Beech.

LOWESTOFT.

MARINA THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr E. A. Smith.—This week we have here the annual pantomime, which is presented as usual by Mr Peter Davey. The subject this season is Goody Two Shoes, which was received on the opening night with much appreciation by a large audience. The chorus work thoroughly well together, and the fun is well sustained. Miss Lily Lingard, in the title-rôle is favourably received, and Miss Maud Nichols is well placed as the principal boy. Great praise is due to Mr J. G. Taylor, jun. (an old Lowestoft favourite) for his capital rendering of the wicked Earl, and others deserving of special mention include Miss Ethel Beech and Messrs Harry Calden, T. C. Haverly, and Graham Morrison.

LUTON.

GRAND.—Proprietor, Mr E. Graham Falcon; Acting Manager, Mr Louis J. Beard.—My Lady Molly made her first appearance here on Monday, and met with an enthusiastic reception. This opera is ably interpreted by Mr Arthur Hart's talented company. Miss Agnes Tondy in the title-rôle sang and acted charmingly; Mr Edmund Sherras scored an immediate success as Captain Harry Romney. Much praise must be bestowed upon Miss Maude Thorne for her vivacious acting as Alice Coverdale; Mr Stuart Alexander was a distinct success as Lionel Bland; and as Sir Miles Coverdale Mr Frederick Hobbes did well. Miss Florence Wakeman acquitted herself admirably as Mdlle. Mirabeau, and the same may be said of Miss Sybil Thorne as Hester. Micky O'Dowd was most divertingly undertaken by Mr Arthur Powell. On Thursday Mr John Restall's company presented the pantomime Little Cinderella.

MACCLESFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager Mr W. K. Gatley.—As a holiday attraction we have on the boards here this week Miss Blanche St. Albans and Mr J. Leicester Jackson's company, in The Penalty of Crime. Mr Sam Arthur as George Gibbons is capable; Mr V. Stacey as Mr Glendinning does well; Mr Harold B. Ford as Michael O'Reilly is quite successful; Mr J. Leicester Jackson's portrayal of Bertie Chumbley is effective; Mr Charles Lambert as Martin Norris is powerful; Mr Fred Hodson as Guy Glendinning is responsible for a good portrayal; Miss Blanche St. Albans as Elsie Norris is a big favourite; and Miss Nellie Lambert as Peggy and Miss Phyllis Damar as Joe win favour.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Lessees, Messrs H. Bendon and J. Loader.—A good programme is presented here this week by Owen Cash, comedian; Levani and Elliott, comedy duo; H. E. Haigh, skate dancer; Miss Florence Wood, comedienne; Harry Slade, comedian; Young Igo, the boy wonder; and Dwight and Son, vocalists and dancers.

MANCHESTER.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr W. H. Broadhead; Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Messrs Mathew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond's company is the attraction here this week in the well-known American drama The Still Alarm, which has plenty of interest and sensation for lovers of this kind of fare. Mr Glenville himself sustains the heroic rôle of Jack Manley with considerable success, Miss Mary Lovett acting well in the corresponding part of Elinore Fordham. Mr Lewis Gordon also shines in a strong part; and agreeable humour is contributed by Mr Paul Lovett and Miss Connie Meadows, the latter of whom sings and dances well. The big sensation of the play is the scene in which the New York Fire brigade turns out, but all the staging is good.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—The Three Romas, gladiatorial marvels; Max Gruber, with his elephants and horses; Tom Skeers, entertainer at the piano; and Emmie White, comedienne and dancer, are the most conspicuously successful turns here this week in a capital programme, which is completed satisfactorily by Fred Clifford, operatic baritone; Fred Horsfall, humourist; Davis and Davis, in a comedy act; Ray and Les, comedy gymnasts; Will Soule, laughing comedian; and the Sisters Bartholomew, duettists and dancers.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Mr Jordison's pantomime Babes in the Wood is here this week from the Osborne Theatre, repeating its success before crowded houses.

ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr R. Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Potasch.—A recent attraction at the Queen's Theatre, The Lady's Maid, occupies the stage here this week, played by Mr Gore Ouseley's principal company. The cast is practically the same, Miss Maggie Bowman, however, being in the place of Miss Isa Bowman in the part of Jane Taylor, the maid. Mr William Pringle maintains his success as Spriggs, the waiter; Mr Carr Shirley also scoring as Biffin, while other prominent parts are well rendered by Mr Stenson Liddard, Mr Harold Eden, Mr Harry Askham, Miss Pauline Hague, and Miss Geraldine Bruce.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr R. Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr Berry.—M. Auguste Van Biene's performance in The Broken Melody (here this week) needs no eulogy at this time of day. The play is familiar to local playgoers, but continues to attract big houses. M. Van Biene is supported by a capital company, Miss Kate Hallam as Mabel and Miss Miriam Lewes as the Duchesse de Verviers being particularly successful.

HIPPODROME (HULME).—Manager Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—At the head of a good bill here this week are the Eight Lancashire Lads, whose singing and dancing are excellent. They prove a most popular turn, and are deservedly applauded. The Aeronauts are decidedly original, introducing a clever acrobatic performance with an airship setting, and their patter is highly entertaining. The Three Delanis are exceedingly smart on the trapeze and horse-shoe rings; Percy Handel gives a pleasing and meritorious performance on several wind instruments; Fred Weston is a capital comedian of the eccentric order; Charles Dixon has some funny business; and Aga, the suspended maiden, is a most bewildering mystery. Others who contribute enjoyable items are Kate Lynd, ballad vocalist; Charlton Howarth, tenor; and Kellino and Pope, in their circus act. An extra turn by an unnamed artiste proves highly successful, introducing some capital singing to banjo accompaniment, trick piccolo playing, and clever, sound mimicry.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—The items here this week include Hy. Carlton and company, in an amusing sketch entitled One Night Only; and the Coloured Troubadours, who contribute some pleasing glees and instrumental playing. A good turn is supplied by the Wiltons, duettists and dancers; Andy Higginson, vocal comedian, sings well; the Donas supply a clever equilibristic and acrobatic act; Alba and Amba are exceptionally smart jugglers; and Percy Vere and Edith Royal are responsible for some good singing and comedy. Eric Graham wins applause for his delineations of coster life, as does also Millie Harris for her pleasing singing of "sensible songs;" and Otto and Olga, in a musical comedy sketch, are well received.

TIVOLI.—Managing Director, Mr Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr Arthur B. Wilkes.—The programme is particularly good here this week, and packed houses have been the rule. Madame Ada Colley, the charming Australian prima-donna, is the chief attraction, her marvellous top-notes and delightful singing being greatly appreciated. Another excellent item is that of Madame Collard with her cleverly-trained dogs in a new and sensational act; George Daunton, actor-vocalist, sings in capital style; Gus Barra, the musical motorist, is decidedly funny; and Childie Stuart charms with her pleasing songs. Some excellent dancing is contributed by Les Sprays; Rick and Laurel are first-rate comedians and dancers; Juan and M'Que are amusing knockabouts; Flo Cecil sings a coon song with an effective dance added; and Herbert Cyril is aptly described as "Six feet six of mirth."

EMPIRE.—Managing Director, Mr Oswald Stoll Acting-Manager, Mr W. Collins.—A strong programme is provided here this week, the principal turn being the Gatling Guards, well described as the smartest-drilled body of men ever collected. W. H. Clemart, the well-known ventriloquist, also figures prominently, and equally successful are the Leonards in an entertainment comprising comedy, vocalism, and dancing; Lennie and Hast, in a high-class humorous sketch; and James Finney, assisted by Marie Finney, in their popular aquatic exhibition. Other good turns are Warden-Reed and company, in a farcical duologue; the Pass-parts, speciality dancers; the Sisters Pine, in an amusing comedy act; and a series of pictures on the Bioscope.

GRAND.—Lessees, Messrs Thomas Barrasford and Will Sley; Manager, Mr H. C. Arnold, jun.—Michael Nolan, Irish comedian, who heads the bill here this week, did not appear on the occasion of our visit, his place being taken by Gus Harris, who contributed several capital songs and was warmly received. Will Hall is an exceptionally clever animal mimic; Charles Stewart and company cause some amusement with their farcical trifle, The Water Cure; and Oswald, hand-balancer and pyramidist, contributes an exceedingly clever turn. Other good items are those of Jack and Evelyn, who execute some smart sand-dancing; R. Judge's eccentric acrobats and trick jumpers; Mollie Doon, a pleasing serio; Flo Atkins, in a musical act; and Duncan, club juggler and manipulator. The programme is further strengthened by the inclusion of some interesting animated pictures.

PALACE.—Manager and Secretary, Mr P. Watson; Assistant-Manager, Mr J. H. Stringer.—The newcomers here this week are the Black Troubadours, who sing in excellent style; Vasey and Ramsey, who dance exceedingly well; and Fred Fox, the quaint American comedian. Austin and Cowan on the night of our visit did not appear. From last week remain the big turns of the Six Brothers Luck in The Babes in the Wood, which is proving a successful draw, and Rousby's beautiful electric review, "In Paris."

MANCHESTER HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr E. P. Morgan; Assistant Acting-Manager, Mr H. Hall.—The current week's programme here includes La Loie Fuller, the greatest of dancers, in a beautiful performance with magnificent scenic effects; Leonard and François, the Toreadors, in their burlesque bull-fight; Harry Lamore, "the silent one," on the slack wire; the Barowsky Trio's humorous gymnastic scena, In the Wood; the Sisters Trentanovi, three charming and clever trapeze artists; Elsie Clare, vocalist; Arabella Allen, one of the most artistic impersonators of Dickens' characters; a second week of the great equestrian sketch, Tally-Ho! and a Bioscopic entertainment entitled "The Mistletoe Bough."

MAIDENHEAD.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Edgar Dereve and F. L. Schmitz.—The proprietors have their own company this week playing A Desperate Crime, The Soldier's Trust, and On the Brain. In the first-named piece Frank Mayne is fairly represented by Mr Philip Gilbert, and Sir Richard Thornton by Mr Harry Sims; while Mr Tom Roydan does capitally as Gilbert Trevor and Mr Albert A. Wade fills well the part of the Trainer. Miss Constance Errington is graceful and capable as Grace Thornton. The comedy relief, supplied by Mr Edgar Dereve and Miss Katie Lennox, is very amusing, and keeps the house in roars of laughter.

MARGATE.

GRAND THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr C. F. Bawtree.—Mr Charles Collette, when he appeared here on Monday with his clever associates, under the direction of Mr Lilford Arthur, in Jones's Jaunt, met with a very cordial reception. Mr Collette as Stanley Jones is, of course, the central figure of the play, and gives, as might be expected, a vivid and brilliant piece of work. Another admirably filled rôle is that of Catesby Duff, the broken-down actor turned journalist, which is capitally played by Mr Albert Fowler. Mr Ernest Wintour gives a pleasing character sketch of Smith, the friendly valet, and Mr David Sellar is excellent as Tom Breeze, particularly when disguised as the terrible King of the Wam Wams. The important part of Dollie Bond is filled with discretion and tact by Miss Ruby Chester, whose singing is much appreciated. Miss Rosamund Bury is fresh and pleasing as Kate Jones, whilst Miss Irene Ross makes a vigorous and appropriately objectionable Birdkins. Miss Mabel Luxmore is quite demure as Beadle, and Mr Edmund Beresford plays well as Percy. The comedy has been preceded each evening by the one-act comedietta The Lady Wrangler.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr E. Macknight; Business-Manager, Mr C. E. Hardy.—Mr Herbert Barrs' pantomime, Aladdin; or, The Wonderful Lamp, has been the attraction here this week. The production is well-staged, effectively dressed, and the music is bright and tuneful. Miss Kitty Clayton makes a charming Aladdin. Miss Nelly Dyson is a graceful and captivating Princess Badroulbadour, and Miss Ethel Condor is sprightly as Pekoe. Mr Eric Lealie is capital as the Emperor of China and Mr Karl Bernardo excellent as Yu-go-hang, the grand vizier. Widow Twankey finds an amusing impersonator in Mr Billy Jackson, and in conjunction with Mr Herbert Grapho as Abanazar, a tricky magician, is responsible for some hearty laughter. Mr George Harvie evokes merriment as Washee, and other characters, all ably sustained, include Genii of the Ring, Miss Ada Marjutti; Genii of the Lamp, Mr H. Barton; So-shi, Miss May Greville; Naw-tee, Miss Marie Walsh; Chee-kee, Miss C. Rose. There is a good chorus and ballet, special turns including the umbrella and fan ballet, a statue ballet; Miss Ada Marjutti, the flexible Venus; Marti and Julietta, in their flying spar act; Bernardo, comic tramp juggler; Travella, wire walker; and Grapho and Jackson, in their comic interludes. In addition to these there has been some attractive dancing by the Empire Troupe of acrobatic dancers.

MELTON MOWBRAY.

EXCHANGE HALL.—Lessee, Mr George Andrews.—Picturesque scenery, costumes, and popular music are the predominating feature of Mr George Egerton Burnett's Forty Thieves pantomime, which was well received on Monday. One and all of a well-selected company worked hard to ensure success, and their efforts met with a flattering reception. The political song-parody on "Where are you going to, my pretty maid" proved to be the hit of the evening.

MEXBOROUGH.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. H. Melton.—Mr Harry Starr and company are this week playing here in Otto the Outcast. Mr Harry Starr is exceptionally good in the title-rôle; as Vidocq Mr R. Harris plays with distinction; the Daddy Bruneau of Mr Wm. Miller is a capital effort; Mr C. Clerke scores as the Marquis De Laporte; Mr J. Turner does well as Augustine Carotte; Miss Queenie Fraser Brunner gives sympathetic treatment to the character of Zara; the Corinne Jarbeau of Miss Rita Roselyn is a commendable effort; and Miss E. Lester is interesting as Susette.

MIDDLESBROUGH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Middlesbrough Theatres, Limited; Managing-Directors, Messrs George and Charles Imeson.—Mr J. F. Elliston's pantomime, Dick Whittington, has caught on here. On all sides the production is praised, and regret is expressed that its run is necessarily a short one.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, The Middlesbrough Grand Opera House, Ltd.; Licensee and Manager, Mr T. Hopcutt.—Mr Humphrey E. Brammall's company with Cinderella continues to play to large audiences. Unfortunately, Miss Marie Loftus has been unable to appear at one or two performances through cold.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Brill; Manager, Mr J. W. Thornborrow.—Mr Joe Peterman's company in The Belle of the Orient is the great attraction here. The company is a capital one, and meets with great favour. Otto Schuman and his wonderful ponies are a great hit. The Vivians in Life's Reverie provide a capital turn, and the Royal Korries in their pot-pourri act create a good impression. The Davenports are smart illusionists, and Ada Parker, coon impersonator, finds much favour. Frank Boyce sings some capital songs, and Harry Luck, comedian, is good. "The Lost Child," shown on the Bioscope, is most laughable.

OXFORD.—Lessee, Mr Wm. Peacock; Manager, Mr Wm. Ainsworth.—The Imperial Boys' Orchestra give a delightful performance; Martin Conway is as successful as ever; and the Earles are a great hit in their banjo solos. The Three Seabornes provide a smart equilibristic turn; Miss Cissie Cutler sings good songs; Sinclair Mearns is a finished dancer; and King and Delane in a comedy sketch, At the Club, find appreciation. The Alakarno Trio of Risley acrobats, Mdlle. Roseltha, dancer, and the Bioscope complete a good programme.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr Will Smithson; Assistant-Manager, Mr Albert J. Lewis.—Messrs Dottridge and Longden's company, under the direction of Mr James Willard, is here, in The Midnight Mail. Mr George Havard makes a robust Harry Steyne, and Mary Steyne is pathetically depicted by Miss Ada Oakley. Miss Mildred Carr is lively and energetic as Nancy Brewer, and Lady Phyllis Eustace is in the capable hands of Miss Violet Clayton. Mr Fred C. Evison creates roars of laughter as Billy Brewer; Hassan Padisha is effectively played by Mr Arthur Gilroy; Mr Alec Alves as Leonard Royle gives a clever reading of the part; and Mr Chas. M'Cann as Donald Graig, Mr R. Bosco as Jasper Thornleigh, and Mr M. O. Wills as Sergt. O'Lynn are alike capable.

MOTHERWELL.

NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Resident Manager, Mr W. Gillespy.—The special attraction here for the holiday season is Mr C. P. Leviliy's company in Amorette. Mr Leon Simkin is most amusing as Dr. Napoleon Bonaparte Crow, and is ably seconded by Miss Carlota Blondin as Marina. Mr Arthur Elwyn is good as the Count of Cideaux; and Alphonse is well represented by Mr Horace Manger. Miss Adah Grey is seen to advantage as Lesbia, her singing being greatly appreciated. Jules is in the capable hands of Mr Arthur Cozens, and Mr Edward Granby plays François with good effect. In the title-rôle Miss Dot Stephens is attractive, and her clever singing and dancing are highly appreciated.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.

TYNE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr Fred C. Sutcliffe.—Cinderella is delighting crowded holiday audiences at each performance.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr F. Tearle Lingham.—Here also packed houses have been attracted by Mr Arthur's pantomime, The Babes in the Wood.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr T. W. Rowe.—For the opening week of the year Sapho is the attraction, and the manner in which the play is staged calls for praise. Miss Annie Bell makes a success in the title-part, and she is well supported.

NEW EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Director, Mr Richard Thornton; General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr E. Leslie Conroy.—The leading item in the bill here is the performance of the sketch, Lord Harkaway, in which a glove fight occasions plenty of excitement in the audience. George Newburn is again well to the fore in his imitations of well-known singers, and Mendel, the blind pianist, gives further proof of his skill. Acrobatic cyclists in the Aurora Troupe are well received, and acceptable contributors to the programme are also Margaret Ashton, the American girl; Harry Martell, comedian and dancer; Mueller and Coyne, variety entertainers; Leona Dare, in her trapeze speciality; Rastus and Banks, in a sketch, The Major and the Maid; and Tambo and Tambo, tambourinists.

OLYMPIA THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Thornton and Bacon; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr Nelson Barry.—Mr E. J. Lampard's melodrama, Between the Lights, is being played here. The piece is acted by a good all-round company, and particular mention is due to Messrs George Lyttleton, Herbert Pearson, Charles H. Fenton, Misses Kate Froude, Nesta Sandford, and Florence Barnes for their meritorious impersonations.

GRAND THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Business-Manager, Mr Ernest W. Bacon.—In Dahomey remains here for another week, and crowded houses continue to be attracted by the many entertaining features of the popular Negro musical comedy.

PAVILION THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr Thos. Barrasford; Business Manager, Mr Will H. Boardman.—The Six Brothers Luck's company is appearing here in the melodramatic pantomime, The Hermit, the performance of which provides capital entertainment. Another lively sketch is that of the Densmores, entitled Early Morning in the Kitchen. Brinn displays strength and cleverness in his manipulation of cannon shells, gun carriages, &c. The Paxton Trio are very smart acrobats and head-to-head balancers; and other noteworthy turns are those of the O'Learys, in their Oriental Burlesque Act; the Toreadors, in a burlesque Spanish bull fight; Sid Bandon, character comedian; Maud Caswell, speciality dancer and barrel jumper; and Adolph Ernest, in his speciality.

NEWPORT.

LYCEUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Sidney Cooper.—D'Oyly Carte's No. 1 company is here for another week and on Monday The Yeomen of the Guard was the attraction. Miss Jessie Rose played Phœbe Merrill with a humour that was bright and fascinating, Miss Norah Maguire was winsome as Elsie Maynard, and Mr Fred Billington in the grim humour of Wilfred Shadbolt was an interesting figure. Mr C. H. Workman in his impersonation of Jack Point, the stuttering jester, was everything that could be desired. Other parts are in capable hands and the opera is very prettily mounted and dressed.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Moss Empires, Limited; Managing-Director, Mr O. Stoll.—Tilly Bebe, with her performing bears, is the star turn here. Hardeen, the expert handcuff manipulator, is accorded a warm reception. Morton and Elliot introduce some clever results of paper manipulation and a very clever troupe of trick cyclists are the Seltina's, who are warmly applauded. Other turns are Wilson Hallett, Auto and Mobil, in a funny motoring sketch; Virto and his daughter Irene, in a musical act; Lily Marney, and the Bioscope.

NORTHAMPTON.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr W. J. Andrews.—The Brothers Lavelle, comic acrobats, are the special line of this week in the pantomime of Robinson Crusoe.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr Robert Barton.—Reba Kaufman is one of the cleverest little dancers that our energetic proprietor has brought here, and Jean Seul, the Indian mystery, fairly astounds everyone with his marvellous tricks. Franz A. Crisp achieves success as an actor-vocalist; Bob Stephenson is a good comedian and dancer; George Helm and Emmie Cozens furnish an amusing act, entitled The Doctor and the Patient; and Lade Henderson, descriptive and character comedian; J. H. Bowman, a tricky dancer; and the Moxons, hand-balancers and equilibrists, complete a good programme.

NORTH SHIELDS.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Jefferson; General Manager, Mr Horace Lee; Secretary, Mr Gordon Jefferson.—Mr E. Hill-Mitchelson's company, with Revenge, has proved a great holiday attraction here this week. As Prince Orloff Mr E. Hill-Mitchelson is seen to advantage, Mr Wellesley Draper as Captain Loris Vanessa is clever, Mr Theo Balfour scores heavily as the King, Mr Arthur M'Cullock makes the most of the part of Count Massant, and Mr Fred Yarnold is well placed as Jim Jennings. Miss Violet Carlyle as the Queen is worthy of high praise, Miss Frances White is smart as Draga Vanessa, Miss Lelgarde Atheling does well as Luska, and Miss Ada Douglas as Olga and Miss Alice Barber as Cora Brook play their parts satisfactorily.

NEW CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Wm. Mould.—Mr J. W. Hall, comedian, is the great attraction here and his reception has, as usual, been a very cordial one; Musical Silvo is clever; and Kavados is a smart juggler. Miss Beattie Worth, comedienne; Mr Sam Shipley, comedian; and other attractions are received with favour.

NORTHWICH.

CENTRAL THEATRE.—Proprietress, Mrs S. Golden; Manager, Mr Percy Webb.—Mr Gordon Starkey and company paid us a welcome return visit for the first three nights of this week in A Message from Mars. Mr Cyril Austin-Lee stands out pre-eminently successful in his admirable delineation of the part of Horace Parker, and the Tramp of Mr Percy Tyler is distinguished by its naturalness. Mr A. Collins-Ralfe does good work as Arthur Dicey, and Dr. Chapman was well presented by Mr G. R. Peach. Mr Lockhart's Messenger being a fine performance. Miss Violet Auberies played the part of Miss Parker with acceptable dignity; Miss Florence Heather was seen to advantage as Mrs Clarence; and Miss Edith Cuthbert displayed quiet strength and pathos as Minnie Templars.

NORWICH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr Fred Morgan.—Mr J. F. Elliston's company, under the direction of Mr Charles Hermann, is here this week with In Old Kentucky. Mr J. George Steel as Frank Harley is very successful; Mr Alfred G. Baukes is good as Colonel Pebley Beauchamp; Mr Eric Hudson's interpretation of Joseph Grafton is commendable; whilst Mr Gerald Kennedy acts with force as Joe Lorey. Mr Harry Leander as Neb is very good. Mr Charles Gibbs as Ephraim and Mr George Perkins as Tom Tinman are responsible for a great deal of fun, and with Jimmie James as Bastus and Will Whittaker give a capital variety entertainment, and receive well-merited applause. Miss Edith Halford is very pleasing as Alethea Harley; Miss Beatrice Shirley is good as Barbara Grafton; Miss Ethel Smith appears as Mrs Van Astor; and Miss Amy F. Herman scores a great success in the part of Madge Brierley. The representation of the great race is most exciting and very realistic.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr F. W. Fitt.—A capital programme is presented this week, and heading the bill are Woolford's circus of performing ponies, dogs, and comical donkey, Sam Sly, who give a very neat performance. Mr and Mrs Edward Lucas find much favour in their impersonation of various Dickens characters. The Bros. Edgar, comedians, are amusing; the Vernon troupe are very smart xylophone performers; the Avrignys are clever Japanese jugglers; Miss Agnes Molteno is a charming ballad vocalist; Dave Wallace, eccentric comedian, and Marie Tilley as a comedienne and dancer, have good receptions; the Bros. Veroney are also attractive for their sketch, The Lazy Coalman.

NOTTINGHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Managing, Mr Howard Finney.—Robinson Crusoe now works smoothly and well, and large audiences testify their appreciation of Mr Arthur's production. A new song is introduced by Miss Madeline Du Val entitled, "John Bull and his sweethearts."

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Charles P. Cooke.—Goody Two Shoes has caught on here, and all the artists are warmly applauded for their efforts.

KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, A. W. Bull.—Messrs George Mitchell and John Belton's company is presenting The Conscript here. Mr Mitchell gives a deep and powerful performance as Karl Truevitch. Miss Mary Dawson is an artistic Nadia, and shows much dramatic intensity. Mr Howell Travers depicts with energy the character of Ivan Manloff, and Mr John Belton plays well as Doggervitch. Miss Elizabeth Doone makes a pathetic Catherine Silka, and Miss Ivy Chandos as Wanda offers a welcome diversion with her song. Mr F. H. Constable is duly severe as Count Hardiski, and good work is done by Miss Bella Tilbury, and Messrs Harry Tilbury, Frank Harvey, and Harold Holmes.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Hatton Wharton.—The Fighting Parson is as attractive as ever here. Mr George Gray again portrays the popular cleric, and his fine acting shows a thorough grip of the part. He is capitally supported by a large company. Alf Gibson's quiet method and humorous ditties are exceedingly taking, and he has an uproarious welcome. A clay modelling turn by Dome is both clever and humorous. Nellie Coleman's character impersonations cause amusement, and hearty laughter is evoked by Phillips and Terry in the sketch A Hundred Years Hence. The Howards demonstrate their smartness by skilful cornet playing; the Lumars provide some very creditable acrobatic novelties; and the Sisters Devona submit a charming aerial act. Alice Maydue, comedienne, and Gardiner, eccentric comedian, contribute songs successfully.

NUNEATON.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietors, the Theatre and Entertainments Company, Limited; Managing-Director, Mr A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter J. R. Bryan.—Mr Lawrence Brough is supported by an excellent company in The Lady of Ostend, which is bristling with humour and full of amusing situations. Mr Brough as the volatile Frenchman submits a delightful character study; the unfortunate Dick Whortles is represented by Mr Harry Hampson; and the amusing father-in-law is taken by Mr Percy Marshall; the prize-fighting husband being excellently presented by Mr Edmund Gurney. Interest is naturally centred in the character of Dorothy Whortles, a part very ably impersonated by Miss Kate Milford. On Friday The Cruise of the Saucy Sally was given.

OLDHAM.

ROYAL, LIMITED.—Manager, Mr Ernest Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr George Knowles.—An excellent variety company is at this popular place of entertainment. The Karno Trio create much merriment and laughter by their funniosities in a sketch, The Travellers' Rest. Billy Richardson, stump orator, is one of Oldham's old favourites. A smart and novel turn of hand-balancing is submitted by the Three Laurels. A novel juggling entertainment is given by Valoni. Lieut. Aibini is well received in his smart illusion, "The Lady in Black." The Original Zaros give a clever display of tumbling and balancing, for which they are heartily appreciated. Arthur Elvy is successful as a singer of rollicking songs, while Slade Murray is a vocalist of much merit. Maud Clifton is an excellent soprano vocalist.

EMPIRE, LIMITED.—Manager, Mr Ernest Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr Hulme.—The pantomime, Aladdin, is still being played with great success at this theatre. Mr Fred Carey, Mr Fred Graham, Miss Mimi Fisher, Miss Cassie Walmer, Miss Harriet Fawn, Brothers Brookes, and Les Belles Americaines have become very popular, as their respective receptions indicate.

GAIETY, LIMITED.—Manager, Mr E. J. Dexter.—An excellent programme is submitted here this week. Boswell's Circus occupies premier position with his educated ponies, donkey, and dog. Walter Whitney is an up-to-date comedian; Carl Howard, the crazy conjuror, is well received; Akbar is successful in a gymnastic entertainment; Miss Beatie Foster, serio, scores; Miss Bella Leaburn does well with her répertoire of popular songs; and Raymond's Bioscope is also an attraction.

OXFORD.

NEW THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Lucas, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr C. C. Dorrill.—Mr Arthur Carlton and Mr H. Armitage's company is here this week with the popular play In the Ranks. Mr Edward Lloyd gives a powerful performance of Ned Drayton; Mr Herbert Cecil is excellent as the villainous Gideon Blake; Mr Archie W. Chappell is an interesting and effective Captain Holcroft; Mr J. E. Page is a realistic and convincing Richard Belton; and Mr Arthur Byron is highly amusing as Joe Buzzard. Miss Harriet Russell causes much laughter as Mrs Buzzard; Miss Daisy Norman does well as Barbara Herrick; and Miss Edith Blair-Staples gives a powerful and realistic rendering of Ruth Herrick.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Albany Ward; Acting-Manager, Mr H. G. P. Wells.—Mr C. Watson Mill's company, including Miss Rosalind Tate, is occupying these boards with A Wrecker of Men. Mr C. Watson Mill is to be congratulated on his fine performance as Jim Murley; Mr Percy Horton plays in good style as Guise Strange; Mr J. W. Ryder is a Jew of the best type as Ezekiel Isaacs; and Mr George Harvey is self-possessed as Railton. Miss Victoria May portrays Doris Melville with feeling, and Miss Gracie Garside makes a sprightly Vavasole Slopper. Miss Rosalind Tate is admirably adapted to the title-rôle.

PENTRE.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Owners, Messrs Carlton and Duckworth; Manager, Mr Sam Duckworth; Resident-Manager, Mr Eugene Hardie.—Miss Winifred Maude's company is here this week in The Sins of a City. Mr Ivan Gore is effective as the old salt, Donald M'Ivor; Sandy M'Donald is in the capable hands of Mr Horace E. Herbert; the dual-rôle of Joe and Jasper Woodleigh is cleverly interpreted by Mr J. W. Baxter; Mr Leslie Beaufort as Ralph Blackwater gives a powerful delineation; and Mr Victor Du Cane is exceedingly good as Isaac Levi. Miss Marie Lyons as Lesbia gives a capital impersonation, and Miss Winifred Maude deserves praise for her charming portrayal of Seaweed.

PENZANCE.

ST. JOHN'S HALL.—The Gay Parisienne paid its first visit here this week. Mr Chas. Macdona's company, under the able direction of Mr R. E. Sullivar, proved itself thoroughly capable in every particular. The audience testified its unbounded delight in loud shouts of laughter and continuous applause. Miss Alexina Glenroy as the Gay Parisienne captivated all by her chic, her singing, dancing, and winsome mannerisms being perfectly delightful. Miss Madge Soutter as Ruth was exceedingly funny throughout. Miss Hazel Hood was capable as Mrs Honeycombe, and Miss Ethel Wade as Norah looked her part and sang her numbers very sweetly. Miss Florence Brewster, Miss D. Macmahon, Miss Doris Cammell, and Miss Freda Welbourne as Major Forsdyke's daughters were a dashing and up-to-date quartet. Owing to the indisposition of Mr Tom May, the character of Ebenezer Honeycombe was undertaken at short notice by Mr Cecil Lloyd, the hard-working stage-manager, and he acquitted himself in a thoroughly satisfactory manner. Mr Tom Kennard lent a smart appearance and a capital voice to the rôle of Tom Everleigh, whilst Mr Charles Maynard as M. Pompier worked remarkably hard. The reception of his clever dancing, good singing, and general conception of the volatile Frenchman left no room for doubt as to his ability. A notable feature of the production was the introduction of the Imperial Glee Singers, Messrs Jones, Reid, Kennard, and Fitz-James, their cultivated voices blending so harmoniously as to elicit frequent encores. A good word must be said for the able musical direction of Mr H. Larence.

PERTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Aldridge.—The New Barmaid is proving an attraction here this week. Mr Leslie Austin is the Captain Lovebury, and his singing and acting are much appreciated. Mr Arthur Rodney does well as Colonel Claymore. Mr Joseph B. Montague is the cause of great merriment in the rôle of Bertie White. Mr Alexander Loftus proves himself a clever entertainer in the rôle of William White. Mr Frank Melroyd as Monr. Bonsor succeeds entirely. Mr Norman Bowyer as Braddy and Miss Winnie Preston as Gussie are seen to advantage. Messrs George Roslyn, F. Clinton, and E. Lockings, in their respective parts of inspector and the club waiters, James and Henry, aid greatly the success. Miss Jean Gilmour as the dignified Lady Moulton is excellent. Miss Violet Osmund is capital as Dora Heather, Miss Hilda Blanche impresses the audience favourably as Brenda Louth, and Miss Nance O'Neil is charming as Ethel Joy.

PLYMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Langdon Lee.—Dick Whittington is drawing good houses, and the second week of its production witnessed an all-round improvement. The harlequinade, which is run on the good old-fashioned lines, is a feature which the public much appreciated. All the principal characters have established themselves favourites, and encores are plentiful nightly. Miss Margaret Ruby is one of the most popular pantomime "boys" who has visited the west, and Miss May Augus-Young is as pretty as she is clever. Fun fast and furious is provided by Mr Pat Waddock and Mr Frank Weir.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy Williams.—The Earl and the Girl is still running here this week, and Mr William Greet's company is full of good qualities. Both Mr Reginald Schwitz and Mr Alec Fraser are prominent, and their songs take capitally. Miss Mary Fraser, Miss Maud Aston, and Miss Cynthia Carey contribute greatly to the success of the piece.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton.—The pantomime of Sinbad the Sailor is full of good things in the way of up-to-date songs, dances, and other attractions. In the title-rôle Miss Rita Leslie is very effective, and is well supported by Miss Kate Holloway, comedy of the screaming order being supplied by Mr A. E. Andrews, Mr J. Payne, Mr H. Ugar, Mr L. Karno, and others.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Directors, Messrs Livermore Brothers; Manager, Mr J. Field.—A strong programme is being submitted here this week. Ahrensmeyer, the cowboy hypnotist, gives an extraordinary and amusing performance, his efforts attracting a lot of attention. From similar entertainments his differs materially. Zaid, the Spanish Moor, is certainly the greatest contortionist that has been seen locally. The Herald Comedy Four are capable vocalists; Spry and Monti are humorous and clever; and a like tribute must be paid to Cliff and Kean. Other good turns are Kit Keen, the copper-coloured comedian; Dan Conroy, comedian; and Vernon's animated pictures.

PLYMOUTH PALACE OF VARIETIES has a popular, painstaking, and progressive manager in Mr J. Field, who was this Christmas the well-deserved recipient of a handsome gold cigarette case, subscribed for by many of the patrons of the stalls, and presented to Mr Field as a mark of their appreciation of his ability and courtesy. With comparative youth on his side, an abundance of energy, a plentiful supply of ideas and tact, Mr Field should have a bright future.

PONTYPRIDD.

ROYAL CLARENCE THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Milton Bode; Business-Manager, Mr Rex Dooley.—The attraction this week at the above theatre is Mr Fred Bulmer's company in Sentenced For Life. Lieutenant Roy Stillwell is finely taken by Mr Harry Lloyd. Mr Ernest Vaughan wins encomiums as Capt. Paul Derrick; Mr Richard A. Greene scores as the Rev. Martin Orris; Mr T. C. Glenville is worthy of praise as Sir Wm. Stillwell; Mr Frank Zara ably portrays Percy M'Gentle; and Messrs A. Marchant and Edward Finley create roars of laughter as Bill Sharkey and Toby respectively. Miss Florence Trevlor is decidedly good as Kate Rennel; Miss Madge Douglas impersonates Adele Grey admirably; and Lady Stillwell is ably portrayed by Miss Mary Dolby.

PORTH.

POOLE'S OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr W. Bynorth.—On Monday evening Messrs Perry and Stanton's company presented the sporting musical comedy drama in three acts entitled The Sporting Girl. Mr T. Gilbert Perry is a lively Mr Penton Hook; Mr Charles Sanders plays the part of Jack Garling with success; George Drewitt has a capital representative in Mr James H. Sterling; Mr Marcus Grey gives a decidedly good rendering of Marco Castellino; Miss Maggie Stanton is seen to advantage as Kitty Fitzroy; Miss Eloina Stuart is a pleasing Amy Bedoe; Miss Marjorie Tennant makes the most of the part allotted her as Mrs Owen; Mr H. Bolton is most amusing as Rev. John Bunyan; and Miss Jennie Hackett and Miss Betsy Brownlie are loudly applauded for their introduction of the cake walk in act three.

HIPPODROME AND UP-TO-DATE CIRCUS.—Sole Proprietress, Miss Ada Alexandra; General Manager, Mr E. Pryce.—The programme provided here this week is headed by Atlas and Vulcans, athletes, who give an excellent performance; R. C. Note, the swell comedian, is well received; the Four Rosaires contribute a capital turn; Florrie Claribell, tyrolean vocalist and top boot dancer, meets with a hearty reception; the Boleros, three bar comedians, score a success; Rabbie Greive, the singing ventriloquist, affords keen delight; Mdlle. Devena, the queen of clubs, meets with approval; the Three Darlans, aerial marvels, are decidedly clever; John Fossett, with his troupe of dogs, horses, and mules, give a pleasing performance; Daisy Devonport, serio, is a capital turn; the Devere Troupe are also very successful; Rabbit and Hairpin, the two clowns, are responsible for some genuine amusement.

PORTSMOUTH.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr T. E. Agate.—The pantomime Dick Whittington, of which a full notice appears in another column, has had another very successful week, and is running with great smoothness. New business having been introduced, there is every sign of its popularity continuing.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr Armstrong Bell.—The Girl from Kay's is still going strong here, full audiences being convincing evidence that the efforts of the artists are appreciated.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Secretary, Mr W. Pratt.—The Seven Leopolds, in their acrobatic acts, top the bill here this week. The Brothers Ralston, character comedians, are good. The singing of Dora Lyrie, refined comedienne, is received with approval. Howard and Collinson, with their original absurdity, The Porter and the Parcel, are a capital turn. Millie Howell, comedienne, has had a cordial greeting for her well-rendered songs. Lee and Bentley, with their sketch, Castles in the Air, create roars of laughter. Included in the programme are Tom Parker, eccentric comedian; Julia Feavlour, burlesque actress and dancer; Sisters Hall, vocalists; and Payne's Bio-Photoscope.

PRESTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr Stephen Pritt.—Milton Rays' company is concluding a successful two weeks' engagement here in the pantomime, Beauty and the Beast, which moves along with inspiriting gaiety from start to finish. Miss Maidie Scott has deservedly become a favourite in the rôle of Silver Button. Miss Nellie Merton as Beauty and Miss Maude Jay as Prince Greatheart also fill their parts with distinct success. Mr Rolando Martin's impersonation of Sammy keeps the audience in a continuously merry mood. Mr George Rydon as Sir Macintosh Mizzletoe and Mr Edwin Garth as Wilhelmina contribute largely to the fun. The comic boxing of Fyne and Hurley evokes roars of laughter. The Four Eldorados are very popular in their special dances, and the Hayes Brothers, comedians and dancers, and Wallau, the boy juggler, gain unstinted applause.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Sawyer and Woodruffe.—Miss Daisy De Roy's gorgeous pantomime company in Dick Whittington and His Cat is occupying this theatre this week. As Alice Fitzwarren Miss Daisy De Roy is quite a charming favourite. Mdlle. Lucretia in the rôle of Dick Whittington contributes some capital songs and proves her ability as an expert top-boot dancer. Little Jupiter takes the part of Tommy (Whittington's cat) cleverly, and also excels in the trapeze act, assisted by Miss Beatrice Tiley. Mr Paul Courtney is a capable Alderman Fitzwarren. Jack, his idle apprentice, as taken by Mr J. C. Bland, is most amusing. Mr Joe Bond, in the character of Eliza, the cook, provides some mirth-provoking business; and Rose Walmsley's Star Quartet are greatly appreciated for their graceful dances. Captain Shipwreck and the Bo'sun (the Barrasford Boys) assist in creating laughter.

RADCLIFFE.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Geo. T. Sante; Acting-Manager, Mr Jas. Boothman.—Mr Bert Coote's company is here in The Fatal Wedding. Mr F. S. Herbert Humber plays the part of Howard Wilson in an excellent manner; and Mr Oliver Rogers is strong as Robert Curtis. Mr Charles Kenny as Toto and Miss Harriet Clifton as Bridget keep the house in a good humour. Mr Victor Widdicombe scores as Peter Schwartz; and the same remark applies to Mr Jack Waring as O'Reilly. The acting and singing of Miss Marjorie Lawrence, who plays Jessie, are much admired. Miss Nora Hoffe displays appropriate earnestness as Mabel Wilson; and Miss Gertrude Harrison is admirable as Cora Williams. The dancing and singing of a number of children well deserve a word of praise.

RAMSGATE.

AMPHITHEATRE.—Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General Manager, Mr Henry Bowman.—In Dark Siberia, the sensational Anglo-Russian drama, has been presented in capital form by Mr F. Jarman's company this week. Mr W. T. Rily is a successful and popular hero as Capt. Victor Gordon, and in very pleasing style Miss Carlotta Anson impersonates the rôle of Princess Orloff. The villainous element is well represented by Mr Wilson Howard as Major Waroff. Comedy is effectively infused into the play by Mr L. Weston as Petrovitch, a Sergeant, and by Miss Linda Riley as Ivanova, maid to the Princess. Miss Cecilia Ransome admirably fulfils the requirements of the part of the Messenger, Paul Gregorvitch, and Miss Ethel Bickham is a charming Sonia Gordon.

RAWTENSTALL.

GRAND THEATRE.—Co-Proprietors and Lessees, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr J. Ellis Miller.—Messrs Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard's company opened here on Monday with Why Men Love Women, and gave a good interpretation of the play. As Violet Livingstone Miss Annie Saker showed exceptional talent; Mr Alfred Paumier as Gerald Fielding gave an excellent impersonation; Mr Bensley Evans as George Staniloff was sufficiently powerful as the villain of the play; and as Tommy Fitzherbert Mr W. S. Hardy submitted a hearty rendering of the character. Mr Edwin Lever as the Maharajah of Bolore was interesting. As Orlando Figgins Mr Harwood Roberts was distinctly successful, and he and Miss Marie Glynne must be credited with many comicalities.

REIGATE.

PUBLIC HALL.—Mr George Elmer's clever company presented Dick Whittington here this week to greatly pleased audiences. The principal characters were:—Dick, Miss Queenie Allnutt; Alice, Miss Freda Clare; Fairy, Miss May Nelson; Fitzwarren, Mr Arthur Danville;

READING.

ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr W. E. Barnett; Secretary, Mr Reginald Taylor.—The pantomime of Sinbad the Sailor is having a successful run at this theatre. It has been produced in elaborate style by Messrs F. J. Little and Fred Darcy, this being their fourth annual production here. The "book" has been written by Mr Frank Ayiton, the well-known story being adhered to, with the interpolation of many topical allusions and whimsicalities; and the music, which is specially composed and arranged by Mr John Gregory, contains many bright numbers, including the inevitable "Blue Bell," which is sung with great taste by Miss Kitty Brewster, The scenery is specially painted by Messrs J. E. Davies and Alfred Whyatt, and is very effective. The costumes by Miss Ida M'Donald and Hetty Bass are rich and tasteful, and the mechanical effects by Mr J. W. Cane are well arranged. Miss Lily Beverley plays the title-rôle in a very spirited and engaging style, and her singing is highly appreciated. Miss Kitty Brewster is an attractive Zorilda; Mr A. G. Hart is highly amusing as Tinbad; Mr Willie Black as Mrs Sinbad and Happy Attwood as the diminutive Captain Cook are both very popular; the Warlocks create abundant amusement as the mate and bo'sun, Baccah and Stoppah; Mr Fred Dobito and Miss Flora Brixton play and sing well as the Emperor and Princess Zaidre; the Demon of the Deep is ably impersonated by Mr Victor Wallace; Tiny Tim appears as the Old Man of the Sea; Mr T. Warley as Davy Jones; Miss Cissie Conyers is graceful and pleasing as the Good Fairy; and a charming bevy of ladies appear as Sailors, Fishermen, Guards, and Slaves. The incidental attractions include the Brewster Quartet of dancers, who go through a very effective series of lance and sword exercises; the Wallys, in their wonderful comedy juggling act; and the Lavelle Brothers, the quaint comedy acrobats.

TOWN HALL.—Mr Joseph Poole's myrioramic entertainment is still doing first-class business here. The myriograph pictures are excellent, and an attractive variety show is given by a talented company of artistes.

REDHILL.

MARKET HALL.—The British Bioscope Company, presenting Buffalo Bill's Wild West Exhibition in animated pictures, occupied this hall the past week. The variety turns include Gilroy, lecturer and ventriloquist; Mr Tom Carrick, Miss Lily Carrick, and others.

ROCHDALE.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr W. Robinson; General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling; Resident Manager, Mr Charles Clucas.—Home, Sweet Home, is the attraction here this week. Mr Frank Lindo submits a telling portrayal of the honest and faithful Stephen Armitage; Mr Geo. Jervis makes a typical old sailor as David Armitage; Capt. Gerald Gambier is prominent with a capital impersonation of the Duke of Ancaster; and Mr Wilson Coleman cleverly acts the part of Lucas Lyle. Miss Gertrude Bingham is amusing as Sybil Fay, and Miss Marion Wakeford acts with power the rôle of Joan.

CIRCUS OF VARIETIES AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs Smith and Lee; Business-Manager, Mr S. L. Lee.—Mr John H. Tomkinson's Royal Gipsy Children are proving a strong attraction here this week. An excellent and varied programme is submitted, and specialities are introduced by Elsie Rubina on the wire; the Lizette Troupe of lady acrobats; the Florida Troupe; Fred M'Lean, comedian; the Musical Keiths; and the Mister Glee Party.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Thomas Hargreaves; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Hargreaves.—A capital programme is being presented to the patrons of this increasingly popular place of amusement. The Three Juggling Geraldos submit bewildering and clever club juggling; De Henau paints with his toes a remarkably clever landscape; and J. P. Carroll is a tambourine player of exceptional ability and effect. Other attractions are submitted by Richard Mentos, equilibristic trick mandolinist; Mabel La Blanche, descriptive vocalist; Mdlle. Bena Aladina with her trained cockatoos; Leighton and Mona, the tramp and the soubrette; and the Empire Bioscope.

ROTHERHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr W. Manning.—Mr Robert Perris's company is here this week for the first time with A Fight for Millions, a spectacular musical comedy. Mr V. Carlyle is smart as Tom Manley; Mr J. Newton Cowling is seen to advantage as Hudson Rivers; Mr Horace Booth is a capable Richard Dudley; and Mr Robert Perris as Willie Neverwork, a rough diamond, scores heavily. Mr Karl H. Edwards as Solomon Moses gives a capital rendition of the part; Mr Bert Goodfellow is deserving of mention as John Leveredge; and Mr Georges Hodges does well as Robert Mackenzie. Miss Eva Purcell is pleasing as Pearl Rivers; Miss Florence Lovell is an effective Mrs Hudson Rivers; Miss Elma Turner is seen to advantage in a sympathetic rôle as Helen Dudley; and Miss Lottie Pearce is sprightly as Betty and Mag Brady. Miss Dora Lyons is a merry Little Madge.

RUGBY.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr E. Parker Royston.—This week Mr Arthur Gibbons is presenting a pretty and well-mounted pantomime, Beauty and the Beast. Miss Linda Keston as Beauty gives a graceful and vivacious rendering; Miss Gertrude Wright as the Fairy Amoroso is charming; Miss Marie Beaufort as Prince Charming wins much applause for her graceful acting and accomplished singing; Margaret Romney is very good as Malicia, the Spirit of Strife; and as Dandy Veller Miss Janet Lawton is excellent in every way. Mr Sydney Vereker is amusing in the part of Ko-Hop, and as Maude Hannah Mr Albert E. Mann provokes much merriment. Mr Will Holland and Mr Tom Banks as the twins give a clever and humorous representation, and Miss Fursy Mills, Miss Rosie Knott, and the Sisters Hula give a smart exhibition of acrobatic dancing.

FOSSETT'S HIPPODROME.—The entertainment this week is of the usual high order. Mr Robert Fossett, jun., Mr John Irvin, Mdlle. Fossett, Miss Marie, and Miss Pinder all repeat their former successes. The additional turns are a very amusing sketch, presented by the Brothers Smart and Miss Agnes Le Bland, and one called Old Joe's Ghost, both of which are much appreciated. Miss Agnes Le Bland is also very successful as a serio and dancer. Charles Beckett introduces several fresh items, as also does Monr. Otto.

RUNCORN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr H. W. Caddick.—Mr J. Rice Cassidy and company are here in Dan the Rake, meeting with the same huge success as heretofore. Mr J. R. Cassidy is, as usual, excellent as Dan; Mr Frank Copeland is still the ideal of a straightforward Britisher in his embodiment of Lieut. Charles Kavanagh; Mr Frank Orchard shows to considerable advantage as Colonel Flamer; Mr Chas. A. Crosby is quaint as Achille; Mr Stephen Crossley gives an entirely favourable study of General Lake; Miss Lilian Clare as Madge continues to obtain a very fair share of the praise bestowed; Miss Florence Halton scores as Helen Flamer; Miss Ada Roscoe is also to be commended on a painstaking Mrs Donelly.

SALFORD.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr Harold Goulden.—Messrs Fred Moule and E. D. Nicholls' company is presenting The Life that Kills. Kendal Croat is well played by Mr Fred Moule; Miss Cathleen Cavanagh cleverly presents Brenda Croat; Miss Marie Menzies is seen to advantage as Laura Linden; a very good study is that of the Rev. Theodore Rodney by Mr Francis Serle; Mr M. Maud deserves praise for his portrayal of Valentine Telford; Little Violet is good as the crippled child, May Linden; and Mr W. Drury as Samuel Flattoote, Mr A. Hall Menzies as Jack Jolliffe, and Miss Lucy Murray as Johanna Dicks combine successfully in the comedy business.

REGENT THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford; Licensee, Mr James M. Hardie; Secretary and Manager, Mr C. Shayler.—Stalg's motor sensation, looping the aerial circle in mid-air, heads the bill here, and some pretty fairy dancing is done by Lind? Miss Raffin's troupe of performing monkeys go through wonderful trapeze work; Gus Harris, Hebrew delineator, sings himself into great favour; "Fun at a Railway Station," is an amusing act by Farley, Rennie, and Farley; Marquis Iton is a clever equilibrist and strong-jawed man; there are some amusing animated pictures; and acceptable turns are also given by Dan Llewellin, tenor vocalist; Geo. Rennie, ventriloquist; and Amiel, a boneless contortionist.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr J. B. Taylor.—Gus Garrick, comedian, is an excellent turn in an excellent programme; Gladys Mavius, Canadian coon, obtains much applause for her efforts; Mdlle. Yetta is very clever in her graceful speciality wire act; the Herslebs, aerial comedians, are good; Almon, a hand balancer, does some smart work; and other successful turns are those by Harland and Rollinson, in their musical comicalities; Harry Thurston, in impersonations of leading artistes; Rice, Rose, Davis, and the Half, in their uproarious comedy act Ferguson's Dog; the Four Royal Welshmen, in excellent glees; and Beattie Kendal, dashing characteristic vocalist, concluding with the interesting animated pictures.

L. AND N. W. PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietress, Mrs S. A. Higham; Manager, Mr Sam Higham.—A pleasing entertainment here includes Mr Walter Dunn, comedian; Miss May Turner, comedienne; Madame Allas, lady baritone; and Mr Sam Higham, vocal comedian.

BRIDGE HOTEL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Tom Bradbury.—There is plenty of variety in the galaxy of talent here this week, including Mr John Chesney, concertina soloist; Mr Will Charlton, patter comedian; Mr James Conroy, comedian; and Mr Lester Lyons, baritone vocalist.

SHEERNESS.

COLISEUM.—Sole Proprietor, Mr T. C. Dorling; Manager, Mr Chas. Melvin.—A capital all-round company here includes the Four Estrellas, in their clever gymnastic entertainment. D. W. Watson, cornet soloist, has a hearty reception, and Miss Daisy Morrell, comedienne, is much admired. Johnny Hanson and company produce another of their favourite sketches, and are distinctly amusing. The Two Kays, vocalists, are very successful, and Chris Baker, comedian, is deserving of special mention. The programme concludes with an interesting display of animated pictures.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr P. Reymond.—The excellent company here includes the Daintons (Arthur and Eve), in the comedy sketch, One Too Many. Mr Chas. Osmond, tramp lightning cartoonist; Miss Lillie Martell, comedienne and dancer; Miss Kitty Neville, comedienne; Mr Harry Hilton, eccentric comedian; Miss Marie Roselle, balladist; and Pulo, the boy juggler, are also engaged.

SHEFFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr F. W. Purcell; Acting-Manager, Mr T. S. Carter.—The beautiful and funny annual, Goody Two Shoes, has fairly caught on with the pantomime-loving Sheffielders, and big business is the rule. The naive charm, pretty face, and refined manner of Miss Minnie Cunningham make her an admirable representative of the title-rôle; and Miss Georgina Leonard's fine presence and effective singing have secured her many admirers. Those admirable comedians, Langford and Downes, are great favourites. Mr Frank Lincoln provokes much hilarity as the Dame, and very successful are Mr Harry C. M'Clelland, Mr George French, and Mr Harry Rousbey. The scenery and dresses are much admired, and the exquisite spectacular scene, The Mystic Grotto, invented and produced by Mr Hagedorn, is the theme of universal approbation.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; General Manager and Treasurer, Mr J. E. B. Beaumont.—Mr C. P. Levilly's company began the second week of its visit here on Monday, when a crowded house again roared at the comicalities of Mr Eric Thorne and enthusiastically applauded the fine singing of Miss Stella Gastelle in the delightful comic opera Amorelle.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr C. A Ramsay.—This spacious theatre has been packed nightly since Christmas Eve, and Aladdin can safely be added to the long list of spectacular successes for which this old local "home of pantomime" is noted. Miss Cissy Paris has become very popular as the gay and tuneful Aladdin, and a more graceful and piquant Balroulbadour could not be desired than Miss Esta Stella. A great and well deserved favourite is Miss Maud Esmond, a graceful and pretty young lady, who acts in a chic manner as Prince Pekoe, and whose well-rendered songs are a big feature in the annual. Miss Ida Worsley also sings well as Caramel. There is plenty of fun, thanks to the untiring efforts of those smart comedians, Mr George Delaforce, Mr O. E. Lennon, Messrs August and September, Mr Teddy Denham, Mr Bert Atherton, Messrs Royston and Royce, Mr J. W. Cawdery, and Mr Chas. Austin, the clever representative of Abanszar, who has made a great hit. The clever dances of the Magnets are enthusiastically applauded, and the whole performance goes with an exhilarating swing.

EMPIRE PALACE.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr A. W. Young.—Crowded houses continue to appreciate the generous policy of the Empire directorate, and this week the following artists have given much pleasure to the patrons of this fine temple of music, mirth, and wholesome amusement; Mons. Hermann Melot, French conjuror and illusionist; C. T. Fiske and Nelly M'Donagh in a sketch called Brecky's Temptation; Miss Florrie Robina, the dashing serio; the Knick-Knacks, duettists and dancers; Lily Tiso, a smart comedienne; Peppo's Monkeys; H. F. Wilson, a favourite tenor vocalist; Charles Diamond and Miss Beatrice, harpists and vocalists; the Baldwin Brothers, American acrobats; Will Newman, an amusing eccentric comedian; and the Trapnell Family in a clever and graceful acrobatic act.

GRAND PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr Beagle.—Under the energetic management of Mr Beagle the Grand maintains its prestige as a well-conducted and comfortable resort. This week the interesting biographic spectacle "Whirling the Worlds" has aroused much interest, and good turns have been contributed to the programme by Valvero in a novel act; Charles Bowker, Edith Sylvesto, Little Florrie, Clara Sefton, and George Foyle.

WONDERLAND.—Proprietor, Mr Victor Samson.—The pantomime Sinbad is the attraction here.

SHREWSBURY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Business Manager, Mr W. C. Dornton.—Tuneful music, good chorusses, and pretty dresses are the best features of The Scilly Girl, which is being played at this theatre during the present week by Messrs Frank Nelson and Chas. Cautley's company. Mr Chas. Cautley successfully fills the part of Cecil Trevelyan, and sings with power and expression; Mr H. E. Garden in the inane part of the Hon. Adolphus Delaware makes the best of his opportunities; Mr Milroy Cooper as Cyrus Wheeler acquits himself creditably; Mr Robert Rivers makes a good Duke of Ayreshire; Mr Alfred Donohoe is droll and lively in the low comedy part of Hiero; Miss Bessie Pelissier sings sweetly several songs and duets with Cecil Trevelyan; Miss Dorothy Vernon is pleasing and vivacious as Muriel, her dancing being graceful; Miss Susie Oak looks well and plays conscientiously the part of the Duchess of Ayreshire; Miss Ella Kitson merits praise as Madame Endora; and Miss Ada Palmer as Miss Catherine Wheeler acts satisfactorily.

SMETHWICK.

ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr C. Barnard; Manager, Mr E. Hewitson.—An interesting production from the pen of Max Goldberg, entitled The Voice of the People; or, Workgirls of Birmingham, is being played here this week by Messrs Harris Fineberg and John F. Preston's company. Mr John F. Preston as Barry Phelps, actor, bailiff, super, and sandwichman, introduces many Shakespearian and other popular quotations; Mr Ernest R. Allen as the Rev. Walter Mereditb, wins the hearts of the audience; Mr C. H. Pullen as Adolphus Green is well placed; Mr Arthur Hartley as Morris Morris, a sweater, gives a good interpretation; Mr W. Atherstone as Steve Morris is a vigorous and incisive scoundrel; Mr J. Rowe makes the most of his part as Captain Goodman; and Mr Syd Silvester as Tim Toosh, with excellent comedy and song, is quite successful. Miss Mara Collings is a stately Lady Longthorpe; Miss Hilda Shirley as Mary Maynard gives a praiseworthy portrayal; and the Liz of Miss Gertrude Godart is particularly noticeable.

SOUTHAMPTON.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Mr Bert Coote's company is this week presenting with great success The Fatal Wedding. As "the little mother" Miss Emmie Thomas is excellent, her singing and acting being admirable. She is well supported by a bevy of specially trained children, who have an opportunity of showing off their talent as entertainers in act three, "The cake walk in the sky" being a fitting finale to an exceptionally interesting scene. All the characters in the drama proper are well sustained, and Mr Percival Newman works hard as the musical director.

PALACE.—Topping the bill here we have Hadj Abdullah's Troupe of Arabs, whose acrobatic display is simply wonderful. Park's Eton Boys demonstrate their ability as vocalists of the highest class, and Willie Benn proves himself a clever pianist and patterer. Percy Honi scores in song, story, and music, his concertina playing being excellent. Terry and Bentley, a smart couple, sing and dance themselves into favour in their scena The Hunt, and Booker and Narbis win golden opinions in their sketch, The Interviewer. Albert Wyndham and company appear in a dramatic episode, Prince Arthur, and another excellent turn is that given by the Sisters Revenl, who sing admirably.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr W. Marlow, sen.; Manager, Mr W. Marlow, jun.—On Monday Mr C. St. John Denton presented for another week the pantomime Babes in the Wood, which is going a deal better than last week, the singing being much improved. Miss Ethel Karri makes a capital Water Lily, the good fairy; Miss Rosalind O'Ferral is good as Herne; Prince Charming finds a most capable and clever exponent in Miss Rose Dearing, whose singing is worthy of praise; Miss Eleanor L'Estelle as Phyllis is commendable; Mr Willie Scott as Charlotte provokes hearty laughter; Billy Buttons is well portrayed by Mr Densley Russell; and Mr Lauri Leslie makes a prominent Baron Bluster. Master Harry Pleon does well as Augustus; Gagem and Scragem, the ruffians, provide plenty of good fun; and the Four Olympian Stars are responsible for some capital dances. Steve Selby causes merriment with his mechanical donkey, and Dainez Circus of performing ponies, jumping dogs, and the celebrated donkey Smiler, add greatly to the amusement.

SOUTH SHIELDS.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs J. and F. Coulson.—Robinson Crusoe is being produced here under the personal direction of Mr Macnaghten and Mr Baugh.—Monday's house was packed, and general appreciation was bestowed upon the different artistes. Miss Louie Hurman is a picturesque Crusoe, and Miss Rose Bartlett becomingly enacts, both in song and dance, the charming Polly Perkins. Miss Flora Leonard sings well as Fairy Coral; Mr Percy Davidson appears successfully as Davy Jones; the fun is well maintained by the unflagging efforts of Mr Will Lytton, a quaintly spoken Will Atkins; Mr Jack Foley is a diverting Dame Crusoe with many witticisms; and Messrs Harris and Worth are a funny pair of knockabouts as Sammy Sackles and Dick Drymouth respectively. "The dearest girl in Dixie Town" is ably rendered by Miss Hurman and Mr Harry Morgan, an excellent exponent of Friday; Miss Daisy Reed dances well as Princess Pearlypet; and Miss Delia Cherry (Midshipman Merry) and Miss Dora Langham (Nancy Lee) creditably acquit themselves. Mr Chas. Cork, in the part of the Rajah Ram Jampotte also figures successfully. Miss Ivy Lane's Vaudeville Troupe of dancers are apt and pleasing.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Richard Thornton; General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr Geo. F. Thompson.—Excellent audiences are witnessing a clever entertainment by the Dandies, who excel in song and dance; the Emelia Sisters submit a suitable musical entertainment; the capital violin playing of the youngest of the quartet being vociferously applauded; Kyoto in a distinctly droll novelty act creates much mirth; Hugh Stanton's prophetic absurdity Twenty Years from Now is capably interpreted by Mr Tudor Williams and Miss Ella Dixon; and May Geraldine, the Haydens, Edie Veno, Little Lady Fauntleroy, and the American Bioscope are also appearing.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors and Managers, Councillor J. K. Hall and Mr Jos. Sweeney.—Mdlle. Florence globe walker, assisted by Mdlle Queenie, is drawing crowded houses by her admirable and refined act; J. W. Mills is a fine tenor vocalist; Sandy and Carl patter comedians, are responsible for laughter; and Kinrara and Rose, eccentric comedians, and Dillon, ventriloquist, are well applauded. The remaining turns are Copeland and Son and J. C. Heffron.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietress, Mrs Weldon Watts; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr R. G. Elder.—The holiday attraction here is Mr H. J. Callan and Mr W. Croke's company in Florodora, which is being played to crowded houses nightly. As Cyrus Gilfain Mr C. Young Fixott is as good as ever; Mr W. Everard's Frank Abercoed is sung and acted very ably; Captain Arthur Donegal is undertaken by Mr Frank Grans with his customary skill; and Mr W. Roussell makes the most of Leandro. Mr Arthur Lenville causes much merriment as Tweedlepunch; Miss Cissie Sephton sings and acts cleverly as Lady Holyrood; Miss May Yates is a great success as Angela Gilfain; and the rôle of Dolores is acceptably acted and particularly well sung by Miss Maud Lake (late of this town), who has made great progress in her profession.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr J. Batty; Manager, Mr W. Batty.—Miss Bonnie Goodwin and her piccaninnies top the bill here, and are very successful. Other turns are taken by Len Lever, coon vocalist and clever sand dancer; the Three Sherrys, comedy acrobats; Sam Kelly, Irish comic; Brothers De Wynne, very smart equilibrists; Bert Weston, a good swell comique; O'Connor and Traynor, comics and dancers; and Payne's Bio.

PROVINCIAL PANTOMIMES.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

"RED RIDING HOOD" AT DERBY.

Mr G. Brydon-Phillips's pantomime Little Red Riding Hood was produced on Boxing Night with gratifying success at the Grand Theatre and Opera House, Derby. The book is by Mr Victor Stevens, and is much in advance of the average. Mr Alex Humphreys is responsible for the music, and he also ably acts as conductor. The pantomime is in two parts, which is an improvement on the ordinary continuous performance. There are four scenes in the first and three in the second portion. The first scene, which would well do, if it be not intended, for a depiction of the Derwent Valley above Ambergate, is very pleasing indeed, and the third scene, A Glade in Summer, is also a striking achievement. This is followed by a wonderfully effective transformation to A Glade in Winter, where a troupe of fairies, clad in daintiest gossamer and carrying lanterns, "trip it blithely as they go on the light fantastic toe" to a tuneful number. The final scene, a palace interior, is also an exceedingly charming effect. The piece goes with a swing from start to finish, the fun being as hilarious as it is harmless. Miss Florrie Forde, who is well known on the variety stage, is the Prince. She has a dashing figure and a generally acceptable presence. Miss Forde works hard and honestly for success and secures it. She has several taking songs, which are already in the streets. Among these may be specially mentioned "The Old Bull and Bush," "Onona," and "Bluebell." Miss Gertie Gitana in the nom-rôle is another distinct success. Alike as vocalist, actress, and dancer she ranks high. Her coon song, "My Queen Divine," is a truly excellent piece of work, while her acting as the heroine of the pantomime is highly intelligent and effective. Miss Marie West as the Fairy puts real life into what is ordinarily a somewhat invertebrate class of character, and sings a good song. Miss Florence Frederica figures agreeably as Cupid, and introduces a very pretty pas seul. Miss Nellie Cranbray does well as Dandini, and as Jack and Jill Misses Millie Denham and Doris Lillian both merit special mention. Granny has a capable and versatile exponent in Mr Frank Dunlop; Mr J. E. O'Connor is screamingly funny as Simple Simon; and equally so is Mr C. Brady as the Fat Boy. Mr Fred Hallam is thoroughly deserving as the Squire, and sings a couple of songs that go off capitally. As Lawyer Slyfox Mr Fowler Thatcher has a part that scarcely brings out his unquestionable ability and versatility as a comedian, but he makes the most of his chances and scores in all he has to do. The Wolf is well rendered by Mr J. W. Brighter, and Mr Charles Churton plays the Poodle to perfection. The Du Gros Trio of gymnasts head the specialities, and their smart and skilful turn is as clever as it is droll. The principal dancers are Misses Carrie and Alice King, whose saltatory efforts add not a little to the enjoyment of the whole. To other characters and their representatives reference may be made later; let it suffice here to state of the entire cast that there is observable an esprit de corps that is eminently satisfactory. The general manager of the production is Major George Stratton.

"THE SLEEPING BEAUTY" AT SOUTHAMPTON.

The first performance at the Grand Theatre of Mr Fredk. Mouillot's pantomime, The Sleeping Beauty, on Boxing Day attracted two record audiences, who manifested appreciation of this pretty, merry pantomime. The libretto has again been written by Mr F. Leslie Moreton, who upon the slender story has based a most interesting book. The music, arranged and composed by the chef d'orchestre, Mr J. Warwick Moore, is bright, catchy, and pleasing; and the scenery and dresses excellent. Of the company it may be said that all do uncommonly well. First favourite is unquestionably Mr Charles J. Cameron, who is irresistibly funny, as the Royal nurse. He is full of quaint quips and cranks, which fairly convulse the audience, whilst his singing of "Short stories" and an original topical ditty "A lot of little things want looking into" cause continuous merriment. Mr Cameron is undoubtedly the mainspring of the show, and there could scarcely be a more humorous impersonation on the pantomime stage this season. He is ably assisted by Mr Chas. Penrose, who is a mirth-provoking Peter Piper, and proves himself a comedian of resource, acting with much dry humour and cleverness. He scores a huge success with his original song entitled "Oh! who says so?" which he renders in droll style. Mr Joe Hudson makes a capital King, playing with unction throughout, and Mr G. Villiers Arnold renders capable assistance as the Lord High Chamberlain. Of the ladies it must be said that the management have been exceptionally fortunate in their selection. Miss Florence Vie as the Prince plays with dash and spirit throughout, while her singing of "The sweetest girl in Dixie" catches on at once, and should become a great favourite. Miss May Davis is a dainty and charming Beauty, her principal song, "Under a Panama," being received with uproarious applause. The charming Sisters Morde are successful as the second boy and girl, singing and dancing particularly well. Miss Alice Farquharson is a stately Queen, and Miss Joan Ellis looks very pretty as the Fairy Godmother. The two woodcutters, Messrs Baroux and Bion, have a fine chance of showing off their clever acrobatic speciality, and other amusing business, which fairly brings down the house. Other excellent turns are given by the Stuart Trio of dancers; the Miltons, comical skaters; and Leo Ricoli, juggler. The chorus do excellent work, and Mr Harry Reynolds is seen to advantage in the somewhat exacting rôle of the Witch, in addition to being responsible for the stage-management, in which he appears to be an adept. The production was under the personal supervision of Messrs F. Leslie Moreton and Sydney Paxton, both of whom are entitled to congratulations for their very successful pantomime. Mr George Lindsay is the courteous acting-manager of the company.

"ALADDIN" AT PAISLEY.

On Christmas Eve Mr J. H. Savile produced his eighth annual pantomime at the Paisley Theatre, the subject being Aladdin. The management may be heartily congratulated on the efficient and beautiful manner in which the old story has been staged anew. Mr Fred Locke has again supplied the "book," and he has played no tricks with the text. But at the same time he has successfully introduced topical and local allusions and seasonable jokes, which are, as a rule, much appreciated. The various scenes (eight in number) reflect high credit on the artists, Messrs John M. O'Farrell and William M'Culloch. There are four principal scenes, of which the first represents the Market-place, Pekin. The second brilliantly pictures the Interior of the Cave of Precious Stones. Aladdin's Palace and Gardens are after the willow-pattern order, and are very effectively portrayed; while the final scene, the Flying Palace in Africa, is enhanced by a gorgeous pageant. The music has been carefully taken in hand by Mr Bert Stephens, and owes a good deal to his arrangement as well as to the discreet use of his bâton. Mr Michael Dwyer is responsible for several additional numbers. The dresses, &c., are of the very best, and the blending of the colours, so judiciously done, displays a cultivated taste. The company engaged is one of undoubted ability. A dashing pantomime boy is Miss Florence Wilton, who, as Aladdin, acts vivaciously, and sings with plenty of verve, being especially successful in her spirited rendering of "Bluebell." Miss Gertrude Branscombe is a most winsome and sympathetic Princess Badroulbadour. She has a pleasing, if not very powerful, voice, but is heard to advantage when singing her allotted numbers. Mr Willie Garvey is responsible for a vast amount of laughter, caused by his whimsical sayings and doings in the rôle of Widow Twankey. Abanazar is effectively embodied by Mr Will Sherlock, and a couple of clever knockabout artistes are found in the Boston Twins, who, as Hi-Spi and Li-Ying-Tung, take a large share in the numerous comic interludes. Miss Gladys Warren, who appears as Bohee, acquits herself in admirable style, her "Navaho" song being loudly applauded. Petti-Sing is played exceedingly well by Miss Florrie Somers. Mr Karl Mora makes the most of Ting-a-Ling, the Emperor of China, and Mr T. W. Kelly as So-Sh, the Vizier, is commendable. The part of M'Kazrac is played by Mr James Grant in a most amusing manner. Miss Kitty Jones as the Spirit of the Lamp is all that can be desired, her singing being particularly well received, and the Spirit of the Ring is impersonated in good style by Miss Ina Stirling. The dances by Miss Lottie Stone's troupe are graceful and particularly pleasing. The production has been under the entire control of Mr Savile, assisted by Mr Alec Flood, the latter also acting as stage-manager in a very capable manner.

"DICK WHITTINGTON" AT PORTSMOUTH.

Quite a typical holiday crowd invaded the Prince's on Boxing Night to witness the opening of the usual annual pantomime, Dick Whittington. The subject is likely to prove a great attraction. The title-rôle is undertaken by Miss Bessie Willow, and a very charming and imposing Dick she makes. She should prove a great favourite. Miss Leah Laurie is a dainty principal girl, singing her music in a sweet and captivating way; Miss Florence Hilton is a fascinating and vivacious Sir Algernon De Mash, her songs being received with rapturous applause; Miss Isabel Taylor as Captain Navycutte also does very well; Alderman Fitzwarren is carefully and judicially played by Mr Cyril Dundas; Mr Allan Carruthers as Idle Jack does full justice to the part, and makes the most of his opportunities; Amelia Florence, Fitzwarren's cook, the indispensable comic old woman, is most amusingly played and without vulgarity by Mr Harry Alberry; and Silly Peter and Lazy Lary, two comic rôles, are ably performed by Messrs Clifton and Gibson, and both are responsible for some quaint humour. Last, but not least, we come to the Cat, excellently played by Mr M. V. Vido. Miss Meta Anderson is an impressive and conspicuous Concordia, the Fairy of the Bells. Rodonto, King of the Rats, is very satisfactorily impersonated by Mr Archie J. Milne, who doubles the part with that of the Emperor of Morocco. Specialities are given by the Three Sisters Kilner, acrobatic dancers; Curtis and Vanity, cake-walk artists; and La Belle Troupe of Parisienne dancers. The book is by Mr Joseph L. Barry, who has followed the story fairly closely. The excellent and catchy music has been composed and arranged by Mr George Burton, L.C.M. The groupings and ballet are first-class, and reflect the greatest credit on Madame Newall. The scenery is also very good, notably scene two, Islington-green, and scene four, Highgate-hill, and has been designed and painted by Mr James Greenhalgh. The costumes, which are elaborate, are by Messrs Brady and Maine, the mechanical changes and effects by Mr Edwin Joner, and the wigs by Messrs J. H. Fyane and Co., Liverpool. The entire pantomime has been produced under the direct supervision of Mr James Kiddie (his second year); in fact, the whole production is a credit to all concerned, and goes without a visible hitch from start to finish.

COVENT-GARDEN BALL.

At the fancy dress ball at Covent-garden which took place on the night of the 30th ult. the attendance was, if anything, above the average, and although those present could not dance 1905 in, this made no difference to the general enjoyment. While dancing was in progress the scene was delightfully bright and full of ever-varying colour. The outstanding feature of the costumes, perhaps, was the predominance of the Japanese, and wearers of dresses suggesting our gallant allies in the Far East were invariably objects of interest and attention. Of course, too, there were costumes calling to mind the death of the old and the birth of the new year. One of the most attractive was appropriately entitled the "Dawn of the New Year," and was designed by Mr W. Clarkson. Skirt and bodice were of grey satin, and on the former were several painted panels. The cloak was composed on one side of leaves brown and dead, and on the other of bright green leaves or of young ones just beginning to shoot out. A clock, lighted with electric glow lamps, and with the hands nearing the hour of midnight, formed the head-dress. "A Persian Garden" was resplendent with silver butterflies and roses, and made a very pretty picture. "Winter," "Father Time," and a pert little Cupid were among a crowd of others that promenaded in hopeful anticipation of the judges' favourable verdict. As usual, excellent arrangements for the many visitors had been made by Mr Frank Rendle and Mr Neil Forsyth, and after the march past a number of handsome prizes was awarded. Two firsts were given, one for the best and the other for the most original costume. By the best costume the management means the most picturesque and at the same time the most practicable for one who is a dancer and not merely a promenader. Mr Dan Godfrey's excellent orchestra as usual supplied the music.

ILLUSTRATIVE INTERMEZZOS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—A writer in a contemporary dealing, on the 29th ult., with Mr Tree's revival of Much Ado About Nothing made mention of an intermezzo illustrating the passage of time between midnight and dawn. Three years ago I wrote in collaboration a play which was set down for production, and all details were arranged, but the actress upon which the syndicate had set their hopes was unable to accept the part, so the production fell through. Between acts three and four of this play, in order to mark the passage of time, an intermezzo illustrating midnight and dawn was to be played, the curtain to rise sixteen bars previous to the note indicating dawn which was to be suggested by the piping of one single bird, the music to continue to the end of the act, which closes as the sun begins to appear above the horizon.

I shall be much obliged if you will kindly publish this statement, as negotiations are on foot for the production of this play, and I wish to avoid any accusation of plagiarising Mr Tree's excellent idea. At the same time I desire to acknowledge the source of my inspiration, which was Mascagni's Intermezzo to Cavaleria Rusticana. I think it is quite superfluous to add—however, I make the addition—that there is no suggestion in my mind of anyone having plagiarised my idea.

Yours faithfully, CHARLES LANDER.

"BELLS ACROSS THE SNOW."

A Drama, in Four Acts, by W. Bevan Robinson, Produced at the Greenwich Theatre on Monday, Jan 2.

Philip Craig	Mr VERNON TRAVERS
Edmund Vance	Mr EUGENE STERNE
Richard Argentine	Mr J. A. HILL
Erney Gurney	Mr ALEX. TAYLOR
Ralph Washington Jones	Mr DENIS CAMPBELL
Teddie	Master ARCHIBALD READ
Lillian Argentine	Miss NORAH BELLEW
Violet Craig	Miss DOROTHY HAIGH
Pompinette	Miss MARION MONKHOUSE
Mrs Argentine	Miss MARTHA MORE

Mr W. Bevan Robinson's drama, Bells Across the Snow, was produced with every sign of success at the Greenwich Theatre on Monday night. The new play contains plenty of the sensational incidents which appeal strongly to a popular audience, and the story is worked out by the author with a considerable amount of ingenuity. A prominent personage in the piece is Philip Craig, an unscrupulous individual who fills the important official position of a town clerk, and is a lawyer by profession. To him is entrusted a will by the terms of which a good young sailor, named Richard Argentine, is bequeathed Mapledene Hall and a large fortune. Craig, however, resolves to assume the rôle of the rightful heir to the property, and alters the wording of the will accordingly. Having committed this crime, he enters into possession of the old hall, and is welcomed by his neighbours as the new squire. Edmund Vance, a medical man, who has got into disgrace and been compelled to give up his profession, learns by some means of Craig's falsification of the will. When the young sailor puts in an apppearance Vance endeavours to persuade Craig to drug him in order to obtain possession of a valuable document Richard has in his possession, but Craig refuses, so Vance himself does the business, steals the paper, and carrying the inert body to a boat causes the latter to drift out to sea The first scene of the second act is a room in the hall at Mapledene. Craig does not seem very happy in the possession of his wrongly acquired wealth. Vance makes use of his knowledge to blackmail him, his demand for hush-money being emphasised by the production of a revolver. Craig's sister, a frank, honest girl, in love with young Argentine, discovers how her brother acquired the hall and money, and determines, after giving him a piece of her mind, to leave him. In the next scene we find her conveying food to her sweetheart's mother and sister, who have been turned out of house and home for failing to pay the rent and are living in extreme poverty. They are also uneasy at the non-arrival home from sea of Richard. However, the sailor eventually puts in an appearance and denounces Vance, but that villain is allowed to escape the penalties of the law. In the next act Craig, apparently tired of dwelling at the hall and uneasy in his mind as to his false position, takes to drink. He avows his intention of confessing his crime and making restitution; but Vance, in order to prevent this, does not hesitate to set fire to a café, hoping that Craig will perish in the flames. The intended victim, however, escapes after he and Vance have had a desperate struggle in the burning building. Vance makes further attempts to murder Craig, but is always thwarted, and eventually Craig makes full confession, and the rightful heir takes possession of Mapledene Hall. Mr Vernon Travers gave an excellent embodiment of Philip Craig, and won the favourable verdict of the audience. Mr Eugene Sterne portrayed the villain, Edmund Vance, in effective fashion. Mr J. A. Hill did well as the young sailor Richard Argentine. Mr Denis Campbell scored as Ralph Washington Jones, a showman, and Mr Alex. Taylor caused considerable merriment in the part of a medical student named Erney Gurney. Master Archibald Read made quite a hit in the part of Teddie, a potboy. Miss Norah Bellew was pleasing and graceful as Lillian Argentine, and Violet Craig had a thoroughly satisfactory exponent in Miss Dorothy Haigh. Miss Marion Monkhouse was a spirited Pompinette, the showman's daughter, and sang in effective style, and Miss Martha More was well placed as Mrs Argentine. The incidental music was by Mr A. M. Gates, the leader of the orchestra.

THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD.

On Monday, Jan. 2, the Drama, in Four Acts, by William Bourne, entitled "MAN TO MAN."

This well-known melodrama has paid numerous visits to Stratford, but it is very evident that the habitués of the Theatre Royal are far from tiring of the piece, for the holding capacity of the house was well tested on Monday night. An excellent cast has been engaged to interpret the play, which is mounted exceedingly well. As George Gordon Mr William Bourne submits an earnest and incisive performance, and renders the character highly popular. Mr Ellis J. Preston plays the villainous Richard Ellerton with admirable restraint and directness of method, his realistic portrayal making the miscreant an object of particular aversion to the more susceptible among the audience—a decided compliment to the actor's ability. Mr Arthur Rich has made the part of the hypocritical Bill Burkley essentially his own, delineating the burly convict with a most acceptable dry humour and unctuousness, and with such graphic power as to completely sink his identity in the character. Mr Frank Liston is a manly and impressive Rev. Philip Ormond; Mr Harry Ward is always amusing as Samuel Plumtree; and Mr A. Moore plays Mathew Ellerton appropriately. Mr D. Osborne and Mr Samuel Griffiths are excellent in the respective rôles of Forde and Turner. Miss Maud Buchanan makes a sympathetic and charming Ethel Maythorne; Miss Eva Griffiths plays naturally as Miss Lavinia Dove; and Miss Amy Vennimore, aided by a fine stage presence, delineates Gipsy Madge with ease and fluency. Miss Jenny Mayhew is very successful as Ned Doyle, and Miss Clara Murray plays brightly as Mary.

"ALADDIN" is still drawing crowded houses to the Brixton Theatre, for certainly there is not a more charming and dainty impersonator than Miss Emmeline Orford, nor a more fascinating Princess than Miss Constance Hamilton, who receives a well-deserved encore for a very pretty song, "Navaho," and a gracefully executed dance. Another noticeable addition since the first performance is the beautiful rendering of two ballads, "Brilliant" and "For Ever," by Miss Marion Macdonald. The first she sings partly in Italian, and the audience is thrilled by her melodious voice. The comedians have worked up their parts, and the performance goes with a bang from start to finish. Messrs Walton and Lester introduce a funny song entitled "We all went into the shop," and the "Mad Sick Kettle" still merrily boils every evening. Mr Edwin Brett introduces a pedlar song with patriotic verses, which, of course, goes well. Miss Kitty Harrold as So-Shi sings a very good song "The Bull and Bush," which evidently meets with the favour of the audience, as they take up the chorus with heartiness. Miss Eva Bayhurst is well received for her two dances, and praise must be given to this lady for the careful manner in which she has trained the ladies of the ballet. The harlequinade, which is arranged by the Brothers Phillips, causes the youthful members of the audience to laugh with childish glee. The sprightly dancing of Miss Elsie Dean as columbine and Mr Fred Flexmore as the harlequin brings the pantomime to a close, but mention must be made of the beautiful dresses by William Clarkson, the electrical effects by Mr H. Thorburn, and the properties by Mr Alf Clark, which all assist in their respective departments to make Aladdin one of the most popular and successful pantomimes in the south of London.

PANTOMIME AND CIRCUS AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

Mr Humphrey E. Brammall produced at the Crystal Palace on Christmas Eve the pantomime, by James H. Wolfe, with music by Herbert Godfrey, entitled

"THE BABES IN THE WOOD."

Robin Hood	Miss KATHLEEN GRAY
Maid Marion	Miss MIGNON TREMAINE
Dolly	Miss CONNIE LEON
Little John	Miss EDNA VIVERS
Bertie	Master CREWYS
Flossie	WEE MONA
Baron Ooffess	Mr G. WALFORD
Baroness	Mr J. T. MORTON
Adolphus	Mr WILL POLUSKI
Bill, Wally	The KIMBERLEY BOYS
King Richard	Miss JULIA VIVERS
Sir G. De Bathe	Miss KITTY IRWIN
Fairy Robin	Miss O'REILLY
Allan-a-Dale	Miss BRADFORD
Will Scarlett	Miss FOSTER

Fun is the predominant feature of the production, and the crowded theatre has resounded to peals of laughter, all the witticisms eliciting a willing response. The splendour of the dresses has contributed in no small degree to the success, singing and dancing also forming a pleasing part of the production. A lively chorus salutes the opening scene, the Village of Ooffess, on the wedding morn of the betrothed of the Baron, who sings of "The hand that rolls the pudding." The advent of the Robbers, Bill and Wally, is distinguished by a comic burglary, and a glimpse of the Babes is soon afterwards caught, the youngest of whom adds to "Lazy Maisey," a dance which secures an encore by its daintiness and skill, and which is succeeded by the song of "Pennies" by the boy Babe. With the arrival of Adolphus, the son of the Baroness, an addition to the fun is made. He makes immediate advances towards Maid Marion, the Babes' governess. She listens scornfully to his suit, but deigns to join him in a dance, a combination which is productive of a skilfully executed measure that wins a hearty recall. The arrival of Robin Hood dispates any chances that Adolphus might have with Marion, for Robin and the young lady swear eternal affection, despite the opposition of the Baron. Many comic episodes are introduced in the scene of the Baron's Kitchen, where a particularly expert troupe of acrobats are on the staff of cooks, and perform a neat variation of the "Risley" business, their somersaults and handsprings and their numberless tricks securing them repeated recalls. It is the Joe Boganny Troupe of Lunatic Bakers who thus distinguish themselves, and who keep the action of the pantomime in check while they obey the insatiable call for more. Scene four reveals the Courtyard of the Castle, when the famous compact between the Baron and the Robbers is made; but the scheme is not allowed to be put into execution until the Boy Babe has sung "My Havanah Queen" and his sister has done another captivating dance. The story speeds on its way in the Depths of the Forest, where Robin Hood obtains the King's pardon and the restoration of his title and estates. The safety of the Babes is eventually assured, and the betrothal of Robin Hood and Maid Marion leads up to a scene of rejoicing in the Palace, where the opportunity is taken to introduce the speciality "The Gibson Walk," as illustrated by Miss Kate Hardren and her fair companions, and a fancy-dress ball in which prize dresses from Covent-garden are used. The exponents of their parts fit their characters to a nicety. Miss Kathleen Gray makes a brave appearance as Robin Hood. Among her songs is "My Jersey Lily," which she rendered with graceful expression, and throughout her pleasant style and cheery bearing ensured success. A fair and fascinating Maid Marion is found in Miss Mignon Tremaine, who captivated chiefly by her dancing, of which she is a practised exponent. The comedy powers of Mr Will Poluski are well employed in the part of Adolphus, who treats the audience to an exhibition of drollery that never weakened in laughter-making. The Babes have charming and natural exponents in Master Crewys, who possesses a high soprano of remarkable power and flexibility, and Wee Mona, who as Flossie won the hearts of all by her precocity and roguishness. The Baron Ooffess is played in comic style by Mr G. Walford, who had a mock melodramatic scene with Dolly, a part played with charming tact by Miss Connie Leon, who rendered a song about "Another pair of stockings on the line" with particular point. The Kimberley Boys bear equally the brunt of the rôles of the Robbers. They have endless methods of mirth-making, and in every case their purpose is secured. Mr J. T. Morton as the Baroness has a dry humour that never fails; Miss Edna Vivers makes a fetching Little John; Miss Julia Vivers is a regal King Richard; and the other parts are excellently played. The band under the direction of Mr Herbert Godfrey acquits itself ably.

Thrice during the day the hippodrome is occupied by Mr H. E. Brammall's circus and carnival. The arena has been improved by the addition of three stages overlooking the ring, on which the various acts are given, including a Russian Imperial Troupe from St. Petersburg, with characteristic dances, and a Japanese Troupe from Tokio. The latter performers have a magnificent tapestry worked in gold as a background for their performances, which embrace the clever conjuring feats for which the nation is famous. A trio sung by three native girls proves interesting, but the sensation of the show comes with the walking of the slanting rope by a young Jap who ascends to a great height and slides down again. Excitement is also stimulated by the equestrian bareback act of Miss Powell and Master Henry Powell. Their leaps from the ground to the horse's back, their somersaults thereon, and their intrepid feats gain them well merited cheers, the lady proving as dauntless as her companion. The Boxing Horses, Charlie and Cigarette, give evidence of the perfection to which animal training can be brought, their sparring and manœuvring being a pretty display of equine intelligence. Ping-Pong, the clown, is irresistible in his comic entrées and his innumerable devices for creating mirth, of which he secures an abundance, and the other items of a well-varied performance are Miss Eva's steeplechase act and the trick mare, Duchess, introduced by Mr Powell. Mr Charles Jones, who hails from New Zealand, gives a cycling performance within a big wheel, pedalling in an opposite direction to which the wheel revolves, while at intervals the rider and his machine are illuminated by coloured electric lights.

Record attendances at the Palace have thoroughly tested the efficiency of Mr J. H. Cozens' admirable staff, who have emerged from their added duties with credit. Mr F. A Derry is an able and courteous manager of the Press Bureau.

OWING to the sudden indisposition of Mr J. J. Dallas, who is playing the dame at the Coronet Theatre in Little Red Riding Hood, Mr Alf Selby recently took up the part at short notice, and gave an excellent performance. Mr Alf Selby will be remembered as having been associated with Mr George Musgrove's Belle of New York company for several years. He is going to play one of the principal parts in The Prince of Pilsen, which is soon to go out on tour. Mr J. J. Dallas, we are pleased to hear, is well again, and has been able to resume his part.

PROVINCIAL ACTING MANAGERS.

MR. C. D. LEIGH.

Mr C. D. Leigh, the popular and courteous acting-manager and scenic artist at Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley's premier Leicester theatre, the Royal Opera House, has all the attributes that go to make a successful acting-manager, having held every position in a theatre from call-boy. Mr Leigh, who has a commanding presence, and is never seen without a smile, in an interesting chat with our Leicester representative the other afternoon gave some particulars of his career.

Mr Leigh, who has been with the gallant colonel for the past eight years, was also at the Royal Opera House for a short period when it was under the proprietorship and management of the late Mr Elliott Galer, to whose enterprise, assisted by Mr T. T. Paget, late M.P. for a division of Leicestershire, it owes its foundation. The Leighs have for a very great number of years been connected with theatrical ventures. The subject of the present article first saw daylight at Balsall Heath, a suburb of Birmingham, both his parents, when this auspicious event happened, being then engaged at the Birmingham Theatre Royal. He received his education at King Edward's Grammar School, Birmingham, after which he had a short spell of commercial life at Liverpool, but this not being to his liking, his father, who was then at the Brighton Theatre, gave him his first position in a theatre by giving him an engagement as call boy. Ever since that time he has rapidly advanced in the profession, and the remarkable taste he displayed while as a boy so pleased Mr Henry Gilbert that he had him placed in the painting-room. After a short period he migrated to the Manchester Prince's, at which place of entertainment he served his time as a scenic artist. Like a good many more in the profession, his first engagement, which was at Rochdale, under a manager who shall be nameless, did not start very well with him, as his wages, which were fixed at thirty shillings per week, dwindled in the first week to ninepence, in the second to sixpence, and on the third he was left stranded. However, he was in luck's way, after all, as he secured an opening at the Prince of Wales's Rochdale, where the scenery for the pantomime was in a backward state. After this engagement he went to Messrs Thomas Grieve and Son, of London, executing while there a considerable quantity of painting for the now defunct Cremorne Gardens. Dundee and Aberdeen next claimed his attention, and Mr Leigh then toured for several years with Pygmalion and Galatea, under the management of Mr L. J. Sefton. He was next with Messrs Glover and Francis, who had the Royal Theatres at Newcastle and Glasgow. Afterwards he rejoined Mr

MR. C. D. LEIGH.

Sefton, who was then touring Broken Hearts. Then came what Mr Leigh describes as one of the greatest triumphs of his career. While at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, Liverpool, he produced for the first time on that stage a moving transformation scene in pantomime, consisting of a series of pictures. So astonished were the audience at this artistic piece of work that they sat spellbound, and Mr Leigh, thinking that it had turned out a "frost," was leaving the stage in despair, when the stage-manager hurriedly brought him back. It appeared that the audience were so astonished with the production that they were compelled to restrain their applause till the final, when the house broke out with wild cheering, and Mr Leigh had to make his bow half-a-dozen times. Mr Leigh afterwards was at the Lyceum, Edinburgh; Theatre Royal, Newcastle-on-Tyne; the Royalty, Glasgow; and at Hanley, Cork, Nottingham, and the Winter Gardens, Blackpool. At the latter place he painted the scene The Eldorado, which was subsequently seen in London, where the late Sir Augustus Harris was so delighted with it that he expressed his intention of having one for himself, but his untimely death prevented its fulfilment. Mr Leigh was present at the disastrous and lamentable fire at Exeter Theatre, and had his arm so injured in assisting in the work of rescue that he was unable to use it for a considerable time. While he was at the Grand Theatre, Derby, under Mr F. W. Purcell, Mr Leigh secured his appointment as scenic artist eight years ago from Colonel Winstanley, whose esteem, along with that of Mrs Winstanley, he has held ever since. He has also for a number of years been the stage-manager for the gallant colonel. Ever since Mr Leigh entered upon his duties in front of the house he has made great headway with the patrons of the theatre, as no trouble is too much for him to see after their comfort. Mr Leigh, who is versatile in his abilities, has considerable knowledge as a musician, having composed several waltzes, one of which, called "Bowerswood," named after Colonel Winstanley's residence near Blackpool, and which we noticed at the time of its first performance, being a favourite with the patrons of the Opera House. He also writes short stories and verse, two contributions from his pen appearing in this year's Opera House Christmas Annual, entitled "My Landlady's Story" and "He Bought a Typewriter." His chief hobby is photography, and a delightful specimen of his work is reproduced on the drop-curtain at the Theatre Royal, representing a scene in the historic Bradgate park. The curtain at the Royal Opera House is also another piece of artistic painting by Mr Leigh.

THE NEW ST. GEORGE'S HALL.

Messrs Maskelyne and Cooke have found a new home of mystery, and their entertainment—which has been presented to the London public for no less than thirty-one years—will for the future be enshrined at St. George's Hall, which was re-opened to the public on Monday evening. The hall has been wonderfully improved, and now presents more the appearance of an immense drawing-room than of a theatre. The stage has been brought forward, and its capacity thereby much increased. There are no wings, their place being taken by an inner and outer proscenium. The curtain of the inner is a clever painting of the exterior of the Egyptian Hall in Piccadilly, and what may be called the act-drop represents a pretty classic landscape. As the Messrs Maskelyne contemplate producing a series of important magical pieces, the machinery and lighting of the stage have become naturally matters of the first importance. Framing the outer proscenium are no less than 300 electric bulbs. This arrangement entirely disposes of unnecessary shadows, which are so difficult to get rid of. When the actor walks to the footlights he is surrounded by a ring of unseen lamps of which there are no less than two thousand on the stage, and the power can be lowered to the merest glimmer, or by insensible gradation increased to a potential glare. Thus all sorts of effects, from the feeble light of the breaking dawn to the blaze of noonday sunshine can be readily simulated. These results are obtained by the employment of Wirt dimmers, of which twenty-seven are required for the eight hundred lamps affixed to the battens, besides the movable lamps which will be used at special points.

In their new scheme of amusement the Maskelyne management come into line with the theatres, and in their production challenge criticism in serious drama with magical effects. For this purpose Lord Lytton's novel, "The Coming Race" has been fashioned into a play by Mr David Christie Murray and Mr Nevil Maskelyne. The following is the cast:—

Princess Zee	Miss VERA BERINGER
Taë	Miss CASSIE BRUCE
Barana	Mr H. LESMERE
Thor-Amet	Mr J. B. HANSARD
Tah-Mur	Mr W. M. MAYNE
Seph-Lin	Mr HORACE MORRHEN
Zuron	Mr GEORGE POWNALL
Almor	Miss IRIS LINCOLN
Zor	Mr E. S. ELTON
Hierophant	Mr LESLIE BURGISS

The piece is in a prologue and three acts, and the action mostly takes place in the depths of the earth, peopled by men and women possessing a magic power known as Vril. In the prologue two mining engineers, George W. Larcombe, of Massachusetts, and Henry Wentworth, learn that the depths of the Porthmorran mine in Cornwall have opened, and that mysterious noises have been heard by the miners. They determine to descend; and no sooner have they reached the new regions than Wentworth is seized by an antediluvian monster known in the book as the Krak, and to scientists as the pariesaurus. Larcombe is, however, saved, and interviewed by a curious assemblage of sages and elders of the unknown race. He is fortunate in inspiring affection in the beautiful Princess Zee daughter of The Tur, the ruler of Vril-ya, as the habitat of this peculiar people is called. Zee herself has quite the proper notions concerning the levelling power of love; but the "coming race" to which she belongs regards the proposed union of their princess with a common mortal as an insult to their kin, and demand the death of Larcombe. He has a bad quarter of an hour when brought before the Vril-ya tribunal, but the power of the princess saves him. Larcombe reviews matters with phlegmatic calm, and takes advantage of the "silent hours"—a period of the day when strange monsters float over the subterranean city—to have a refreshing sleep. While slumbering, the devoted princess flies through his window, and bears him away to the palace garden. There she proposes to return with him to this earth, and by her magic power to make him a king among men, she to be his queen. The closing of the fissure through which Larcombe originally descended presents no difficulty to the princess, and the two find themselves in the upper level of the mine. Larcombe thinks over the proposal, and guesses that it will not pan out satisfactorily. He therefore declines, and with a sorrowful farewell Zee returns to her subterranean home, the earth closing over her form as she descends.

The Krak, which looks like a huge saurian of the crocodile type, is destroyed in the fifth scene of the first act by Taë, the brother of Zee, a mere boy. The effect of the monster with great teeth munching the unfortunate engineer is quite creepy. Considerable amusement is caused by dummy attendants—cleverly invented automata—of which the working is shown to the audience. A well-constructed flying machine is another magical sensation, and the dramatic situation in the last act is much helped when the princess, inviting her lover to clasp her waist, carries him back to earth, managing shortly before this episode—by the aid of her vril-wand—a very realistic upheaval of the earth's crust, a remarkable stage effect that is arranged by most elaborate mechanism. The mysterious power of the race is reflected in gliding forms, rapid disappearances, and other marvels that are mostly due we believe to the inventive genius of Mr Nevil Maskelyne. Mr David Christie Murray has had of course a large share in the writing of the dialogue, and there is no lack of humour in the speeches of the American, Larcombe, who is regarded by the sages of the Vril-ya as an ethnological curiosity. There is no little drollery, too, in the episode wherein the contents of the engineer's cigar case are sampled by one of the wonderful beings, with an effect that entirely pertains to ordinary humanity. The characters, for the most part, however, are serious.

Mr Hermann Vezin's excellent elocution and dignified acting give due importance to the part of the ruler of Vril-ya; Miss Vera Beringer is altogether sweet and winsome as the Princess Zee; and Miss Cassie Bruce imparts dramatic effect to the part of the boy Taë. Mr Horace Morehen, who has designed the pretty fanciful dresses, imparts humour to the character of Seph-Lin and Mr W. H. Mayne and Mr J. B. Hansard, who double the parts of Tah-Mur and Thor-Amet with those of miners, do excellent work. Mr E. S. Elton also aids the affectiveness of the representation. Mr F. Topham makes the smart sayings of the American tell, and invests the engineer's love episodes with a sense of humour; Mr Thomas Sidney plays Henry Wentworth in good style; and Miss Josephine Rae makes the most of the voluble and irrepressible landlady, Mrs Clattermore. The scenery by Mr J. T. Bull is really very beautiful. The artist gives play to a most ingenious fancy in the architecture of the palace, which has somewhat the aspect of Mauresque, with a touch of the stately dignity of Norman. The colouring is delightful, and the brushwork should advance Mr Bull's already high reputation. The hand of Mr Nevil Maskelyne is seen in the many clever mechanical devices, the smooth working of the magical effects, and the effectiveness of the stage-management.

Before the curtain rose on the drama, Mr J. B. Hansard came through the inner prescenium, and in the dress of an ancient crier, addressed the audience as follows:—"Oyez, Oyez, Oyez! It having been decreed that the ancient, and at one time refined thoroughfare, known as Piccadilly, shall henceforth be devoted to the consumption of grub—where you may upset your little Marys from the modest sum of one and six—science and art are constrained to seek a pure atmosphere. We have therefore turned our backs upon the old and dingy Egyptian Hall—we have left Isis and Osiris to the flesh pots, and have turned to St. George, purity, and truth. Be it known, therefore, that this hall, dedicated to our patron saint, shall henceforth receive the sub-title, 'England's New Home of Mystery.' The lessee and his sons will continue to emulate St. George by giving death-thrusts to the dragon of superstition and imposture, in whatever guise he may appear, and by providing high-class, interesting, and wholesome amusement at reasonable prices they hope for a continuance of that patronage so liberally bestowed upon them for thirty-one years at the old home of mystery. Oyez, Oyez, Oyez! As loyal and dutiful subjects of his Majesty King Edward the Seventh, it is meet we inaugurate these proceedings by singing the National Anthem. Miss Iris Lincoln and Mr Leslie Burgess will therefore appear upon the auxiliary stage and sing, 'God save the King.' Let us all join in the refrain with heart and voice, for our Teddy's a good one, and don't you forget it!" Miss Lincoln and Mr Leslie Burgess then sang the soli, and the audience assisted with impressive cordiality. The small orchestra is under the direction of Mr Cramer, and the accomplished 'cellist, Mr Ivimey, and the clever violinist, Mr Denti, played some capital solos during the entr'actes.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.

On Boxing Day, the Pantomime, "LITTLE BO-PEEP."

Bo-Peep	Miss LILY ROULETTA
Boy Blue	Miss KENNA RUSSELL
Prince Pastorelle	Miss BLANCHE ALBINI
Margery Daw	Miss MAYZY OSMUNDE
Lord Lollipop	Miss ELLEN MARTIN
Dame Durden	Mr MARK STUART
Simon	Mr MEDLEY BARRETT
Baron Bluenose	Mr JACK WALLER
Bill Bash, Chris Crash	The M'NALLYS
Lemuel Lee	Mr HARRY MAYNARD
Sylvania	Miss VERA L. APPLEBY
Bluebell	Miss RUBY CARTER
Hyacinth	Miss HAIDEE FITCH
Tarantala	Miss LILY LENNIE
The Cat	Mr ALF FARREN
Mopsa	Miss VIOLET MORGAN
Dorcas	Miss ALICE MANTELL
The Cook	Mr HARRY WALKER

The book is by Mr Martin Byam, and is made to fit in with the more modern requirements of the well-worn nursery story with which we have been familiar from childhood. The poor village lass, who has been stolen by gipsies when a babe, is in reality the sister of a real live prince. The girl can be identified by a duplicate locket to that owned by her brother, and in order to prevent her reinstatement as a princess she is stolen by the gipsy king and his confederate. This charming maiden is beloved by the little shepherd, Boy Blue, and also by the wicked Baron. The usual opposing powers of good and evil are represented, the former, of course, predominating. The pantomime can and will claim to be placed in the front rank as an attractive and brilliant production. It is in three parts, and opens with a very pretty scene, the Harvest Home. Here Prince Pastorelle explains the secret of the loss of his sister, and the Baron and the gipsy, overhearing his remarks, resolve to obtain the reward offered for her recovery. Dame Durden inserts an advertisement in the Daily Gridiron for a shepherd. Boy Blue answers it and is engaged. The next scene is the exterior of Dame Durden's School, where a humorous skit on how Bill Bailey was killed by the Russian fleet is introduced. In the third scene—the Schoolroom—an exhibition of some genuine pantomimic antics is given. The Dame's pretty scholars assemble. A well-executed doll dance by Miss Haidee Fitch and Miss Ruby Carter deserves mention. The Baron and Lemuel Lee, the gipsy, appear. The latter summonses demoniac spirits, and some capital trap business is done. Next we arrive at the Long Lane that has No Turning. The opening event is a song entitled "The Witch Behind the Moon," by Lord Lollipop, with a chorus of six little children, which is rendered with pleasing effect. The good fairy Sylvania scores a success with her song of "Dreamland." Another pretty scene is a Wood in Summer-time, with an enlivening chorus by the ladies of the corps de ballet. A pas seul by the speciality dancer, Miss Lily Lennie, and a pas de deux by the two Sylphs both gained favour and redounded to the credit of their experienced trainer, Madame Sismondi. Bo-Peep and Boy Blue pleasingly render a duet, "If I had a girl as nice as you." An instantaneous mechanical change is then made from Summer to Winter, an excellent stage effect, and one of artistic merit. A humorous interlude is afforded by Dame Durden's proposal of marriage to the Baron and his rejection of it, the scene concluding with a merry chorus by the company. We next arrive at the Baronial Hall, where "I've a-waiting for yer, Josie," is sung with great taste and expression by Boy Blue. The Baron, who has made preparations for his marriage with Bo-Peep, introduces some good mimicry. In the scene representing the Elfin Wood Simon is well to the front in his skit on the Russian outrage. The Dame's song on accidents and occurrences was repeatedly encored. The scene which brings the pantomime to a close is The Palace of Blue and Silver, an exquisitely designed one, flashing with electric lights. The specialities introduced include a novel dance by Miss Lily Lennie, a well-executed violin solo by Miss Vera Appleby, a globe dance by Miss Lily Roulette, a clog dance by Miss Mazy Osmunde, the Sylphs' toe dance, and the Villions, in their comedy cycling act, which met with most flattering marks of approval. The baritone voice of Mr Harry Maynard was again heard in the successful rendering of "The Navy of the King," with chorus by the company. Miss Lily Roulette, who represents Bo-Peep, may be commended as a good all-round artiste, and nothing comes amiss to her. Her voice if not powerful is pleasing. Miss Kenna Russell as Boy Blue has plenty of verve and go. She is a vocalist of ability, and her dancing established her a favourite from start to finish. As Prince Pastorelle Miss Blanche Albini displayed grace, and her personal attractions made her a suitable representative of the rôle. Miss Mayzy Osmunde as Margery Daw delighted the house with her bright and charming appearance. Miss Ellen Martin was both vivacious and amusing as Lord Lollipop; and Mr Mark Stuart as Dame Durden was excellent, being both original and droll. Mr Medley Barrett, who was also responsible for the stage-management, appeared as Simon; as a comedian and dancer he won favour at once. He worked indefatigably throughout, and put in some smart business. Mr Jack Waller as Baron Bluenose proved to be an excellent mimic and a most entertaining and versatile performer. The M'Nallys as Bash and Crash were a pair of amusing knockabout comedians; Mr Harry Maynard as the gipsy Lemuel was both energetic and capable; Miss Vera L. Appleby as the Good Fairy played with ease and sang with arch expression; Miss Lily Lennie, the Demon Spider Tarantala, secored with her Terpsichorean contributions; Mr Alf Farren, Miss Violet Morgan, Miss Alice Mantell, and Mr Harry Walker, who played the clown, did well. Mr Graham Falcon deserves congratulations on the score of the splendour of the costumes, and for the well-arranged marches, with original and incidental music, Mr William W. Meadows earned the fullest commendation. The eighth pantomime at the Alexandra Palace Theatre may be catalogued amongst the successes of the season.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

SIR HENRY IRVING, before leaving Bournemouth for London on Thursday, planted an evergreen oak and laid the first stone of a marble fountain in the grounds of the Royal Bath Hotel.

MR GEORGE ALEXANDER, at the conclusion of the run of Lady Windermere's Fan, will reappear at the St. James's Theatre in a new and original comedy, by Alfred Sutro, entitled Mollentrave on Women, which will be followed in due course by John Chilcote, M.P., written by Mr and Mrs Temple Thurston. On a recent visit to Paris Mr Alexander arranged with Madame Le Bargy, the famous actress at the Gymnase, to appear with him later on in the season in an English version of Mr Alfred Capus's play L'Adversaire, prepared by Mr Harry Melvill. This will be the first time that Madame Le Bargy has acted in English.

MR HAYDEN COFFIN has now left the cast of The Cingalee at Daly's Theatre, and his part of Harry Vereker in that bright and attractive opera is admirably sustained by Mr Gordon Cleather, who acts and sings in a manner which wins for him complete success.

MRS BROWN POTTER was one of the guests at a large party at the Savoy Restaurant on New Year's Eve. It included the Sultan of Johore, the Earl of Kimberley, the Earl of Kilmorey, Lord Crichton, Lord Dalmeny, Lord Dalhousie, the Duc De la Rochefoucauld, Lord R. Innes-Ker, Sir Thomas Lipton, Baron and Baroness De Clay, the Duc and Duchesse Briune, Lord Brackley, Lord Kintore, Count and Countess Szapary, and the Marquis Spitalle. As midnight came on the picture of a huge clock-face, with the big hands moving slowly towards twelve o'clock, was thrown on a screen, and when the hour had struck all rose and sang "Auld Lang Syne." Mrs Brown Potter, attired in silver-grey velvet and bearing in her hand a large silver tray, made her appearance at the head of the crimson-carpeted stairs leading to the hall. By her side was a small table on which were large cards conveying the New Year's greeting, and bearing the words, "Remember the starving men, women, and children of Tottenham." Mrs Brown-Potter then said:—"I have been requested to ask you to drop a few pennies in this plate as you pass out for the starving men, women, and children of Tottenham. It will bring you good luck in the New Year." The first man to pass up the staircase put three pence in the plate, and underneath the third penny was a sovereign. When the Savoy Restaurant was empty, £53 2s. 3d. had been collected for the Daily Express food fund.

MR JAMES WELCH, the Prince Patter of The White Cat, at Drury-lane Theatre, is seriously ill; and he has been ordered by his doctor to give up work and go to the Riviera to rest and recruit for several weeks. His part has been undertaken by Mr W. Cummings.

MRS PATRICK CAMPBELL, we are sorry to hear, had an unfortunate accident on Tuesday evening. She was leaving her hotel to go to the theatre when she slipped on the pavement. As she held a favourite dog with one arm and with the other carried a book and her muff, she was unable to break her fall; her right leg struck the carriage and her knee-cap was fractured. Mrs Campbell was taken to the Pennsylvania University Hospital, where a successful operation has been performed on the fractured knee-cap, so that the actress will not be permanently lamed. The cancelling of her tour, involved by the accident, will cost Mrs Campbell 3,000 dollars a week, and her managers will lose a much greater sum. As she was afraid that her pet dog, which is blind, would not be fed properly elsewhere, she insisted upon having it in the hospital, where its food is prepared by the nurses.

MR AUSTIN MELFORD, whilst playing Appius Claudius to the late Mr Wilson Barrett's Virginius in Boston recently, had an amusing conversation at his hotel with a Negro waiter. It ran as follows:—"Say, Mr Melford, will Mr Barrett play Virginius again this week?" "No," replied Mr Melford. "We only do it once a week." "Waal, I'm real sorry," said the Negro. "I did want to see Virginius. You see, I come from Virginia myself."

MISS ISABEL JAY AND MDLLE GENÉE supplied an entertainment which was given on Thursday evening at Chatsworth, before the King and Queen, the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire, and a distinguished house party. Miss Jay sang three songs, "My heart at your feet," from The Cingalee; the nightingale's song from Zeller's Der Vogelhandler; and "The jewel of Asia," from The Geisha. Mlle. Genée appeared first in an ordinary ballet dress, in which she danced a fantasia polka; in a half-length costume of blue and white she gave the familiar pas seul from The Milliner Duchess; and finally in a black riding habit went through the hunting dance in High Jinks.

MISS LOUIE FREEAR is actively studying and purposes producing in a few days an entirely new and novel character sketch of a familiar type of Cockney life entitled "A Cosy Cup of Tea." This has been specially written and composed for Miss Freear by Messrs John P. Harrington and George Le Brunn.

MR FRANK CURZON, who has a house near Watford, has arranged to give a matinée of Sergeant Brue at the Clarendon Hall there, shortly, in aid of the deserving poor of the district. The matinée will be under the patronage of the Earl of Clarendon, the Earl and Countess of Essex, Lord and Lady Ebury, Lord Hyde, Lord Malden, Lady Edith Villiers, and Mr T. F. Halsey, M.P.

MISS DOROTHY DRAKE, who looks very pretty in her blue satin brocade as Emily Pryor, in Peggy Machree, is one of the many girls who have graduated from a convent to the stage—Miss Cecilia Loftus and Miss Hilda Trevelyan being notable examples—and commenced to act about six years ago. One of her first engagements was in Never Again, at the Vaudeville, when her part as a stern old woman necessitated hiding her particularly pretty hair—Miss Drake is a perfect blonde—under a straight, black wig, but she hopes that this will happen "never again." Before the production of Peggy Machree she was on tour with A Country Mouse, in which her sister, Miss Dido Drake, played the chief part. Miss Drake's experiences in The Worst Woman in London were sufficiently trying to discourage any girl from attempting to play the part of an injured heroine of melodrama. At the end of the well-known fight between two women a plate was thrown at Miss Drake, and one night, aiming too well, the Worst Woman struck her on the cheek, inflicting a severe cut. Four stitches had to be put in, and she was out of the cast for a week. The plate incident was omitted on her reappearance. Miss Drake is a very quick study. She played Miss Mary Moore's part, at very short notice, in My Lady of Rosedale, and mastered Miss Mabel Terry-Lewis's lengthy scenes in the same piece in less than a day.

TWO important changes will be made—it is hoped to-night—in the cast of Véronique at the Apollo Theatre. Miss Lottie Venne has been engaged to take up the part of the aristocratic aunt, and Mr Aubrey Fitzgerald has been secured to sustain Mr Fred Emney's old character of M. Loustot.

MR LOUIS BRADFIELD is now playing at Daly's Theatre the part of Bobby Warren in The Cingalee. The rôle has been specially written up to render it worthy of Mr Bradfield's talent.

MR LAWRENCE ALMA TADEMA, R.A., will preside at the first annual dinner in aid of the Benevolent Fund of the Scenic Artists' Association at the Imperial Restaurant on Sunday evening, Feb. 19. In the first list of stewards, issued this week, are Messrs George Alexander, Oscar Asche, Edmund G. Banks, Arthur Bourchier, Richard Douglass, Albert Gilmer, Walter Hann, Gilbert Hare, Frederick Harrison, W. T. Hemsley, Julian Hicks, Wm. Elms Lester, Jas. A. Mathews, Cyril Maude, L. Nathan, H. W. Owen, L. N. Parker, Harry Potts, Wm. Raphael, T. E. Ryan, W. B. Spong, W. Telbin, Geo. Tweddell, H. Lewis Waller, and Sir Philip Burne-Jones, Bart. Tickets, one guinea each, may be had of any of the above gentlemen, or of the secretary of the association, Mr H. Lawrence Harris, at 5, Robert-street, Adelphi, W.C.

MISS ISA BOWMAN is making a hit in Red Riding Hood at the King's Theatre, Hammersmith, with "Cherokee Maid," a song that exactly suits her voice and manner, and a charming duet called "Honey Boy," which she sings with Miss Empsie Bowman. The clever work of the Bowman sisters is too well known as a whole to need describing, but as Miss Isa was the stage pioneer of the family, it is interesting to note that her present reputation as one of the smartest and most captivating principal boys is the outcome of experience, energy, and adaptability. As a tiny girl she played all the big child parts—including Willie Carlyle in eight different versions of East Lynne, Alice, in Alice in Wonderland, and Cinderella, at the Theatre Royal, Manchester, in the first pantomime where the character of principal girl was entrusted to a child—afterwards going in for all sorts of plays and parts as a "grown up." Her three sisters gradually followed suit, all being self-taught and equally ambitious. At the present time, while Miss Isa and Miss Empsie are the life and soul of Mr Mulholland's pretty pantomime, Miss Maggie is playing the title-rôle in The Lady's Maid on tour, and Miss Nellie is appearing in Little Black Sambo and Little White Barbara at the Garrick.

MISS BOWMAN has recently received a most tempting offer to make an Australian tour. Her prosperous season at Gibraltar, a little over a year ago, was an encouragement "to spread her conquests farther." It is an interesting fact that only on two occasions have the Bowman girls appeared on the stage together. It is doubtful whether Miss Eva Moore and her sisters have had even one similar experience, for although they are all professionals, Madame Bertha Moore is a concert vocalist, while Miss Jessie and Miss Decima have chiefly gone in for comic opera. Mr Charles Warner was often supported, some years ago, by his son and daughter. The Misses Berenger have frequently had the chance to play into each other's hands. Old playgoers will remember a time when the Terry sisters were to be seen acting together. The Vokes brothers and sisters will not readily be forgotten. Mr and Mrs Walter Reynolds (Miss Wallis) were recently members of Sir Henry Irving's company, Mrs Reynolds' daughter, Miss Nora Lancaster, being in the cast at the same time, but, as a rule, "family parties" are rare occurrences nowadays behind the footlights.

THE Windsor guardians decided on Wednesday not to permit the workhouse children to visit the local theatre at the invitation of the management to see the pantomime Red Riding Hood. On the other hand, the choir and congregation of one of the Brighton churches have just produced a pantomime, Beauty and the Beast, the vicar of the parish superintending the production, and eight public performances have been arranged for.

MR TREE, after his revival of Much Ado About Nothing at His Majesty's Theatre, will begin to rehearse Mrs Humphry Ward and Mr Louis N. Parker's new play, Agatha, with Miss Viola Tree in the title-part. The piece will be produced at a special matinée for the benefit of Princess Mary's Homes. Mr Tree will not be in the cast, which contains no part suitable for his talent.

MR E. S. WILLARD, with his company, including Mr Cooper Cliffe, Mr J. R. Crauford, Mr H. Cane, Miss Marie Linden, Miss Leila Repton, Miss Faith Reynolds, and Miss Alice Belmore, will sail from Liverpool on Wednesday for New York, where he will produce the late Wilson Barrett's play, Lucky Durham, on the 23 inst.

The costumes worn in The Coming Race, produced by Mr Maskelyne at St. George's Hall on Monday night, are striking and original, all the people of the Vril-ya being attired in vivid colours. Miss Vera Beringer wears a graceful robe of white and pale blue, with a jewelled belt from which hangs her shining vril-staff. One of her arms is bare, the other circled with blue stones, and strips of silk chiffon of the same shade are twisted into her long plait of golden hair. Her second dress is all white, with a beautiful wide scarf of silver gauze. Miss Cassie Bruce, as the boy Taë, is in bright purple, with wings on her shoulders and a cone-shaped, green-blue light in her hair. All the men wear soft, coloured boots, resembling Indian mocassins, rather full leggings, strapped with coloured bands, tunics to the knee, and short cloaks. The automatons that take the place of servants in the country of the coming race are wrapped in violet and red draperies.

AFTER the fall of the curtain at St. George's Hall on Monday Mr Maskelyne was presented with a handsomely illuminated and framed address from some of his friends and the staffs of the old and new Homes of Mystery. The presentation was made by Mr E. R. Reed, one of "our greatest magician's" oldest friends, and the stage was crowded with over a hundred others. Mr Maskelyne suitably acknowledged the gift, which was accompanied by an album, bound in Russia leather, with gold initials, the names of 170 admirers of his skill being engraved within.

THE address runs as follows:—"To John Neville Maskelyne, Esq.—We, whose names are contained in an album accompanying this address, desire to offer to you our sincere and hearty good wishes for the prosperity of your new and important undertaking at St. George's Hall, W., and on your taking leave of the 'Home of Mystery' in Piccadilly, where for an unbroken period of upwards of thirty years your matchless inventive power and able management have provided constantly varying and never-failing scenes of interest, of amusement, and of instruction. The delight you have given to so many thousands of your patrons is practically unprecedented in this country, inasmuch as your tenure of the Egyptian Hall has exceeded that of any other place of amusement in the metropolis. Whilst, as we believe, voicing and joining in the appreciation of the British public of all classes, we desire to add a permanent record of our high esteem of you as a man, a feeling which results from our long personal friendship. To Mrs Maskelyne and to your family, who are so well known to most of us, we also express most kindly feelings, and trust that they may be spared for many years to share in and sympathise with the love and honour entertained towards you.—London, December, 1904."

MRS LANGTRY'S season will commence at Terry's Theatre on the 18th inst. with Mrs Dering's Divorce. The cast will include Mr Leonard Boyne, Mr Frank Hollins, Mr Courtney Thorpe, Mr M'Guckin, Mr H. Tree, Mr N. Wrighton, Mr Frank Collins, Mr Pedro Tastani, Miss Keith Lytton, Miss Flora Bernhard, Miss Katherine Steward, Miss Kittie Davis, Miss Juan Morrison, Miss Beatrice Ferrar, and Mrs Langtry. Mr N. G. Appleby will be Mrs Langtry's business manager.

MR TREE'S production of Much Ado About Nothing at His Majesty's Theatre on Jan. 24 will have in its cast Mr Sydney Brough, Mr Laurence Irving, Mr Basil Gill, Mr Tree, Mr Henry Neville, Mr J. Fisher White, Master Thomas Sampson, Mr S. A. Cookson, Mr Julian L'Estrange, Mr William Haviland, Mr Louis Calvert, Mr Lionel Brough, Mr Francis Chamier, Mr Cecil Rose, Mr J. B. Fraser, Mr S. Yates Southgate, Miss Viola Tree, Miss Muriel Alston, Miss Alice L. Crawford, and Miss Winifred Emery.

MR GEORGE EDWARDES left Euston Station on Wednesday by the steamer train for Liverpool en route for New York by the ss. Majestic. The London and North-Western Railway Company, as a special compliment, placed at his disposal the Royal saloon carriage, which had been very prettily decorated with flowers. Mr Edwardes is going over to produce The Duchess of Dantzic at Daly's Theatre, New York, on Monday week.

AT the first performance at the Duke of York's of Mr Barrie's Peter Pan its two concluding scenes were omitted. One of these was laid in the Tree Tops, and in it some flying children were introduced. The scenes have now been replaced, greatly to the advantage of the general effect.

MR R. C. CARTON has written a farce in three acts, which has been secured by Mr Frank Curzon, who will shortly produce it at the Avenue Theatre.

MISS EDNA MAY'S divorce suit against her husband, Mr Frederick Titus, was concluded in New York on Wednesday. Miss Mona Desmond was named as co-respondent. No defence was offered by Mr Titus, and Miss May obtained a verdict in her favour. She states that she is not going to marry again, but intends to study and try to advance herself in her art. She wants to continue and to make a great name for herself.

THE Marquis and Marchioness of Zetland gave a performance of Mice and Men in their beautiful private theatre attached to Aske on Tuesday. Countess Fitzwilliam appeared as Peggy, and Major Owen-Lewis, D.S.O., as Mark Embury. There was a large attendance of neighbours and friends.

AT the fifth annual dinner of the O. P. Club at the Criterion, on Sunday, Feb. 12, Mr H. B. Irving will respond to the toast of "The Drama," which will be proposed by the president, Mr Algernon L. Collins, and Mr James Welch will answer for that of "The Visitors," proposed by the vice-president Mr J. M. Freshwater. Mr W. T. Stead will deliver an address to the members of the club on Friday, Jan. 13, at the Criterion, entitled "A Tyro's Impressions of the Theatre." Mr Carl Hentschel will occupy the chair.

MR CYRIL MAUDE in his new theatre will have outside the box-office a long, wide corridor, arranged as much as possible to resemble the spacious hall of some cosy country house. There will be a warmly carpeted floor, pictures on the walls, little tables here and there, big fires in the winter months, and plenty of space and seats everywhere, so that there need be no crushing and scrambling as the people come out.

MISS ELLIS JEFFREYS has kindly sent a gift of toys to the Hospital for Sick Children, Great Ormond-street. Amongst the toys distributed to the children in this institution during Christmas were some in memory of the late Corney Grain.

MR C. P. LEVILLY, on Sunday evening, entertained at a dinner at the Victoria Hotel, Sheffield, the members of his Amorelle company, who have recently appeared at the local Lyceum Theatre. After an excellent repast various toasts were honoured, and several members of the company contributed vocal selections. In the course of the evening occasion was taken to testify to the regard in which Mr Levilly is held by the ladies and gentlemen in the cast of Amorelle by presenting him with a handsome silver goblet and a pair of silver candlesticks.

MR LEWIS CASSON, whose remarkable performance of the Statue, in Prunella, at the Court Theatre, is attracting some attention, has just concluded a busy year. Starting in January with Don Pedro, in the Elizabethan Stage Society's suburban tour of Much Ado, he followed with a number of special performances as Romeo and Jaques, for Mr Chas. Fry, in the East-end. Then came an engagement at the Court, under Mr J. H. Leigh, first as Eglamour, in Two Gentlemen of Verona, then as Ferdinand, in the Birthday celebrations, and later as Servilius, in Timon of Athens, with the understudy of the title-rôle. The Stage Society next claimed his services for Mr Joyce (a genial character part), and Fr. Aloysius, a young monk, in Where There is Nothing. A number of pastoral performances, under Mr Ben Greet, Mr Geo. Foss, and Miss Bessie, filled up the summer with Antipholus, Antonio, and Orsino, until Mr Otho Stuart opened at the Adelphi with The Prayer of the Sword, in which Mr Casson played Pico del Amare and understudied Mr Chas. Angelo. Mr Casson also understudied Mr Granville Barker's and other leading parts throughout the autumn series of matinées at the Court, and has been re engaged by Mr Vedrenne for similar work in the forthcoming series. In addition to all this Mr Casson has done a considerable amount of reading work for the British Empire Shakespeare Society, his Macduff having repeatedly attracted favourable notice.

THE first meeting of the council of the Actors' Association this year was held on Tuesday last. The honorary solicitors were requested to brief counsel to appear upon the hearing of a summons in an action pending to recover an amount due to a member; they were also requested to apply for the examination of a debtor in order to obtain evidence of means, with the view of enforcement of a member's claim under an award; they were also requested to advise a member as to her claim. The report of the Finance and General Purposes Committee was received. The council considered the question of holding the annual general meeting at an early date, and gave certain instructions in connection therewith. Four former members were reinstated.

THE Odéon, Paris, being subsidised by the State, the Fine Arts Ministry have taken a wise step in nominating that excellent artist M. Tarride "directeur de la scène." In other words, it is he who will in future attend to all matters connected with the stage, including also the selection of new plays. A few years ago M. Antoine held that position, but as he and M. Ginisty were always at loggerheads, M. Antoine threw up the post and started the theatre that bears his name. Since then, the Odéon has been going from bad to worse, and it is to be hoped that with M. Tarride's able assistance it will once more take up the position to which it can lay claim as our second Théâtre Français. M. Tarride intends to infuse fresh blood into this playhouse by engaging first-class artists. He has already signed an engagement with M. Gémier and that actor's talented wife, Madame Mégard, and the names of Mesdames Suzanne Despres, Yahne, and Blanche Toutain are also mentioned. M. Tarride lately married Mdlle. Marthe Regnier, a charming actress, who, however, will not follow her husband to the Odéon, but will remain with M. Porel at the Vaudeville.

MISS EVELYN MARTHEZE, sister to Miss Italia Conti, mourns the loss of her pet fox terrier Boykie. The dog was an exceedingly clever one, and was well known to members of certain touring companies. It had been the faithful companion of Miss Martheze for over eight years.

CAPTAIN ROBERT MARSHALL'S new piece, which is to be presented in February at Wyndham's Theatre, has only five principal characters. Mr Weedon Grossmith, Mr C. M. Lowne, Mr Vane Tempest, Mrs Theodore Wright, and Miss Nancy Price are in the cast.

MR LOUIS N. PARKER, at the London Institution, Finsbury-circus, on Friday, will read a paper explaining the historical pageant which is to be represented at Sherborne in June in celebration of the 1,200th anniversary of the founding by St. Aldhelm of the town, the bishopric, and the school. Mr Parker has, with the assistance of Messrs James Rhoades and Walter Raymond, written some dramatic scenes for the ceremony, and these he will recite at the London Institution on Friday.

THE sixtieth performance of The Taming of the Shrew will be given at the Adelphi Theatre on the evening of the 18th inst., when a souvenir will be presented to each member of the audience, and Mr Otho Stuart will make an interesting announcement as to his future plans.

MR O. E. LENNON, who is responsible for not a little of the uproarious fun of Aladdin at the Alexandra, Sheffield, is an actor who believes in physical culture. In height he is only—to quote his own words—"five foot nothing;" but he is, nevertheless, an accomplished athlete. Born in London, and one of the best animal actors in the profession, of the school of the late Charles Lauri, he started life as a business man, or rather boy, and went as far as Chicago to try his luck on the stage. Perhaps his best performances, not counting pantomime work, were in A Country Girl, in which he played Barry, on tour, and in H.M.S. Irresponsible, when he had the opportunity of introducing an eccentric dance on the deck of that happy craft.

MR EDWARD COMPTON took a benefit on the 30th ult., at the Theatre Royal, Leamington, when a large and enthusiastic audience witnessed a most successful performance of the new play To-morrow. Mr Compton was called upon for a speech at the close of the piece, and, reminding his hearers of the fact that he had now a special interest in the fortunes of the theatre, he expressed the hope that Leamingtonians would continue and increase their support of Mr Milton Bode and himself in the enterprise.

AT the last meeting of the committee of the Scenic Artists' Association the following gentlemen were unanimously elected honorary members on the nomination of the chairman, Mr Walter Hann:—Sir Squire Bancroft, Messrs Edwin A. Abbey, R.A., Geo. Alexander, Dion Boucicault, Gilbert Hare, J. Martin Harvey, and H. Beerbohm Tree.

MR ROBERT BROUGH and MR HERBERT FLEMING ask us to state that Mr George S. Titheradge has not been engaged by them for their forthcoming Australian tour. Much as they would have liked to have secured that clever artist, their present scheme of plays does not offer any adequate opening for Mr Titheradge, whose London engagements would also preclude the possibility of his accepting any offer that might have been made to him. Negotiations are, however, pending which, it brought to a successful issue, will enable Australian playgoers to renew their acquaintance with their old favourite under Messrs Brough and Fleming's management.

MR DENHAM HARRISON has been engaged to direct the smoking concert of the Scenic Artists' Association at the Caledonian Hotel on Monday next, and has prepared a long and interesting programme for the occasion. Among the artistes who will contribute to it are Miss Iris Vane, with a humorous song, "Just for the look of the thing," composed by Mr Denham Harrison; Miss Yvonne Lamor, Miss Edith Eatherley (with imitations of popular artistes), Miss Ivy Hemsley, Miss Violet Lisle, with a new song by Denham Harrison, entitled "A True Little Woman;" Miss Dolly Harmer, Mr Paul Glazer, violinist; Mr Robert Eadie, Mr Lewis Blackburn, Mr Joe Willis, Mr Shakespeare Stewart; Mr Harry Hemsley, in his sketch entitled Imitations of Children; Mr Edwin Henry, in a humorous sketch at the pianoforte; Mr H. W. Warner, in a flute solo; Kopski, in a pianoforte recital; Mr J. A. Bentham, with a story; Mr Leon Russell, with the prologue from Pagliacci; Mr Lewis Sydney, with a sketch at the pianoforte; Mr Groves Watson, with recitation; Mr G. T. Miles, with a harp solo; Mr Sidney Cooper, Mr Ambrose Thorn, Mr Broughton Black, Mr Hatton M'Cullah, Mr Johnny Banks, and Mr Ralph Lynn. Mr J. Athel Collings has been engaged as accompanist.

MR LAWRANCE GRANT AND MR MALCOLM BARRINGTON, who are touring Joseph Entangled this spring, will, in the week beginning March 6, at the Theatre Royal, Dublin, produce, in conjunction with Mr F. Mouillot, a new farce, in three acts, written by Judge Parry. The company includes Mrs Mouillot, Miss Claire Cavendish, Miss Maxwell, Mr Leveson Lane, Mr Arthur Bell, and Mr Lawrence Grant.

MR C. W. SOMERSET, who created such a deep impression as Zakkuri in The Darling of the Gods at His Majesty's Theatre, will shortly start a five months' tour with The Sorrows of Satan, introducing many new and extraordinary effects.

MR J. BANNISTER HOWARD was installed on Thursday night Worshipful Master of Lodge La Tolerance 538. Mr Howard has made the "record" of being Master of two lodges at the same time, as he already holds the position of Master of the Yorick Lodge.

"ALADDIN" is drawing large audiences at the Marlborough Theatre at each of the ten performances which are given weekly, and bids fair to establish a record in the matter of receipts, the hundreds of children who attend the matinées intensely enjoying the entertainment. A novel feature in advertising here is the erection on the handsome façade of the theatre of two large illuminated photolinol pictures of Harry Tate.

THE Abbey Theatre in Lower Abbey-street, Dublin, was opened last week, one of the plays performed being by Lady Gregory. The scene of this is laid in an Irish village in County Galway, and the plot turns upon the hasty conclusions to which the characters jump regarding a simple incident—the return of a mislaid hayfork to its rightful owner.

A GREAT feature of the German company's programme at the Great Queen-street Theatre next week will be the revival of the stirring military drama Zapfenstreich, which created such a sensation in German military circles. It will be given on the evenings of Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. There will be three performances of Die Weber, on Monday, Tuesday, and a matinée on Saturday.

MR STRATTON, of Birmingham, who presided over the conference of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, at Manchester on Thursday, denounced the encore system as a blot on our concerts. He contended that singers and instrumentalists should be content with a recall, which was quite sufficient testimony to their success.

THE annual general meeting of the members of the Scenic Artists' Association will be held at the Caledonian Hotel on Monday evening, at 8·0 o'clock. Mr Hawes Craven will take the chair, and will be supported by Mr Joseph Harker, the vice-president, and Mr Walter Hann, the chairman.

MR GILBERT HARE AND MRS BROWN POTTER'S forthcoming novelty at the Savoy Theatre—the play by M. Jean Richepin, of which Madame Du Barry is the heroine—is in four acts. The scenery, which will be elaborate and picturesque, will be painted by Mr Walter Hann, Mr Joseph Harker, and Mr Julian Hicks. Mrs Brown Potter will appear as Madame Du Barry and Mr Gilbert Hare as Louis XV.

MR J. E. VEDRENNE, in consequence of the necessary preparations for the second series of "Vedrenne-Barker" matinées, which begins with a revival of Bernard Shaw's play, John Bull's Other Island, will discontinue the evening performances of Prunella. After to-night, matinées will, however, be given each day from Monday until Saturday next.

AT the last monthly meeting, on Tuesday, Jan. 3, of the directors of the Royal General Theatrical Fund, Mr George Alexander in the chair—Messrs Dillon Croker, A. H. Elliott, Hy. Evill, Hy. Loveday, Charles Rock, Bassett Roe, F. P. Stevens, and Hubert Willis—it was unanimously agreed that for the present the usual annual benefit should be discontinued. The chairman said it was a matter of extreme gratification to the committee that, owing to the generosity of the general public and the theatrical profession, together with the legacies the Fund had received, they were able to dispense with the benefit. Thus the dignity of the Fund was greatly increased. He felt assured, if evil times ever fell to the lot of the Fund, and it was necessary to again appeal for assistance, that those who had helped in the past would come forward and assist in placing it once more on a firm basis.

THE annual New Year's entertainment to the annuitants of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution in residence at Croydon was given on Wednesday, and in the evening the Playgoers Lodge (2,705) and Lodge of Tranquility furnished an interesting programme of music, which was contributed to by Miss Essie Andrews, Miss Bessie Freeman, Miss Florence Ogilvy, and Messrs Harrison Latimer, F. T. Daniels, James Godden, Philip Ritte, and Arthur Helmore. Mr C. E. Johnson was the accompanist.

MM. GEORGES GRISON AND PAUL BOUCAUT have written a sensational drama, in five acts and fourteen tableaux, called Le Neveu de Tricoche. The tenth tableau will represent the terrible catastrophe on the Paris Metropolitan Railway, at the Rue du Combat, when several people were burnt to death a few months ago.

AT the close of act one of Sunday on Monday evening an appeal was made to the audience at the Theatre Royal, Huddersfield, on behalf of the Huddersfield Infirmary and Victoria Nurses' Institute, after which nurses in uniform made a collection in the house, which realised close on £6. The gracious action of the managements, both local and of the touring company, in consenting to the appeal is another example of the fine generosity the profession ever shows in the cause of charity. Needless to say, it was highly appreciated by the directors of both appealing institutions.

MR W. SCOTT PHIPP appears to have struck lucky with his first pantomime production, Babes in the Wood, at the West London Theatre. He is not only general manager but is also responsible for the book and music, of which the London press have been unanimous and generous in their praise.

MR STANLEY ROGERS, the author and producer of Aladdin at the Brixton Theatre, has had a long and practical experience of pantomime work, having been connected with the production of nineteen of these Christmas entertainments. He is the author of thirty-two "books of the words," and in one season alone eleven of his librettos have been in use.

MR LEWIS WALLER will appear in His Majesty's Servant at the Imperial Theatre on Monday for the 100th time.—Mr Frank Sherlock, who has just concluded an engagement with Mr William Greet lasting over ten years, having played the part of Roberts, in The Lady Slavey, over 2,500 nights, has been engaged by Mr F. E. Philpott for the principal comedy part in The Girl from Japan, which starts on tour the first week in February.—Mr Wilfrid Compton, who has concluded a long engagement with Mr E. C. Stafford as Gibson, in The Private Secretary, has been engaged by Mr Macowan for his Monsieur Beaucaire tour.

MR RUSSELL WALLETT, in the course of a performance of Red Riding Hood at the King's Theatre, Hammersmith, this week, introduced some telling lines referring to the fall of Port Arthur, mentioning General Nogi, and concluding:—

Though Port Arthur fell,
Let's honour brave Stoessel.
Both are first-class fighters—yes, they are!

Delivered with Mr Wallett's usual point and expression, the verses won enthusiastic applause.

MR CHARLES HARRINGTON'S Uncle Tom's Cabin company has been so successful at the New Victoria Hall and Opera House, Halifax, this week, that the management gave an extra matinée on Thursday, making nine performances during the new year week. Mr Harrington's company gave 384 performances of Uncle Tom's Cabin in 1904.

WE regret to learn that Mrs J. W. Currans died on Christmas morning from heart failure, consequent on an attack of bronchitis. Mrs Currans was very popular as hostess at the old Occidental, and at other theatrical resorts under Mr Currans's control. She was well known in the profession, and assisted him greatly at the many West-end theatres with which he was connected in the course of a long business career. Mr Currans has been seriously ill for a long time, but is now recovered, and hopes soon to be at work again.

THE library presented to Shakespeare's town by Mr Andrew Carnegie was opened on Wednesday by the Mayor, Mr G. M. Bird. It will be remembered that the erection of the library on the proposed site was strongly opposed by Miss Marie Corelli, who lives at Mason Croft, Stratford-on-Avon. Miss Corelli brought a libel action against Mr Fred Winter, one of the local town councillors, who said that, "if the library had been going to bear the name of Corelli instead of that of Carnegie, she would have supported the scheme." She was awarded one farthing damages.

TEN children who appeared at Marlborough-street Police-court on Wednesday were granted licences to perform at theatres. Five girls appear at the Alhambra, two boys and two girls in The Talk of the Town, produced on Thursday at the Lyric Theatre, and one girl in Peter Pan at the Duke of York's Theatre.

MR HARRY YORKE, the proprietor of the Theatre Royal, Blackburn, has secured from Mr Charles Frohman the performing rights in Great Britain and Ireland — the West-end London theatres excepted—of Sherlock Holmes, and will take the ever-popular piece on tour in August.

THE pantomime of Sinbad, which was unfortunately burnt out at the Crouch End Opera House, will be presented with fresh scenery at the Dalston Theatre on Monday by Mr Geo. Brydon-Phillips's company, which includes Jessie Preston, Mr Walter Keen, the Maples, Snow and Farren, Miss Nellie Randall, and Mr Harry Gardner.

THE total number of pirated copies seized by the Musical Copyright Association's agents in 1904 was 913,252, in addition to 116 sets of photo zinco blocks and thirty-three sets of transfers.

Mr Seymour Hicks has a quality which is very valuable in the author of a musical play—he has perfect faith in the good-nature of his audience. The patrons of this class of entertainment are not very exacting as to consistency, provided always that certain indispensable requisites for their enjoyment are supplied. Though The Talk of the Town has a plot and aims at a certain vraisemblance, the story is never allowed to stand in the way of the introduction, à propos de rien, of any effective item which may suggest itself. Like the lights on the stage, the plot is "switched off" again and again, that a milliner's shop may be temporarily turned into an Icelandic village, or that the chorus may move to and fro in swings lowered from the flies. Chartered libertinism is, however, one of the privileges of the musical play producer; and, when all the interpolations are acceptable, no one is likely to complain that they have been thrust in "head and shoulders." The hero of the "book" is Lieutenant Reggie Drummond, who has run through his money, and is about to be "sold up"—racehorses and all. The representative of the Brothers English, two moneylenders who have advanced Drummond large sums, is Jerry Snipe, a "man in possession," who comes to Drummond's place near Windsor, with a lackadaisical wife and four children. At the eleventh hour, Drummond receives a telegram from a rich friend, one Lieut. Richard Hambledon, who, it appears, has just inherited a large fortune, and who offers to get him—Reggie—out of his difficulties. Now, the real heiress to this fortune is Ellaline Lewin, the humble protegée of a certain Lady Nightingale. When Drummond learns that Hambledon has delayed his arrival in England for a week, he is in despair. The only expedient that suggests itself is for Snipe to impersonate Hambledon, and, by signing cheques and making promises, to gain time till the real man arrives to the rescue. It should now be mentioned that Drummond is engaged to Ellaline, who, like her lover, is ignorant of her inheritance. When Snipe, in a Lancer uniform, is received by Drummond's aristocratic friends as Hambledon, the fun which is created may be imagined. The "man in possession" loses his head, signs cheques ad lib., and has a "good time" generally, till the real Hambledon, who has now discovered that he will not come into the fortune, turns up and discloses the actual state of affairs. Then the terrified Snipe is attacked by the big brother of a girl whom Hambledon has jilted, and is generally hackled and harassed until, by the disclosure of Ellaline's wealth and the winning of a valuable race by one of Drummond's horses, all is made to end happily.

The music, by Mr H. E. Haines and others, is always spirited and suitable, though it does not contain many "haunting" melodies, and neither pains nor expense have been spared in the dressing and mounting of the play. Mr Hawes Craven has painted two delightful scenes; Mr Percy Anderson has designed some very dainty dresses, and the supply of feminine loveliness is very large and liberal. The dresses and the chorus are, indeed, very strong points of the entertainment; and various agreeable dances have been invented and arranged by Mr Edward Royce, jun., who has stage-managed the production admirably. Miss Winifred Hart Dyke, the principal dancer, doing some graceful and captivating solos. The stage picture is constantly changing, and the costumes are in exquisite taste, their effect, combined with the personal advantages of their wearers, being most exhilarating. The Talk of the Town plays a little over the three hours, and the management may see its way to delete some of the more extravagant business in the second act in connection with the pursuit of the Dutch money-lenders by the Indian servants.

An entertainment of this kind resolves itself into a question of artists and of effects; and The Talk of the Town is well supplied with both. The mainstay of the production is, of course, Mr Walter Passmore, whose part of Jerry Snipe suits him exactly. With all his eccentric absurdity, Mr Passmore's "man in possession" is not an absolutely impossible impersonator of an eccentric officer; and Mr Passmore, while doing full justice to the extravagant drollery of the situation, never goes beyond the bounds of reasonable probability—or, at any rate, of probability sufficient in strength for that elastic entertainment, a musical play. Mr Passmore has a neat and natural song in the first act, "Me and my little brood," which he renders with all the necessary point and tact. The culmination of his comic triumph comes, of course, when the man in possession, after having "spent with both hands" money not his own, learns that he is likely to be liable to arrest and imprisonment. There is also the funny scene above alluded to when Snipe, furiously attacked by the ex-prize-fighter, receives the latter's blows on a milliner's "dummy," while returning them to the best of his ability. Mr. Passmore is also extremely amusing in the disguise of an old Scotch nurse; and his travesty of "Bonnie Dundee" sends the house into ecstasies, and evokes a unanimous encore. Mr Henry H. Lytton as Lieutenant Reggie Drummond acts and sings with his usual ability and earnestness. He renders a dashing ditty in the first act, in which the Lieutenant boasts that he has "always played the game," with just the reckless gaiety which is required; and his singing of "My Ellaline" in the second division of the entertainment is received with enthusiastic favour. Mr Lytton must also be praised for his very dramatic delivery of a monologue descriptive of a horse race. Mr Robert Evett is light, bright, and alert as the Duke of Topford, and gives the fullest swing to a Roulette number and to a pretty solo, "Two Eyes." Mr Arthur Harrold makes the most of his brief opportunity as Lieut. Richard Hambledon, and Mr Reginald Compton's vast proportions and broad, West Country comedy are employed with excellent results in the part of Private Belsey. Messrs M. R. Morand and Stanley Brett are curiously comical as the two Dutch moneylenders; Mr A. Boielle is efficient as Cyril Slipp; and Mr Frank Elliston is duly sharp and emphatic as the American solicitor, J. Ochletree Ott. Mr E. Torrence and Mr Rudolph Lewis do good work as the Indian servants. Very vivacious and active is Miss Maudi Darrell as Madame Modiste. She gives the best value to a neatly written song about trimming a hat, and in pretty Dutch costume sings about "Tina Schwartz" very nicely, and dances with great skill and smartness. Miss Agnes Fraser is a charming representative of Ellaline Lewin, and brings down the house by her dainty and spontaneous delivery of an "Early Closing Day" ditty. Miss Fraser's bewitching personality is a powerful factor of her success. Miss Annie Esmond gives a satisfactory little sketch as Lady Nightingale; and Miss Gertrude Thornton and Miss Lydia West are pleasing exponents of the parts of Marjorie and Mabel. An embodiment of genuine merit, conspicuous by its real artistic value, is Miss Sydney Fairbrother's Geraldine Evelyn Snipe. Every detail is carefully studied, and Miss Fairbrother shows distinct relish and appreciation of the humour of the rôle. She speaks "through music" some quaint verses about a young man who came whistling in the days of Mrs Snipe's youth and beauty; and, altogether, Miss Fairbrother's creation is intensely, though quietly, effective. Miss Olive Morrell as the gipsy girl, June, looks very handsome, and, aided by the accessories already mentioned, makes the most of her ballad in the second act about "A Little Laplander."

The piece was received at the Lyric Theatre on Thursday with demonstrative enthusiasm, those principally concerned in the production being called before the curtain and warmly applauded. Judged by the canons which apply to this particular class of entertainment, there appears to be no reason why The Talk of the Town should not be added to the list of popular successes of the same sort; and Mr William Greet may be warmly congratulated on his company and his costumes.

REOPENING OF THE HAYMARKET.

It is too early as yet to judge completely the comforts and conveniences of the altered Haymarket Theatre. The vestibule and corridors are, as yet, unpapered and undecorated; and the effect, of course, on entering is a little cold. When, however, the auditorium is surveyed, there is seen to be no want of warmth and splendour. The colour-scheme of the house is red and gold, used in broad masses. The propinquity of the dress-circle to stalls which gave the house, in its former state, its peculiar character has been eliminated. The pit goes back under the projecting dress-circle in the usual way, and there are only two tiers. The ornamentation of the proscenium, the boxes, and the front of the circles is in bold and lavish style. The stall seats are extremely comfortable, and under each, accessible from the back, are two convenient receptacles for hats and coats—an excellent arrangement. Not only are the exits numerous; their positions are marked by transparencies which are commendably conspicuous.

The reopening attraction on Monday evening was Messrs W. W. Jacobs and Louis N. Parker's farce, in three acts, entitled Beauty and the Barge, which was produced at the New Theatre on Tuesday, Aug. 30. No change has been made in the cast; and the performance of the laughter-evoking piece is as clever and complete as it was in St. Martin's-lane. Mr Cyril Maude repeats his quaint and humorous embodiment of Captain James Barley, having added to it many little droll embellishments. Mr Kenneth Douglas is the ideal of a hearty, resolute young naval officer; and Mr H. Marsh Allen, with his agreeable personality and quiet, natural method, is excellent in every way as Herbert Manners. Mr Edmund Maurice's Major Smedley is the same forcible and funny impersonation; and Mr Lennox Pawle's Tom Codd exudes absurdity and unctuous drollery at every pore. Mr Robert Bottomley plays the "third hand," Augustus, neatly; and Mr Frederick Volpé is ponderously characteristic as John Dibbs. Mr E. M. Robson as the fussy little landlord creates roars of laughter by his odd and original embodiment; and Miss Adela Measor's silky sweetness and plaintive polish as Mrs Smedley, form an excellent foil to the Major's intemperate energy. Miss Jessie Bateman is very sweet and winsome as Ethel Smedley, and employs also decisive acuteness which makes the part prominent. Miss Rita Jolivet is pretty, bright, and vivacious as Lucy Dallas. Miss Mary Brough gives a delightfully accurate depiction of a type familiar to all who, to use an old author's expression, "lye in ale-houses;" and Mrs Charles Calvert is simply irresistible as Mrs Baldwin, her well-known style suiting the part exactly. There was plenty of laughter in the course of the performance of Beauty and the Barge at the Haymarket on Monday, and the piece went as well as ever. It was preceded by That Brute Simmons, in which Mr Volpe, Mr W. Cheesman, and Miss Carlotta Zerbini acted with the same success as in the production of Messrs Morrison and Sargent's most diverting little piece at the New Theatre in August last.

THE GERMAN THEATRE.

The German theatre could not have given a more convincing proof of the amazingly wide range of its répertoire and the splendid versatility of its members than by producing, as it has just done, two such widely different plays as Old Heidelberg and Die Weber in one week. The German drama has been productive of many far more real, powerful, and original plays, but hardly of one which could be compared to Alt Heidelberg in delightful atmosphere, romantic interest, and natural charm. What could, for instance, be more lovable than the part of Dr. Juettner, especially if handled by an artist of Herr Andresen's rare accomplishment? Here is, indeed, an artist of a high order. A capital piece of acting was also done by Herr Walther as Lutz, and the performances of Herr Stock as Asterberg and Herr Wieburger as the landlord could hardly have been improved upon. Credit is also due to Herr Pabst for his singularly refined acting as Karl Heinz, and to Fräulein Grawz, whose Kaethie will long be remembered for its blending of spontaneous humour and pathos. Mention should also be made of Herr Leyrer's masterly performance as the Prime Minister. The play was greeted with enthusiasm.

It is a "far cry" from the idyllic environment of Alt-Heidelberg to the miserable dwellings of the Silesian weavers in 1840. It is now ten years since the play was performed first, but it has lost none of its attraction as one of the most powerful and human dramas of modern times. The realistic method in which the attack against the sweating of the weavers is driven home is, it is true, depressing, but far too vivid and forcible to be gloomy. The play, quite apart from its dramatic and literary qualities, is notable inasmuch as its production was greatly instrumental in improving the condition of the poor weavers. That the German Theatre, with its small cast and modest means, should have given us such an impressive performance, reflects credit upon the stage-management of Herr Behrend, who had only five rehearsals. The play does not contain any star-part, the hero being, like in the old Greek tragedies, the people. Mention should, however, be made of the realistic performances of Herren Andresen, Stock, Wieburger, Leyrer, and Behrend, and Fräuleins L'Arronge, Gademann, and Weiss, and all the representatives of the forty-three speaking parts discharged their duties in an earnest and artistic manner.

MR PAUL ARTHUR is now sustaining in Lady Madcap at the Prince of Wales's Theatre the part originally played by Mr Aubrey Fitzgerald.

CAPTAIN WELTON DALE, the popular lessee of the Tunbridge Wells Opera House, who is leaving England this month for South Africa on a starring tour in old English comedy, in a company in which he has an interest, was the recipient of several presentations on Saturday evening last at a valedictory performance. Prominent among them was a fitted travelling bag and an enlarged photo. of the theatre staff, which was presented on their behalf by the acting-manager, Mr F. E. Manaton.

The Scarlet Pimpernel was first performed at the Theatre Royal, Nottingham, on Oct. 15, 1903, where it met with a most enthusiastic first-night reception. The audience assembled at the New Theatre on Thursday night followed suit in the warmth of their welcome to the new play and the heartiness of their greeting when Miss Julia Neilson and Mr Fred Terry made their appearance. There were a few dissentients in the gallery, it is true, but they hardly counted in face of the hurricane of applause which broke out after the final fall of the curtain. Judging by this double favourable verdict, The Scarlet Pimpernel should have a long and prosperous run. And the secret of the success undoubtedly achieved lies in the fact that an interesting story is vividly presented, and that the opportunities for powerful and impressive acting are taken full advantage of by all concerned in the production. When the somewhat too noisy first scene has been toned down a trifle, and the last act has undergone some slight compression, there will be little cause for complaint. The period of the play is 1792, and the Scarlet Pimpernel is the name given to a mysterious being who is known to be the leader of a small band of English gentlemen whose object is to assist French Royalists to take refuge in England, and so escape the guillotine. Lady Blakeney, formerly a famous French actress, has, through the wiles and duplicity of a certain Mons. Chauvelin, unwittingly caused the downfall of the Marquis De St. Cyr. Her husband, Sir Percy, apparently only a fop of the period, without any serious interest in life, plays a double part. He is no other than the Scarlet Pimpernel, though his own wife is unaware of it. She complains that he has changed from the ardent lover to the cold, unsympathetic husband. The reason of this change is that he has discovered that she has acted as a spy, and he has a contempt for such conduct. Chauvelin arrives in London, ostensibly as the accredited envoy of the French Government, his real purpose, however, being to endeavour to discover who is the redoubtable Scarlet Pimpernel. He becomes possessed of certain letters, one being written by Armand St. Just, the brother of Lady Blakeney, in which he declares his detestation of the infamous doings of the Revolutionary party in France. Knowing Lady Blakeney's intense love for Armand, Chauvelin uses this as a means to compel her help in finding out who is the Scarlet Pimpernel. Sir Percy resolves to save Armand from the fate which his indiscreet letter is likely to bring about, and departs for France. The astute Chauvelin, always on the watch, has found out that Sir Percy and the Scarlet Pimpernel are one and the same. Lady Blakeney makes a similar discovery shortly after he husband's departure, and she is torn with remorse that by her action the lives of both Sir Percy and her brother are in jeopardy. She bravely resolves to follow, and is in time to witness the meeting of her husband and Chauvelin at Calais. The Frenchman is completely outwitted in spite of all his well-laid plans, and the play ends with the reconciliation of husband and wife.

Miss Julia Neilson has, perhaps, never been better suited than she is in the part of Lady Blakeney. The handsome dresses set off her tall, commanding figure to great advantage, and she has just the graceful walk and queenly bearing that fit in with the character. Her acting, sound and safe all through, is particularly effective in the third act, in the interview with Sir Percy and also when she learns that he is the Scarlet Pimpernel, and has apparently gone to his death. At the conclusion of this scene the curtain was raised again and again. Mr Fred Terry has by no means an easy task in portraying the part of a man who is assuming a rôle for a certain object, and only occasionally permits a glimpse of his real character. The light-hearted foppery and careless indifference of this supposed Court butterfly are admirably portrayed, and a refreshing briskness and spirit pervade the whole performance. Mr Horace Hodges supplies an exceedingly clever picture of Chauvelin—watchful, ever on the alert, and determined to win his object at any cost. The other characters are of no great importance. Mr Alfred Kendrick gives a good impersonation of Sir Andrew Ffoulkes, and Lord Anthony Dewhurst and Lord Grenville are carefully embodied by Mr Malcolm Cherry and Mr Sydney Stirling. Mr L. Rage Dunrobin plays with earnestness as Armand St. Just, and the Comte De Tournai and the Vicomte, his son, have able exponents in Mr Charles A. Doran and Mr Leon M. Lion. Mr D. J. Williams is well placed as the landlord of the Fisherman's Rest, and Mr Hermann Griffiths as mine host of The Lion D'Or is amusingly gruff and surly. Mr Rudge Harding is entitled to praise for his portrait of the Prince of Wales, afterwards George IV. Mrs Walter Edwin is a dignified Comtesse De Tournai, and Miss Mary Mackenzie a winsome Suzanne. Miss Kathleen Doyle as Sarah Jellyband and Miss Marion Sterling as Mère Brogard deserve credit for neat character sketches. Mr Cyril Baleine as Jimmy Pitkin and Mr Horace as Harry Waite lend efficient assistance. A minuet, arranged by Mr John D'Auban, is danced in the second act, the charming dresses of the ladies being greatly admired. The music for the play was specially composed by Mr Raymond Roze.

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, THURSDAY, DEC. 29, 1904.—The theatrical year has ended somewhat tamely. We were promised some new productions before Dec. 31, but these have been withheld, and will not see the footlights until 1905 is well launched. Fewer plays have been brought out during the last twelve months than in the preceding year; and we also note with regret that as regards quality these are much below the average. In fact, Oiseaux de Passage and Armide and Gildis are the only works produced during the year about whose literary merits our theatrical press has been unanimous. A few years ago one of our playwrights started working for "exportation," with his eye on England and America, and I understood that the man's industry proved lucrative. Unfortunately, he has had imitators, and a nice little syndicate was even formed to "work" the United Kingdom. As it turned out, however, the United Kingdom did not respond to the call, and showed a decided disinclination to acclimatise these efforts on English soil; and, if some of our French playwrights are not a little more careful, they will find what they term the highest "market" altogether closed against them. Much of our rubbish therefore finds its way into Germany, where it is readily taken—the German playgoer having apparently a stronger digestion than his colleague in other countries. The year which has elapsed will still be a memorable one on account of the trouble raised about the Theatrical Trust question, and which may deal a death blow to the Société des Auteurs. These gentlemen are now trying to smooth matters over; but they are not likely to succeed.

THE first novelty at the Comédie-Française will be Le Duel, a three-act comedy, by M. Henri Lavedan, the author of Le Marquis De Priola.

M. ANTOINE has blossomed into an ardent Shakespearian, and intends to give a whole series of Shakespeare's plays. The next work to be brought out at the Théâtre Antoine will be Romeo and Juliet, which M. Louis De Gramont is now translating into French.

AT the Bouffes-Parisiens M. Bour has put into rehearsal M. Georges Berr's new comedy Les Berluchon. The date of the première has, however, not yet been fixed, as Rabelais is still enjoying a good run.

M. MICHAUD, manager of the Nouveautés, is well supplied with novelties for the coming season. The first will be M. Zamacoïs' Gigolo, after which we are promised L'Ange du Foyer, a three-act comedy by MM. Robert De Flers and Armand De Caillavet, to be followed by Le Mari de Loulou, comedy-vaudeville in three acts by MM. Maurice Soulié and Henri De Gorsse.

M. GEORGES COURTELINE'S play La Conversion d'Alceste is to be brought out at the Comédie-Française on Jan. 15, the anniversary of Molière's birth, to be preceded by an "à-propos" by M. Ch. Gruyer. The cast will comprise M. Mayer, M. Dessonnes, M. Croué, M. Brunot, and Mdlle. Lara.

THE Bal Tabarin has inaugurated its season with a remarkable chorigraphic intermede by the maître-de-ballet, M. Eugenio, wherein Mdlles. Will Rys and the Sisters Mayo distinguished themselves greatly. The clever draughtsman Willette has ornamented the entrance of the Bal Tabarin with three remarkable frescoes, the one representing Eve and the Serpent gracefully skipping being particularly striking.

THE little Théâtre Des Mathurins scored a genuine success with M. Gaston Duthil's amusing comedy Les Biftecks, excellently interpreted by Mdlle. Alice Vamont and MM. Victor Boucher and Berthelier fils.

PARIS, THURSDAY, JAN. 5.—The beginning of the year is the time when our great music halls launch their "Revues," and the Folies-Bergère, the first in the field, has given us an entertainment specially manufactured for the frequenters of this establishment. The Parisian delights in "Revues," which suit his temperament. He knows that, from the Prime Minister to the policeman, everybody will come in for his share of chaff. He is ready to enjoy the amusing "couplets," and he will not blush at the highly spiced jokes that will fall on him like hail. But, in order to understand these jokes, and also the many political allusions, more than restaurant-French is required; for which reason the real Parisian "Revue" offers little interest to the stranger. The Folies-Bergère have fully understood this; and, as this place is chiefly frequented by English and Americans, with their wives and daughters, the management have placed before them a "Revue" which appeals more to the eye than to the intellect. M. Victor De Cottens, the well-know dramatist, has acquitted himself admirably of his task, and the Folies-Bergère management, on their part, have done things royally. As a rule, in a "Revue" there is a campère and a commère, who explain the different tableaux to the audience. In this instance we had not less than six commères—splendid women, covered in jewels. One of them, Miss Withney, an English lady, was particularly admired. Miss Withney's rôle consisted chiefly in looking beautiful, and this she did to perfection. Most of the jokes—all of them of a harmless nature—were within everybody's reach. Thus Fragson's clever song about the Spanish nobleman whom a set of adventurers tried to despoil of his title and wealth was very much appreciated. A most amusing tableau was also supplied in the Paris-Monte-Carlo Raid, where we see a royal personage, with his well-known beard, rushing in his motor-car through towns and villages, smashing up everything he comes across. Altogether, the new "Revue" proved a big success; and Mr Fragson made a great hit. Everybody is sorry at his leaving us to return to England, for he is not only a talented artist, but one of the most popular figures on the music hall stage.

WHEN Resurrection was brought out at the Odéon M. Andre Calmettes was to have impersonated Nekludoff. At the last moment, however, the rôle was given to M. Dumeny. Now that the work will be transferred to the Porte-Saint-Martin M. Calmettes' services have been secured; and Madame Berthe Bady will again appear as La Maslova.

AT the Sarah Bernhardt Theatre they are busy rehearsing Victor Hugo's well-known drama Angelo, Tyran de Padoue. Madame Sarah Bernhardt will, of course, play the principal part, that of La Tisbé; and the other rôles will be taken by Mdlle. Blanche Dufrène, Mdlle. Seylor, Mdlle. Kerwich, and MM. De Max, Pierre Magnier, Desjardins, Densubourg, and Krauss. The première has been fixed for the 12th inst.

"LE CRIME D'AIX" will soon be withdrawn from the bill at the Ambigu to make room for La Conquete de l'Air, an ultra-modern play, founded on an aërostatic discovery, which, a few months ago, gave rise to some discussion in scientific circles. The two clever actors, MM. Dieudonné and Séverin-Mars, have been specially engaged for the leading parts.

IT is the ambition of all playwrights to have their works accepted by the Comédie-Française; but even when this piece of good fortune has befallen them years may elapse before the plays see the footlights. M. Catulle Mendes, having got tired of working for the production of his comedy Scarron, has asked M. Claretie to return him his MS., and his comedy will be brought out at the Gaîté, with M. Coquelin in the title-rôle. The play is in five acts, and in verse.

IT was a curious coincidence that in the same week M. Antoine (at the Théâtre Antoine), M. Lucien Guitry (at the Renaissance), and Madame Le Bargy (at the Gymnase) should have met with an accident, from which, however, they have by now recovered. It was rather rough on M. Franck, who, on two consecutive nights, had to give back the money taken at the doors—£250—nearly the maximum at the Gymnase.

THE next novelty at the Théâtre Antoine will be Le Meilleur Parti, comedy, in four acts, by M. Maurice Maindron, which plays in the sixteenth century. As usual, M. Antoine will devote much care and attention to the staging and costumes.

WE are also promised the following premières:—At the Odéon, Le Patrimoine, by M. Ambroise Janvier; at the Vaudeville, Petite Peste; at the Renaissance, La Massière, by M. Jules Lemaître; and at the Théâtre Molière, L'Instinct, three acts, by M. Henry Kistemaekers, and La Soutane, three acts, by M. Arthur Bernède.

"L'ŒIL CREVE," revived at the Variétés, has not enthused the audience. The work, brought out in 1867, no longer suits the taste of the day, and both music and libretto seem woefully old-fashioned. M. Samuel, however, has done wonders in the way of scenery. What they want, however, at the Variétés are artists with voices.

DEATH OF MR. EDWARD ROSE.

Mr Edward Rose, dramatist and critic, died at his residence, 30, Lyndhurst-road, Hampstead, on Saturday night. He was not troubled with any serious illness during his life, but latterly a weakness of the heart made itself apparent, and he was advised by his medical man that he must avoid excitement, but no serious result of his ailment was anticipated in the near future. He was, however, suddenly taken ill on Saturday, and medical advice was at once sought. He rapidly became worse, and expired about ten o'clock. He leaves a widow and a daughter aged about fifteen.

The deceased was a son of Dr. Caleb Rose, of Swaffham, where he was born on Aug. 7, 1849, his father being, in his later years, a well-known resident of Ipswich. He became articled, on leaving school, to a local firm of solicitors, but his bent for the drama, thus early displaying itself, led him to write a comedietta, entitled Our Farm, and this was produced at the Queen's Theatre in 1872. It met with gratifying success, running for a hundred consecutive nights, and soon after he abandoned the pursuit of the law for the less prosaic career of a man of letters. Amongst his early friends were Mr Beerbohm Tree, before he went on the stage, Mr Bernard Shaw, and Mr Sidney Webb. After he took up his abode in London, he wrote a good deal for The Era, the Illustrated London News, and Fraser's Magazine. His first great success on the stage was a dramatised version of Vice Versâ, which ran for several months at the Strand, but his best-known plays undoubtedly were The Prisoner of Zenda and Under the Red Robe. Agatha Tylden was produced with success in 1892, at the Haymarket, at which theatre Mr Rose was himself on the stage as an actor. He also played at the Strand, Globe, and other theatres. Amongst his later plays were In Days of Old produced at the St. James's Theatre in 1899, and (in collaboration) English Nell. He wrote several plays for Mrs Langtry, for the American stage. For three years he acted as dramatic critic of the Sunday Times, and displayed qualities in this capacity which certainly enhanced his reputation as a writer. His knowledge of dramatic literature was most extensive, and his acquaintance with European languages enabled him to read the works of foreign writers in their mother tongue. He understood French, German, Danish, and two or three other languages. He did not neglect, however, the dramatic writers of his own country, and was a great student of Shakespeare, being president of the New Shakespeare Society.

After the loss in 1893 of his eldest daughter Lucy, Mr Rose ceased dramatic work for a time. The blow was a severe one (the child was nine or ten years of age), and it took him some time to recover from it. During the past year he wrote a Society play in collaboration with Mrs Craigie, and it was accepted by Mr Cyril Maude for production at the Haymarket. Within the past month he had arranged to write a play in connection with Mr Anthony Hope. Mr Rose was president of the Playgoers' Club some seven or eight years ago.

Of late years Mr Rose took an interest in education, and, in addition to founding a prize for political economy at Ipswich School, he founded, under the auspices of the London County Council, a scholarship for girls, called the Lucy Rose Exhibition, in memory of his daughter. He had also become an active member of the management of the King Alfred School at Hampstead, a school managed on the most modern lines. He was on the Council of the Garden City Association, and was a member of the Green Room Club and the National Liberal Club. Mr Rose was of a most genial amiable disposition, and his death will be regretted by a host of friends.

The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon at Ipswich, the chief mourners present being Mrs Rose (the widow) and Miss Dorothy Rose (daughter), Dr. C. S. Sherrington, and Mr W. S. and Mr G. S. Sherrington.

FUNERAL OF MR. FRANK CELLI.

The remains of the late Mr Francis Standing, professionally known as Frank Celli, were interred in the family vault at Highgate Cemetery on Tuesday afternoon. Here lie buried his father, James Standing (of H.M.C.S.), his mother, and a sister. The principal mourners were:—Gordon Standing, son; Miss Helen Standing (Mrs Clifford Standing), sister; Mr Clifford Standing and Mr James Standing, cousins; Messrs Percy, Aubrey, and Cecil Standing, nephews; Mr Currie and Dr. Philip Birch, executors; Mr Thomas Wright, brother-in-law; and Master Richard Standing, nephew.

There were also present Messrs Barton M'Guckin, William Booty, Stanley Patterson, Scott Dalgleish, Mrs Pierce and Miss Alice Pierce, and other personal friends of the deceased. The leaden coffin was enclosed in an oak case, with brass fittings, and the plate bore the name of deceased, the date of his death, and his age. Amongst the wreaths received was one from the Savage Club (of which he was a member); a lyre, composed of evergreens, "a tribute of affection from his old friend," Stanley Patterson; Dr. Philip Birch and family; Miss Alice Pierce, "With deepest sympathy;" Mr and the Misses Butterfield, Mrs Deane Brand, the family, and others. The funeral arrangements were satisfactorily carried out by Mr W. S. Bond, of Shepherd's-bush-green.

THE HENRY CRISP FUND.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—I wish to thank most heartily Mr Cyril Maude and The Era and all subscribers for raising the fund on my behalf, and which has yielded so successful a result. The remembrance of the kindness of the profession to me in my "days of darkness" will prove a great comfort to me.

Yours faithfully, HENRY CRISP.

MISS JULIA KENT is making a great hit as Robin Hood at the Grand Theatre, Islington, this season. Her performance is finished in every detail, her dresses are original in design and effect, and her song "The Millionaire" goes most merrily. This clever little lady is, indeed, the life and soul of the pantomime.

AT the Theatre Royal, Seaham Harbour, this week Mr F. S. Glibert and company opened on Monday in Maritana. Don Caesar was cleverly embodied by Mr Glibert. Don Jose was submitted by Mr Fletcher Sansome with telling effect; Mr H. Halpin as the King of Spain did meritorious work; Maritana was played in finished style by Miss Marie D'Alcourt; and the same remark applies to Miss Sara Marchant's rendering of Lazarillo.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, THURSDAY, JAN. 5.—This is an incredible mixture of Björnson, Ibsen, Mirbeau, and other well-known writers, and may be reckoned among the failures of the Royal Schauspiel Haus. It is a matter of astonishment that such an olla-podrida could be accepted and so much conscientious work thrown away upon the rehearsals. A few words will suffice for the plot, which is as follows:—The villain of the piece is Otto Dieterlin, a man of iron will and unscrupulous conscience. He is bent upon getting an important spinning and cotton factory, which is a limited company, into his own hands, and he makes use of every kind of trick to obtain his ends. Having managed successfully to hoodwink the shareholders Dieterlin proceeds to rob his own mother, who dies of heart apoplexy in consequence before our eyes. Dieterlin goes on his evil way, as the Germans express it, "over corpses;" he is a very bad villain indeed. Suddenly it becomes dark on the stage while a meeting of shareholders is proceeding; there is a great noise behind the scene, and we learn with proportionate horror that Dieterlin's son has been caught by a wheel and torn to pieces by the machinery. Thus Nemesis gradually overtakes the evil-doer, and by degrees we are enlightened—through a series of unskilfully arranged scenes and conversations—as to the antecedents of the Dieterlin family. Some twenty years ago, it appears, Otto Dieterlin had borrowed money from the cashier of a bank, Herr Eimbeck, who lent it for love of Otto's mother. Eimbeck, not being paid back, defrauded the bank and was sent to prison. When his time was over he returned home to find Otto Dieterlin had been consoling his young grass widow, and though the liaison was said to be platonic, Eimbeck takes poison and dies. Dieterlin proposed in course of time to Marie Eimbeck, but was refused and married Rita, a particularly unsympathetic lady who leaves him on the death of their son. Now that Dieterlin is entirely alone in the world, Marie Eimbeck comes to him. Although for twenty years they have not met she has cherished affection for him, and she tells him she will devote the remainder of her life to him on the condition that he gives up all claim to the ill-gotten factory. The lonely man is only too glad to do anything Marie desires, and we all trust he will—somewhat late in the day—turn over a new leaf. The piece is full of faults, and is crude and wearisome to excess. The only thing good about it was the acting, which, in the chief rôles, was unusually praiseworthy. Herr Matkowsky was applauded enthusiastically, even while others were hissing the piece. Frau Poppe and Frau Butze, Fräuleins Arnstadt, Wachner, and Von Arnauld gave admirable renderings of their respective parts; and Dr. Pohl acted the rôle of Dieterlin's old servant very cleverly.

HAUPTMANN'S amusing comedy Der Biberpelz has been revived at the Lessing, with some alterations from the original cast. The rôle of Frau Wolffen—played for so many years in this theatre by Frau Von Poellnitz, who died a short time ago—was given by Fräulein Lehmann in an equally masterly manner. Herr Sauer as Wehrhahn, the local magistrate, is well known for his faultless rendering, and the remaining parts were well sustained in the excellent manner for which this company is celebrated throughout the length and breadth of the land.

ON New Year's Eve Gräfin Von Keck, three-act farce "from the English," by Max Schoenau, was given at the Berliner Theatre, being favourably received. It is what the Germans expressively term a "tohnwabohn" of situations and jokes. The spirit of Sylvester Eve (the merriest night in all the year here) entered into the actors one and all, and those most worthy of commendation were Herren Kuhnert, Schindler—the latter always an amusing comedian—and Starnburg, Fräuleins Boettcher, Carlsen, and Rocco.

"DORNROSCHEN," a new fairy opera, in four acts, by August Weweler, words by Hans Eschelbach, met with a very cordial reception on its recent production at the National Theatre. The "book" is very poetic, the author being a well-known South German writer, and the music suits it admirably. In the first act the King and Queen are overjoyed at the prospect of a child; in the second we see the infant Princess in her cradle, the "Wise Women" appearing with their gifts. "Care" alone comes uninvited, and prophesies maliciously the Princess's death, but Love gets the sentences commuted into a sleep of a hundred years. The third act shows the tragedy, which takes place on Dornröschen's seventeenth birthday, and the fourth brings the breaking of the spell by the Prince. Thus we see the author has kept closely to the lines of the charming old fairy story, without seeking symbolical meanings, as another composer did not long ago. The music is pleasing without being striking; it is nowhere discordant, but it is sometimes trivial and monotonous. The interpretation was, with two exceptions, a poor one. The exceptions were Herr Melms as the King and Fräulein Rado as Sorge (care), both excellent renderings. Neither can it be said that the mounting was good, so that the success of the work would probably, under other conditions, have been greater.

A THREE-ACT burlesque-farce, Der Grosse Stern, by MM. Kren and Schoenfeld, music by Elnödshofer, was given for the first time at the Thalia on Christmas night. An indulgent audience found plenty of entertainment in the wild pot-pourri of nonsense, and the foremost artistes of the company, Herr Thielscher, Herr Helmerding, Fräuleins Abarbanell and Wannovius were applauded to the echo.

AT the Carl-Weiss Theatre the record in long plays was broken last week by the performance of D'Ennery's Reise um die Erde in Achtzig Tagen, an adaptation, of course, of Jules Verne's famous story. The piece lasted five and a quarter hours—a little too much even for a Christmas holiday audience. The adventures of Mr Phineas Fogg were followed, nevertheless, with close attention and much amusement, and the acting was so bright and vivacious throughout that in spite of the length of the piece it met with a most cordial reception.

MADAME CALVE is going on satisfactorily. After her successful début in our Royal Opera House, Madame Calvé, owing to indisposition, disappointed twice in appearing at concerts. Finally, at Vienna, the diva's health broke down utterly, and she was compelled to undergo an operation for appendicitis without delay.

HERR ADOLF VON SONNENTHAL, of the Imperial Burg Theatre, Vienna, celebrated his seventieth birthday last week. Artists in every land and several crowned heads united in showing honour to the famous actor.

MISS OLGA AUDER, the original Worst Woman in London, will shortly produce a new play, entitled A Woman to Fear.

As streams their channels deeper wear.

ALEC S. ROSS.

WENTWORTH.—In ever-loving remembrance of my dear friend, Bessie Wentworth, who died Jan. 6, 1901. S. Pincus, Leeds.

WENTWORTH.—In loving memory of Dear Bessie, who departed this life Jan. 6, 1901. Never forgotten by her brother-in-law, C. C. Chapman (Warner).

WENTWORTH.—In loving memory of my dear daughter Bessie, who passed away Jan. 6, 1901. Never forgotten by her loving mother.

MADAME BELLE COLE, the popular American mezzo-soprano, died on Thursday morning at her house in Cathcart-road, Redcliffe-gardens, S.W. Madame Cole was born in New York State. She received her musical instruction from her father, and began her career as a soloist in a church in Fifth-avenue, New York. That led to her engagement by Theodore Thomas, the American impresario, as one of the singers in his touring concert party; and after five years with him, it was in the year 1887 that she made her first important appearance in England, singing at one of the Crystal Palace concerts, in November of that year, in an operatic aria of Mercadante. In 1888 she sang in Elijah at Eton College under Sir Joseph Barnby, and was subsequently commanded by Queen Victoria to appear before the German Emperor at a Royal Albert Hall concert, where she sang in Sir Arthur Sullivan's Golden Legend. Madame Cole toured successfully in Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa.

AT the Alhambra Theatre, Stourbridge, on Monday, The Way of the World was performed. As Adela De la Roche Miss Sidney Crowe was excellent, and her rendering was a very fine one. Mr Montagu Beaudyn proved capable in the character of Cecil Montagu; Mr W. Robertson Foulis acted creditably as Matthew Malyon; and Mr Herbert Skardon sustained the rôle of Captain Sende ably.

AT the Theatre Royal, Wednesbury, this week, Mr Gus Levaine's pantomime, The Babes in the Wood, under the supervision of Mr Harry Levaine, is being performed with success. Miss Lily Ennis as Robin Hood does excellent work, and as Maid Marion Miss Beatrice Willmott is seen to much advantage; Mr E. E. Newbold as Baron Badlot creates roars of laughter; Miss Ivy Rochefort and Miss Daisy Rochefort as the Babes, Roy and Dorothy, are responsible for the success of the production to a large extent. Mr Harry Levaine, in the rôle of Dame Durden, is exceptionally smart and clever, his songs and dances being excellent. The specialities include the Two Zemblas, in their remarkable acrobatic and juggling feats; Leon and Leoni, musical experts; the Sylvan Quartet of lady dancers; the Rhondda Glee Party; and the Rizonis, paper manipulators.

MR GEORGE DANCE'S Orchid company remains for another week at the Grand Theatre, Hull. Most of the musical items are well received, "Little Mary" being repeatedly encored. Miss Ethel Bryant as Lady Violet Anstruther has completely won the favour of the Hull playgoing public. Mr Edmund Page and Mr Charles R. Waller well maintain the fun between them.

"HER FATAL PAST" is just the sort of play to meet the taste of the patrons of the Alexandra Theatre, Hull. As the heroine Miss Ward portrays the rôle of Honor Symes with sympathetic regard.

MR EDITOR.—Sir,—In your criticism of the Broadway pantomime, in last Saturday's issue, you mentioned the Eight Tiller Girls in the Highgate-hill Ballet. The ballet was invented and arranged entirely by myself, and the Tiller Girls do not appear in this scene. Yours faithfully, JOSEPH POME, Ballet Master. Broadway Theatre, New-cross, S.E., Jan. 2.

DR. THEODORE THOMAS, Mus.D. (the founder of Thomas's orchestra), who was born in Hanover in 1835, died at Chicago a few days ago. When he was ten years of age his parents emigrated to the United States. He played first violin in the orchestras that accompanied Jenny Lind, Henrietta Sontag, Grisi, and Mario, and led that which accompanied La Grange, Piccolomini, and Thalberg through the country. In the early sixties he devoted himself to the organisation of his own orchestra, and in 1864-65 commenced a series of symphony concerts at Irving Hall, that came to be regarded as among the musical institutions of New York. In 1872 Mr Thomas was the leading spirit in founding the New York Wagner Union, established for the purpose of aiding in the festival performance of the Nibelungen Ring at Bayreuth in 1875. He left New York in 1891 for Chicago to conduct the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, which he continued to do till 1901.

AT the Lyceum Theatre, Stafford, this week, Mr Charles March's play, The Priest of the Temple, is being presented. Valerius is enacted by the author with considerable vigour; Mr Percy Ballard displays exceptional ability as Decus Fronto; Appius Herdonius is impressively played by Mr Henry Moxon; Hermanus is carefully impersonated by Mr Stanley May; and Mr John Simpson as Camillus gives a few light touches to an otherwise rather sombre play. Miss Marie North carefully portrays the part of Præstantia, and Miss Violet Craufurd gives a powerful exposition of the Tiberian lady, Polita. The Gamester of Metz is billed for the latter part of the week.

"AMBITION," a four-act tragedy by D. Janitsch, has been copyrighted by the International Copyright Bureau, Limited, 34, Norfolk-street, Strand, both here and in Washington.

MR CLAUDE SEATON, the manager of the Theatre Royal, Attercliffe, inaugurated last September a "tax night" on one evening each week, when all passes were taxed to the extent of one penny. The result to the end of the year was highly satisfactory, and Mr Seaton has had the pleasure of handing over the sum of £3 5s. 6d. to the local hospitals.

AT the New Theatre Royal, Stockport, this week, Messrs Dottridge and Longden's pantomime, The Forty Thieves, fully maintains its success. Mr Ernie Myers as Hassarac is the chief fun provider among the comedians, and the vocalism of Miss Lily Lonsdale (Morgiana) is a distinctly pleasing feature. Miss Dolly Elsworthy as Ganem is vivacious and charming, and sings and dances in a manner that commands much applause.

MR FRED GRANVILLE allowed collection boxes to be taken among the audience on Monday at the Queen's Theatre, Liverpool, by which means a good sum was realised for the local children's infirmary.

PRESENTATION.—At the end of the third act of Rich and Poor of London, on Friday evening, Dec. 30, at the Theatre Royal, Attercliffe, Mr Claude Seaton, the resident manager, was called on the stage, and presented by Mr Sidney Dench, on behalf of himself and Mr Sidney C. Cranston, with a silver-mounted pipe and case as a token of personal esteem and appreciation of his efforts to make their visit last week such a big success, the record for the week being the highest for the past three years. Mr Seaton feelingly replied.

SPENNYMOOR.

CAMBRIDGE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Harding Thomas; General Manager, Mr Herbert Vere.—The attraction provided this week is Messrs Marston and Buckstone's company in their pantomime, Goody Two Shoes. Miss Maude Western is smart in the rôle of Roland, and renders several songs in capital style. In the title-rôle Miss Marie Santley is excellent, and her songs and dances are well received. A clever exponent of the Fairy is found in Miss Connie Irwin, who is also an admirable vocalist. Miss A. D. Hender scores as the Demon. The comedy in the hands of Mr Syd Bazley as Simon, Mr Fred A. Marston as the Baron, Mr Ted Mac as the Dame and Mr Dan Hardie cannot be too highly praised. Messrs Yorke and Kelly are excellent in their daring feats on the trapeze. Other parts are ably handled by Mr R. Grant, Mr H. Varno, Mr Wilfred Hargreaves, and Mr J. Nano.

ST. HELENS.

THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr M'Leod Loader.—It must be highly gratifying to Messrs Haddon and Loader to find the public respond in such goodly numbers to the attraction held out in their first pantomime, Jack and the Beanstalk. Miss Bessie Shelley acts with natural grace as Jack, and Miss Pattie Bella makes a lively and attractive Dora. Miss Sybil Viney (Charlie Bright) and Miss Cissie Trent (Nancy Smart) perform with spirit and vivacity. Mr Jay Laurier as Silly Billy proves himself an active and smart comedian; Mr Reg. Bolton is a typical Baron; and Mr Harry Harrop as the Dame does well. Messrs Kydd and Kydd as Dip and Dap are clever and amusing, and well merit the applause bestowed upon them. Mr W. S. Stevenson as the Giant, Miss Evelyn Robson as Discordia, Miss Walsh as Fairy Queen, and Mr George Harrie as the Cow all work hard to make the pantomime the success it is. The singing of the Cameron Quartet is heartily and deservedly appreciated. Special mention should be made of the clever star trap performance of Mr George Harrie, the dancing of the Continental Trio, the speciality dancing of Miss Cissie Trent, and also of the charming flying ballets. The band and chorus, under the conductorship of Mr Arthur Meredyth, contribute in no small degree to the success.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs Barrasford, Sley, and Willmot; Resident-Manager, Mr A. V. Carnell.—Miss Lizzette Sutherland's sketch Donnybrook heads the bill here this week, and is proving a great attraction. Other good turns in an excellent programme include:—Sisters Marlon, duettists; Mr J. W. Bray, descriptive vocalist; Steel and Laing, speciality performers; Satsuma, Japanese wonder worker; and Mr Charles Serra, equilibrist.

SWANSEA.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs David Allen and Sons, Limited; Lessees and Managers, Messrs E. Oswald Brooks and J. W. Woodbridge; Resident Partner, Mr E. Oswald Brooks.—On Monday, the second week of the opera season, the Moody-Manners company gave an exceedingly good performance of Carmen. Miss Teify Davies repeated her excellent portrayal of Carmen, and her various numbers were warmly applauded. Miss Grace Nicoll, too, in the small part of Michaela, was capital, and won hearty appreciation. Mr Edward Arthur gave an exceptionally good rendering of Don José, and Mr Walter Barrett gave a fine interpretation of Escamillo. The operas announced for the week are Lohengrin, La Traviata, The Daughter of the Regiment, Faust, Il Trovatore, and The Bohemian Girl.

NEW STAR.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. Morton Powell; Acting-Manager, Mr William Coutts.—The attraction at this house for the week is the Oriental dramatic pantomime The Rajah of Ranjapore, played by Mr John H. Morton's company.

NEW EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Albert Mitchell.—The programme here includes Grais' baboon prodigies; the Llewelyns, Australian operatic vocalists; Bros. Pueblo, cake-walkers; Albertus and Bartram, club jugglers; Resuas Trio, clever acrobats and equilibrists; the American Bioscope; the Jees, in The Musical Smithy; Milner Verren, a good tenor vocalist; and the Max Welson Four, rope performers.

PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. W. Grantham.—The engagements at this house for the current week are:—Luis Hardt, the boy Samson; Vivian Dell, speciality dancer; E. J. Sheldon, character comedian; Fred Herbert, topical vocalist; Ailsa Douglas, the Lancashire vocalist; Ada Vernon, burlesque artiste; Vernon's animated pictures; and May Lillian Levey, comedienne.

SWINDON.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Responsible Manager, Mr Alfred Manners; Musical Director, Mr F. H. Lucas.—Judging by the intense enthusiasm of the crowded audience on Monday, it was evident that in selecting Florodora for the New Year week the management has provided its patrons with a most popular attraction. The Ben Greet company, under the business direction of Mr J. Bannister Howard, is a good one, the tuneful piece being capitally staged under Mr J. R. Tate's supervision, and the well-balanced chorus and orchestra are ably conducted by Mr H. Bolton. Miss Daisy Lake endowed the part of Dolores with delightful charm and earnestness, being deservedly encored for her fine singing; and Miss Louie Danby made a pleasing and graceful Angela Gilfain. Mr Edward Crossland sustained the part of Frank Abercoed with marked ability, and Mr Morrice Holmes gave a bright and spirited embodiment of Arthur Donegal. Mr Gus Danby, a great favourite, is greeted with a genuine outburst of applause, and repeats his quaint conception of Tweedlepunch.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTION.—Secretary, Mr H. J. Southwell.—The three performances given by the local Amateur Theatrical Society, in the large hall, proved a great attraction. Planché's drama, Not a Bad Judge, was neatly staged and dressed, and each rôle was undertaken with distinct credit. This, with the popular operetta Trial by Jury, completed a bright entertainment, and it would be extremely difficult to speak too highly of the success attained.

TON-Y-PANDY.

ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs Carlton and Duckworth; General Manager, Mr Sam Duckworth; Acting-Manager, Mr H. Counsell.—Mr Sanderson Moffatt and company are appearing here in A Woman Adrift. Mr Moffatt deals with the characters of Leo and Ferdinand Castro in a most able manner; Sir John Ingleby is capably played by Mr J. Millane; and Mr C. Wilson does well as Jibbs. Miss Phyllis Hamilton reveals considerable talent as Cora Leigh, and Stella Castro is safely entrusted to Miss Violet Keand.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs Carlton and Duckworth; Sole Lessee, Miss A. Alexandra; Managing-Director, Mr Dd. Taylor.—Foremost in the bill here is Caban, with his performing ponies and dogs; R. C. Note, vocalist, scores on a return visit; the Eugenes do some clever acrobatic business; the Etherdos gain applause in their unsupported ladder performance; and La Place is mirthful.

WAKEFIELD.

ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—Mr Frank M. Thorne's company, under the direction of Messrs Carson and Granville, is here this week in Napoleon the Great. Mr Hugh Montgomery gives an excellent rendering of Napoleon, Mr Henry Earlesmere acts well as the villainous Colonel Levarennes, Mr Phil Harper scores as Col. Meuron, and Mr Frank M. Thorne is amusing as Pierre Pomponnet. Mr C. W. Spencer does justice to the rôle of Sergeant Choupin, Miss Chrissie Dunbar submits a charming portrayal as Marie Waleswka, Miss Maud Russell is good as Mdlle. Leonie; and Miss Marie Harcourt is able as Marcelle Choupin.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Wakefield Hippodrome, Limited; Manager, Mr D. G. Mooney.—Mr George Gilbey, comedian, heads the bill this week, and has scored a great success. The Five Royal Zerbinis provide a clever, interesting musical turn; the Two Leskyasyas perform some excellent feats of strength; Mr George Bernard, actor-vocalist, scores with a military song; and Mr Tom Vine, vocalist, is applauded for his smart topical songs. Other turns comprise Mr C. W. Selman, comedian; Miss Clara Nesbitt, comedienne; and Miss Mamie Cannon, juvenile vocalist.

WALSALL.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Walsall Theatres Company, Limited; General Manager and Secretary, Mr W. H. Westwood.—The pantomime Cinderella was produced here on Boxing Night by Mr John Walter's company. Miss Florence Drew as Cinderella acts well, and a very good Prince Charming is Miss Constance St. Bride. The Ugly Sisters are represented by Mr Arthur Hickman and Mr T. H. Solly; and the Baron and the Page are in the able hands of Mr Geo. Reeves and Mr Ally M. Benson. The O'Nates, Algerian jugglers; Omega, with a wire act novelty; the Lilly Trio; and the Garland ballet speciality dancers also appear.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Walsall Theatres Co., Limited; General Manager and Secretary, Mr W. H. Westwood.—A Victim of Villainy, played by Mr Walter Howe's company, is the attraction here. Mr Walter Howe as Frank Manton is exceedingly good; Mr Charles E. Wilton plays Stephen Cavanagh with ability; as Tommy Leckie Mr Harry Liddle is good; Mr John Wybrett is well placed as Arthur Lennox, M.D.; Miss Nellie Lawson makes a capital Mary Manton; Miss Muriel Dean ably undertakes the part of Alice Cavanagh; and able support is given by Miss Marjorie Carroll as Vera Diamond and Miss Blanche Nicholls as Maria Blobbaby.

WALTHAMSTOW.

KING'S THEATRE.—The best of good business has marked the beginning of the New Year at this popular house, and the fanny pantomime of Little Red Riding Hood still succeeds in eliciting uproarous laughter. Mr Robert Williams, has, if possible, elaborated his comical conception of Sir Goose Green, and Mr Bob Hall is funnier than ever as Master Goosey. Mr George Hayes is very droll as Jonathan Wisenut; and the Dame of Mr Billy Taylor is simply irrepressible. That charming child actress and vocalist, Miss Hazel Kirke, fascinates everyone with her singing, besides looking the Spirit of Good Luck to perfection. Mr Trixie Toole to her charming impersonation of Red Riding Hood has added a capital number. She sings her song, "Dreams," of which the chorus is taken up by a "magic kettle" containing a sweet-voiced boy. The effect is charming, and the "turn" goes with immense success. Miss Ruth Wallace is as sprightly and saucy as possible as Boy Blue. The grand transformation scene, the Birth of the Rising Sun, works very smoothly, and is a really most artistic effect. The whole production reflects the highest credit on all concerned, and Councillor George W. Crump is to be congratulated on the success that nightly attends his efforts as business-manager.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr G. Adney Payne; Manager, Mr Arthur J. Barclay; Acting-Manager, Mr G. F. Slater.—Since the first performance on Boxing Day of Espinosa's pantomime, Cinderella, at Mr Barclay's palatial and popular house great things have been done to enliven and quicken an already capital entertainment, and it is not surprising to learn that business has been of a phenomenal character. Miss Eva Kelland, the daintiest of heroines, does full justice both to herself and her part. Miss Kelland's songs are all agreeably rendered, and her participation with clever Mr Arthur Medwin in a duet satirising various styles of singing is one of the successes of the evening. Miss Dora Harrison is still the prettiest conceivable Dandini. Messrs Benson Clever and Billy Farrell as the two ugly, and not too ugly, sisters, Iris and Sellcia, have worked up their business with happy results. A word of praise is due to Miss C. Stroud Wilson, who, as the fairy godmother, looks magnificent, and sings her "Good-bye" song with brilliancy. The harlequinade goes with the greatest of spirit, and sends the youngsters among the audiences to their homes with the happiest results. The "variety" portion of Mr Barclay's programme has not been forgotten as an attractive feature. An amusing duologue, The Order of the Bath, is cleverly played by Miss Lilieth Leyton supported by Mr J. G. Bentham. Fredo is a clever, quick illusionist; the Gladenbecks are well received in their ring act; and the Lannons, duettists and champion pedestal dancers, are decidedly popular. The overture for the week is the "Pot-Pourri" of Mr H. Petersen, brilliantly rendered by the orchestra under the bâton of the composer.

WARRINGTON.

ROYAL COURT.—Proprietors, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter.—Pantomime is the order here this week, and the Pardoes have scored a signal success in their spectacular display of Cinderella. The stage appointments are very effective, and special mention must be made of the setting of The State Ballroom, The Fairy Boudoir, and The Enchanted Wood. Miss Cissy Kedward, a charming Cinderella, sings several numbers excellently. Miss Lottie Holland is a dashing Prince; and equally successful is Miss Kate Moore as Dandini, both ladies being possessed of rich voices. Mr Tom Hulme scores as the Baron, and the Sisters, Eva and Maude, are in the safe hands of Miss Violet Rivers and Miss Ivey Leafe. Mr George Hyam as Scoot has ample scope for displaying his versatility; and Mr Harry Hanley and Mr Mike Hastings get through much good work as Blobbs and Blabbs. Mr Wright as James and Mr James Gordon as Harry are both well placed. Miss May Birkett is a charming Fairy, and Mr Tom Griffiths as Father Time sings capitally. Specialities are introduced by the Pardoes, acrobats; the Sultan Brothers, equilibrists; the Sisters Tyrell, dancers; the Drome trio of dancers; Capita and his marionette; and the Rainbow trio of acrobatic dancers, who are all popular.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter; Director of Amusements, Mr F. Willmot.—J. A. Wilson, a coloured artist, scores well here this week, and Baker Belphor also wins favour with descriptive songs. Craig, Rose, and Craig are exceptionally clever gymnasts, and Arthur Bromley and Lena Fontein are clever duettists. Andy Fagan, comedian; Saxo, musical marvel; the Brothers Esdale, comedians; and the Royal Bioscope complete a capital programme.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.

GRAND.—General Manager (for Mrs Weldon Watts), Mr Sidney Bacon; Resident Manager, Mr Fred Conneaux.—Mr Charles Macdona's company is here this week in the musical play The School Girl. The work is replete with brightness and charm, and throughout the cast is evenly balanced. Miss Nellie Hodson, a vivacious actress and a talented vocalist, is a great favourite. As Lillian Leigh Miss Kate Forster undertakes successfully the rôle of the Mother Superior; Miss Jennie Bonnie charmingly impersonates Cicely Marchant; and Mr Alec Chentrens makes an ideal Edgar Verney. Mr Chas. Adeson imparts humour to the character of the General, and the part of the Dude could not be in better hands than those of Mr Alfred Leslie. Mr Chas. Anson is also most successful.

PALACE.—Director-General, Mr Frank Macnaghten.—Tom Grove's sensational feat of cycling the flying wheel is truly a "breathlessly thrilling" act as presented here. The Sisters Maginal-Mullini have a most enthusiastic reception for their clever manipulation of the horn, cornet, and drum;

Zarmo, an old favourite, serves up clever juggling with droll comedy; the fascinating fire dances of Effie White are greatly appreciated; the Sivronis, in their sketch, Opera Gone Mad, are productive of considerable merriment; and one of the cleverest and most highly trained dogs that have been seen here is Ben, introduced by Mdlle. Alice Lorette into some exceptionally well conceived statuesque poses; and a pleasing turn by Nellie Elder completes a programme that is thoroughly enjoyed by crowded houses.

WEST BROMWICH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. P. Moore,—The Heart of a Hero, played by Messrs Carson and Granville's company, is the attraction here this week. Mr Fred W. Goddard gives an admirable rendering of Jim Resdale, a Lancashire lad. Mark and Wilfred Marl are in the capable hands of Mr A. B. Mackay and Mr Charles E. Johnson. The Dave Prichard of Mr Eric Forth is all that can be desired, and roars of laughter are caused by the extremely funny rendering of the character of Timothy Heighno by Mr Hugh Brady. Miss Ida Mackay shares a great portion of the applause as Susie Slack. Miss Beatrice Hudson as Mrs Ryder is good, and the same can be said regarding Miss Lily Langley's May Ryder. Miss Cissie St. Elmo in the rôle of Nell Resdale gives an excellent performance, and Mr Harry Scatchard is clever as the miser, George Winston.

WEST STANLEY.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr M. H. Lindon.—Messrs Dottridge, Longden, and Livesey's company is here this week with The Village Blacksmith. As John Strong Mr Sam Livesey does full justice to the part; Mr Joseph Carlton is most effective as Captain Leo; Mr Thos. E. Marshall is an excellent Parkins; Miss Livesey does well as Mrs Parkins; as Ruth Parkins Miss Maggie Edwards is very pleasing; and as Kate Strong Miss Ethel Kay is very attractive.

WIGAN.

ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Company; Managing-Director, Mr John Worswick.—Overflow audiences have been the rule at the Wigan places of entertainment during the holidays. At the Court Theatre Mr J. Gar Kiddie's pantomime Little Bo-Peep, written by Geo. Burton, is again presented. The part of Bo-Peep is admirably played by Miss Lizzie Payne; Miss B. Frank as Margery Daw, Miss Ina Thornton as Gladys, and others sing and play well, notably Miss Nora Beverley as Fairy Moonbeam and Miss Flo Warner as Boy Blue. Baron Hardup is well represented by Mr E. H. Bertram, and rollicking fun is provided by Mr J. Gar Kiddie as Tommy Long; Mr J. Blarney as Johnnie Stout, and Mr Will Kennard as Jimmy Green. The pantomime is well mounted.

GRAND THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Company; Managing-Director, Mr J. Worswick.—The bill is filled this week by the Craggs and powerful company in Laughter Land. In addition to marvellous acrobatic feats and endless comic business, a variety of capital musical numbers are excellently given by members of the company collectively and individually.

EMPIRE MUSIC HALL.—Manager, Mr W. Birchall.—Among the turns contributing to an excellent entertainment here are Duncan and Morton, comedy artists, in Stage Chums; Welda and Wynne, eccentric jugglers, with capital performances; Miss Alice Townend, who remains another week; Mr Fred Burnaby, descriptive vocalist; and Valvo, ventriloquist, in a return engagement. Sauterons, "springheel Jack;" Joe Conley, comedian and dancer; and Miss Alice Glenney, serio and dancer, are also well received.

WOLVERHAMPTON.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Mr E. H. Bull and Mr Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy Percival.—The Compton comedy company, which is appearing here this week, is always highly appreciated by local playgoers, and there was a good audience to welcome the members of it on Monday last, when Davy Garrick was once more produced. Although so well known the play is always popular, and Mr Edward Compton, who appeared in the title-part, came in for a hearty reception. His acting throughout was characterised by the inimitable genius which he possesses and displays in this particular part. He was supported by a good company, chief of whom is Miss Haidee Gunn, whose charming and clever impersonation of Violet Gresham was well worth seeing. As Alderman Gresham Mr Henry Crocker played admirably and naturally. Mr A. B. Imeson did well as Tom Tallyhaut; Mr Charles R. Stone was a capital Rumbelow; Mr Arnold Lucy effective as Sowerberry; and Mr G. Wallace Johnston well filled the part of Simpkins. Miss M. Hassell as Mrs Rumbelow and Miss Mackenzie as Selina, both did justice to their respective parts. The performance was preceded by Tom Noddy's Secret. During the week She Stoops to Conquer, School for Scandal, and To morrow have been played.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr Chas. Barnard; General Manager, Mr W. H. Lennon.—The chief item in this week's bill is Auto Atlas, who performs some wonderful feats of strength by means of his teeth, &c. The Scottish Meisters are a good musical quartet. Other items in the bill are the Sisters Norrie, vocalists and dancers; the Cameron Troupe, pipers, dancers, &c.; Burnetti, a quick-change artist and musical entertainer; Golden Michalini, juggler; Rappo and Ella, vocalists and dancers; Charles Milner, comedian; and Ruffell's Bioscope.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Lessees, Mr Fred Benton and Mr Fred J. Little; Business-Manager, Mr Fred Benton.—The old Prince of Wales's Theatre having been converted into a hippodrome, this week's entertainment is provided by a circus and variety company, including Miss Flora, equestrienne; La Belle Tosca, wire performer; Clara Hastings, vocalist; Vanda, Kardoo, Miss Davies, Elenora, George Scott, Pongo, and Joe Hastings.

YORK.

ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr T. H. Barrow.—Mr E. A. Smith's pantomime company opened a six nights' engagement on Monday, when The Babes in the Wood was given with every promise of success. To Miss Edith Wallis nothing but praise can be given; she is a handsome and dashing Robin Hood, singing most tastefully. Miss Beatie Howard is sprightly and vivacious as Maid Marion, and Miss Lily White and Miss Cora Pleon are interesting as the Babes. Mr Arthur Slater carries off chief honours as the Baron; he is a comedian of great merit, and gives a genuinely amusing and diverting performance. Mr Charles Gladwell is quaint and mirth-provoking as the Dame, and some amusement is caused by Messrs Bob Padley and F. Wheatcroft as the Robbers. The pantomime is admirably staged, and specialities are introduced by the Edna Trio, the Colleys, and the Bluebell Quartet.

OPERA HOUSE AND EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr Sidney Brooke.—Cinderella is, as was to expected, proving a great draw, the theatre being crowded nightly.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER,
BY
ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (Lond.).
Chapter I.
COPYRIGHT AS OPPOSED TO PERFORMING RIGHT.
Chapter II.
PERFORMING RIGHT.
Chapter III.
Chapter IV.
MUSICAL COPYRIGHT.
Chapter V.
INTERNATIONAL AND COLONIAL COPYRIGHT.

"The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer, by Albert A. Strong, LL.B., solicitor, author of "Dramatic and Musical Law" ("The Era" office), seems to be the one compendious and indispensable authority on the subject, as vexed as "the Bermoothes" and as tortuous as a Chancery suit, that has long been wanted. It is in every essential a text book for the perplexed layman, and no solicitor or barrister worth his salt ought to think of taking or appearing in "proceedings" without consulting its pages. It must suffice, after what has been said, to state little more than that the contents include five chapters respectively named "Copyright as Opposed to Performing Right," "Performing Right," "Infringement and Remedies," "Musical Copyright," and "International and Colonial Copyright." The work, for all its precise authority, is not dry reading. The statutes, with the elucidatory notes, necessarily impose a task on the reader which takes some tackling, but they had to be there. The cases adduced, however, are full of interest. Certain of them might fitly find a place in the romance of copyright. There was the fight of Charles Reade with George Conquest over "It's Never Too Late to Mend," for instance, and the equally interesting conflict of Mr J. A. Cave with Chatterton over "The Wandering Jew." The latter was a famous battle. Chatterton took it to the House of Lords, and was finally beaten, to the unspeakable relief of Mr Cave, who is never weary of relating the story. Had the result been otherwise it would have meant his ruin. I well remember meeting him on the day of his victory and "crashing a cup with him" in honour of the same. "The Law of Copyright" is dedicated to Mr A. W. Pinero.—Sportsman, July 31st, 1901

Copyright confusion is, like the poor, always with us, and as it seems likely to remain so until at least the crack of doom, it were well for all concerned, or likely to be concerned, to take immediate steps to secure a copy of Mr Albert A. Strong's new work entitled "The Law of Copyright." Mr Strong is already favourably known to the profession for his text-book on "Dramatic and Musical Law," which, like his latest production, is published at "The Era" Office. "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" essays to make clear to the non-legal mind what is—or, in some cases, what probably is—the law as to musical and dramatic copyright. The chapters on the Berne Convention and on the Chase Act, passed by the United States Congress last March, are full of interest.—Referee, July 23th, 1901

Mr A. A. Strong has published a book on "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" which should be in the hands of everyone who is obliged to know about this perplexing subject. Dramatic copyright in England is in a particularly unsatisfactory state, and it is much to be hoped that ere long some more rational method of securing protection for a play may be devised than the slovenly and sometimes costly "production for copyright purposes" which is at present required.—St. James's Gazette, Aug. 2d, 1901

MODERN SCENE-PAINTING.

There are certain professions in which the talent of the individual is obscured, in the eyes of the general public, by technical difficulties. One of these is scene-painting. The genius of the scenic artist has to develop under a number of adverse conditions. The "vehicle" in which he works—size—is deficient in many qualities. He has to reproduce immense pictures from a small sketch; and to work on such a large scale that he cannot, when he is painting, compare the portion of canvas on which he is engaged with the rest of his picture. Scene-painting, too, is one of the arts which have been made more difficult instead of easier by "modern improvements." Scenic art commenced at a high artistic level. The scenery for the early sixteenth century Mystery Plays was entrusted to artists of a high class. In those days a painter was a "man of all work," and considered it not beneath his dignity to leave the execution of a portrait and paint a banner, an escutcheon, or a scene. There being no painting-rooms of sufficient size available, the early scene-painter's studio was the open-air. If it rained, the work was covered with large pieces of parchment. The sketches, which were fine works of art, were treasured by the municipalities who gave the performances of the Mystery Plays. FRANCIS THEVENOT, who did a great deal of scenery for Mysteries, was a painter of acknowledged merit; and, in M. NATALIS RONDOT'S interesting work, "Les Peintres de Lyon," he mentions more than five hundred artists of credit, who, in the fourteenth, fifteenth, and sixteenth centuries, were employed in scene-painting.

At the beginning of the eighteenth century, the scenery for the tragedies of CORNEILLE and RACINE was simple and conventional. The surroundings were "generalised"—a garden was a garden, and a palace a palace, without reference to period or place. The wings decreased, either in size or in proportionate design, as the back of the stage was approached, so that the actors had to keep to the front under penalty of appearing as giants. It was just the reverse with the "sky-borders," which grew bigger and deeper in the distance. At the extreme back of the stage were two flats, fastened together permanently. For the production of MOLIERE'S plays only six chairs and three candelabra were needed. But when the French Opera was established in 1645, scenery became important. A very valuable improvement was made by SERVANDONI. Before his time, if a tree or rock was painted on a wing, the whole of the object was always shown. SERVANDONI dared to exhibit only a part, thus greatly increasing the possibility of illusion. He also employed perspective on a grand scale. So fine were some of the sets of another scenic artist, PIETRO ALGIERI, that many of them were thought worthy of perpetuation by engraving; and WATTEAU himself painted many cloths for the French Opera productions.

As long as scenery was in the comparatively early stage of its development the artist's task was comparatively easy. A landscape painter who turned scenic artist had to do little more than reproduce his original design on a larger scale, and in distemper instead of in oils. The lighting of the stage by means of candelabra was not so very different from that of a picture gallery. The modern artist has to face immense difficulties. The system of building up foregrounds and making even middle-distances "practicable" adds a hundred obstacles to the scenic illusion. The moment a real object is placed alongside of a painted one the imposition is obvious. On a door in one of the apartments at Chatsworth a violin hanging upon a nail has been represented with such skill as to deceive the eye at the first glance. But the deception is aided by the shadowed position in which the "picture" is placed. The modern scenic artist has to carefully conceal the point at which the actual joins the imitated. His papier-maché foreground tree must weld in with his "profile" bushes in the middle distance; and these again must be in harmony and unity with the backcloth.

And the work of the modern scenic artist is shown under a blaze of illumination which can only be described as "merciless." The whole stage is flooded with light of the most penetrating and powerful kind, which searches out imperfections, and gives an air of unreality to many stage pictures. The old scenic artists, as we may see by designs which have been preserved, seem to have been rather "partial" to low tones and effects of darkness. This was the result of the moderate lighting of the stage and the conception of the actor, seen in the "focus" of the candelabra against a contrasting background of shadow. The modern scene painter prefers sunshiny views, to the effect of which excessive electrical illumination is rather an assistance.

The marvellous results achieved by our modern scenic artists, in the teeth of these difficulties, show what an immense amount of talent there is in a class whose modesty is only equalled by its ability. But, with the extension in the size of the profession, and the increase in the number of theatres, the business side of the scenic artist's calling has grown much more complicated. He is often asked to give credit for work which, if thrown on his hands, is practically useless and unsaleable. He has to embark on enterprises requiring outlay, both of labour and wages; and he therefore requires some systematic protection from imposition and consequent loss. The Scenic Artists' Association is an admirable and much-needed means of helping its members to form an opinion as to the wisdom of undertaking certain contracts, and of assisting them to obtain payment for "value supplied." It is impossible for any painter to do himself justice while he is harassed by the irritation which an artist always feels when he is obliged to descend into the business arena, and waste his time and energy in battling for his rights. We congratulate our English scene-painters on having formed a society of such indispensable value; and we trust that all of those clever craftsmen who contribute so much to the enjoyment of the public by their beautiful productions will join an Association which is certain to increase that esprit de corps which is so desirable in all professions—especially the artistic.

"THE ACTORS' BENEVOLENT FUND."
"HOW TO HELP IT."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA

Sir,—I noticed in one of your issues an article in reference to the Actors' Benevolent Fund benefit on the Kenilworth Castle. If this will not occupy too much space in your valuable paper I think it will help the worthy cause. The Heyman Brothers send a company of from ten to fifteen people every three weeks to South Africa and the same number return every three weeks. I conceived the idea on the Kenilworth Castle of arranging a "professional concert," the entire receipts to be forwarded to the A.B.F. This can happen every three weeks, and should bring into the Fund an extra £200 or £300 per year. On our return voyage I shall arrange another "professional concert" for the Music Hall Fund. Hoping this will reach my fellow professionals booked for a tour of South Africa and that they will keep the ball a-rolling, I am,

Yours faithfully, WILLIAM GOULD.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Jan. 2, the Musical Play entitled "THE DUCHESS OF DANTZIC."

Mr George Dance's company, appearing this week at the Dalston Theatre in the musical play The Duchess of Dantzic, is meeting with a most favourable and even flattering reception. Miss Rita Presano in the title-rôle brings a wonderful amount of vitality and versatility to bear upon the representation. Whether as Sans-Gêne, the laundress, or as the Duchess she is equally zealous in imparting energy to the character, while in scenes which approach the dramatic, she is equally noticeable. Her vocalisation is very clear, and denotes an excellent range of voice. Mr Frederick Moyes, who first appears as Lieutenant Napoleon Bonaparte, and subsequently as Napoleon I., quite impresses the audience with the determined character of the personage he represents. Mr Thomas Maxwell's singing as Viscomte De Bethune is fully appreciated, and his acting is good. Quite a popular actor in the representation is Mr Makesay Cullin, who, first as Sergeant Lefebvre and afterwards as the Duke of Dantzic, aids materially in sustaining the interest of the piece. Some good comedy of the lightest kind is introduced by Mr Colin Mackay as Papillon, the court milliner, who also delights the audience with some finished dancing. Miss Lilian Drake makes a graceful Empress Josephine, and Miss Edith Carlyle and Miss Mary Harris as the sisters of Napoleon bring the necessary degree of hauteur to bear. Others in the capable cast include Miss Buena Sent, Miss Olive Goverick, Miss Grace Holmes, Miss Olive Noble, and Miss Amy Burthon; Mr Ralph Forster, Mr Burronston Williams, Mr J. H. Goldsworthy, Mr Fred Meyers, Mr Christie, and Mr L. Owen. The scenery by Joseph Harker is much admired. The orchestral accompaniment provided by the band of musicians under the direction of Mr B. J. Paterson is efficient, and the entire production is in every detail most enjoyable.

AMUSEMENTS IN GLASGOW.

KING'S, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr H. Macfarlane. —The Duchess of Dantzic is proving a first-class attraction at this house. The company provided by Mr Edwardes acquit themselves admirably in their different lines, the principal honours falling to Miss Amy Augarde in the title-rôle, Mr Matthew Brodie as Napoleon, Mr Herbert Clayton as Lefebvre, and Mr T. W. Volt in the part of Papillon.

METROPOLE, LIMITED.—Managing Director, Mr Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr John Dunbar.—Good houses each evening and at the matinées given have testified their appreciation of Mr Jefferson's strong play, The World's Verdict. Mr Alfred D. Adams gives a fine portrayal of the hearty old squire, Sir Geoffrey. George Ashford is acted with dash and vigour by Mr Charles Burdon, and Miss Stanley M. Burt is a sympathetic heroine as Nellie Ashford. Mr Riddell Robinson as the scheming Jasper Woodleigh gives a strong impersonation, and earns the execrations of the gods, as does his partner in crime, Cora Cassills, a part which Miss Marie De Roos makes most effective and striking. A strongly dramatic character is that of Nathan Black, the maniac, played with incisive effect and gruesome reality by Mr Talieayn G. Davies. Mr Percy Bell as the comic servant, Sammy Carrots, infuses a considerable deal of humour into every scene, and in this is ably seconded by Miss Amy B. Ellis as Sally Jenkins. Much of the fun is due to the treatment of the unfortunate land steward, Jeremiah Screw, played with good effect by Mr A. M. Carruthers. Miss Jessie Robertson gives a good account of the part of Jasper Woodleigh's deserted wife. A small part well done is the old postman of Mr Herbert Claremont.

LYCEUM.—Proprietor, Mr Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr J. H. Oakden.—The engagement of The Runaway Girl as a holiday attraction has proved a happy hit. Mr Mouillot's company is an excellent one. First honours must be accorded to Miss Ethel Netherton for her charmingly vivacious rendering of Winifred Grey. Mr Archie Croft as Guy Stanley gave a clever and enjoyable performance. Miss Marie Shields acted and sang with much quiet humour as Carmenita. Brother Tamarind was played with clever emphasis by Mr H. Latimer. Mr Howard Cridland as the jockey Flipper and Miss Amy Edmonds as his lively sweetheart Alice both gave spirited performances, sang, and danced with unfailing energy. Mr J. Wilton Selby, in a clever make-up, was a striking Leonello; Mr Clifton Yates made a picturesque Pietro, and Miss Percival as a member of the brigand troupe played the mandoline well. Mr Alex. M. Shinnie as Lord Coodle, Mr Jake Fern as the entomologist, and Misses Kate Vivian and Violet Lingard as their respective ladies, all contributed their quota to the general effect.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss's Empires, Limited; Resident Manager, Mr Arthur Aldin.—Diane De Fontenoy in her beautiful poses as an "An Artist's Model" occupies a principal position in the holiday programme here. The honours of the evening are shared by that old favourite G. W. Hunter, Beattie and Driscoll's sketch, Two Old Rogues, provides many a hearty laugh. The Three Nevarros are clever equilibrists; Amber Austa as a coon singer and dancer proves highly successful; while Cole De Losse, comedian, and his partner provide a very smart turn. Will Haines, Frank Harwood, Tom Stuart, and Eugen Marrder, with his five horses, all contribute acceptable items.

TIVOLI AND QUEEN'S, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr S. King Alexander; Acting-Managers, Mr T. J. Colquhoun and Mr F. Ewing.—The variety turns provided here include the Deer Family of Indians, George Formby, Verno and Voyce, Regal the Juggler, Bob Nicol, the Four Garganis, Charles Faning, Bendon's Bioscope, Ralston and Francis, Charles Rose, Bros. Hampson, Lil Hartley, Bill Walters, Comical Walker, Swingo, and Westland—truly a bumper programme.

PALACE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Rich Waldon and Thos. Barrasford; Assistant-Manager, Mr Harry M'Kelvie.—Harry Ford is the big draw here. Toch and Tard are clever burlesque artistes on the bars. That fine baroo Harry Drew is heartily encored for his various well-rendered songs. Emma and Victor in their acrobatic waltzing, &c., provide a novel turn. Ethel Yorke is a pleasing comedienne. Larola as a mimic and knockabout juggler is good. Mdlle. Rosela, gymnast; the Alesons, comedy acrobats; Rose Cabani, comedienne; and the animated pictures complete a first-rate programme.

BRITANNIA.—Lessee, Mr Jas. Anderson; Manager, Mr Geo. Saphrini; Assistant Manager, Mr Harry Hemfrey.—The doors of the "Brit." open at eleven a.m., and from that time patrons can drop in or out at any hour, on the principle so extensively practised in American vaudeville theatres. A good company has been engaged, including many local favourites, and the idea undoubtedly meets the wishes of many of the holiday makers.

THE MUSICAL YEAR.

The Royal Opera, Covent-garden, claims the first consideration in our record of the past musical year. The season has not been a long one, but much has been done for music; especially we have to recognise the Mozart and Wagner performances under Dr. Richter. The Mozart operas were not perhaps quite so successful as was expected, but this was easily accounted for. A certain conventional method has been associated with Mozart's works for years past, and opera-goers were contented with it, and hardly welcomed the change. Besides, the strict control of Dr. Richter naturally placed the vocalists under some restraint. Favourite prima-donnas unwillingly consented to the rule of the famous conductor, who in Wagner's works is supreme.

Two novelties were given at Covent-garden—Massenet's opera, Hérodiade, under the title of Salomé, and Hélène, by M. Saint-Saëns. Massenet's opera was originally produced at Brussels in 1881, and that of M. Saint-Saëns at Monte Carlo in February, 1904. Massenet's operas had never much vogue in this country, and the Biblical subject was against Salomé. The standard operas performed at Covent-garden might challenge comparison with any lyric establishment in Europe for excellence of ensemble and the high merit of the chief artistes. The engagement of the San Carlo company in the autumn proved the most successful of any autumn season we can remember for some years. Puccini's La Tosca, La Bohème, and Manon Lescaut, Verdi's Un Ballo in Maschera, Rigoletto, Aïda, and in the last week of the season Otello were revived by the San Carlo company, and among the vocalists several artistes greatly distinguished themselves, especially Madame Giachetti, whose pure style and sympathetic voice made a great impression. Others displayed striking qualities, for instance, Signor Sammarco, who possessed admirable dramatic as well as vocal talent. To the San Carlo company we owe the production of Signor Cilèa's Adriana Lecouvreur, whose work suffered to some extent in the endeavour of the composer to musically illustrate the scrappy dialogue of Scribe, not at all suited for music. But there was much merit in Cilèa's opera, and frequently his orchestral effects are sparkling and original, while his melodies are agreeable and free from the exaggerated emotional passages so commonly met with in the modern Italian operas. But Cilèa is certainly less dramatic than Leoncavallo, whose Pagliacci opened up a new form of Italian opera, both dramatic and melodious. Puccini also has has been successful in the same school. On the whole, the San Carlo company succeeded best in operas of the modern Italian class. In Carmen, Faust, Lohengrin, &c., they were less in their element, although we can praise them without reserve in their chorus and orchestra, and the conductor, Signor Campanini, did wonders, and is quite worthy of a post as one of the regular conductors at Covent-garden.

The Moody-Manners company migrated to Drury-lane, but the financial results did not fulfil expectations. Possibly, while opera was in full swing at Covent-garden and other musical attractions made a strong rivalry, Mr Manners did not have quite a fair chance. But his pluck and the talent of his company demand the fullest recognition. The chorus in particular merited the highest commendation, and we trust the efforts of so spirited a manager will yet be crowned with the success they deserve.

The schools and colleges of music in London have reached a high standard of excellence. The Royal College of Music, in addition to frequent concerts of students, gave an admirable performance of Gluck's Alcestis at His Majesty's Theatre, most kindly lent by Mr Tree. The Royal Academy also gave an operatic performance of L'Amico Fritz and Der Freischutz, and the Guildhall School performed Auber's Domino Noir. Trinity College has also made considerable strides. Mr Ernest Palmer's splendid gift of £20,000 to the Royal College of Music to encourage native composers has already produced results, several young English musicians having composed works which were heard at a recent concert, and we hear that Messrs Ricordi, the celebrated Italian publishers, have offered a prize of £500 for the best opera in English by an English composer, the work to be produced next season at the Royal Opera, Covent-garden. It will, therefore, be seen that our native musicians are receiving encouragement hitherto unknown in this country.

Of concerts we have had the average quantity, and although there is not much to be said as to the quality, we may remark generally improvement in the programmes chosen, and more refined art in the individual soloists. There is the same craze for mere executive display, and performers like Kubelik always secure large audiences.

It is gratifying to find our managers are well disposed towards music, and any new drama invariably attracts composers to write incidental music. Some musicians think this department of music beneath them, but Beethoven, Mozart, Schubert, Mendelssohn, Weber, and other eminent composers have written incidental music for plays.

The Moody-Manners festival at Sheffield in November for the benefit of the proposed Sheffield University was a great success, and the musical festival of Dr. Elgar was a triumph for an English musician. Foreign critics have recognised the great merits of our native composer. The conference of the inaugurated Society of Musicians was held at Glasgow, and many interesting lectures were given by eminent musicians.

Chamber concerts appear to have lost their former popularity, and the "Monday Pops" no longer attract crowds to St. James's Hall. Professor Kruse tried bravely to continue them, but did not meet with sufficient support. The Royal Choral Society prospers under the direction of Sir F. Bridge, and the choir continues to maintain its high position. Recently, in the performance of Mendelssohn's Elijah and other classic works, the choir was extremely fine.

The Promenade Concerts during the last season have been more important than ever, and in consequence have received extensive support. It is hardly possible to speak too highly of these popular concerts, so perfectly carried out, or to over estimate the services of conductor and orchestra. As to Mr Henry J. Wood, he has reached a position placing him on a level with the great conductors of the Continent. As a trainer of the orchestra he has shown uncommon skill. Inexperienced musicians who play under his direction for a brief period soon become efficient and able to deal with the most elaborate works, while those who are competent executants acquire under his control increased delicacy and brilliancy of style. We have only to compare the Promenade Concerts of the past with those of the present day to remark the vast improvement effected.

AT the New King's Theatre, Sutton-in-Ashfield, the drama, Queen of the Night, is being performed. Miss V. St. Lawrence gives an excellent portrayal of the difficult part of Pauline, and Mr Stanford scores as Philip Stoneleigh. Mr James Stillwell introduces much pathos into his rendering of Frank Cavendish. Old Briskett, who is addicted to the bottle, is excellently played by Mr F. Thorpe-Tracey, whilst Mr Stanley Douglas as Adolphus Briskett and Miss Evelyn Chester as Muriel Walford introduce plenty of humour into the play. Mr Paul E. Teulon deserves a word of commendation for his vivid portrayal of the miser, and Misses Irene Tracey and Kathleen Barnett do well in their respective parts. The drama is excellently staged, the scenic effects being particularly good.

MR ANTHONY DODE has completed a powerful play, in a prologue and three acts, entitled From Over the Hills, the entire rights of which have been secured by Miss Dora De Winton.

MUSIC HALL GOSSIP.

WHEN any high dignitary of the Church of England refers at all to the variety world, we may plume ourselves on the fact, but Dean Pigou, of Bristol—a broad-minded and kindly cleric—has done much more than this. He referred in his sermon on New Year's Day at Bristol Cathedral to the losses sustained by the stage, mentioning among others, Mr Charles Morton, Mr John Hollingshead, and Miss Nellie Farren. He concluded his remarks with a panegyric of the lamented Dan Leno, in whom he said was exemplified a wonderful instance of remarkable power, given to one individual to brighten the lives of thousands of others.

THE newest ventures of the Variety Theatres Consolidated, Limited, are new palaces at East Ham and Tottenham. Messrs Wylson and Long, the architects of the Oxford, Euston, Chelsea, and Walthamstow, have the plans in hand, and it is expected that both establishments will be opened by Christmas next. At the statutory meeting of the company held on the 30th ult. Mr Henry Tozer, after giving details of its formation, said the meeting was called primarily to comply with the Act of Parliament, and he took the opportunity of informing the shareholders that the policy of consolidation, so necessary in these days of keen competition, was amply justified by results.

THE "Yellow Peril," which is spreading at the music halls, threatens nothing but novel entertainment for the "barbarian" Londoner. The Chunchuses have invaded the Alhambra; Chung-Ling-Soo has quite a martial array wherewith to capture the appreciation of audiences at the Hippodrome; Ching-Ling-Foo asserts a genial form of "celestial" government at the Empire; and another "Chinese" wonder-worker, it is announced, will besiege the Palace stage. Mr Butt is giving out mysterious hints of the appearance of a mandarin of the Celestial Court, whose identity is concealed under the stage name of Gol-Din-Poo. Is this our old friend Horace Goldin?

MR ALBERT CHEVALIER, whose appearances at the London halls have been of late years all too few, is voyaging again to New York to fulfil a six weeks' engagement. It is some years since the comedian visited the Empire City, and made the New Yorkers learn something of the manners and language of the London coster, who is supposed to be first cousin to a Bowery "tough." The Yanks took most unmistakably to Mr Chevalier, who scored the greatest success that had up to that time been achieved by any dialect comedian. Since that day Mr Chevalier has enlarged his repertory somewhat by the introduction of English rustics, ancient and pathetic musical professors, racing touts, &c. These artistic character studies should be most interesting to our cousins "across the pond."

MR HARRY BAWN is to be again promoted. It is only a short time since he was called upon to take up the management of the Grand, Clapham, and now he has been drafted to the head office to take up the business control of the four halls directed by Mr Walter Gibbons. Mr Bawn makes himself exceedingly popular wherever he goes, and his commercial astuteness and business capacity—which he assiduously cultivated in a large drapery house in Knightsbridge before he was attacked by stage fever—have become almost proverbial.

MR WALTER MELVILLE, notwithstanding the continued campaign of the Theatrical Managers' Association, is by way of appearing on the boards of the halls in a couple of sketches from his pen. One is entitled Six and-Eightpence—which title has already been used on the theatre stage for a clever adaptation from the French—and the other Our Baby. They will be trifles, light as air, and in their representation the actor-author will be assisted by Miss Eva Dare, an actress very popular at the East-end theatres. We need hardly add that Mr Walter Melville is responsible for those successful dramas, The Worst Woman in London and A Girl's Cross Roads.

MRS JOHN LAWSON has made a pronounced success as Louie Faber, in A Bride for a Living, which is described as a "Bernhardic performance." The latest thriller—a murder by a mangle—is pursuing its successful career at the Middlesex this week, and will be seen on the 16th at the Grand, Clapham; also on the 23rd at the Royal, Holborn, and Walham-green. Whatever disappointment Mr Lawson may have felt in Mr Todd of London is amply repaid by the extraordinary success of A Bride for a Living.

MDLLE. ADELINE GENEE, who danced before the King and Queen Alexandra at Chatsworth on Thursday, celebrated her birthday on Friday of this week. The charming prima ballerina of the Empire appeared before Her Majesty some time ago in Denmark, and had the pleasure of being highly complimented on the perfection of her art. Yesterday was also the birthday of Mr Gordon Craig, whose work as a stage producer is so utterly unconventional. As an artist he is somewhat unequal, many of his water-colours being vague and puzzling, but his pen and ink drawings—especially with Sir Henry Irving for a subject—are always interesting and skilful.

MISS LALLA SELBINI, the daring and graceful cyclist, is playing a most successful New Year's engagement at the Krystall Palast, Leipzig. She is married to Mr Willie Pantzer, of the Pantzer Brothers, and shares her husband's enthusiasm for motoring. When the young couple find time to take a long holiday they hope to make a world's tour in their own car. Miss Selbini has been a trick cyclist from the time when she was so tiny that a special machine had to be made for her to ride.

MR BRANSBY WILLIAMS, who is making a hit at the Oxford and Tivoli in his widely divergent sketches of Whackford Squeers, the Yorkshire schoolmaster, and Dan'l Peggotty, the Yarmouth boatman, has just arranged with the management of those halls to produce an entirely new monologue at each place on Monday, the 23rd. At the Tivoli it will be an episode in the life of an officer on the North-West frontier; at the Oxford it will be a monologue from his own pen, dealing with the with the capture of Fagin, the Jew fence, in "Oliver Twist."

MR FITZROY GARDINER, who has been permanently appointed acting-manager at the Palace Theatre to assist Mr Alfred Butt, was formerly in the Indian Civil Service, and later became interested in the drama. For some time he was Mr Beerbohm Tree's representative at the Haymarket, and assisted at the opening of His Majesty's. Subsequently he became Mrs Langtry's lieutenant at the Imperial Theatre when she opened that house. Mr Gardiner is a well-known writer on theatrical matters.

MR "TEDDY" GILES, as announced in another column, will take a farewell benefit at the Battersea Empire on Wednesday evening next, the 11th inst.

SO instantaneous was the success of the new fairy entertainment, The Dancing Doll, at the Empire, on Tuesday, that the directors have decided to give it three matinées a week commencing on Monday, in addition to the usual evening performances. To further strengthen a programme specially devised for children the morning performances will include Ching Ling Foo, the wonderful Chinese magician, and the Biograph, varied with turns selected from the evening bill.

DR. WALFORD BODIE is again breaking all his previous records in London, the Paragon and Canterbury being packed to the doors nightly. It would seem there is no limit to his drawing powers. At both halls he receives an ovation nightly, being recalled again and again. At the Paragon he has a guard of honour in the form of a posse of police to keep back the crowd while he gets to his carriage, as over two or three thousand are waiting nightly outside to cheer him lustily as he drives away. He will be reluctantly compelled to leave London shortly to fulfil his provincial engagements, but returns for several weeks again at an early date.

OWING to indisposition La Petite Bella, the Yankee millionaire's daughter, will be unable to fulfil her engagements at the London and Gatti's next week. She, however, rejoins Dr. Bodie's company for a long tour, opening at the Empire, Wolverhampton, on Jan. 16, and returns to London at an early date.

THE Great Rubie (La Femme Mesmer), the only lady society hypnotist and electrician in the world, will make her bow to a London audience on Monday at the Grand Varieties, Clapham. Her show promises to be novel, instructive, and sensational, and as managers are always on the look-out for magnetic attractions, no doubt her début will be watched with interest. She has already booked several dates in London.

THE Pavilion Theatre of Varieties, Newcastle-on-Tyne, which has become a popular place of amusement in that city, celebrated the first anniversary of its opening on the 28th ult. To signalise the occasion a presentation of a handsome smoker's cabinet, subscribed for by the members of the staff, was made to the resident-manager, Mr Will H. Boardman, who has so worthily filled that position since the opening.

MR A. J. WEST writes:—"In your last issue in a notice of an alarming fire at Belfast mention is made of Our Army and Navy No. 1 Animated Photo. Company. I should be glad if you would kindly let it be known that this company is unknown to me, and has nothing to do with 'Our Navy and Our Army,' which I have been showing for the past six years at the Polytechnic, Regent-street. I have no company touring Ireland, and I may further add I have had no fires."

RUSSIAN and Japanese jugglers and acrobats are appearing in the circus at the Crystal Palace, and when the fall of Port Arthur was announced, the Russians entered the dressing-room of the latter and saluted them gravely, the Japanese replying with formal bowings. The Russians then invited the acrobats to tea, and the performers of both nations fraternised together. Two of the Japanese troupe are serving with General Nogi's forces at Port Arthur.

MISS MAY HENDERSON is prosecuting a successful tour on the Continent, and is just now at the Apollo Theater, Vienna. The Viennese are not taken in for a minute by her burnt cork, but speak of her on the bills as a "most beautiful white American girl, who drastically disguises herself for the mere purpose of Nigger parody."

THE Paragon matinée in aid of the St. George's and Wapping Relief Fund will be given on Thursday next. Mr H. H. Wells is working hard to make this a success, and he has the co-operation of Mr George Adney Payne, Mr Fred Miller, and Mr Charles Beecham. An excellent programme is promised.

MESSRS FRANCIS, DAY, AND HUNTER are just publishing a new song by J. Francis Barron, with music by J. Airlie Dix, entitled "Maureen of Ballinasloe." As indicated by the title, it is an appreciation in racy rhyme of the Irish colleen, and being set to a pretty and characteristic melody has every chance of success.

THE Prince of Wales's, Wolverhampton, has been transformed into the Hippodrome by Messrs Fred Benton and Fred J. Little. The house opened under its changed title on Monday, under the management of Mr W. H. Southern.

SOME measure of success has attended the reopening of the King's Theatre of Varieties in Roscommon-street, Liverpool, and Messrs Leckie and Waterhouse are to be congratulated upon the improvements which their lesseeship has brought about. A new stage has been erected, new scenery painted, the electric light introduced, and the accommodation improved. There is a capital little orchestra under the direction of Mr J. Keightley, and the programme is full of good things. Two peculiar features of the "King's" are that there are no early doors, and the programmes are given away.

THE numerous friends of Mr Harry Burns will be sorry to hear that this popular variety agent is laid up with an attack of influenza, and is confined to his bed.

MR WILL ELLISLIS has fulfilled a two weeks' engagement with Mr Quinton Gibson at the Hippodrome, Scarborough, commencing Dec. 6, to produce his pantomime sketches Sinbad the Sailor and Babes in the Wood, with five principal artistes, including Miss Florrie Bray as the principal boy, and supported by thirty local children. He has been re-engaged for another three weeks.

HENRY JOHNSON, once a famous acrobat, who celebrated his ninety-eighth birthday at Grantham on Christmas Day, has had a most interesting career. As a boy of fourteen he entered the service of the original Sangers, with whom he learnt his profession; and in 1830, while at Aylesbury with a Chinese juggler, he was honoured with a command to perform before King William IV. at Buckingham Palace. The King was so delighted that he presented the two with £50 each, and a Royal licence to perform in any market-place or town. Subsequently the pair performed before Queen Victoria when a girl, and later on before King Edward, when Prince of Wales. Mr Johnson only abandoned his acrobatic life about thirteen years ago.

HARRY KARDOC, who was described as being the king of handcuff kings, was charged at Stafford police-court, on Thursday, with maliciously damaging a coffin, the property of James Elphinstone, lessee and manager of the Lyceum Theatre, Stafford. Defendant was engaged at the theatre to do a handcuff manipulating turn, and challenged anyone to take a box to the theatre from which he could not escape. Prosecutor made arrangements for a coffin to be made, and the challenge was accepted. Prosecutor gave £1 for the coffin. The turn was done on Saturday night last, and defendant succeeded in getting out of the coffin. He then claimed the coffin as his own, but prosecutor would not let defendant have it, and the latter then jumped on the coffin, breaking the lid.

PROSECUTOR said before the theatre was opened on Saturday night the coffin was placed in the office, and during his absence defendant went into the office, and after examining the coffin, said to prosecutor's wife, "It is child's play to get out of this. I will put longer screws in." Defendant then took the screws out of the feet-end of the coffin, but instead of putting longer screws in, he put smaller ones which just clipped the wood.

DEFENDANT said he made it a condition, before he got in the coffin, that if he succeeded in escaping the coffin would be his property. What damage was done to the coffin he did trying to get out. Defendant was fined 2s. 6d. and costs, and ordered to pay 5s. damage.

MR THOMAS BARRASFORD, encouraged by his success at the Alhambra, Paris, intends in the near future to make a descent on Brussels, where he will run a variety theatre on the same lines as that in La Ville Lumière. Like the Parisians the Bruxellois dine late, and the entertainment will commence at 8·45, and there will be but one house. Mr Barrasford is one of those managers who disestablished that bad old custom of the comedian bantering the conductor of the band, a relic of the old days of the free-and-easy. He is a firm believer in good music, and his orchestras in the provinces are in strong contrast to those of ten years ago, when the bands of country music halls were a by-word among the profession. Nothing is left to chance, and the parts required from the artists are carefully set out in contracts, and insisted upon.

AT the Lyceum he will make a feature all the year round of operatic selections by first-class artists. The quartet at present engaged cost him about £260 a week, and he is now engaging a second company to take alternate nights. By this means he will sustain the high traditions of the old house for lyric performances, and raise music to a standard to which it has not hitherto reached in the halls. He works on the sound axiom that the public wants the best of everything, and he will see that it gets it.

IN some of his provincial halls the highest price is a shilling and the lowest twopence. At the Brighton Hippodrome—the old Eden Theatre—success has been attained at prices that range from sixpence to two shillings; at the Lyceum three shillings are charged for a luxurious stall; but a seat is to be had in the finest grand circle in London for two shillings.

MR WILKIE BARD may well sing "O—O! capital O!" for, in connection with his success in pantomime at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, Birmingham, such an exclamation of surprise is quite warranted. And yet those who have watched this young comedian's career at the halls have long since recognised the talent that "Brum" theatregoers are so heartily applauding. Mr Bard has certainly "arrived;" and if he does not appear at our leading pantomime theatre before he is much older it will be only because his services have been booked up years ahead by astute caterers who recognised the bright promise of his early efforts and acted accordingly.

MR FRED MILLER'S geniality is a well-known factor in his reign at the Canterbury, and he did not allow the last night of the old year to pass without a little ceremonial. Mr Bransby Williams was pressed into the service, and impersonated "The Departing Year," and Miss Peggy Pryde's little niece tripped on to the stage as 1905. Several old friends joined in the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

AT the Sadler's Wells Theatre, on Monday, Mr Julius Simpson, the energetic manager, was responsible for a successful production of a dramatic sketch, founded on the story of Jack Sheppard, entitled The Road to Newgate. No trouble or expense had been spared, and the five scenes in which the sketch was played were all most appropriate. The last scene, viz., the Well Hole, where an exciting explosion takes place, created a perfect sensation. The leading characters were played by Mr F. G. Brooke (Jack Sheppard), Mr J. C. Aubrey (Jonathan Wild), Mr Frank Beresford (Thames Darrell), and Miss Katherine Clarke (Mrs Sheppard, Jack's mother), who were one and all excellent in their delineations.

THE following is the full text of the judgment pronounced by Mr Cecil Chapman on Dec. 30, 1904, in connection with the sketch prosecution at the Southwark police-court:—"I am bound to say that after listening to counsel I have come to a conclusion which I am not quite sure is actually in accord with the conclusion I arrived at a year ago, but I was at the moment impressed that the two representative institutions were coming to an arrangement which seemed to me to be very nearly within reach, and it is a matter of disappointment that that has not yet been secured; and I think the arguments addressed to me by Mr Grain are extremely forcible. I do not like to say that it is very material that the prosecution is a trade prosecution, though in fact there can be no doubt about it. I do not think it is at all an unjustifiable thing for a trader to say when finding himself cut out by another in a way that breaks the law, 'I shall avail myself of that breach, and try to put a stop to it.'

"IT is a perfectly reasonable thing to do, and therefore he is not to be blamed for doing it, but, on the other hand, one must look at it when it comes into this Court as if he represented the public, and, in the public interest, I am bound to say I cannot conceive very much justification for a prosecution of this kind. In the private interest of the theatre I can see there is very considerable reason for bringing a prosecution of this kind, but in the public interest I see very little indeed. I consider they are practically at one in an agreement, and that the music hall people are really doing what is quite reasonable when they are putting on their stage sketches which last from thirty to forty minutes. The whole thing is reduced necessarily to a sketch in fact. Under these circumstances I regard with respect the words expressed in his considered judgment by my colleague, Mr Paul Taylor, and I think the only thing we can do is, we must enforce the law because it is the law, although I think it is now a matter for legislation rather than for the Law Courts. There will be a penalty of ten shillings for each day that the stage plays were performed, £6 in all, and £10 10s. costs."

MISS VICTORIA MONKS commenced her fourth visit to the Palace Theatre this week. Although it was an American song—"Bill Bailey"—which may be said to have made her name and fortune, she is an English girl, and makes her first tour in the United States next summer. Miss Monks passed her early childhood in a convent school in Warwickshire, and appeared before the public at the Empire, Blackpool, before she attained her twelfth year. Her London début was at the Oxford—where, by the way, she "topped the bill" just before Christmas—and her present list of bookings reaches far into 1912. Nearly all her stage dresses are made in Paris. On Monday she appeared in black satin, with very stiff underskirts of flame-coloured chiffon and silk, a smart black coat with a bold design of flowers and scroll work round the sides, and an enormous hat, with beautiful shaded plumes 36in. long. Next week she is going to wear a frock as dainty as a piece of Dresden china. It fades from deepest rose into palest pink, and is covered with cream-coloured lace that took first prize at the last Paris Exhibition.

MISS MONKS was married six months ago to Mr Karl Hooper, who is now appearing at the Hippodrome with his partner in "ridiculous and other juggling." He is an American, and hails from Pennsylvania. Both Mr Hooper and his young wife are fond of horses and dogs. Miss Monks possesses five Scotch terriers, three of them being named after her music hall favourites—Knowles, Marie, and Vesta, and two after race horses—Ziponia and Little Serio. All her songs are written and composed by Mr William Hargreaves, who will conduct at the Canterbury on the last night of her present engagement, in about three weeks' time. She remains at the Palace for six more weeks.

LEA AND LOVELL, American song illustrators, have just returned to town after a successful tour of the provinces for seventeen weeks, and open on Monday next at Poplar.

THE death on Wednesday at Buxton of Mr E. S. Barnes, late manager of the London and Collins's, will come as a surprise to London music hall circles, wherein the deceased was a popular figure a few years since. Mr Barnes, who was the brother of the late Mrs Herbert Sprake, of Collins's, had commenced a commercial career before he became business manager at the hall on Islington-green for Mr Sprake, who died on May last year. Energy, business tact and geniality were the distinguishing marks of the deceased gentleman, and his successful administration was beyond a doubt. At the opening of the London, at Christmas, 1893, Mr Barnes accepted the position of manager, much to the chagrin of Mr Sprake, who shortly afterwards sold Collins's to a syndicate of financiers and contractors, who rebuilt it.

AT that time combination had begun to be the order of the day, the Shoreditch and Islington halls were run under the same management, and the dual position was bestowed on Mr Barnes, who, we know, held originally a considerable number of shares in the London. This hall was so badly constructed that Mr Frank Matcham was called in, and the interior was completely transformed. Notwithstanding this set back, it flourished under Mr Barnes, and it is regrettable to think that his reign there as manager was put an end to owing to causes which became the subject of an action in the courts.

ON leaving London Mr Barnes took a hotel at Buxton, and afterwards went to Rotherham. Of late years he had seldom visited town. In conjunction with Mr Herbert Sprake the deceased gentleman, who was familiarly known as "Teddy," did much to promote the success of benefits in aid of the Music Hall Sick Fund, which were of yearly occurrence at Collins's. He was twice married, and leaves a widow to mourn his loss.

MR SYDNEY LEE, the young magician, who has so rapidly come to the front, has married a Lancashire lady. The ceremony took place on Friday, the 30th ult., at St. Hilda's Church, Manchester. The happy bridegroom received no less than sixty-three wedding presents from his friends in the variety world. One of the gifts was a gold charm in the form of a broken heart from an unknown donor, but addressed in a feminine hand. Mr Lee will open at the Palace in March.

CHIRGWIN'S success at the Palace induced Mr Alfred Butt to offer the White-eyed Kaffir a prolonged run, but bookings with Mr Oswald Stoll have prevented Mr Chirgwin from accepting the offer. He is, however, booked at the Shaftesbury-avenue establishment until the end of 1907.

MR MARTIN CHAPENDER'S season at Egyptian Hall promises to be very successful. The programme is specially adapted to suit children, including Mr Maskelyn's capital illusion, Will I'm ——, and the latest invention of Mr C. W. Locke, called the Astrometroscope. By means of this instrument many bewildering effects are obtained, spots of light on a black background being turned into numberless curves, angles, and intricate designs. Mr Walter Graham has greatly improved his clever Marionette performance by the introduction of a diminutive Pre-historic man, whose song is punctuated by the hoots of a small grey owl with flashing eyes. Miss Eileen Elycé illustrates the animated photographs with snatches of verse, Mr Nelson Jackson gives musical sketch, and Mr Chapender himself gives a series of card, coin, and billiard ball "sleights," concluding his turn with the old birdcage trick, using a couple of doves instead of canaries.

THE fourth annual dinner and dance to celebrate the eighth anniversary of the formation of the Music Hall Artistes' Railway Association will be held on Sunday, Feb. 5, at the Trocadero. The price of tickets will be 10s. 6d. single, and 15s. double (lady and gentleman). Further particulars will be given next week.

THE second house dinner of the Terriers' Association was held on Sunday at the Dover Castle hotel, Westminster-bridge-road. Mr Douglas White was in the chair, and Mr Walter Norman occupied the vice-chair. Among the Terriers present, in addition to these gentlemen, were Messrs W. F. Clark, A. Tysall, F. Hughes, Frank Weeks, R. Whiteley, B. Whiteley, Harry Wright, B. Woodyer, T. R. Burton, H. Hough, Harry Lester (secretary), T. W. Norman, R. Burnham, J. Alexander, T. Callaghan, Ernest D'Almaine, Jesse Sparrow, Edwin Giles, Walter Stockwell, J. Humphreys, Fred Neiman, Harry Earnard, A. Simmons, C. Pratt, H. Cory Woodrow, Dr. Walford Bodie, Norman Mills, Audie Caine, H. Kato, and V. Walker. During the evening Terrier Arthur Simmons was presented with the first gold jewel of the Association.

MR WALTER JOHNSON, musical conductor at the Hackney Empire, has a novelty in store for next week in the shape of a specially arranged overture, which will embrace selections from the chief musical performances heard on the Hackney Empire stage during 1904. The instruments used will embrace some instrumental novelties used by certain artistes, and will include two silver army bugles, a pair of coach horns, &c. The finale will comprise a new arrangement of "God save the King," simultaneously with which will be introduced a new coach-horn march.

MR HARRY CROCKER, the stage-director of the Lyceum, was for some years stage-manager of the Empire, Bristol, when that establishment was under the management of Mr Ernest Carpenter, and later of Mr Thomas Barrasford. The latter gentleman found a new sphere for Mr Crocker at the Hippodrome, Liverpool, and he has assisted in the inauguration of nearly every one of Mr Barrasford's numerous ventures.

MR W. F. FRAME, the Scottish comedian, has joined Messrs Walker and company's New Year's Carnival entertainment at the Music Hall, Aberdeen, which is being given twice a day. Mr Frame's extensive répertoire has been largely utilised, and his humour and pathos have delighted the festival folk. During his engagement Mr Frame will introduce his performing bear.

MISS EMMA DON'S new vocal scena, in which she introduces a black and white quartette of vocalists, has made a decided hit in London—last week at the Empress, Brixton, and this week at the Richmond Theatre. The quartette consists of two coloured boys and two white, all fifteen years of age, and the harmony they produce for so young a quartette is really most effective. Miss Don's business is chiefly looked after by her husband, Mr Walter F. Munroe, who was instrumental in so successfully introducing into London Harry Lauder, the Scottish comedian, and many other artistes.

THE numerous friends of Mr George Bandurria will feel a deep sympathy for that gentleman in the sad loss he has sustained by the death of his daughter Florence, who passed away at Bradford, after a very short illness, the week before Christmas. The deceased lady was a most accomplished instrumentalist and a cultured musician, and her death will be mourned by a large circle of friends, both professional and private.

CARL AND CARR are making a hit with their comedy act, The Workhouse, and as Chinese policemen, in the pantomime of Aladdin at the Ealing Theatre.

MR JAMES HOWELL has just returned to the Tivoli, having happily recovered from his sharp attack of influenza. He has been wisely recuperating at Brighton.

MR NELSON JACKSON is announced as a new humourist, but there are few people in the entertainment world who are not acquainted with his amusing songs and genial personality. With a style that occasionally recalls poor Mel P. Spurr in his quieter moments, Mr Jackson makes a great point of his Irish and Jew stories, and one of his latest features is the mock-serious recitation of nursery rhymes as Rudyard Kipling might have written them, the tragedy of "Jack and Jill" being described in "the poet of the Empire's" sardonic method, "Three Blind Mice" in the heroic descriptive, "Little Jack Horner" in "the big trombone," and "Tom Tucker" in the style of the "Barrack Room Ballads." Mr Jackson writes all his own "stuff," perhaps the best of his fifty published songs being the well-known ditty "How father laid the carpet on the stairs." His very latest is called "Inverary Mary," which he oddly describes as a Scotch coon song. He is also getting up an amusing tale of a party of Irishmen travelling in France, "Kilbarney's Trip to Paris."

NELSON JACKSON is a Cumberland man, and made his début as a society entertainer at the Spa, Harrogate, twelve years ago. His fee was a guinea and a half, and that was the only money he earned for the first eight months. It was not a brilliant start, but he liked the work too much to give up hope, and a couple of years afterwards may be said to have struck oil—thanks to new songs, experience and determination. After his present season at Egyptian Hall this popular man at the piano pays a visit to Liverpool, and returns to London next autumn, opening at the Palace Theatre the first week in October.

MR JACKSON has had, in common with all entertainers, many trying experiences. Some time ago he was engaged by a very rich—newly rich—Cheshire family, where he was treated with more patronage than politeness. Just after commencing his first sketch, the hostess beckoned her son, and said, in a loud whisper, "Monty, tell the young man to sing that funny comic song—what is it called?—'Our lodger's such a nice young man.'" Monty obediently crossed the room, and interrupted the entertainer in the middle of a sentence. "I say, do you know 'Our lodger'?" he asked. "No," said Mr Jackson, promptly, "Who is he?" Monty and his mother were speechless; but after a few seconds the latter gasped, "Monty, tell him to go on." Mr Jackson, however, made a quick end to his sketch, remarking that the "intellectual pressure of being suddenly asked for classical selections was more than he could bear."

A MORE recent experience of Mr Nelson Jackson's was equally embarrassing in a different way. He arrived in a small town just in time to drive to the hall for the entertainment. He was met at the door by a grave gentleman, who shook his hand with the cordial words, "You are welcome, brother." The idea flashed into his mind that the serious gentleman was a brother Freemason, and that might account for the fraternal greeting. "I hope there is a good audience," said Mr Jackson. "I don't think you should use the word 'audience' brother" was the stern reply. "Have you a good piano?" was his next question. "I'm sorry you expected a piano, brother. We have a beautiful harmonium," said the supposed mason. "But I can't possibly give my show without a piano!" exclaimed the puzzled humourist. "Your show! What do you mean?" cried the serious gentleman, "Are you not the Mr Jackson we expect to give us an address in the adjoining chapel?" "No, I'm the Mr Jackson whom somebody else expects to give a comic entertainment in the town hall." Tableau.

MR TOM LEAMORE'S latest success in parody is entitled "Heroes." It caught on the first night at the Tivoli, causing screams of laughter at every line. The singer has been specially engaged for a third week at the Queen's, Poplar, to sing this latest success.

MISS AMY CLEVERE'S charming new number, "You tell me that you're going to wed a white man," by R. P. Weston and Maurice Scott, has been purchased by Messrs Francis, Day, and Hunter.

MR ERNEST SHAND'S famous satirical song, "By kind permission of the Daily Mail," by Bennett Scott, is just now receiving much attention at those provincial pantomime houses where it is being sung, and particular attention at the Theatre Royal, Drury-lane.

MISS ROSE HAMILTON'S successful song, "The smartest boy on earth," by J. F. Lambe and George Everard, has been augmented and strengthened by extra verses by the author, who, in conjunction with T. Mellor, has supplied the same popular artist with a ditty entitled "The hoodoo landlord."

THE "sixpenny pops." of Messrs Francis and Day have been still further augmented by the addition of four fresh pieces, bringing the total up to no fewer than 138 numbers. They are:—"Bluebell," march, two-step; George Brooks's laughable song, by Tom Connor, "There's another one out of work;" Frank Leo's comic ditty, "What d'yer want to talk about it for?" and Walter Munroe's "Is your mother in, Molly Malone."

THE stirring march song, "Good-bye, little girl, good-bye, so magnificently produced at the Collseum, and so admirably sung by Miss Madge Lessing, has become the song of the moment. It is seldom that an author and composer are successful in evolving two "song epidemics," but Messrs Cobb and Edwards have duplicated their success with "Dolly Gray" by "Good-bye, little girl." In every pantomime where it is sung it is pronounced the hit of the show.

"PENNIES," the pretty song written for Mr Edgar Romaine by Nat Clifford, is among the first favourites in pantomime. It is being sung by Miss Claire Romaine, at the Borough Theatre, Stratford; by Miss Alice Lloyd, at the Crown Theatre, Peckham; and by Nellie Stratton, at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, Birmingham.

THE delightful number, "In Dreamland," is a favourite this pantomime time with ballad vocalists. Miss Minnie Hunt has made an enormous hit with it at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, Birmingham.

THERE are several strikingly pretty costumes to be seen on the stage of the Palace Theatre this week. Not the least effective in its graceful simplicity is the accordeon-pleated white crêpe de chine in which Miss Edith Courtney sings "The Star of Bethlehem." There are black velvet straps over the shoulders, and two bands of black lace round the skirt. The sleeves are formed by one full frill of white chiffon. The only ornament is a long string of pearls. For the turn given by Yamamoto and Koyoshi, Japanese equilibrists, the stage is hung with a scarlet background, decorated with a golden eagle, flags, and clusters of chrysanthemums. The little lady's costume is peacock-blue velvet, with white shoes and a cherry-coloured bow in her smooth hair; the little man wears a red tunic, elaborately embroidered in green and gold. Miss Eva Westcott's sketch, Comedy and Tragedy, gives her the opportunity to make two quick changes. She enters in a princess coat of turquoise blue velvet, edged with ermine, opening over a filmy lace skirt, her white hat being adorned with shaded blue ostrich feathers and a bunch of Parma violets. The comedy scene is played in a short white satin frock, with touches of pink tulle and a jaunty Pierrette hat, and for the tragic ending she wears a rich purple negligé, with angel sleeves.

THE LYCEUM OPENING.

There is one word to describe the spacious people's pleasure house in Wellington-street—magnificent; and Mr Thomas Barrasford, the managing-director, and Mr Bertie Crewe, the architect, were heartily congratulated at the opening of the house on Saturday afternoon, when the stalls and boxes were filled by the chief representatives of the music hall world. We have already described in detail the chief features of the beautiful auditorium; and the coup d'œil from the dress circle when every one of the handsome electroliers beamed with incandescence was superb. Just a word here about the lighting, for the scheme has been ably thought out and finely executed. The fittings have been designed by the General Electric Co., Ltd., of Queen Victoria-street, to suit the interior decorations of the auditorium, and have been made by them under the supervision of the architect. They are light and graceful in appearance, so as not to detract by an undue heaviness from the beautiful plastic decorations. The ceiling is lit by 20 9-light electroliers of a free Louis XV. style, and this same style has been adopted in the designs for the entrances, corridors, and other parts of the theatre. Special treatment has been accorded to the boxes by the use of fine characteristic Louis XV. appliques. On entering the auditorium one is at once impressed by the very charming scheme of decoration carried out by Messrs S. J. Waring and Co., whose colour scheme is ivory white and gold. That this gives a refinement and delicacy and cheeriness to the interior cannot be gainsaid, and the style adopted in the ornamentations—the Louis Quinze—is treated in particularly happy fashion, any possibility of monotony in hues being relieved by handsome paintings on the ceiling, the decorations contrasting most effectively with the crimson of the curtains and the seating. The Louis Quinze style lends itself to rich ornamentation, but the decorators and the architect have kept it in judicious control. The result is a thoroughly popular treatment, exactly suited to the purposes of the building, but invested with a distinctive artistic character.

While admiring the elaborate decorations the visitor will not fail to be impressed by the attention bestowed on arrangements for his personal comfort. At the entrance to the grand circle—surely the finest in London—is a nice cosy lounge, which would enable the visitor to realise the Parisian idea, so popular at the Opera there, of meeting and entertaining friends, were Mr Barrasford not so persistent in giving no time between the excellent turns. There is a beautiful, well-arranged and cushion-chaired gallery, so that the proletariat will be seated in luxury. The rows of stalls have sufficient space to allow of easy ingress and egress, and a very remarkable feature of this portion of the auditorium are the walls, which are wholly covered with looking glass, panelled. Gazing from any part of the house, it is seen that no columns interfere with the view, and although two circles are above the main tier, there are no columns to be seen except two, which are placed five feet from the side walls. The approach from the front entrance to the vestibule is up a fine staircase 23ft. wide formed of marble mosaic, for which Messrs Diespeker are responsible. The pattern is carpet-like, and these patent steps, which are being largely used in public buildings, are of great durability. The proscenium is decorated with some admirable work and the design on the pediment embraces fourteen figures, with a bust of Shakespeare. The stage is one of the largest and most up-to-date to be found. Measuring 60ft. by over 100ft., it is floored in teak, and the entire framework is of steel. The attention paid by Mr Barrasford to the comfort of the artistes is completely worthy of the spirit of modern luxury that pervades the house. There are about thirty large dressing-rooms, a ladies' reading-room, and a billiard room, so that the period of waiting between the two houses can be spent in comfort. The stage-manager has a raised platform from which to direct the lighting arrangements. The cinématograph chamber, which is made perfectly fireproof, is decorated in accordance with the rest of the auditorium. Electric fittings in brass water gilt form a most conspicuous feature of the decorations. Heating is obtained by the newest Plenum system. An even temperature of pure warm air is forced throughout the building, and this is converted into a cooling system for the warmer months. We have said enough, we think, to give some idea of the luxury of a house devoted to the twice-nightly form of entertainment, which has been encouraged by the approval of the people in all parts of the kingdom. In a word, Mr Barrasford is responsible for the building of a new Lyceum which has been erected with the object of upholding the traditions of the old as "premier place of entertainment." This is the right ambition, and with the necessary encouragement he is quite capable of attaining it.

A brilliant house had assembled on Saturday afternoon when Mr Louise De Reeder lifted his bâton to conduct his fine orchestra of forty through the Marche Triomphale, "Entry of the Gladiators," by Fucik and when the 3,000 lights were switched on the effect was in more senses than one "electric," and there was considerable applause. The overture to "The Bohemian Girl" immediately preceded the singing of "God Save the King," which was entrusted to the Lyceum operatic quartette. They battled bravely with accent, but without success, and they were heard to more advantage later. The Five Purroscopis provided the first turn in a pot-pourri of juggling. The chief lady of this clever troupe was principally concerned in laying a dining table—all the necessary china, fruit, dishes, lamps, &c., being absolutely "chucked" at her. She was quite equal to the task, and her table decoration—under the circumstances somewhat hurried—was entirely effective. Brooms, brushes, candlesticks were also pressed into the service; and the tricks with forks and fruit added to the humour of the show, which was presented most artistically and with a refinement that was heartily appreciated. The drawing room set in which the Purroscopis performed was a most elaborate and finely painted interior. The Freydos, who followed, soon demonstrated their right to the title of athletes. There was a good-humoured certainty about every portion of their exhibition, which is one of extraordinary strength and skill. The adroit way in which the smaller member of the pair used the arms of his more massive partner as a fulcrum to raise himself on high, head downwards, was wondrously adroit, and the seeming absence of effort throughout the performance had much to do with its attractiveness. Another exhibition of trained muscle was supplied by the Permane Brothers, but their chief claim to popularity was discovered in their quaint and clever imitation of the notes of the queen of songsters in an interlude entitled "The Nightingale's Courtship." The coyness of Mdlle Philomela was very emphatically expressed; and the persistency of Monsieur was no less roundly asserted. A fine exhibition of animal training was that of Taylor's elephants—patient and good-tempered pachyderms, who rode bicycles, played seesaw, and performed on musical instruments to the general wonderment and satisfaction; and after Miss Heloïsa Titcomb had displayed her beautiful figure in a perfect fitting costume of blue, and had sung a bravura song, the curtain rose on the production of Enoch Arden, a sketch in three scenes founded by Mr J. P. Harrington on Lord Tennyson's poem, the music being from the melodious pen of Mr Bennett Scott. Mr George Leyton appeared in the title-rôle, and told in recitative and lyrics the main points of the narrative. We see Enoch first on the Cornish coast, as he listens to a fishermen's chorus—a cleverly written item. He breaks into song in praise of "The Angel of my Home" and makes up his mind to sail away in search of fortune. In the next scene—a tropical island—Enoch is a bearded waif, who has reached the depths of despair. The pæan of hope is sounded, however, in another number, when a sail comes in sight; and the progress of events in the Cornish village is shown in a dream, and the back cloth being lifted, we see the marriage of Mrs Arden and Philip Ray. The wanderer starts from his sleep, and on his exclamation "I forbid the banns" the curtain falls a second time. The third scene shows the interior of Philip Ray's home. Enoch, listening outside, learns of the happiness of his wife, and steals silently away in the snow and to the sound of the joy bells of Christmas. The sketch will go better after a few performances. Mr George Leyton was a manly and picturesque figure as Enoch Arden, and sang with both spirit and pathos the incidental songs, which are most effective. Mr Bennett Scott has been specially happy in his melodious inspiration. The fine scenery has been specially painted by Mr Walter Hann. A great hit was made by the Harmony Four, a combination of excellent instrumentalists and vocalists, who, however, make music subsidiary to fun. A light tenor, with a really nice voice, was continually interrupted in the early part of his ballad; and the comedian of the quartet went in strongly for knockabout business as soon as the violinist started the Intermezzo from Cavalleria Rusticana; but the net result was laughter, and—when music was allowed to assert itself—applause. The comedian of the bill, Mr Phil Ray, is a strong favourite with Londoners, and his patter and nonsense kept the vast audience in a titter, his burlesque of a Dagonet ballad being voted screamingly funny. La Belle Wilma presented some most ingenious pictures, her only media being smoke and sand, of which she made most skilful use, her facility for producing pictorial effects being lightning-like. The great triumph of the afternoon came with the first appearance in London of an operatic quartet in a selection from Rigoletto, which was interpreted by M. Ansaldi (from the Grand Opera, Paris), as the Duke, Mdlle. Van Parys (from the Grand Opera, Paris), as Gilda, M. Rey (from the Grand Opera, Nice), as Rigoletto, and Mdlle. Dhasty (from the Royal Theatre, Brussels), as Maddalena. The performance was excellent, the magnificent quartet, "Un di si ben," rousing the house to an enthusiasm which compelled the fine lyric artists to repeat a portion of it. Other turns included Carl Reinsch, with his thoroughbred steed, on which he did an attractive manège act, and then, mounting a more prosaic looking animal, introduced his troupe of dogs—a most interesting combination that obeys his slightest word. A sensational wind-up to the opening programme was provided by Canadian Banker, who, after ascending a steep incline with his bicycle, came down on it at a terrific speed, and completed his act with a sensational somersault loop. It will be seen that novelty largely predominates in Mr Barrasford's opening scheme of amusement, and his generous estimate of the public demand for entertainment should certainly be rewarded with crowded houses.

Amongst those present in stalls and boxes were Mr Oswald Stoll, Miss Vesta Tilley, Mr Walter De Frece, Mr and Mrs Frank Allen, Mr Frank Macnaghten, Mr Leslie Stuart, Mr Fred Baugh, Mr Medley Barrett, Mr Hugh Astley and Mr Frank Glenister, of the London Pavilion; Mr Albert Gilmer, of the Oxford; Mr Edward Ledger, Mr Tom Shaw, Miss Madeline Barber, Mr Sydney Hyman, Mr Maurice Hyman, of the Britannia; Mr Philip Yorke, Messrs Emanuel and Richard Warner, Mr J. L. Graydon, Mr Laurie Graydon, Miss Lily Burnand, Miss Marie Kendall.

ISLINGTON EMPIRE.

The beginning of a new year finds the wonderful prosperity of this place of amusement unimpaired and the popular Mr Will Spearman still cheerfully engaged in an energetic management of affairs in front of the house. There have been quite record holiday audiences, and the bill-of-fare has been voted first-class. This week one of the principal attractions is Charles Prinz's forest-bred lions, whose performances are watched with the keenest interest. There is Liza, a lion who walks carefully along upon a row of large bottles, just as a cat can be taught to do. A singing lion emits a curious kind of cry which can scarcely be described as harmonious; whilst another of the troupe of twenty distinguishes himself as a sporting character. But perhaps the most sensational incident of the whole performance is the feeding of the animals. Prinz boldly enters the cage and throws in the air large lumps of meat, which the lions spring up and catch in their mouths; the successful competitors retiring to a quiet corner to enjoy the succulent prize. It is really remarkable how well the animals keep their tempers, considering the very keen competition which takes place; beyond an occasional growl there is nothing to indicate that the lions belong to a savage race. On Monday night Mdlle. Marcella's fire-dance in the den of lions was omitted, but the performance given contained quite as much sensation as would satisfy any ordinary sightseer. Lady Mansel and her juveniles are engaged here in "A Concert Rehearsal." The songs and dances given are interspersed with questions put by the head of the troupe and the smart replies of the juveniles. A boy and girl sing "The Sentimental Coon," concluding with a pretty dance which is much applauded. Another little girl scores with a skipping-rope performance and a big-boot dance, which is very cleverly managed. A comedian who has been before the public a good many years is seen in Mr James Fawn, who meets with the cordial reception due to an old favourite. A character that he is fond of embodying is that of a policeman, and he is now appearing as a genial guardian of the peace who takes quite a philosophic view of his responsibilities, and, with a broad smile and a knowing twinkle in the eye, explains his reasons for adopting an attitude of non-interference on certain specified occasions. Mr Fawn has another ditty on the subject of the ladies, and in this he introduces much humorous patter which causes considerable merriment. Altogether Mr Fawn is quite in his old form, and maintains his reputation as an excellent representative of the old school of comedians. Mr A. B. Houghton claims attention as a trick pianist. On the piano he gives an imitation of a clog dancer; he plays "Sweet Marie" by striking the treble notes with the tip of his nose; and while in an upside-down position manages to rattle off another popular melody. His eccentric musical performance evokes loud applause. Miss Sable Fern, who delights to be known as an "English singer of English songs," is here again, and her North London admirers are not slow in giving this charming little lady a right hearty welcome. She sings "You can't stop the sun from shining" and "Where is the heart" with much animation, and her continued success is beyond question. Mr Dan Filmer cuts a comical figure as he sings "I am a millionaire," a type of song, however, that has become somewhat stale. The Sisters Northcroft give a duet in which one of them represents a Girton girl and the other a grimy maidservant who has a contempt for her learned sister. They meet with a favourable reception, and so do De Vere and Konwiek, American comedy artistes, who with song, dance, and patter make their mark. They appeared on Monday as deputies for the Boccaccios; while Mr Charles Lilburn was present in place of Mr George Fairburn, and made a hit with a capital chorus song. Miss Maudie Ford wins favour with a song and dance, and the Hamiltons and Keir and Allen, comedians and dancers, also meet with success. The programme opens with the pretty overture "Bluebell in Fairyland," well played by the orchestra, under the able direction of Mr A. Petersen.

HARRY RANDALL,

FAIRY ASBESTOS,

IN

OPINIONS OF THE LONDON PRESS.

THE TIMES says:—

"THE VERY MAN FOR DRURY-LANE."

For the great Drury-lane pageant is this year as wonderful as ever, its fooling as lively as ever, and its duration longer than ever. Its new hero is Mr Harry Randall, an indefatigable worker, and the very quintessence of drollery. He is the Fairy Asbestos, guardian of the Princess Aurora, who is the sweetheart of the gallant Prince Peerless. But Mr Randall is not content with being a fairy, all spangles and pirouettes; he is also a barmaid, a much-admired barmaid, who is wooed by Prince Peerless's brothers, Patter and Plump, and, indeed, by several other gentlemen; and when Mr Randall has had enough of being a barmaid he becomes a landlady of the classic type—we mean the type that is classic in "the Halls"—the landlady who has "gentlemen lodgers," and is an expert in tariffs, domestic cookery, and local scandal. To see Mr Randall washing the baby—or rather scrubbing and polishing the baby—should be a liberal education for young wives and mothers. But we have not yet done with Mr Randall. He is at his very best when he frankly abandons his character and comes down to the footlights to sing a "topical" song ("Oh, what a happy land is England!"), or to burlesque a "coon" ballad, or to let loose a torrent of humorous "patter." We would say of him as of another famous character, that his face is his fortune—a variegated face, an indiarubber face, a whole Mercator's Projection of a face—if it were not for his agreeably (or at any rate, not disagreeably) strident voice and his extremely eloquent, versatile, and vivacious legs. In a word, Mr Randall is the very man for Drury-lane, all over the stage at once, and heard all over the house. Humour at Drury-lane must be laid on with a lavish hand; and Mr Randall is gloriously prodigal of it.

THE TELEGRAPH PAYS A TRIBUTE TO THE ROLLICKING HUMOUR OF HARRY RANDALL, AND SAYS:—

This will be the more easily understood when it is added that the Fairy Asbestos was, in reality, that immensely droll comedian, Mr Harry Randall. . . . Mr Harry Randall as Asbestos delivers a most effective parody of the celebrated "Panama" song, to a chorus composed of dustmen. Of the efforts of the principals mention has been made en passant, but tribute must still be paid to the rollicking humour and inexhaustible spirits of Mr Harry Randall.

Much of the success of the entertainment must be attributed to the remarkable drollery of Mr Harry Randall as Fairy Asbestos. Mr Randall, in parts of the "skinny matron" sort, is simply irresistible. He depicts—with graphic exaggeration, of course—a distinct Cockney type. He is the British female—care-worn, ironically cynical, but innately good-natured—who may be found by dozens in any of our "mean streets." When with this is "doubled" the absurd idea of an elderly fairy whose spells are growing stale, and whose fatal beauty has ceased to charm and fascinate, the result is most diverting. Of course, Mr Randall introduces a good deal of his famous "patter," and it sends the audience into ecstasies. To see him as the struggling ex-fairy, reduced to taking in a "nurse child" and lodgers, undressing a property baby with a ludicrous assumption of propriety and washing it down with a scrubbing-brush, is to laugh till one's sides ache; and then there is his topical song about "Happy England," which might easily be encored a dozen times, so eager are the audience for additional verses. Mr Randall's fun is so "clear cut"—if we may use the expression—his methods are so decided, and he is such a master of his work that he creates a first-rate impression without any effort or exaggeration.—The Era, Dec. 31, 1904.

Mr Harry Randall has a fine comic part in Asbestos, the retired fairy, and acted it for all it was worth. . . . and Harry Randall are, perhaps, a quaint combination, but last night it was a highly successful one, and the result was a tribute to the powers of both comedians. Mr Randall was, in fact, irresistibly comic, and the roars of laughter he aroused were quite in accord with Boxing Night traditions.—Daily Express.

In Mr Harry Randall a very capable successor has been found for Mr Leno, and he fully justifies his appointment. His style is somewhat broader than that of his predecessors, but he is equally at home in making his points, and the laughter which greeted him last night when he was engaged in the task of washing the baby will find its resonant echo for many weeks to come. The part he has to play is that of the Fairy Asbestos, who has been so prodigal of her charms in the past that her magic powers are reduced to a minimum.—Morning Advertiser, Dec. 27.

Easily first and foremost among the performers is Mr Harry Randall, the Fairy Asbestos, who has most of the fat, and works hard with patter, song, and dance to make things lively. His dresses will turn Paquin green with envy.—Morning Leader, Dec 27.

If there is a successor to Dan Leno, it is, of course—there is no use denying it—Mr Harry Randall, and a very excellent successor he is too. There are little speeches about husbands and similar topics that Mr Randall makes in his capacity as a matronly fairy that are as rich in humour as ever one could wish to see. — Daily Chronicle, Dec. 27.

Mr Harry Randall secured the chief honours among the men. He is exceedingly funny as Asbestos, an elderly fairy no longer able to fascinate except on a time limit. As a landlady who has to bath a nurse child and serve a pantomime dinner, and as a barmaid, he incidentally introduces an immense amount of broad and vigorous humour, which the audience found very acceptable.—Evening News, Dec. 27, 1904 (issued by the proprietors of the Daily Mail).

Mr Randall is genuinely funny and a treat to watch; he is clever without being coarse, and humorous without leaving a nasty taste in the mouth.—Echo, Dec. 27, 1904.

"THE DOLL."

There is a vast amount of detail in The Doll which was produced at the Empire Theatre on Tuesday last. The "fairy divertissement" is suggested by the Viennese ballet Puppenfee, but there can be little doubt that Madame Katti Lanner, who has arranged the action of the dances, has added many original ideas, and has introduced a great deal of novel business. The music is by Herr F. Bayer; and additional numbers have been composed and selected—in some cases from Audran's La Poupée—by Mr Cuthbert Clark. The action opens in Professor Marvel's doll emporium, where a variety of puppets are shown to visitors. The mechanism of the bébé doll breaks down, but a great Christmas tree at the back of the stage opens, and a dainty little fairy emerges. She gives the Professor a golden key, which at once restores the doll to "animation." The divertissement then resolves itself into a series of dances. There is a valse by undressed dolls wrapped in seeming tissue-paper. Then a large dolls'-house at the wing is opened, and the inmates issue forth and have a funny tea party. A review of wooden soldiers, accurately attired in imitation of the familiar toys of the early Victorian period, is held, and a troupe of white rabbits is also marshalled and drilled. A coon dance is done with great spirit, and a sailor's hornpipe is another attractive item. Very effective, indeed, is a dance in which the bodies of the ladies represent humming-tops, their skirts flying out centrifugally, to give the idea of spinning. In the "Dutch scene" which follows, clothes are washed in tubs by little Hollandaises, some ladies' petticoats, &c., being hung on a line at the back. Suddenly a number of "black-hosed" legs are protruded through the garments, and, after doing a quick step, disappear. The divertissement concludes with a grand waltz and galop.

The honours of the ballet were as usual carried off by Mdlle. Adeline Genée, whose vivacity and versatility were greatly in evidence. As Bebé she danced with her usual grace and agility. As the leader of the toy rabbit soldiers she played the drum smartly; and as a Polichinella in lilac she was full of life and spirit. A perfect imitation of the stiff and stolid movements of a mechanical figure was given by Mdlle. F. Zanfretta as a Spanish doll. She also did a very characteristic—but still "dollish"—Iberian pas seul later on in the course of the production. A strikingly quaint and curious item was an eccentric duo by Mr W. Vokes and Miss E. Clere. Attired as undressed dolls, they went through a pas de deux of the drollest and most "wooden" description. The scene which served as a background was very elaborate; and Mr Joseph Harker deserves great credit for his work in this connection. Herr F. Bayer's music is always bright and appropriate; and The Dancing Doll was received on Tuesday with every symptom of favour. A new and important item in the variety bill at the Empire is the appearance this week of Ching Ling Foo, a leading exponent of Chinese magic, said to be the first Chinese conjuror to appear on any foreign stage. After years of constant practice Ching was, on his twenty-fifth birthday, appointed one of the three magicians at the Chinese Court. In the course of his travels he has appeared in all of the principal cities in Ceylon, India, Burmah, the Straits Settlements, Cochin-China, and the Philippines. In 1897 Ching was engaged to appear at the Trans-Mississippi Exposition held in Omaha, Nebraska, U.S.A., and it was while working in Omaha that his act was seen by B. F. Keith, the American vaudeville manager, who immediately entered into a contract with him. At the close of the Exposition in October he went to New York, where the act was such a success that it remained in Keith's Theatre until September, 1900, when he was obliged to return to China to look after his property in Tien Tsin, which had been destroyed by the Boxers. During his sojourn in China he received numerous offers for another tour, but it was not until he met Mr Mooser, his present manager, that he could be induced to again leave the flowery kingdom. The Empire management closed a contract with Ching on Jan. 10, 1904, for his appearance at the Empire with his company this year. Ching does some fairly familiar feats of conjuring, and does them exceedingly well, but his "speciality" is the production from under a clock of various articles, including a big bowl which, with the water it contains, weighs 85lbs. This would be easy enough if trap doors were employed, but we are assured that Ching does not use appliances of this class.

THE MUSIC HALL BENEVOLENT FUND.

MR JOSEPH LYONS' CHRISTMAS APPEAL TO THE MEMBERS OF THE PROFESSION.

As president for the year of the Music Hall Benevolent Fund I ask you to kindly send me a Christmas donation to help us carry on the good work with success.

I do so confident that my call to the profession will be responded to with the benevolent liberality for which it is noted. I do so in the belief that music hall artistes of every grade, those at the top-most rung of the ladder and those who are still climbing, will recognise that the cry for help which comes from their brother and sister artistes, who from accident, sickness, or dire misfortune have been compelled to seek assistance, should be answered first by the profession to which they once belonged. Charity may be welcome from whatever source it comes, but it must be doubly sweet when it comes from those with whom we have worked and played the game of life.

Apart from this I feel sure it would do immeasurable good to the status of the music hall profession if it could be shown that it recognised its duty in this respect, and was proudly striving to keep its Benevolent Fund in a state of financial prosperity without the necessity of urgent appeals to the general public. In every branch of professional and commercial life where this spirit has been fostered charities have been built up on sound financial foundations, and it is my aim and hope to see the same happy state of things effected for this Fund. I want it to be known to the world that members of the music hall profession take a pride in caring for their poorer members.

The line which divides success from failure is but a faint shadow; do please remember those who have struggled and fallen back beneath that shadow. Your success will be doubly sweet and their joy of receiving multiplied a hundredfold by the knowledge that the help comes from the profession they love with a fervour which none but "pros." can fully understand.

He gives twice who gives quickly, so please fire away and fill up the enclosed slip for as much as you can afford; the same will be duly acknowledged by me and by The Era, not to speak of those whose hearts will be made the brighter by your timely generosity.

Yours faithfully, JOSEPH LYONS.

THE OXFORD.

Mr Albert Gilmer's holiday programme has been universally pronounced to be one of the best that has ever been seen at the typical music hall over which he exercises such a genial sway, and Mr Blyth-Pratt, his courteous manager in front, has been rejoicing with him at the packed houses that have filled up every corner. The chief novelty of the programme is an episode of a droll nature entitled Fares, Please, presented by Mr Joe Elvin and company. The popular comedian may be said to have taken up his winter quarters at the Oxford, where he is an immense favourite. A modern electric tramcar is the vehicle through which the inimitable Joe throws the shafts of his humour, always of an obviously cockney type, as it should be. Mr Wal Pink again has fitted Mr Elvin with a part that exactly suits him. He is a car conductor on the Tooting line, and his operations with the ticket punch are carried out in a very realistic and beautifully lit interior of one of the modern road cars of the London County Council. The fun arises from Elvin's comic colloquies with the various passengers. He is hastily entrusted with a baby while its mother descends to run after the thief who has taken her purse; and the behaviour of a sweep induces a young lady to seek the kind offices of the conductor, who agrees to become a temporary husband, and thus protect her. The situation for the worried L.C.C. official—at 4s. 3d. a-day—becomes therefore sufficiently complicated by the time that his "better half" arrives with his skirt and kidney pudding. Her state of furious jealousy is not allayed when the baby is abstracted from the locker in which it has hurriedly been thrust. The buffoonery is of the wildest kind—of the good old-fashioned pantomime order, and it fulfils its purpose most admirably, for the audience laughs consumedly during its progress. Mr Elvin is, of course, continually in evidence, and quite sustains his high and well-earned reputation as one of London's most successful mirth-providers. The generation has not yet arisen that cannot laugh at Joe. By securing the services of Miss Louie Freear, Mr Gilmer has robbed the theatre of one of its brightest stars. Miss Freear sings three songs—"Twiddly Bits," "She just walks on," and "John James Perkins," the last relating the experiences of a lady who has the misfortune to have a sober husband. In the first two Miss Freear is the character she has made her own—a little general servant. In the other number, as a middle-aged matron, the wife of a "manager of a dray," she deplores the fact that Mr Perkins has become quite a reformed character. Instead of a "little drop round the corner," he invites her to Lockhart's to take a cup of coffee. At home, too, he is quite a martinet, and actually expects her to "wash the kids." She never gets a black eye now. John James's sobriety does not lend itself to domestic incidents of an exciting kind, and life is much too monotonous. It is scarcely necessary to add that Miss Freear is artistically perfect in all she does, though on the night that we heard her she was suffering from a cold that handicapped her cruelly. Miss Vesta Tilley, fortunately for her London admirers, has not joined the ranks of pantomime this year, and the genuine delight expressed at her artistic contributions to a programme of good things is more than sufficient justification for the very fine salary paid her. Miss Tilley is not an artist of yesterday, though to look at her trim-built figure and at her girlish—or should we say boyish?—face one would think that she had not yet emerged from the twenties, and her popularity is greater than ever. Custom does not stale the infinite variety of her songs, and one of the latest is "A wise old owl," in which the music hall bard has followed the example of the older poets—Sir Walter Scott among the number—and written in praise of the bird who "whoops" out his song at night. Of course the wisdom of the owl is expressed in a topical verse, which concerns Joe Chamberlain, whose name is hailed with shouts of laughter. "The Seaside Sultan" and "Following in father's footsteps" are other favorite numbers that contribute to the singer's complete success. There is no need to say that Miss Tilley is immaculately dressed and looks a model of youthful elegance. Mr Gus Elen is among the comic stars of the bill, and he realises the responsibilities of his reputation in a song of qualatness, with a philosophic tinge. No temperance crank for this honest son of toil—no cocoa, coffee, or tea, but "half a pint o' ale." This is the beverage for breakfast, dinner, tea, and supper. It has been said that Waterloo was won by beef and beer. The character presented by Mr Elen would be quite of this opinion, and the song is capitally conceived and perfectly rendered. Mr Elen's cabby with conscientious scruples is another comedy creation that serves him well, and the heartiest applause is his. Mr Tom Leamore's ballet girl is in the most extravagant spirit of parody, and the get-up is exceedingly laughable; Mr Joe O'Gorman tells some excellent stories concerning Flanagan; Mr Norman French dances in the most eccentric fashion possible; and Nelson's Newsboys give cake-walks and concerted pieces with success. Mr Bransby Williams returns with his fine entertainment—characters from the novels of Charles Dickens. The latest is Dan'l Peggotty, the dear old boatman of "David Copperfield." The excerpt chosen from the story is the scene wherein Peggotty learns of the ruin of Little Em'ly, and promises himself a terrible revenge. The passage is one of the most pathetic in the whole range of fiction; and a more touching delineation of the character so beautifully drawn by the great novelist has not been seen within living memory. It is even a greater artistic success than Mr Williams's sketch of Nell's grandfather in "The Old Curiosity Shop." Eccentric comicality again reigns with the advent of Miss Vesta Victoria, who sings "It's all right in the summer time," the plaint of a down-trodden model, who has to pose in the "old back yard" for benefit of the artist-husband and for the upkeep of the happy home. There is daintiness in the pretty song of Miss Amy Clevere, who looks a picture of Anglo-Saxon elegance in blue; and there is an old-world charm in the Margery Daw of Miss Eileen Douglas. Mr Will H. Fox "imposes upon a piano" in his own quaint style, and his playing of a popular melody as a waltz, polka, schottische, and funeral march evokes enthusiastic applause. As a humourist at the piano he wants a lot of beating. Acrobatism of a comic kind speeds the clever Max Trevally Harley Troupe in the good graces of the public; Miss Ray Wallace imitates in her own clever way Ada Reeve, Kate Carney, Lil Hawthorne, and Marie Lloyd; and other turns on the bill include Jack Camp, a quaint comedian; Miss Lottie Lennox, Miss Lily Langtry, Miss Fanny Wentworth, the Five Whiteleys, and Talberto and Douglas.

MR AND MRS WILL KELLINO (Miss Bella Fothergill), who have returned from their honeymoon, tender their sincere thanks to Mr Fred Wood, of the City Varieties, Leeds, for his kindness in journeying to London to act as best man on the occasion of their wedding. The kindness of Mr and Mrs Goodwin, who travelled from Hull, is also highly appreciated, and they value deeply the hearty sentiments embodied in numerous wires and letters of congratulations.

THE friends of Ernest Percy will be sorry to hear that on Monday he met with a severe accident by slipping down the steps leading from his house. He is now an inmate of St. Thomas's Hospital with compound fracture of the leg.

MR F. BAUGH on Saturday evening presented Minnie, the clever little dancer, with a gold watch in appreciation of her talent. Minnie is the daughter of one of the Australian twin Sisters Anderson, whose skipping-rope dances are very popular.

THE LONDON MUSIC HALLS.

THE ALHAMBRA.

With all the new variety theatres which are being built in London, it becomes increasingly difficult to find anything original and striking in the way of turns; and Mr George Scott is to be congratulated upon several trouvailles for his present bill-of-fare at the Alhambra. The Shadow Brothers are really remarkable hand-to-hand equilibrists. They possess immense strength; and some of their feats must be seen to be believed. For instance, one of them, standing, and holding the hands of his companion, who is behind him, raises him right up and over his head to an inverted position, finally lifting and supporting him with one hand. Description cannot do justice to the marvellously muscular power and extraordinary adroitness of the Shadows. The audiences at music halls are good judges of excellence in athletics; and the patrons of the Alhambra reward each achievement of the pair with an enthusiastic outburst of applause. Though the Shadows come on quite early in the evening, they obtain the honour of a double recall after their very successful turn. Another "cute" and clever item is the introduction, by Miss Marie Casell, of her troupe of Mexican Chihuahua dogs. They are funny little creatures, and the things they do are both clever and amusing. Two actually do tricks on the triple horizontal bars, and their burlesques of a human performer in this line send the house into roars of laughter. A trapeze is then lowered, and one dog, hanging head downwards from it, holds in his teeth a strap, from which hangs, in a belt, another, canine artist, who is made to revolve rapidly on a swivel. The performance concludes with the introduction of a motor, in which all the animals ride off. They return after what has evidently been an "accident;" for the chauffeur dog has his head tied up in a handkerchief, while the whole force of the company is required to push the injured machine home. The Four Harveys win rounds of applause for their wire act. The ladies are models of grace and symmetry, and do their work with a daintiness and ease which are delightful. The Harveys' turn is bewitching by its beauty and astonishing by its cleverness. The cake walk on the wire with which it concludes is irresistibly smart and animated, and well deserves the warm commendation it evokes. The Tschin-Maa Troupe of Chunchusen conjurors and jugglers, from Liao-yang, have figured prominently in the war in the East. The troupe consists of six members. During the lull of battle up till October they were entertaining the Russian officers and men in their camp on the banks of the Sha-ho. Kuropatkin himself has watched their performances in an interval of repose. By the good offices of Kuropatkin they managed to leave Manchuria to come to Europe. Their passport, which they retain, is signed by the Russian Commander-in-chief. Before quitting the Far East they had many exciting experiences. More than once they were fiercely attacked as spies, and it was only through the intervention of the Chinese Ambassador at St. Petersburg that they succeeded in getting across the Trans-Siberian Railway in safety. Apart from the interest which attaches in this way to the Tschia-Maa Troupe, they are expert conjurors and jugglers, and do many interesting and difficult things. The Bogdany Troupe give an attractive and spirited military show. Eight ladies in the uniforms of the different European armies are marshalled by a stalwart commander, who rides in upon a gorgeously caparisoned steed. They march and sing in dashing style, and their officer drills them humorously in English. Miss Florence Yayman, with her quaint cries, eccentric dancing, and general oddity, is a warm favourite; and the names of Vanols, the American Antipodeste, and the Julianos in their musical act, are also in the bill at the Alhambra, where those beautiful ballets All the Year Round and L'Entente Cordiale are still immensely popular. The Urban Bioscope, with its excellent and "up-to-date" views, including a depiction in actual colours of Brock's fireworks at the Crystal Palace, is still ardently admired.

THE PALACE.

There is plenty to amuse as well as much to admire in the entertainment at present offered at Palace Theatre. "A hearty laugh is always worth a guinea," says a philosophical estimator of the value of merriment; and we defy the grimmest cynic not to shake his sides at the burlesque absurdity Bill Bailey, which is presented here by the Follies. These clever artists are "nothing if not critical," and they have prepared an elaborate "skit" on the old-fashioned provincial pantomime of a past period. Description is quite inadequate to give an idea of the extravagant fun of this concoction. Hit follows hit, and droll notions come quickly in succession until the whole house is in a roar. Messrs Pelissier, Davenport, and Wimperis have put the piece together smartly; and each and all of the troupe join most acutely and energetically in the fun. There is a huntsman's chorus, a corpulent fairy godmother, a may-pole dance by local children, a cat—who mentions the fact that he is a cat lest he should be mistaken for a goat or a dog—and a female vocalist, who sings "Dear Heart" till it becomes a contest between her efforts and the noise made by the carpenters who are setting up the Palace scene behind a cloth covered with advertisements. The whole concludes with a "Grand Procession of Nations," in which is introduced a song about "L'Entente Cordiale," very neatly written. Mr H. G. Pelissier's music is bright and lively; and Misses Gwennie Mars, Marjorie Napier, and Ethel Allandale, and Messrs H. G. Pelissier, Lewis Sydney, and Dan Everard all do excellent work. The great point in connection with the Follies is their vivid intelligence. They have a keen sense of humour, and they act, sing, and dance with admirable zest and appreciation. Very ludicrous, indeed, is the game of cricket which is played by De Gracia's Baby Elephants. One actually "stands up to" the wicket, holding a bat in his trunk, another bowling to him. When a hit is made, the "batsman" takes a run, the ball being promptly fielded by a third pachyderm. The show is not only a wonderful example of the art of animal training, but a most amusing "exhibit." Hardly less diverting is the shaving scene, in which one of the elephants lathers, scrapes, washes, wipes, and powders his patient companion. De Gracia's elephants are a most attractive item of the entertainment at the Palace. Mr Chris Davis's bright and clever sketch, Jack, is played with spirit by Mr Arthur Roberts and company. On the occasion of our visit Mr Roberts appeared to be suffering from a cold, so that many of his clever "gags" must have been lost to the occupants of the more distant parts of the house. This was a pity, as the jests were so droll that even the artists who appeared with Mr Roberts could hardly "keep their countenances." The piece is well mounted and capitally acted. Mr Charles Goold makes a bluff and simple-minded Colonel Bolder, Mr Stanley Damerell is a comical exponent of the character of the Rev. Septimus Sleek, and Miss Ruby Celeste is agreeably expressive as Enid, Miss Aynsley Cooke being a pleasing Janet, and Miss Lucy Webling quite acceptable as Millie. Earlier in the evening Miss Eva Westcott appears in a monologue, called "An Episode of Modern Life.' A frivolous wife, who thinks of nothing but folly and extravagance, talks for many minutes about fancy dresses and balls to her husband, who sits with his back turned towards her, perfectly motionless and silent. At the end of her talk the wife goes up to him and finds that he is dead, having poisoned himself after reading in the paper of the failure of his bank. Horrified, she falls in a swoon. As the loquacious wife, Miss Westcott is varied, animated, and expressive, and her concluding scream and "faint" are quite well done. Desroches and Bianca, with their electric lights and well-trained dogs, are well received. The Breens juggling performance is both droll and expert; and a warm word of praise is due to Mr Arthur Prince, a ventriloquist who does his work while smoking cigars and while drinking, his face being "clean-shaved." The excellence of his performance is obvious and undeniable. Also in the bill at the Palace are Miss Edith Courtney, vocalist; Yamamoto and Koyoshi, and that vivacious comedienne, Miss Victoria Monks. The Bioscope views, which are most artistic and interesting, include pictures of a Travelling Caravan passing through the Khyber Pass on its way from Cabul to Peshawar, of Mohammedans at Prayer on their Feast Day, and of German Battleships Manœuvring at Full Speed.

THE EUSTON.

This place of entertainment is essentially a people's theatre, and joyous throngs have expressed no half-hearted appreciation of the programme arranged by Mr George Adney Payne, and presented under the direction of Mr Frank M'Avoy. The name that looms large in the New Year's bill is that of Mr Harry Lauder, a canny Scot, who was a favourite on the banks of the Clyde before he was sped in the good graces of the London public by the favouring breezes of applause. Harry—surely his name should be Sandy—is a braw laddie, who becomes an irresistible optimist directly he arrives on the stage. He is quite equal to a "wee bit skirl" on the pipes; and when he sings of M'Kay of Tobermory he gives a picture of Scottish jollity that is quite at variance with the reputation for dourness that is commonly attributed to our kilted brethren north of the Tay. The laddie Lauder finds opportunity also to sing with depth of compass and no little taste the well-known melody "Rocked in the cradle of the deep." He becomes again the rollicking Glesca chiel when he chortles "Stop yer tickling, Jock," which on the night of our visit took the house by storm. Lauder is special Scotch; and Joe O'Gorman is special Irish, when he portrays the feelings of a gossoon who has fallen in love with Pepita, a senorita whom he wishes to become a colleen, and to give up her fandango for the national jig. The Duchess of Ballinasloe is another charmer to whom he addresses his song. And then there is Flanagan to set us in a roar with his anecdote concerning the gondolas in a Dublin park; and before we become tired of Flanagan's little gaucheries of speech the O'Gorman glides into an illigant taste of a jig—one of the "natest" to be seen anywhere between the Liffey and the Shannon. Music is another strong feature of the Euston bill; and the Norman and Leonard Trio present their selections on the harp, piano, violin, and mandoline in quite an interesting way. A half-frozen busker in shabby black is heard playing "The Angel's Serenade" in the street while the snow is falling; and is called in to listen to an excellent harp solo from another musician—in the evening dress of civilisation, and to be victimised by the mad pranks of an irrepressible page boy. The whole entertainment is particularly attractive, and the cake-walk and buck dance of the youngster make a lively wind-up to a most successful interlude. Lieutenant Travis's genuine ventriloquism is always popular; and the lively boy, the pretty little girl, and the nonagenarian are familiar friends to whom one may wish the compliments of the season, so realistically are they presented. Unconcernedly Mr Travis smokes a cigarette, and his figure sings just the same. It is a tour de force of his polyphony that always obtains its reward in the delighted appreciation of an audience always quick to catch the points of a show. The chief sketch of the bill is Jail Birds, played by Fred Karno's troupe of comedians in as brisk and droll a way as it is possible. The gentleman who plays the curate is as humorously idiotic as most of the "cloth" are supposed to be on the stage; and the make-up of the principal burglar and convict is one that would have satisfied Charles Dickens for Bill Sikes. The business is bustling and smart, and the generous enthusiasm of the audience is well deserved. A comedy trifle that is played earlier in the evening is entitled, we believe, Little Charlie; or, the Twin Sisters. It is presented by the Arthur Lloyd family, and the "farce of errors" has so much ingenuity and so many amusing misunderstandings that it is received with hearty laughter. Orpheus plays many instruments, and plays them very artistically; Miss Maud Courtney tells American stories well, and is very fascinating; Alexandra Edwin, who sings a ballad, might quicken the time with advantage; and Barnard's Marionettes afford much amusement. Mr Victor Opferman conducts a first-rate band, and Mr F. M'Evoy has a most courteous lieutenant in Mr Charles E. Welman.

THE SURREY.

Holiday crowds at every performance last week taxed the ingenuity of Mr Chris Wordsworth to the utmost, and on looking in on Monday at the second house we found nearly every seat in this vast theatre taken by an enthusiastic audience, who enjoyed to the full the fine programme compiled for their delectation. That the love of melodrama is still innate in the hearts of the Surrey clientèle is evidenced by the attention bestowed on the dramatic episode Paris by Night, in which we recognise a condensed version of a play that drew all London westward in the latter half of the past century. In the highly capable hands of Mr J. G. Johnson and company the fortunes of the poor blind girl Louise, whose honour is assailed by the blustering bully Jacques, and is so nobly defended by his brother, the cripple Pierre, loses nothing in its change of locale, for Mr J. G. Johnson gives the character of the cripple Pierre all the necessary pathos that easily wins sympathy. Louise is pathetically depicted by Miss Katherine Clarke; Mr Herbert Goddard gives a robust and forcible rendering of the bully Jacques; as the old harridan Frochaid Mrs W. Marchant brings out all the brutal characteristics of a coarse nature. As the kind-hearted doctor Mr W. S. Hartford acts with dignity and decorum. In direct contrast the bright and merry little scena by Miss Zeta Grey and her company of comedians entitled A Lancashire Lass kept the house in a ripple of merriment. The theme of the trifle is as old as the hills, but Miss Grey as the Lancashire Lass gives a character sketch full of clever points, and her vocal powers are cultured. The precocious page boy deserves a special word of praise for his vivacity and energy. The Three Missouris have added to their amusing and daring acrobatic act a most exhilarating burlesque wrestling match, with Captain Kettle as referee. Jordon and Harvey, Hebrew comedians, make a great hit with their genuinely funny cross-talk, their original methods, and eccentric and comical dances. Miss Vera Patey's shapely figure is set off to advantage in a tasty principal boy's costume, and her rendering of her numbers "Have you seen my girl?" and her contagious laughing song, "She answered him like this," are both artistic and pleasing. That Mahatma is gifted with second sight is demonstrated by her wonderful playing of a game of Nap blindfolded with two members of the audience. It is a smart and clever exhibition of the clairvoyant's art. The Australian Twin Sisters Anderson work hard for public favour, and get it in abundance, their song, "My Caroline," and their rag-time and novel skipping-rope dancing showing untiring energy. The Four Jumels are clever banjoists, who extract sweet melody from that popular instrument. Jack Pleasants is a quaint comedian, and his quiet, artistic style and methods in his songs, "Naughty Boy" and "The day I found a sovereign in the street," keep the house in a ripple of merriment. Miss Fanny Erris, in her clever satire on Society, "In the days gone by," is given with artistic finesse, and Payne's Bioscope is not the least of the good things in this enjoyable and varied entertainment.

MR. EDWIN E. GILES.

Mr Edwin E. Giles, when he, with all the sublime confidence of a youth in his teens, determined to go on the stage, had to contend with no unsympathetic and obdurate parents; and he speedily found alleviation for his attack of histrionicitis by becoming one of a quartet of Negro comedians, known as the Brothers Burcham. It was in the late seventies that he played a part with them in a then popular sketch known as The Insurance Office, the genesis of which might be discovered in the archives of Ethiopian minstrelsy in the States. He made his first appearance at the old Winchester Music Hall, which was then being run by Mr W. B. Fair, who was the original singer of "Tommy, make room for your uncle." The music halls had not then woke up to their responsibilities in the matter of public entertainment, though there were capital shows at the Winchester, and many of the stars of the day appeared upon its boards. Young Giles had the good sense to learn dancing, and became an apt pupil of Mr Fred Marlow, who in those days was a popular comic singer, afterwards becoming lessee of the Bow Palace, and is now proprietor of the Empire, Southend. It was the era of hornpipes. Every comique—with the exception perhaps of Leybourne—and every serio only considered their success quite complete when the vociferous encore—largely helped by the rattle of the chairman's hammer—resulted in their reappearance to give the audience a taste of their quality in a few steps. Scarcely less common than hornpipes were speeches from the stage, and on one occasion we remember a star held the stage so long with extra song, speech, and hornpipe that the following turn had to be cut out. The variety stage was then called "irregular;" it was in a transition state, in fact, and the encouragement given to young aspirants, unless they were veritable geniuses, was very meagre, the salaries being extremely small. Young Giles therefore sought other spheres for his energy, and he entered the theatres, and in various capacities in front of the house he was with Mr J. L. Toole at the little theatre in Chandos-street, Mr Chatterton, and Sir Augustus Harris at Drury-lane. He also catered at the Standard, the Olympic, and the Princess's, and managed the front of the house staff at Terry's during the run of Sweet Lavender. Mr Giles preserves many happy reminiscences of the theatrical celebrities he met in those days, when burlesque and the legitimate flourished side by side. By a lucky accident he returned to the halls, and went to the Trocadero when Mr Sam Adams took that hall over from the executors of Mr Bignell. It was thought that Mr Adams, who had been manager for Mr Edwin Villiers at the London Pavilion, would revive the fortunes of the "Troc," but the competition was too great, and there was little doubt that anxiety and harass had much to do with the popular Sam's early death. Mr Giles at the opening of the new Tivoli under the ægis of the Newson-Smith Syndicate transferred his services there, and became staff manager, a position he held for some years. His connection with the Grand, Clapham; Granville, Walham-green; and Camberwell Palace Syndicate commenced some five years ago, and he became manager of the last-mentioned hall about three years back. With his advent at the Battersea Empire—built by Mr George Washington Moore, and called originally the Washington—the two-houses-a-night system started at that popular house. Mr Giles is now resigning his position there, but such is the regard in which he is held by his proprietors that they have granted him the use of the hall on Wednesday evening next, the 11th inst., for a farewell benefit. The Empire on that evening will only have one audience; but it will, we feel sure, be a bumper, for the bénéficiaire has made a host of friends during his stay in Battersea, and they will be certain to turn up in regiments. A strong committee is working to make the night a record one. Among the names we find those of Messrs Jesse Sparrow (chairman), Arthur Yates, Frank Weeks, Harry Bawn, Nelson Francis, Fred Miller, Edward Swanborough, Pony Moore, J. J. Fruin, Eustace Jay, Fred Baugh, Tom Shaw, Joe Elvin, Dr. Walford Bodie, Fred Reeves, Tom Pacey, George Fuller, Sydney Hyman, T. W. Volny, Fred Higham, and many other influential men in the music hall world.

THE METROPOLE.

At the pretty little palace of varieties on Denmark-hill there is no falling off in the strong and varied programmes Mr Jack De Frece and his courteous and energetic acting-manager, Mr A. E. Parnell, provide. Although the bill does not scintillate with stars of the first magnitude, the entertainment is one of infinite variety of enjoyment, many of the turns displaying artistic gifts that entitle them to a place in the front rank of their profession. This is most noticeable in the case of Miss Eva Hope and Mr Jack Wayho, who in their duologues from the works of Charles Dickens display an artistic resource and finesse that wins them a well-merited series of curtains. The former, whether as Poor Joe or Nance, is thorough, and her embodiments are full of pathos; and Mr Wayho's Bill Sykes is instinct with brutal intensity. In direct contrast is the screamingly funny scena by the Forrest Comedy Sketch company in My Friend the Enemy; and although it develops into a regular rough-and-tumble, the roars of laughter that mark its progress fully testify to the keen enjoyment of the audience. As the names of this hard-working quartet do not appear on the programme they cannot be given, but a special word of praise is due to the gentleman who sustains the part of the husband and to the lady representing the wife, both being physically and artistically strong in their parts. The Two Erolls, in their amusing leaping act, combine fooling with acrobatic skill. The final leap of the gentleman over the head of the tall and graceful lady standing on a table is a daring feat that very few acrobats would care to attempt. Ernesto is a neat and clever juggler, and seems to give perpetual motion to footballs, candlesticks, plates—in fact, all he can lay hands on. His last feat is the balancing of a lighted lamp on his forehead while he plays a concertina with each hand, and at the same time ascends and descends a staircase. Vandinoff, an artist in oils, produces with lightning rapidity on opal glass, fitted into electric-lighted frames, a series of pretty floral pictures. Under his deft touch beautiful bunches of orchids, fuchsias, carnations, and roses gain a reality that is heartily recognised by the audience, who pay him abundant compliments for his final seascape. Miss Marie Blythe, in a rich, deep, and powerful contralto, raises a furore of applause with her catchy song, "The same girl the whole year round." The chorus, in rag time, is easily caught up by the audience, who are loth to part with such a gifted and capable artiste. Mr George W. Foster, in his character ditty, "The Playwright," has an original idea, which he handles carefully and well. Mr Hatton M'Cullah wins favour with his rendering of "Killarney;" Mr Charles Paver is a volatile and exhilarating patterer and comedian; and a most enjoyable evening is brought to a close with the exciting animated pictures on the Royal Metrograph, depicting the chase and capture of the Yegg Bank robbers.

HOLLOWAY EMPIRE.

There are a certain number of dramas and sketches which enjoy a perennial popularity. Drummed Out, which is the leading attraction in the current programme here, is one of the latter. It has been running for nearly a dozen years, and yet there is nothing to indicate that the piece has been so long before the public. The plot recalls to mind the famous Dreyfus case, and Mr Seymour Hicks's drama at the Adelphi, entitled One of the Best, had a similar motif. Private Roberts, of the 17th Lancers, is charged with theft by his sergeant, the stolen article being found in a pocket of the young soldier's overcoat. The charge is made publicly before the Colonel of the regiment, and the evidence against Private Roberts seems strong enough for a conviction. He earnestly asserts his innocence of the crime, and then comes the dramatic moment when the Colonel's little boy comes forward and declares that he saw the sergeant place the jewels in the pocket of the private's coat. Punishment summary and sure follows. The rascally sergeant's stripes are taken from him in the presence of the regiment, the sword he has disgraced by his dastardly conduct is broken, and he is drummed out. The two scenes are the Guard-room of the 17th Lancers and the Barrack Square, where we have presented a realistic picture of barrack life. A grand march past takes place, and the scene is enlivened by the performance of a full military drum and fife band. Miss Kitty Kirwan plays the part of the warm-hearted old Irishwoman who has a grandson in the regiment and who is so persistent in her inquiry, "Where's my Tommy?" The garrulous Irishwoman is an important character, and Miss Kirwan's portrayal is exceedingly good. Mr A. C. Lilley was in the original cast, and he continues to act the part of the wicked sergeant-major in such an earnest and forcible manner as to give due significance to the drumming-out scene. Mr N Watts Phillips does very well in the part of the falsely accused trooper Roberts, whose wife Ethel has a pleasing representative in Miss Leslie Warner. Satisfactory work is also done by Miss Ina Howard, as Bertie the Colonel's son, and Master Leo Gordon as Tommy, Mrs O'Flanagan's Amongst the single turns engaged here this week is Mr Walter Bellonini, who performs some wonderful balancing feats with billiard balls and other articles. He is also an adept as a hat-spinner, and introduces an intelligent little dog, which takes a share in the programme, cleverly balancing itself on its master's head. Kahn and Kahn are responsible for some neat conjuring tricks, which are watched with interest and evoke considerable applause. The lady and gentleman known as Starr and Leslie give a varied performance, of which their exercise with Indian clubs forms one of the principal features. In this they display an expertness which could only have been attained by long and patient practice. The couple also indulge in amusing patter, and the lady is a capital vocalist. Mr Harry Bedford, a droll comedian, who can always be sure of a hearty welcome, has a couple of good songs in "Where do you think I found her?" and "By the gay seaside." Another favourite is Mr Fred Poplar, who scores with the ditty, "Oh, if I could only lose her," and a parody on the popular song, "Bluebell." The only lady single turn is Miss Kitty Wager, who sings with complete success "One of the unemployed," which contains caustic references to the aliens who displace the British workman. Professor Dunning, ventriloquist, carries on an amusing conversation with his figures, the comic old man being of course prominent. The business department at this popular house continues to be well looked after by Mr Chas. W. Adams, the acting-manager; and the orchestra has an able conductor in Mr Thomas Gray.

HACKNEY EMPIRE.

The endeavour to supply the best entertainment is happily achieved this week at Hackney, where the patrons of the palatial Empire are treated to a programme in which beauty, skill, and talent are to be found. All three qualities are combined in Miss Lily Burnand, who, with new songs and sumptuous dresses, which no male pen dare presume to describe, is adding nightly to her laurels. She is especially diverting in her allusions to the varieties of "cheek" which are to be found in many walks of life. Each line of the song has a humorous ring, and loud laughter waits upon the explanation by the cook of the discovery by her mistress of a stalwart guardsman in the kitchen cupboard. Miss Burnand overflows with gaiety and sparkle, and no handsomer pantomime prince in his gilded palace is to be found in all England than she presents in her song of "The Telephone Girl," in which a love-lorn youth rings up his sweetheart in order to express his affection over the wires. Miss Burnand commands the admiration of all, and recalls of an undeniable character are lavished upon her. Les Brunin put the billiard table to extraordinary uses. The gentleman plays a losing hazard with pockets fixed about his head, and with his fair partner standing behind him picks out a tune with the ball as it rebounds from the table on to a peal of bells attached to the forehead. Extinguishing a candle or discharging a pistol by the same means are performed with equal facility, the wonder of the audience growing greater as a series of clever feats proceeds. A hearty reception is assured to Mr F. V. St. Clair, whose voice and pen have been so long and successfully exercised in the cause of amusement. He touches on questions of the day in his first song, his theme embracing the cotton trust, and a sympathetic reference to "Fighting Mac." In his topical lay of "The Twentieth Century" interesting verses multiply at each recall, the lines bristle with clever satire, and the references to the Rev. Mr Campbell and the working-man, with a comparison with the Marquis of Anglesey, being received with approval, while the bringing in of the Baltic Fleet and Port Arthur is also a happy hit. Such was the nature of the applause on the occasion now referred to that Mr St. Clair returned under compulsion and recited a humorous poem, called "The Captain's Wife." Mr Arthur Gill, who appears in the smock and leggings of a country yokel, gives a number of clever imitations interspersed with amusing "patter." A mezzo-soprano singing "Dear Heart," and a duet between male and female voices are each in turn presented, while his satire of a glee-party singing "Hail, smiling morn," with the tenor out of tune, evokes a deal of laughter, which is increased by his imitation of a little girl reciting at a concert, in which he betrays the possession of ventriloquial powers. Astonishing feats of head balancing are done by the Wille Brothers, who seem to have reached the bounds of possibility in this class of entertainment, while the wonderful poising of the smart performer on a bamboo pole held up by a muscular companion makes him the object of demonstrations of approval. The Kellinos have an elaborate Venetian set and costumes to match in which to execute their variations on Risley feats. Their somersaults and leaps from feet to feet are performed with amazing surety, and feats which to many acrobats would be difficult on terra-firma are achieved by them on the pedal extremities of their companions. Their show is a brilliant and clever one, and as such is duly appraised. Athletic pursuits are turned to comic purposes by Burg, Haud, and Wise, who in their sketch, The Brown Cow, keep the house in constant hilarity, the exploits of the light-fingered tramp being excessively droll. Ross and Grayson contribute their sketch, The Professor and the Pupil; Baker and Balfe, in their operatic xylophone excerpts, are secure of appreciation; Miss Cora Caselli's dancing admits her at once to the favour of the audience; and contributions to the bill are also made by Princess Pauline, serio-comic, and Ambrose Thorne, light comedian. Mr John Christie is the acting-manager, and the fine orchestra, under the direction of Mr Walter Johnson, gives every satisfaction.

THE GRANVILLE.

The "Blue House" long familiar to the metropolis has hitherto been regarded as the place where linen is cleansed and shirtfronts and collars are made once more to shine; but Miss Kate Carney, in her new sketch Our Laundry, proves that it is the abode of reckless fun. The sketch, which is written by Harry Castling and George Arthurs, with music by George Le Brun, has caused a diversion at the Granville this week, where Mr Jesse Sparrow, with characteristic enterprise, has been amongst the very first to secure the latest production of the famous comedienne. The "Blue House" selected for the scena is the one at Camberwell, wherein a merry throng of washers and ironers are seen at work. It is an accommodating establishment, where washing is performed "while you wait," an inventory being also made of the bundles of laundry as they arrive, and the most informing revelations are the result. A topical song is attached to "The writing on the cuff," which contains a tribute to "Joe" and his tariff reform. It is a little unfortunate for the supporters of the "fiscal policy" that it should be put just where it is most likely to be washed out, but such are the exigencies of the song, and Miss Carney as Martha, the trim young forewoman, sporting a dainty cap and apron, sings it with infinite spirit. Fun is carried to the extreme point in the interviews with the various customers, for Martha has a quick tongue and mordant wit. She asserts in song that she is the "Pride of the laundry at Camberwell," the refrain being vigorously taken up by the young men who enter and ally themselves with the lasses of the laundry. Martha is not without her Arthur, and together they lead the revels in what is best described as the "Carney cakewalk." The medley has a captivating lilt and instantly won the popular ear on Monday, when the chorus and dance had to be repeated in answer to an undeniable recall. A pleasing feature of the strong bill is the Bandurria Troupe, whose playing on banjo and guitar is done with such command of expression, such skill and finesse, as to prove a source of delight to music lovers of every degree. From beneath their nimble fingers and facile touch proceed the familiar strains of the "Estudiantina Waltz," which in turn gives way to a mélange of the latest airs which have taken the fancy of the town, and rendered so melodiously that even "Bill Bailey" receives a welcome, the clever troupe being awarded an abundance of applause. Mr Ryder Slone makes a formidable appearance as a burglar in his song "Are yer 'sleep?" a query addressed to the slumbering householder or to the police-officer who has fallen beneath his bludgeon. Upon the reply he receives to this pertinent question depends the success of his mission, and the significant pauses in the refrain give a touch of the dramatic to the grim humour of the lines. Mr Slone gives an artistic portrayal of a burglar, and delivers the scena in a way that renders it impossible for it to escape popularity. A curiosity of the evening is supplied in Princess Nouma-Hawa, who, though but 26in. high and 15lb. in weight, possesses all the qualifications of a serio-comic. She has a babyish appearance despite her twenty-two years, and sings charmingly in English as "The Little Widow," also displaying a fair knowledge of the intricacies of the rag-time dance. Athas and Collins prove as funny as of yore in their burlesque scena, Miss Lizzie Collins being captivating as ever in "I want to shine in high society," while the drolleries of Mr Athas are also irresistible. Orvieto and Bray are a clever comedy couple, the lady doing a skilful skipping-rope dance, her partner varying some expert acrobatic tricks with numerous devices for creating mirth. Mr Tom Lloyd infuses humour into an undertaker's man, who assists at the burial of popular songs by means of a cleverly contrived medley, a parody of "The good old summer time" also furnishing a powerful means of mirth, which he utilises to the full. Miss Mabelle Fowler sings a couple of ballads with taste; Mr Frank Cass gains a favourable reception for his comic effusions; and the pictures displayed by the Edisonograph are thrilling and interesting. A "singing soldier" is found in Private Clarke; Professor Thornbury long since attained celebrity as a rapid painter and ventriloquist; Miss Florence is a lady with exceptional powers of mimicry; and the full score of attractions are added to by Mr James Fawn, the renowned comedian; Guy Rider, the boy whistler; Mr Edgar Romaine, of the melodious voice; Conway and Leland, whose one-legged display is nothing short of marvellous; Miss Maud Stanley, comedienne; Miss Ethel Loftus, a dainty mimic; and the Forrest Comedy Company in My Friend the Enemy. Mr Ernest A. Bridgen has reached a high position of popularity as acting manager, and the fine execution of the selections and accompaniments by the orchestra are due to the excellent leadership of Mr W. S. Bassett.

MUSIC HALL SKETCHES.

At the Southwark Police-court, on the 30th ult., before Mr Cecil Chapman, the New South London (Limited), the proprietors of the South London Music Hall, London-road, were summoned by Mr Henry Vassall D'Esterre, the freeholder of the Elephant and Castle Theatre, New Kent-road, in respect to the production of Beneath Big Ben, on Nov. 28, 29, 30, Dec. 1, 2, and 3 and Don Cæsar de Bazan, on Dec. 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, and 17, both of which were alleged to be stage plays.

Mr Grain suggested that there should be an adjournment until an appeal case, which was pending, was settled, but as the appeal was against the amount of penalties imposed, the magistrate decided the case should proceed.

Mr Biron mentioned that a year ago the magistrate, Mr Cecil Chapman, fined the defendants £25 in a similar case, and since then they had been before Mr Paul Taylor at that court, and were ordered to pay 20s. In the present case, unlike the one brought to the notice of Mr Paul Taylor, one of the stage plays, Don Cæsar De Bazan, lasted forty minutes, and was adapted from one of Dicks' plays. Really, the adaptation was most impudent—using the word not in an offensive but a descriptive sense. Mr D'Esterre had recently spent £5,000 in altering his theatre to bring it within the requirements of the Lord Chamberlain, and it was absurd to suggest that because he took steps to protect himself he was a churlish person to interfere with music halls. The value of music halls had almost trebled in late years, while the theatrical speculations became more and more hazardous, and it did seem a time, if ever there was one, when the law should be strengthened rather than weakened in the interest of the legitimate drama. There were two acts and four scenes, and that it was a play of strong human interest would be appreciated by the magistrate when he was informed that the leading character was an elderly barrister.

Mr Grain—I am an elderly barrister.

Mr Biron—My friend need not fear any misapprehension as to identity. Continuing, Mr Biron said the elderly barrister seduced a young lady called Lucy and then, true to the traditions of the theatre, he refused to marry her, and left her in the lurch. That being so, it was absolutely inevitable that they should meet at midnight on Westminster Bridge, and then it was also inevitable that she should ask him to marry her, and that he should refuse, spurn her, and offer her money. Under these circumstances what was more natural than that Lucy's somewhat tottery father from the country should appear with a revolver? The barrister was shot by the father, but Lucy was given in charge, and in the next act there was a police-court scene in which the magistrate elicited the whole story from Lucy, and ordered the elderly barrister into custody for perjury. It all ended very happily by a young barrister who defended Lucy marrying her. Don Cæsar de Bazan was of a very different class, and was really a very fine play, with three scenes and elaborate scenery.

Mr Grain contented that the Act of 1843, under which these proceedings were taken, was never intended to apply to such music halls as existed today, and that several magistrates, while holding that the sketches were stage plays, imposed a nominal penalty only.

Mr Cecil Chapman—The last time this matter was before me I thought there was an understanding to be arrived at between the different Associations representing the theatres and music halls.

Mr Grain said the negotiations fell through. The parties agreed that the sketches should be of thirty minutes' duration, and that there should be six principal actors, but the dispute arose over the number of "supers"—the music halls wanted twenty-five supers and the Theatrical Association would consent to fifteen only.

Mr Cecil Chapman said the fact that it was a trade prosecution could not be overlooked. A person was not to blame in taking action against a rival, but in the public interest there was not very much justification for a case of this kind. The two parties were practically at one in an agreement, and music hall people were really doing what was quite reasonable in putting on sketches lasting from thirty to forty minutes. The law must be enforced; but, under the circumstances, he would impose a penalty of 10s. only in respect to each day on which these plays were performed—£6 in all, and ten guineas costs.

THE KATOS present a most novel entertainment. They perform on an elaborate and miniature stage which represents a bijou theatre with stage boxes filled with mechanical occupants who are apparently highly amused at the performance. The Chinaman knocks down his applause with his spectacles like an auctioneer with his hammer; and the ladies are vigorously fanning themselves. The Frenchman is smoking his Havana very complacently; the Indian with the elongated neck is trying to see and hear all he can, and appears to be on the best of terms with himself if we may judge by his broad smile. The fit-up of itself is a wonderful combination of plush, gems, and electric light, presenting a most dazzling and bewildering appearance. The Katos are accompanied by their own mechanical orchestra, led by a conductor in the usual evening dress. Neither money, labour, nor thought has been spared to make this show attractive. The puppets themselves are prettily dressed, with frequent changes, and, although only automata, their movements, their dancing, and their gesticulations are very lifelike.

AT Greenwich Palace of Varieties, under the energetic and capable management of the popular Mr Bert Dent, there was produced on Friday night, the 30th ult., a racy and amusing entr'acte bearing the title of A Runaway Match; or, Bryant and May. Mr Horace Starling, who proved himself a protean artist of marked ability, made his first appearance with the stock company at the Elephant and Castle in the spring of last year, and we have now to offer him hearty congratulations on the special success of his ubiquitous production. No fewer than six faithfully impersonated characters were disposed of in the space of fifteen minutes, and when it is realised that these characters made an aggregate of eleven entrances in all, our readers will understand this Starling is a somewhat lively bird. At the fall of the curtain the artist was warmly recalled, the applause the while evincing that not only a "safety" match, but more especially a highly appreciated "love-match," had been made by Bryant and May.

MESSRS CHAS. B. COCHRAN AND CO., LIMITED, are giving up their offices at 12, Henrietta-street, Covent-garden, W.C., from to-day. All communications in respect to the business of the firm should be addressed to Mr C. B. Cochran, care of Messrs Galenzi and Sherek, 4, Leicester-street, W.C.

MISS ALEXANDRA DAGMAR'S new scena burlesque on The Duchess of Dantzic has proved a most gratifying success. She is now on the Stoll tour, and returns to London on March 20 for a few weeks, afterwards resuming the Moss tour, and opening at Leeds on Easter Monday.

PRESENTATION.—At the Hippodrome, Ipswich, on Saturday night, before a crowded audience, Mr Fred Barrett, the general manager, made three presentations to Mr F. Reed, the musical conductor, on the occasion of his marriage that day to Miss Mabel Bowman. The management gave him a silver breakfast dish, the artists a silver breakfast cruet and tea pot, and the orchestra a Shakespearian album.

MR EDITOR.—Sir,—In your Coliseum notice you attribute the painting of the scene near Marlow for "The River Girl Song" to Mr Julian Hicks. It was done by, yours faithfully, CECIL E. HICKS. The Coliseum, Jan. 3.

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

(SPECIAL TO THE ERA.)

THE Scenic Artists' Association's public dinner in aid of the Benevolent Fund will be held at the Imperial Restaurant, Regent-street, on Sunday evening, Feb. 19. Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema, R.A., has kindly consented to take the chair, and will be supported by the following gentlemen, who have kindly volunteered to act as stewards:—Sir Philip Burne-Jones, Bart., honorary secretary to the Benevolent Fund Dinner; Messrs Arthur Bourchier, Garrick Theatre; Edmund G. Banks, scenic artist; Richard Douglass, scenic artist; Albert Gilmer, Oxford; Walter Hann, chairman of the Council of Management of the Scenic Artists' Association; Gilbert Hare, Savoy Theatre; Frederick Harrison, Haymarket Theatre; Joseph Harker, vice-president of the Scenic Artists' Association; W. T. Hemsley, scenic artist; Julian Hicks, scenic artist; James W. Mathews, Duke of York's Theatre; Cyril Maude, New Theatre; H. W. Owen, scenic artist; Harry Potts, scenic artist; W. Raphael, scenic artist; T. E. Ryan, scenic artist; Geo. Tweddell, scenic artist; and Lewis Waller, Imperial Theatre. Benevolent Fund dinner tickets are one guinea each, including wine, and may now be had from either the honorary secretary of the Dinner Fund, Sir Philip Burne-Jones, Bart., or from the secretary of the association, Mr H. Lawrence Harris, at 5, Robert-street, Adelphi.

THE Scenic Artists' Association's smoking concert at the Caledonian Hotel, from 9·0 to 12·0 on Monday, will be under the direction of Mr Denham Harrison, and Mr Athel Collings has been engaged as accompanist. Mr Denham Harrison is preparing a very strong programme, which will include the name of Miss Ivy Hemsley, the daughter of Mr W. T. Hemsley, who recently obtained the scholarship of the Savage Club for proficiency in music.

THE directors of the Empire Palace, Dublin, place of amusement, through the medium of their observant manager, Mr Arthur Figgis, were pleased to acknowledge the services of Mr John White, stage-manager, Mr Joseph White, electrician; and Mr C. Grimes, of the engine room, by handsome donations in the form of cheques and kindly worded letters, expressing, in the cases of the last two gentleman named, satisfaction at their expert efforts in the instance of the recent break-downs which occurred in their department.

MR ED. MILLS, who was recently electrician at the Tivoli, has sailed for India to work a system of novel advertisements by means of a Cinématograph for the Anglo-American Tobacco Company. This is Mr Mills's second visit to India. The employees of the Tivoli presented Mr Mills with a silver-mounted stick, bearing an inscription, and Mr G. H. Dyball, the stage-manager, and other personal friends gave him a silver match-box and cigar-case.

MR PAPWORTH has been appointed to succeed Mr Mills. He was for several years electrician in charge at the Southend Kursaal.

MR W. G. GLINDONI, who was master carpenter at the Britannia for a short period, was presented on leaving by the staff with an umbrella. Mr J. Summerfield made the presentation on behalf of the staff. Mr Glindoni, who suitably acknowledged the gift, has returned to his old position as master carpenter at the Grand Theatre, Fulham. Mr Holloway is now master carpenter at the Britannia; he was recently at the King's Theatre, Hammersmith.

THE second annual dinner of the No. 1 (General Staff) Branch of the National Union Theatrical Stage Employees will be given on Sunday, the 15th inst., in the Salisbury Hotel, St. Martin's-lane. The accommodation is limited, and owing to the success of the last dinner early application for tickets is advisable. They may be obtained from the secretary, Mr William Johnson, 29, Wellington-street, Strand. The annual general meeting of this branch will be held on the first or third Sunday in February. Nomination forms for the election of officers and committee may be obtained at the office.

IT is expected that the dissolution of the Dramatic and Musical Fund will take effect about the end of February.

AT the Vaudeville Theatre at Christmas each member of the staff was presented with a goose or turkey. Miss Rosina Filippi made the presentations on behalf of the management. The staff expressed their appreciation by cheers for the donors.

THE Fire-Resisting Corporation gave Christmas gifts to their employees. At His Majesty's Theatre the members of the staff received 4s. each. At the Theatre Royal, Drury-lane, the day men had handsome gifts.

MR R. L. CHILDS, the younger brother to Mr John Childs, died rather suddenly at the Salisbury Hotel, St. Martin's-lane, on Saturday last from heart failure. Mr Childs formerly acted as stage-manager for several tours of Mr William Greet's Sign of the Cross company. He also visited South Africa as stage-manager for one of Mr Holloway's touring companies. For the past five years Mr Childs was manager of the Salisbury Hotel for Messrs Thurston and Moore, by whom he was held in high esteem. Mr Childs was popular with the various members of the theatrical and music hall professions who visited the Salisbury. The funeral took place on Jan. 4 at Kensal-green Cemetery. Wreaths were sent by Mrs Childs, Mr Fred Childs, Miss J. Vernon Childs, Will and Minnie, Lester Connie, Mr and Mrs Cook, Mr and Mrs Thurston, Mr and Mrs Maynard, Miss Stokes, Miss Richards, Mr and Mrs Gurrod, Mr and Mrs Roberts, Mr A. W. Wadham, Mr Flack and friend, Messrs Perry and Co., Mrs Soloman and daughter, Mr Bull and friends, Mr Francis Dilwin, Mr Hubert Druce, the staff of the Salisbury Hotel, Mr R. Andrews (Criterion Theatre), Mr A. Palmer (Criterion Theatre), the stage staff of the Criterion Theatre, and the stage staff of Wyndham's and the New Theatres. The Society of Theatrical Carpenters sent a wreath representing a broken column, composed of white flowers, with the initials of the society in red flowers. The Criterion Theatre staff wreath represented a harp, with the words "Rest in Peace" composed of red flowers. There was a large attendance of friends at the funeral. The arrangements were admirably carried out by Mr Albert France, jun., of 42, Great St. Andrew's-street, St. Martin's-lane. Great sympathy is felt for Mrs Childs, who was married to Mr Childs only a year ago last Christmas Day.

AT the last meeting of the Society of Theatrical Carpenters, held in the Salisbury Hotel, St. Martin's-lane, Mr F. A. Munns was elected a member. It was resolved, on the motion of Messrs A. E. Wood and A. Spaull, that it was inadvisable to attempt to repeat the Royal Opera House joint concert in March. On the motion of Messrs Wood and Sly a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Messrs A. Palmer, R. Andrews, and G. Hughes for their services as the representatives of the Society on the joint concert committee. It was agreed, on the motion of Messrs Jackson and M. Beer, that the society should co-operate with the other branches in organising a joint concert on Good Friday evening; and it was decided, on the motion of Messrs G. Hughes and J. Sly, that the date of the election of officers and committee be changed from December to February of each year. The consideration of application for grants from the funds for loss of tools was then dealt with, and the proceedings terminated. There was a good attendance.

AMUSEMENTS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

EAST LONDON, DEC. 1, 1904.—SHOW GROUND.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Frank E. Fillis.—Fillis's Grand Circus, Menagerie, and Hippodrome have been showing here to excellent houses. After a well-rendered overture by the orchestra conducted by Mr W. F. Foster, a daring vaulting act was given by Master Theodore, followed by Guido, the comic juggler. Clown Leopold then introduced his clever mule, and Miss Annie Clark gave a daring bareback trick act. A very amusing item was Bob, the baby elephant, and Joe, the comical monkey, introduced by Mr Frank Fillis, jun. Miss Lizzie, did a dashing leaping act. After the interval Mr Leslie Jenkins caused a great sensation with his European feat, "Fluming the Flume." Messrs Wheeler and Gibson, trick cyclists; Professor Dewar, with troupe of trained cats and dogs; and the American Bicycle Polo Teams (Red v. Blue) proved an excellent turn; while Mr Chas. Clarke as a somersault rider was highly diverting. The comic entrées of the renowned clowns, Guillaime and Baby, caused hearty laughter, as did the Alfredos. Eccentricities were given throughout the performance by Leopold Augouste. The greatest item of the evening is Lieutenant R. H. Staines with his four forest bred lions, who are put through their various tricks with marvellous assurance by their trainer. On the night of our visit Mdlle. Emerita performed a graceful Spanish tambourine dance in the cage. The whole is under the personal supervision of Madame and Frank Fillis, jun.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—I read on Saturday last your correct and justified criticism of my pantomime at the Walthamstow Palace. The opportunities afforded to my artistes are indeed limited; but you have perhaps overlooked the fact that they must necessarily be so, considering that I am giving the public a Cinderella in five scenes, with about forty people, ponies, carriages, &c., in one hour. Re Miss Kelland as Cinderella your praise is well appreciated by her, but allow me to say that loss of voice in her song, "Laugh, and the world laughs with you," was not owing to nervousness, but to an emotional breakdown in her pathetic rendering of the chorus of the said song.

Yours faithfully, E. ESPINOSA.
Palace, Walthamstow, Jan. 4.

AT the Empire Music Hall, Wrexham, this week the good all-round company includes the Darktown Belles, two real Creoles, clever vocalists and sand dancers; Barney Noble, character comedian; the Summersons (Will and Maggie), comedy duettists and dancers; Billy Simpson, comic vocalist; Olive Poole, comedienne and clog dancer; and Sheila Deans, comedienne.

THE 387th meeting of the Executive Committee of the M.H.A.R.A. was held on Tuesday afternoon, Mr Joe O'Gorman, chairman of the committee, presiding. The secretary reported that the number of new members who had joined since the last meeting was seventy-two, and the total number enrolled since the commencement was 11,058. Mr T. W. Foster of the Man and Saddle Hotel, Dewsbury, and Mr C. Richardson, of the Ship Hotel, Harrogate, were appointed agents in those towns. Other business having been transacted, the meeting terminated.

THE Lyceum programme and the Lyceum posters are exceedingly artistic, and the walls of London are gay with blue bills, in which the Ionic columns of the Wellington-street house stand out in white under the broad expanse of a star-spangled sky. The programmes are similar.

IN consequence of severe hoarseness Miss Rachel Lowe was unable to appear at the Kennington Theatre on Thursday afternoon and evening, but happily was able to resume her part of Aladdin last night. The London press have been unanimous in pronouncing Miss Lowe one of the best principal boys of the year.

MR EDWARD RANIER, who was so successful with Mr Lawson's sketch, Humanity, on tour, has arranged with that gentleman to take out his other sketch, Mr Todd of London, on the Barrasford tour, starting the end of March at the Palace, St. Helens.

THE Ernestine Troupe of lady dancers and vocalists, who left England in July, have just completed a successful tour which embraces Geneva, Montpellier, Monte Carlo, Marseilles, Algiers, Tunis, &c., and are now specially engaged for the annual revue at the Casino Kursaal, Grenoble, for a season of two months.

SYMPATHY is being extended to Mr John Christie, acting-manager at the Hackney Empire, who has just lost his father-in-law, Mr Henry Newman, of Walthamstow. The death occurred on New Year's Day, and the funeral was on Thursday. Mr Newman was well known and highly esteemed by very many attending Smithfield Meat Market, where he had important business associations.

MISS FANNY ROBINA AND MISS FLORRY COOPER finish this week a highly successful Moss tour, and have been rebooked for Dec. 18. Fanny Robina's songs, "Don't fly away, Robin" and "Coming back home again," have been highly successful, and Miss Florry Cooper has added nightly to her legion of admirers.

THE friends of Miss Lottie Lonsdale (Mrs Tom Griffith) will be sorry to know that she is at present in Noble's Hospital, Douglas, with heart trouble. She will be pleased to hear from any friends.

MR HARRY G. NELSON, of Nelson and Thomas, has been compelled to cancel next week at the Metropole, Camberwell, in consequence of a sharp attack of influenza.

THE great attraction at the Palace, Hull, this week is the horse and cycle contest. The horse has for its rider Kreamer, whilst the well-known American cyclist, Walthour, operates on the wheel. This turn has been a triumph for the Palace people, and full houses have been the rule.

THE Duke and Duchess of Fife witnessed the performance of Peter Pan at the Duke of York's theatre last Monday evening.

AT the Theatre Royal, Worthing, this week Mr E. Oswald Brooks's No. 1 company is presenting The Girl from Bond-street. Miss Marie Vere as Lucy Harvey, the Girl from Bond-street, sings well; Miss Doris Regan ably enacts the part of Lottie Harvey; the Lady Fielding of Miss Ethel Russell is a realistic performance; Miss Maud Beard gives a bustling portrayal of Mrs Harvey; Miss Ivy Alberto successfully adopts the American twang as Edna Vandebilt; Mr Campbell Goldsmid and Mr George Watts are good as the Earl of Seacombe and Sir George Fielding respectively; unstinted praise is due to Mr F. R. Heaton for a successful presentation of the Hon. Archie Greene, his "Sleepy" song being greatly admired; and Mr E. De Vere supplies the necessary fun in the character of Mickey Mulvaney.

MR EDITOR,—Sir,—In your correspondent's report of the Cinderella pantomime at the Aquarium, Scarborough, last week, my name was erroneously mentioned as playing the Baron's Page. Yours faithfully, FRED LAKE, F.O.S., Tinbad, Sinbad the Sailor company, Grand Theatre, Chorley, Jan. 5.

THE SHOWMAN WORLD.

(FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

NEWS, news from all over the kingdom. Fairs everywhere at Christmastide. From Birmingham we have news of seven fairs. On the Monument-road ground, under the banner of P. Collins, Limited, we have the excellent Cinématographe, theatre, and varieties of Mr F. Collins—a superb concern and always up to date; P. Collins, jun., with steam yachts and juvenile horses; C. Booth's grand exhibition of working model colliery, a coal siding, Ship Canal, a goods station, &c.—a marvellous exhibition; John Wright's fine art exhibition, shooting saloons, egg and globe shooters, cokernut sheets, &c.; and H. Scarfe's varieties. At Bordesley-street are Jones's roundabouts, swingboats, cokernuts, &c. At Ladypool-road, Parker's ghost show and Jones's stalls. At Kingston-hill, Shepherd Brothers' Venetian gondolas, galloping horses, &c. At Victoria-road, Handsworth, Mrs S. Shepherd's amusements, circular switchbacks, park swings, &c. At Taunton-road, Sparkbrook, we have P. Collins's, Limited, royal foxhunters, steam yachts, &c.; Cordwell's Lifeograph, Bob Burden's boxing booth, Ruby's X rays exhibition, G. Ford's and S. Dobson's juvenile roundabouts, Ford's and Dobson's shooting saloons and cokernut sheets, and other numerous attractions. At Leopold-street, Birmingham, are Mr S. Shepherd's steam roundabouts, park swings, shooting saloons, &c.

FROM Bristol we hear of the excellent fair under George Pruett's management running for a four weeks' season at Red Field, St. George's. Borlett's lion show, Pruett's electric bioscope, Professor Cullis with school of athletes and boxers, Turner's working model of a gold mine. Bennett's South African earth men and the great free sight, Chevalier Ponchery in his truly marvellous performance on the high rope. The excellent roundabout concerns include four sets by the Pruetts, flying ostriches, four-a-breast gallopers, and the African ostrich farmyard set; with big boats and over-boats by George Pruett, steam horse set by Tom Pruett. George Pruett, jun., exhibited coker and Emma sheets, and Miss Nellie Pruett had charge of the Winchester shooting range. Amongst the other exhibitors were Madame Ponchery with football game, Matthews with electric fish pond and striking machines; Thomas, Davies, and Dodlans with ring boards and throwing games.

A CAPITAL six weeks' season, under Gerald Lester's able management, opened for the Christmas holidays at the Engineers' Drill Hall, Portsmouth, under the well-deserved title—"Leslie's World's Fair and Carnival." Under Mr Leslie's direct control were the following shows, &c.:—The Imperial Bioscope, the unique collection of simians (apes and monkeys of the world), and the variety stage turns were by Toto, wire walker; Leveno, Arabian posturer and tumbler; Ali Ben Hassan, comedy juggler; and Madam and Professor Ella, second-sight and psychometric séances. Side shows, &c.—Doughty and Romilly's convict cell and bottle battery, Claude Lowe's topsy turvy garden seat, big boats and highflyers, Arthur Hope-Parker's Winchester ranges and bottle smashers, Emma sheets, dart boards, jockey scales, roll-up boards, and fish pond by Messrs Warne and Hughes; roll-up boards, billiard games, and boxers by Messrs F. Brookes and J. Brookes; and these, with Milton's Halls of Laughter, make up a truly world's fair for the West of England, visited by 20,000 people on Boxing Day.

HERE, too, at Portsmouth is the excellent Christmas Fair, under Mr Symonds's banner. Mr Symonds's fair ground novelties alone make a complete fair. Symonds's switchback, Symonds's gallopers, Symonds's steam swings, Paine's swings, Winchester range, Emma sheets, and roll-up board; Taylor's boxing booth and coker shies, Martin's fine art show, freak show, steam horses, and high-fliers; Pitt's Emma sheet, coker and roll-up boards, Conelly's Emma sheet, Wesser's Emma sheet, Stevens's cokers, and Burrough's roll-up board.

THE Glasgow Carnival for the New Year Holidays was this year on such a scale of completeness, and, withal, up-to-date variety, as to eclipse all former efforts of Messrs J. and G. Green, the proprietors. The grand military spectacle, "The Russo-Japan War," in three realistic tableaux, performed by a crowd of clever local children, 100 strong, was from the start an assured success. In the variety theatre the following world-famed artistes gave their special turns:—The Valadons, the Clarks, the Lorraine Sisters, Miss Reine, Herr Fricker, Carrie Ford, R. V. Donald, Henessey, Carrie Bernhard, and W. Hunter. On the stage in the open arena L'Oronti and St. Joel, the Starr Troupe, and Ballini and Rossini gave excellent proof of their ability. Green's well-known theatre Cinématograph, Prof. B. P. Burnett's tournament and expert swordmanship, Hayden's second sight mystics and mediums, the American laughing show, Green's switchback horses and the juvenile riding school, Howard's twin ships in the air, and the park swing range of the proprietors, Day's rifle saloon, bottle batteries and smashers by Messrs J. Day, A. Lawrence, and H. Irwin; Emmas, varieties, coker sheets, throwing games in great variety by Messrs Macintosh, Kelly, Wilson, Hughes, Anderson, Irwin, sen., the Brothers Smith, H. Irvin, jun., Blake, Blockley, Kelly, Green, and others. Mr George Green is to be congratulated for the eminently all-round good-class entertainment he has provided for the New Year holidays.

IT is a big jump from Geo. Green, of Glasgow, to his equally successful brother, John Green, of Preston's mammoth aggregation of talent and music at the Drill Hall, Bolton, Lancashire, yet we must make the journey if we would know all that showland has to tell us. Modelled on Royal Agricultural Hall lines of attractiveness and modernity, the Christmas and New Year Carnival for Bolton establishes a well-deserved record for Mr John Green and his able lieutenant and manager, Mr E. A. Ward, of circus management fame. The arena performances, with the Hannafords as the great attraction, have been a big hit from the start. The Dahomey Warriors (over twenty in number) add a weirdness to the carnival by their native songs, pom-pom and tim-tom music. The Dahomey Warriors are a wonderful crowd. Then pibroch music, with drums, is rendered by the Scottish pipers "fra Glascae." The equestrian turns were by Les Ethardos, Miss Victoria, Miss Scott, Miss Lillian, the Tudor Brothers, the Hannaford Quartet, Alvan, Sammy and Tommy, and the fun-makers, jesters, and clowns were Weary Willie, Handy Andy, Little Jimmy, Anderson, and Longfellow.

MR HANNAFORD introduced the performing pony King Edward, and also with his inimitable ability kept the fun alive as ringmaster. In the large covered annexe were John Green's racing cockerels and park swings, Robt. Hancock's rifle range and striking machine, and J. Ingham's coker shies. The side shows, stalls, &c., included Stewart's flying lady, Professor Terry's performing fleas, Tahmy, the fire king; Stewart's embroideries, and Byde's American candy stall. A considerable local attraction is the wrestling matches between Bolton men and outsiders. We witnessed a capital "impromptu grapple" between Henderson, one of the Scottish pipers, and James Swarbrick, a Bolton wrestler. It was keenly contested, amidst tremendous excitement, and ended with a victory hard won for the Bolton man.

BOLTON FAIR, without doubt the principal winter fixture in Lancashire, under the fostering care of the Market and Fair Committee, has grown in both popularity and importance. There are two grounds both under Corporation management, and the setting of the fair and the care taken in the good order of the grounds reflect the highest possible credit on Mr R. Pike, the Superintendent of Markets and Fairs. We visited the fair in a downpour of rain, yet the irresistible showmen were at work, and taking plenty of money. We cannot do more than record the shows, roundabouts, &c. On the grounds the Cinématograph theatres are Messrs Kemp's, Payne's, and Clarke's; menageries, Chipperfield's and Sedgwick's; peepshows, Farrar's and Wright's; halls of laughter, Farrar's and another; Sidney Braham's feathered marvels, and a ground booth (North's). Riding masters present with machines are Messrs John and George Green, the Mitchell Family, Hurst, and Whiting; the shooters of Messrs Cornwell, R. H. Williams, Jewell, Sedgwick, and Mrs John Cornwell; cokers, Emma, and throwing games by Messrs Sharrocks, H. and J. Taylor, the Forshaws, the Harringtons, the Jewells, the Wilsons, the Garlicks, the Inghams, and Longton. Refreshment booths were supplied by Butterworth, Bowsen, and Ingham; and pannum stalls by Holmes, of Manchester.

THE secretary of the British Roundabout Proprietors and Showmen's Union ("the Combine") writes to say that all members must give diligent attention to the advertisement of the annual meeting of the Combine at Manchester. See it this week.

MR HENRY STUDT, of roundabout and steam horses fame, entertained the children of the Swansea Cottage Homes (numbering ninety), together with about thirty inmates of the workhouse, on Monday afternoon. The little ones, in charge of the master, Mr Elliott, and their nurses, travelled from Cockett in three brakes, and the older people walked to the Winter Gardens on the Strand. The two large machines, with their horses and gondolas, were quickly taken possession of by the delighted youngsters, and kept in motion for over half an hour, when steam was temporarily shut off, in order that Mr H. A. Chapman might propose a vote of thanks to Mr Studt for his annual treat. Mr Chapman said that was the thirteenth year he had had the privilege of submitting the health of their generous donor, who was one of the largest-hearted men in the world, and was only happy when he was doing good and making those cheerful who were less fortunate than himself. Mr J. Harvey seconded, and Mr H. G. Solomon, in an enthusiastic speech, supported. He referred to Mr Studt's past acts of kindness, to the great assistance he had rendered to the hospital committee in providing funds towards the support of that noble institution, and he (Mr Solomon) understood that at that very moment Mr Studt had in his pocket a scheme whereby the debt on that institution would be speedily swept away. The vote was afterwards submitted, and the great crowd which had assembled manifested their approval by cheering loudly.

MR H. STUDT, who briefly acknowledged the compliment, was cordially received, and said he was never more pleased that when he was affording the poor some little enjoyment and cheer. The Mayor of Swansea then made his appearance, and in a hearty speech alluded to what Mr Studt had done in the past and what he was doing at present. There seemed to be some danger of the Studt Ward at the hospital being closed, and he (the speaker) wished to state that he was prepared to do what he possibly could in his capacity as mayor to prevent this coming about. He had spoken to the proprietor of the Star Theatre about the matter, and that gentleman had offered to place the theatre at his disposal for the organisation of a benefit performance at any time. Buns, oranges, and sweets were next distributed amongst the visitors, and the roundabouts were again set in motion.

THE annual Christmas and New Year's carnivals of Messrs Hy. Studt and Son at the Winter Gardens, Strand, Swansea, and the Recreation Grounds, Morriston, proved this year to be an unequalled success. At Swansea were their gondolas, zoological roundabouts, and aerial swings; John North's shooting jungle, mollies, cokernut sheets, and fisheries stall; Jimmy Day's striker and fish emporium; J. Doyle's stalls and electric bumper; and J. Wortley's fun factory and Parisian beauty show.

AT Morriston have been Messrs Studt and Son's No. 2 gondolas, park swings; Booth's shooter, mollies, stalls, &c.; D. Boswell, with cokernut sheets, mollies, and fish in globe game, and a host of smaller things.

THE question of the permission of Aunt Sallies on Tommy Field was discussed at a meeting of the Markets and Baths Committee of the Oldham Town Council on the 29th ult. Reference was made to the alleged gambling that was carried on at the game of "the iron cokernut," the penny on the billiard ball, and other "games of skill" where the chance was all on the side of the stall-holder. The superintendent said that "Aunt Sallies" were allowed on every fair ground in the country. After a long discussion it was eventually agreed that the Aunt Sally game be permitted for six months as a trial. The superintendent was instructed to watch closely the conduct of the business.

AT the Carnival, Byker, Newcastle-on-Tyne, were Messrs W. and B. Murphy's gondolas; H. O'Brian's animated photos.; and the travelling concerns of Messrs J. W. Gray, Walker, Newsome, and Carter.

AT Gateshead-on-Tyne were Mr Walker Hoadley's electrical jumping horses in full gallop; also Piniger's hobby-horses and aerial flights. Cinématography was well represented by such well-known concerns as Biddall's, Geo. Payne's, and Testo's living pictures exhibitions. Novelties were supplied by Messrs Slater, Sedgemore, Palmer, Black, Prundle, Piniger, Wood, Biddall, S. O'Briar, Stephens, Gray, and Steele.

AT the Redeugh-bridge, Gateshead, James Mander's gigantic cockerels were supplemented by the fair ground concerns of Messrs W. Strand, Smith, Lowther, and Newey. Johnson's circus of varieties was present on the same ground.

MR THOMAS HURST, the hon. secretary of the Guild and also secretary of the Roundabout Proprietors and Showmen's Union, has written to us a letter enclosing a full report of certain recent proceedings of the Wigan Borough Council, when a vote "abolishing the local fair" was "snatched." The matter will be fully discussed and a campaign of defence arranged at forthcoming meetings in Manchester and London. The dates of these meetings will be found in our advertisement columns.

THE annual Christmas and New Year's Fair was held on the Chapel-fields, Belfast, and was very well attended. The attractions included Messrs Toft and Turnbull's switchback and jumping horses, Braham's bird and midget pony shows, Captain and Madame Texas, sharp shooters; Alf and Madame Hayden's second sight and mysteries, Charles Rigolo's troupe of French wrestlers, Messrs Mackintosh, Copley, Balshaw, Horne, Thompson, and Kelly's Emma stalls; Messrs Hiscoe, Balshaw, Copley, and Kelly's cokernut shies, bogies, and pipe breakers; Messrs Graham, Mapplebook, Mackintosh, and Wood's football boards; Messrs Toft and Turnbull, Mapplebook, Flint, and Palmer's shooting galleries; Martin's overboats, Clarke's park swings, Graham and Martin's striking machines, Messrs Gould, Mapplebook, Towers, Freeman, and Flint's ticket stalls; Dunleavy's roll-up boards, and Bridge's weighing and slot machines.

BRITISH SHOWS AND SHOWMEN.

By the Rev. T. HORNE
(Hon. Chaplain, Showmen's Guild).

Shows and showmen have flourished in all parts of the world. Shrewd observers have expressed the opinion that the popular shows and amusements of a people form an excellent index to their character and illustrate the growth of natural life. The sweet singer of the ancient civilisation, Homer, the poet, was an itinerant bard or minstrel, singing his songs of the people to the people. The greatest poet of all the ages, William Shakespeare, was a strolling player. He caught the passion of the drama from the strolling players who acted their plays to grammar school boys at Stratford-on-Avon in the schoolroom upon whose very walls quite recently scenery painted in Shakespeare's time has been found, covered with the Puritan whitewash of a later period.

We are, therefore, quite safe in saying that no period of reputable history, no phase of settled or normal life, but had its showmen and its shows. Let us try to picture the evolution of a fair. It would originate in the annual festival of the patron saint in whose honour the church had been named. Quite nine out of every ten fairs began in the way we now indicate. The church kept high festival on the martyr day of its saint, and a holiday would naturally follow. Neighbours and friends from far and near would at fair time mingle together in fellowship and comradeship. The stern rules of the workaday world would be relaxed. All would join in the festivities with song and dance and merry joke, and young and old, grave and gay, would "keep the feast."

Then behold the strolling players, the gleemen, the mountebanks, the pedlars, the dealers in foreign marvels, the itinerant doctors and astrologers—in fact all who need a crowd would come, and the people would welcome the mummers, the tumblers, and the quack doctors; the clown to make the welkin ring with laughter; and the swiftly improvised circus ring, wherein tightrope dancing, posturing, and conjuring would be done, the local gleemen and choir boys taking part, it may well have been in some Mystery Play. There would come the energetic purveyor of bright ribbons and other seasonable fairings crying the merits of his wares; the learned Hidalgo D'Espanolia, from Madrid, magician, astrologer, and doctor, with the safe and certain cure for all the ills poor flesh is heir to.

Of such was the man immortalised in the old mumming rhyme, "The Peace Egg; or, St. George and Seven Knights of Christendom;" "How far has thou travelled in doctrineship?" saith the fool. The learned doctor replies:—

> "From Italy-titley, High Germany, and Spain,
> And now I'm returned to O'd England again."

"What disease canst thou cure?"

> The itch, the pitch, the palsy, and the gout;
> If a man hath nineteen devils in his skull,
> I'll cast twenty of them out.

"I have spectacles for blind mice, pack saddles and panniers for lame ducks. I cured Sir Harry of a hang-nail nine yards long, and surely I can cure this poor man! Here, Jack, open thy mouth; take thee a swig from my magic bottle, and if thou bee'st not quite slain, rise, Jack, and fight again."

This is no fancy picture without historical warrant; for I find in an old illuminated manuscript of Anglo Saxon times, in the Harleian collection, a picture wherein a dancer is seen performing to the music of a fellow showman, and a third entertainer is exhibiting the antics of a performing bear. Here was the germ of the American combination of wild beast show and circus performance.

At a later period we find trained horses, tumblers, and jugglers portrayed in these old monastic illuminations. One shows a boy leaping through a hoop, and in the Cottonian collection we find old pictures of juggling with balls and knives. Just the same modus operandi that you marvel at in a circus or show to-day. The Sloane collection of ancient illuminated manuscripts depicts female as well as male acrobats and posturers.

In the Arundel Collection of MS S. in the British Museum we have a picture of our old friend the dancing bear, a trick horse performing on a tight-rope, and an ox standing on the back of a horse, a feat that might to day find a proud place on the Hippodrome programme of modern novelties.

From a learned book called the "Archeologia," quoted in Strutt's "Book of Sports," we learn of a wonderful Spanish rope-walker, who performed before King Edward VI. on a rope stretching from the battlements of old St. Paul's steeple to the ground below. After a rapid glide to terra firma from the heights above, he walked up the rope, and performed certain mysteries on it, such as tumbling and casting one leg from another. And the historian tells us "that the King and the whole Court were stayed a good space of time to see the show." Sir Walter Raleigh, in his "History of the World," mentions Banks, the showman—the Barnum of those days—in these words of eulogy, "If Banks had lived in olden times he would have shamed all the enchanters in the world, for whosoever was most famous amongst them could never master or instruct any beast as he did."

The animal that chiefly made the fame of Banks was a bay horse called Morocco. He could count up figures and indicate "the boy who stole the sugar, and the lady who kissed her sweetheart." An old print represents Morocco, under the direction of Banks, standing on its hind legs. Banks, like many modern showmen, was a world-wide traveller. We find stories of his fame in France and Germany. Of the end of his chequered career, the dramatist, Jonson, in a burlesque poem, speaks thus:—

> Old Banks, the Juggler, our Pythagorus,
> Grave tutor to the learned horse, both which
> Being beyond sea, were burned for one witch.
> Their spirits migrated into a cat—

the poet evidently accepting the traditional story of the showman's sorry end—that he was, together with his learned horse, burnt for witchcraft and black magic.

Sir Wm. Davenant, in a curious old ballad, called "The Long Vacation" in London, thus mentions the show folk of his days—the days of Queen Elizabeth—

> Now, vaulter good and dancing lass
> On rope, and man that cries, "Hey, pass!"
> And tumbler young that needs but stoop,
> Lay head to heel to creep through hoop;
> And man in chimney hid to dress
> Puppet that acts our old Queen Bess;
> And man that while the puppets play
> Through nose expoundeth what they say;
> And white oat eater that doth dwell
> In stable small at sign of Bell;
> That lifts up hoofs to show the pranks,
> Taught by magician, styled "Banks;"
> And ape led captive still in chain
> Till he renounce the Pope and Spain—
> All these on hoof now trudge from town
> To cheat poor turnip-eating clown.

In a book called "The Vaulting Master," published at Oxford in 1652, William Stokes, a famous circus master of that period, demonstrates by pictures and letterpress his methods of leaping over horses or leaping upon them, both on saddle or bareback. Mayfair, a once ultra-fashionable quarter of London, takes its name from the fair held in the open fields of that district. A bill of the entertainments at old Bartholomew fair, preserved in the British Museum, mentions various shows patronised by Queen Anne and most of the quality. Vaulters, posturers, performing dogs, tight rope performers, and conjurors. Hogarth's fine picture of "Southwark Fair" introduces us to many well-known showmen of Hogarth's time. The slack rope walker, Violante; Fawkes, the conjuror; Pinchbeck's show, Tyers' mumming booth, Cadman's Circus, Signor Nomora and Signora Rossi, in their feats of activity; and Chevalier Linges, in his wonderful show of balancing and conjuring.

Towards the end of the eighteenth century we have the advent into the circus world of London of Philip Astley, a man who passed from the battlefield to the show ground. He settled in the open fields between Westminster and Blackfriars at a spot famous as the "halfpenny bridge." Here, with some stakes and a rope, he made himself a ring, and displayed feats of horsemanship learnt in the army. He was a Hercules of a man, and had won fame by the capture of a standard at the battle of Emsdorf. With a horse given him on his discharge by General Elliott, and another one that he bought in Smithfield Market, he opened the afterwards world-famed Astley's Circus. The earliest bill of the play obtainable of Astley's show tells us that "the entertainment consists of feats of horsemanship by Mr Astley, Mr Taylor, Signor Markutchy, Miss Vangable, and other transcendental performers; a minuet by two horses in a most extraordinary manner; a comic musical interlude called The Awkward Recruit; and an amazing exhibition of dancing dogs from France and Italy and other genteel parts of the globe. N.B.—Mr Astley will also display the broad-sword, also ride on a single horse with one foot on the saddle the other on his head, and every other feat that can be exhibited by any other; with an addition of twenty extraordinary feats, such as riding at full speed with his head on a common pint pot, at the rate of twelve miles an hour."

Out of this circus sprang Astley's Amphitheatre in Holborn. Here Astley was ably assisted by Griffin, Miller, and Jones, equestrians, the clown being Funny Burt, and the tumblers, Nevit, Porter, Dawson, and Garmon. Horace Walpole in his famous letter says:—"London at this time of year (September) is as nauseous a drug as any in an apothecary's shop. I could find nothing at all to do, so went to Astley's, which, indeed, was much beyond my expectation. I do not wonder any longer that Darius was chosen king by the instructions he gave to his horse, nor that Caligua made his a consul. Astley can make his horse dance minuets and hornpipes." Astley died in Paris in 1814, the same year that witnessed the appearance of the celebrated Ducrow who carried to the highest point of perfection spectacular display in Astley's famed amphitheatre. With the rise of Ducrow we have others whose names we can only find time to mention, viz., Clarke and Bradbury, Barrymore, Davis, and Jean Bellinck on the flying rope; with Romo Samez, Miss Woolford, George Cooke, and Cline, the rope-walker. Most of us remember the wonderful procession and management of sixty horses in Barnum and Bailey's show. The lineal descendant of Ducrow was the man who controlled with a word that vast crowd of horses. Descendants of the Cookes, the Davises, and the Woolfords are now on the road.

We may bring the line down by including Sangers, Henglers, Newsomes, Pablo Fanques, Ginnetts, Myers, Cookes, Fossetts, Ohmys, and Alexanders. Then we come to the larger portable theatres, circuses, and menageries that travelled the Midlands, the West of England, and Wales, and also in the northern counties, Scotland and Ireland. Holloway's show, Bannister's show, Miltons, Saunders', Ords, Pinders, Samwells, Wilds, Thornes, Wombwells, Buckleys, Manders, Lloyd's, Reeders, Mackneys, Clarkes, Yeomans, and others; Bannister's show and Ords circus travelled in Scotland, Lloyd and Davies in Ireland, and are still on the road.

With regard to menageries the historic name, of course, is George Wombwell. The traditional story is that he commenced his collection of natural curiosities by carrying about—in a box—for exhibition a serpent. The actual first menagerie of a portable character was organised by a man named Cross, who bought a number of the animals when the Royal collection at the Tower of London was broken up. He located them at Exeter-change, then afterwards removed to Surrey-gardens. Hence the immediate source and origin of travelling menageries, was Royalty itself. It was George Wombwell who perfected the travelling menagerie. The only serious rival to the Wombwells was William Manders, whose concern ultimately became the premier menagerie on wheels in the world. Within living memory we have such giants of the road as the three Sangers, John, William, and George. Lord George Sanger is still amongst us, and his name is one to conjure with. He is a man honoured wherever the Saxon tongue is spoken.

The Wombwells are still a power in the wonderland of shows, perpetuated in the line of Bostock. James W. Bostock, now in America teaching the 'cute showmen of the American continent how to run shows; Frank Charles Bostock on the Continent, and now acclaimed as the man who made the Paris Hippodrome a success; and Edward H. Bostock, of the Glasgow Zoo and the Norwich Hippodrome—a trio of the most successful showmen of this or any age.

Then we have the Manders, a numerous tribe—unto the third and fourth generation; the Fossetts, Cookes, Pinder-Ords, Henglers, Hoglals, Powells, Lloyds, Davis, Samwells, Chipperfields, Haggars (Blissetts), Newsomes, Reeders, Clarkes, Williams (the Monti Bros.), Holdens, and Edward Lawrence, being also in the goodly company, in which the Purchase Family and the Biddalls are also included, as well as the Proctor Family, and the Bakers, of sawdust arena celebrity.

The giants of to-day in the cinématograph line are Kemp, Clarke, Taylor, Chittock, Payne, Collins (with Wall's Phantoscope), Proctor, Monte Bros., the Pedley-Relph show, Harry Ashington (also with marionettes), Bailey, Cordwell, Studt, Thurston, Creighton, Twigdon, and many others.

No review of showland would be complete without a notice of roundabouts, steam or electrically driven machines. The late William Sanger was the inventor of the steam roundabout, or perhaps it is more correct to say the originator of the germ idea of the application of steam as motive power to the ancient "dobby" or "hobby" horses. He took his ideas to the late John Savage, of St. Nicholas Engineering Works at King's Lynn, and the practical engineer developed the notion. The steam roundabout was a pioneer of rapid advancement in the world of shows. To-day the principal industry of King's Lynn is the making and the repairing of steam and electric roundabouts—"roundabout" being the generic name for steam horses, racing, jumping, galloping or kicking horses, switchbacks, Venetian gondolas, ostriches, farmyard sets, and racing cockerells, bike and other motor tracks. We have also steam tugs, steam yachts, flying ships, big and little wheels, and "sea on land," a fine example of which is at the famous Belle Vue Gardens, Manchester.

The Messrs Savage, of King's Lynn, are not the only makers of machines. Messrs Robert Tidman and Sons, Norwich, and J. R. Anderson, of Hotwell Bristol, are well-known makers and repairers of roundabouts. Many of the more important roundabout proprietors make and repair their own. Thomas Hurst, of Pendlebury, Manchester, is the owner of several important improvements—his own inventions—in roundabout figures, notably the three saddled birds, "ride-a-cock-horse sets," and also a patent grip for traction machine wheels. This list is not at all exhaustive. There are gondola works at Walsall—Messrs P. Collins, Limited; gondola works at South Wigston; and Messrs Mitchell, of Heywood, make and repair their own improvements on the old or time-expired patents. Over a quarter of a million pounds sterling are invested in this one branch of show enterprise alone, and thousands of people are engaged in the industry itself and its allied trades. Take, for example, the huge traction engines of Messrs C. Burrell and Sons, of Thetford; Fodins, Limited, of Sandbach; Fowlers, Greens, M'Larens, Savage Brothers, Limited, and other makers. Then we have the electric light installation and generating machines of Messrs F. W. Dickenson, of Leeds, and the Messrs Simpkin and Co., also of Leeds, are firms well-known in this line of showman supply and equipment.

The principal roundabout proprietors are the Brothers Collins and P. Collins, Limited, the Brothers Murphy, the Brothers Studt, the Wilmots, the Brothers Green, the Mitchells, the Twigdons, Warren and Hastings, Toft and Turnbull, the Richardsons, the Carls's, Hoadley, Swallow, Symonds, Barkers, Thurston, Hurst, White, Hancock, Marshall, Hill, and a hundred or more proprietors of single sets. Amongst these we place Whiting, Holmes, Manders, Hamilton, Farrell, Ravenscroft, Beach, Hodder, Walkers, Holden, Prewitt, Clarke, Strickland, Shepherd, Davies, Berry, Makins, Geoghan, Holland, the Danters, Asplands, Harniess, Shipley, Wingate, Wilson Bailey, Read, Barker, Baker, George Twigdon, Cox, Martin, the Marshalls, the Waddingtons, Wallis, Redfearn, Manders, Caris, Davies, and Humphreys. We thus see that roundabout section is a most important factor in the business of British fairs.

But what of the vast army of the rank and file of show life—the so-called small, or minor variety, entertainers? You could not conceive a fair without them. They may be numbered in hundreds at any really first-class fair. All these must needs be—they are all wanted to make the fair. The showman world in these islands of Great Britain and Ireland numbers at the least 70,000 persons, almost all directly employed in the show business; besides these there is a vast army of workers making and handling the goods sold or used upon the fair grounds of the Empire.

The modern showman has no need to be ashamed either of his work or his position in the national economy. To cater for a people's natural relaxation involves no slight share of responsibility in the nation's well-being. The strenuous toil of a highly developed industrial system demands frequent opportunities of recreation and change. Experience has demonstrated more than ever that the most complete provision of this natural demand is the healthy, all-absorbing, and ever-varying amusements of our fairs, feasts, and wakes. A mere casual study of the root conditions of life of the workers will be enough to show the reason for this. With the toilers at the loom, the machine bench, or in the mine, a prime necessity is that they shall not be expected to take too much trouble about the matter of necessary recreation. They cannot make a toil of a pleasure. With those whose work is less exacting it may be different. With the worn-out toiler it is essential that the amusement be brought to his very door. It is also necessary that a healthy, neighbourly tradition of interchange of hospitality—of paying friendly visits and entertaining distant friends and relatives—be maintained.

Above all the duty must be enforced by the supreme exigence of a local custom for all employers of labour to close their works and let their people go. To short-sighted people this surcease from productive industry may seem to be a waste of time and money, but it is not so. There is no sounder principle of true economy than that which is embodied in the old saying, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

We are beginning to find out that men and women, like horses, are all the better for a little time of rest. We can all rejoice that the close of the nineteenth century witnessed the return to the better mind of the employers of labour with regard to these things. Midway in the century the economists taught us that all abstention from work was an economic loss. Hence the crusade to abolish our fairs and local holidays, and to minimise as much as possible cessation from labour.

The new political economy, recognising more human and humane conditions, has produced a salutary reaction, and, except for a little of that old leaven of Puritanical prejudice that remains, the outlook for the new century is bright with the highest hopes for the men and women of the fair ground. The organisation for protective purposes and mutual help of a highly individualistic and specialised industry is at all times difficult. Especially is this true of open-air amusement caterers. To stand alone—well able to compete with all rivals in the open arena for public favour—is of the very essence of the enterprise. We can never expect, as an organisation, to include more than a representative proportion of the showman world.

This difficult work has been done, and with the greatest success. No feature of our age is more significant than the rise and progress of the Showmen's Guild. It is a fact that fully demonstrates the identity of the showman with the best enterprise and the most skilled and trained workers of the empire. British shows and British showmen are to-day making history, and that history is intimately bound up with the best life of the British people.

THE DRAMA IN ROTTERDAM.

ROTTERDAM, DEC. 21, 1904.—We have had a couple of new and orginal plays that have attracted much attention and drawn good audiences to the Grand Theatre, where Manager Van Eysden has brought them out, casting them to the full strength of his efficient company. The first of these pieces is Kleine Menschen, by a young Dutch author, Albert Van Waasdyk, who is winning his first laurels as a dramatist. The title Kleine Menschen, literally translated, means "Little People," but the term is used in Dutch to indicate narrow-minded persons; and, in this case, the purposed satire—a most scathing one indeed—is on "cant." The play, which is in four acts, is a clever piece of work. The parts fitted the members of the company at the Grand exactly, special praise being due to Messrs Poolman, Faassen, Van Kerckhoven, and De Jong; and Mesdames Van Kerckhoven and Mauhs.

THE other piece at the Grand Theatre is a comedy, in five acts, entitled De Referendaris Titulair (The Titulary Referendary), from the pen of Cornélie Noordwal, a Dutch authoress, whose novels have found much favour with the public. The comedy is a criticism on life at the Hague, where the tendency to make a show beyond one's income, and consequently run into debt, is most prevalent, especially among the would-be aristocracy. The title "Referendaris Titulair" is an honorary one conferred on some minor State officials in Holland. Mr Alex. Faassen as the official of the cast was in a very happy vein, and the same can be said of Mr Poolman as a plain, matter-of-fact plebeian. The rest of the cast was equally satisfactory.

THE Royal Dramatic Company of Amsterdam has given a couple of performances at the Tivoli Theatre, the programme of one of these consisting of Legouvé's tragedy of Medea and Coppée's one-act drama, Pater Noster, both in Dutch. Mrs Mann-Bouwmeester played Medea and Rosa, the leading part in Pater Noster, giving masterly interpretations of both characters.

ON one of the off-nights at the Grand Theatre we had a performance of The Belle of New York in Dutch, by the company of the Frascati Theatre, Amsterdam, where this up-to-date extravaganza had a long (for Holland) and profitable run.

A POPULAR Dutch writer, Justus Van Maurik, has passed away. He was a journalist, novelist, and a dramatic author, and his popularity was unbounded, his plays, particularly the farcical ones, such as Janus Tulp, always drawing well.

Situate at the junction of the Blackpool and Lytham Tramways, on the Marine Parade, opposite the Manchester Hotel, in the heart of Blackpool.
The Building (which is 127ft. in diameter, 41ft. high to the eaves, and 83ft. to the Lantern) is Lighted by Electricity, and as a place for Animal Entertainments is unique, it being the only building in Blackpool that, in consequence of its being free from pillars and other obstructions, afforded the necessary height and space for Diavolo's performance of "Looping the Loop."
The Walls are covered with the World-renowned picture "Niagara" painted by the great artist Phillipoteau.
For the last eight or ten years Blackpool has been extending around and for miles south of the Colosseum in a marvellously rapid manner. Thousands of houses have been built and are occupied, and there has not been any place of Public Entertainment provided for the Masses of the People south of the Tower.
The Colosseum provides a long-felt want in this New and Populous Neighbourhood.
The Authorities estimate that about Four Million Persons visited Blackpool last Season.
The great Popularity of the Colosseum is shown by the fact that, although only partially occupied during a part of a Blackpool Season, upwards of 100,000 paid for Admission during the remaining part of the Season.

THE WITMARK SONGS.

LONDON HAS SUSTAINED THE PROVINCIAL VERDICT.

BY THE OLD OAK-TREE
HONEYMOON HALL,
the First Night Hits in
"PEGGY MACHREE"
at WYNDHAM'S THEATRE.
Sung by
MISS MARIE DAINTON.

Daily Telegraph, Dec. 29, 1904.
The chief lyrical success of the evening was won by "The Old Oak Tree," a ditty of the Letty Lind type, which suggested American, rather than Irish, authorship. The song in question was very daintily sung by Miss Marie Dainton.

Pall Mall Gazette, Dec. 29, 1904.
One song, "Honeymoon Hall," beautifully sung by Miss Marie Dainton, arrested our attention at once, not only by its essential prettiness, but also by the ingenuity with which from a humorous point it was treated. . . . In this act occurs a charming little melody entitled "By the old oak tree."

St. James's Gazette, Dec. 29, 1904.
"Honeymoon Hall" is stated to be an interpolated number. It is likely to be immensely popular.

Evening News, Dec. 29, 1904.
"Honeymoon Hall," charmingly sung and acted by Miss Marie Dainton, made a great hit.

MISS MADGE LESSING,
GOOD-BYE, LITTLE GIRL, GOOD-BYE.
LONDON COLISEUM.
Absolutely the Finest Stage Setting ever given to a Single Song.
Instantaneous Hit at the PRINCE'S THEATRE, BRISTOL,
TESSIE,
MISS LIL HAWTHORNE.

Bristol News, Dec 26, 1904.
There are at least two such which she now introduces, and it will be surprising if they are not soon being whistled by the man in the street, to say nothing of the small boy. "Tessie" is a decided novelty, for after the second verse the refrain is taken up by a male voice "off," the said male voice being reproduced by means of a powerful and clear-toned gramaphone. The third verse gives the band an opportunity to raise laughter, and they make the most of it.

Bristol Times, Dec. 26, 1904.
"Tessie," as sung by Miss Lil Hawthorne, is sure to establish itself as a favourite, and the village band chorus is one of the funniest items of the evening.

The Singer of Novelty Songs,
MISS RACHEL LOWE,
Scores at KENNINGTON THEATRE
with
WHAT'S THE USE OF THAT, HUH?
MY LUCKY DUCK.

St. James's Gazette, Dec. 27, says:—
Miss Rachel Lowe is Aladdin, and her singing captured the crowded house last night with a quacking refrain by a live pet duck. Her song "My Lucky Duck" is one of the most novel things in Panto. Land.

The North Quickly Responds to MISS VERONICA BRADY, HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE, ABERDEEN,
when she is singing
and
I'LL BE YOUR DEW-DROP ROSY.

Catholic Herald says:—
Miss Brady made a hit with her first song, "Good-bye, Little Girl, Good-bye," and the large audience quickly caught up the chorus.

People's Journal, Aberdeen, says:—
"Good-bye, Little Girl, Good-bye," and "I'll be Your Dew-drop Rosy" are the most fetching ditties in the pantomime.

Bon Accord, Dec. 13, 1904, says:—
Miss Veronica Brady, one of the pleasantest of principal girls, soon won, and kept, the attention of the house. Her first song, indeed, "Good-bye, Little Girl, Good-bye," had to be repeated, and on its repetition, the stalls had learned the chorus. By the time the Christmas number of the 'Bon-Accord' appears this song, no doubt, will have passed the hardest test of popularity. Almost everyone will be whistling the tune

MISS MAY MARS
Captured her Audience at the CROWN THEATRE, PECKHAM,

THE LAZIEST JUGGLER ON EARTH.
DRURY-LANE PANTOMIME.

Daily Mail, Monday, Jan. 2, 1905.

WHERE SHALL WE TAKE THE CHILDREN?

Mr E. H. Cooper Revisits Drury-lane.

. . . The juggler with his hammer, who breaks every piece of crockery which displeases him, is greeted with shouts of delight from the sympathetic small folk, who would certainly give up any party for the joy of Mr T. Hearn's humorously acted part. . . .

The Era, Dec. 31, 1904.

. . . Mr Tom Hearn as Snale introduces his celebrated lazy "athlete" sketch, which is received with screams of merriment, the whole house going into fits of uproarious laughter . . .

Daily Telegraph, Dec. 27, 1904.

. . . Finally, to bring the scene to a fitting climax, there is Mr Tom Hearn, with his well-known, but always welcome "turn" illustrative of the shifts and expedients of a lazy man with a Maldonado, like desire to smash everything in the room. If there be any who demand more matter for laughter than is furnished them in the home of Fairy Asbestos, they must, in truth, be veritable gluttons . . .

The Referee, Sunday, Jan. 1, 1905.

. . . Mr Tom Hearn's Snale was a distinct success, his juggling business provoking uproarious hilarity . . .

The Music Hall, Dec. 30, 1904.

. . . Of Mr Tom Hearn we will say that were he never to juggle again, there is room for him among sheer comedians—on the theatrical stage if he will—but there, or in the music hall, his place is in the very front rank. His humour is so natural, so charming, so wholly delightful, that we even confess to finding his genuine juggling an irritation . . .

A CHANCE OF A LIFETIME.

AT THE EMPRESS, BRIXTON.

Powers of attraction of an abnormal kind are possessed by Dr. Walford Bodie, and wherever he goes houses overflow. He created a sensation in a neighbouring borough a few months back, and from his welcome at Brixton on Monday it was evident that old admirers as well as new were present in force to witness his marvellous demonstrations of hypnotism allied with electricity, and to applaud his labours in the cure of a dreadful affliction Three cases were presented to the Doctor on Monday, one being that of a girl aged seventeen, who had been paralysed three and a-half years, having been discharged from three hospitals as hopeless and incurable. As in most cases, the hospital authorities had advised that the tendons connecting the foot be cut, but Dr. Bodie by a simple process which he calls "bloodless surgery" severed with a twist the adhesions which kept the foot rigid, and after applying the electric current the use of both arm and leg was restored. The two subsequent cases were children, both of whom had been given up by three hospitals. They surrendered themselves cheerfully to the famous healer, and soon the withered limbs, which a few moments before had been hanging limp and useless, were freely employed in walking off the stage and in carrying the irons which had for so long encumbered them. Dr. Bodie bears the honours which are showered upon him modestly. He might, he said, take up a practice in the West-end, where he could make a fortune by the exercise of his art, but he had no desire to accumulate vast wealth; his chief reward was found in alleviating the ills of suffering humanity and in bringing happiness to many a home. Dr. Bodie was strong in his denunciation of those who, in a base endeavour to copy his methods, had brought on the stage manufactured cases, but a more audacious or more heinous imposition he could not conceive. That the cases which he treated were all genuine could be proved by the vast accumulation of leg-irons and surgical instruments which numerous patients had presented to him, and for which, through the exercise of his power, they had no further use. Frequent and hearty cheers accompanied Dr. Bodie's demonstrations, at the end of which a little boy whom the Doctor had cured on his last visit to London stepped forward to testify to his healing powers, a testimony which the Doctor declared gave him more pleasure than a cheque for £1,000. At the close of the séance the Doctor turned his attention to his comic subjects, who never fail in their duty of putting the audience into uncontrollable fits of mirth. The ordinary programme contains the names of ———.—The Era, Dec. 24, 1904.

Billed by Mr Richards at Tivoli, Sydney,
as the Modern Godfrey.
Australian Reports and New Zealand Reports.
Sydney Advertiser, Sept. 1.
F. H., the young English actor-vocalist, is the latest addition to the Tivoli bill. He has a fine presence, fine style, and sings fine songs, and is sure to become very popular.

Sydney Referee, Sept. 2.
Mr F. H., billed as the modern Godfrey, made a decided hit last night. Mr H. possesses a fine declamatory voice and has heaps of pathos at his command. His dramatic scena, "Looking Glass," was excellent. He is a very welcome addition to the Tivoli.

Sydney Sportsman, Sept. 3.
Mr F. H., the English descriptive vocalist, gave a most artistic turn. He is gifted with a telling voice and natural style. His pretty little item, 'Looking Glass," met with great approval.

New Zealand Report.
Observer, Sept. 24, 1904.
The star attraction in an all-round company this week is Mr F. H., descriptive actor-vocalist, who is fresh from the London music halls and the companies of H. Rickards in Australia. He is an exceedingly clever artist, and rouses the audience to the pitch of enthusiasm by his various numbers. He has a fine voice, an admirable stage presence, and his numbers are new and striking. In Mr H. the Fullers have got something good.

in Mr Savile's Paisley Pantomime.
Achieved a distinct success.—Glasgow Herald. But we might single out for special mention M'Kasrac, who ranks well with the best Scotch comedians of former pantomimes, and had vociferous encores.—Glasgow Evening News. Another character that ought to develop into one of the most important is that played by Mr James Grant. It is a Scotch impersonation, and Mr Grant appears to be a gentleman with clever humour and an easy style.—Express. Mr James Grant appears as M'Kasrac, a Scottish character of the broadest type, and puts a good deal of fun into the part.—Stage.

SISTERS (THREE) SPRIGHTLY
Enormous Success, CAMDEN THEATRE, N.W.
They introduce their screamingly funny skit "The Drama Out of Date," which causes roars of laughter.—The Era, Dec. 31.
Their "Drama Out of Date" is one of the features of the pantomime.—St. Pancras Gazette, Dec. 31.

SISTERS CLEMENTS (DAISY and GRACIE), enormous success as Principal Girl and Fairy Queen, METROPOLE THEATRE, BIRKENHEAD. Birkenhead Advertiser.—Miss Daisy Clements as Dick's sweetheart, Alice Fitzwarren, has a personality breathing the essence of sweetness and charm. Last year when she took the part of Red Riding Hood she delighted all hearts. This year she enhances her reputation. Not only does she lend to her part all the graces of girlhood, but her dancing is so dainty and neat that it elicits unrestrained admiration . . . One of the most attractive and admirably submitted specialities is the coon scena, introducing the quaintly refrained coon song, "Chicken Stealing," by Miss Daisy Clements and Miss Grace Clements, the latter of whom sweetly portrays the part of Fairy Goodwill. Next week, O. H., WAKEFIELD.

Tivoli, Strand.
The Era, Dec. 17, says:—
. . . There is consolation for the laughter-lover in such turns as Little Tich, Dan Crawley, and RYDER SLONE,
the last-mentioned a gentleman who has made a name in the provinces, and who is likely to be seen a good deal in London. Mr Slone is heard to very great advantage in a burglar impersonation, in which he asks the question, "Are yer 'sleep?"
The Stage, Dec. 29, says:—
Gives a fine character sketch and song, which are quite a feature of the entertainment.
Sings a new burglar song, which strikes a note of originality. . . . with a catchy refrain, given with artistic effect.
"Are yer 'sleep,"

NEW MUSIC.

LEONARD AND CO., Oxford-street, have recently published the following songs:—"The Lover's Wish," by Frances Allitsen, composed to verses of Victor Hugo. Miss Allitsen has been decidedly successful in setting the passionate verses of the French poet, the melody being most attractive. "Time's Roses" has the agreeable prediction that Time will bring roses if we only wait patiently. But what if they are faded or withered roses? But we will not cavil at the hopeful ideas of Miss Gillington, the writer of the verses. Her intentions are excellent, and the composer, Katherine Barry, has executed her share in the song with much skill. "Felicity," composed by Edward St. Quentin, tells of three little maidens, Violet, May, and Felicity, the latter being the sweetest of the trio. But Felicity was not fortunate. The youth who promised to marry her never turned up, although she waited until her hair was grey. "Love in May," by Mary Carmichael, is a pleasant setting of a ditty three centuries old, all about love and the advantage of securing it in the "merry spring time," as Shakespeare says. "A Withered Rose" and "Bring her again" are two songs set by Colin Taylor. The second of these, with words by W. E. Henley, deserves praise, if only for its brevity. It is the shortest ballad we can remember, but if short it is also sweet. "For Evermore," by Stepan Esipoff, is not unlike a popular song with a similar title, but has also merits of its own that vocalists well appreciate. Two songs by Katherine Barry are settings of words which have been treated before, especially "The Night has a Thousand Eyes." But in this case we can compliment the fair composer on having given a very graceful melody to the lines. "A Song of Ireland" is a song, not of Ireland in general, but of Rose O'Connor in particular, and a charming song of its kind, by Wilton King, who has caught an echo of Tom Moore in his ditty. The instrumental pieces published by the same firm include "Garde du Corps," by Claude Ridley, who has written a spirited piece for the pianoforte. "Longing," by Alfred Morland, has a touch of sentiment recalling the nocturnes of Chopin, and is not unworthy to be compared with those exquisite productions. It is in the expressive key of D flat, and shows artistic skill on the part of the composer. Quite a different style of piece is the Tarantella in G minor by George Raynor, who has composed a smart tarantella, well suited for a youthful pianist to study. "Brigadier's March," by George Raynor, and "Vioma," a polka march by Morland, are clever pieces of their kind. "The Polka March," by the way, owes something to French inspiration. "Sur Le Lac," by Alfred Morland, is called a Venitienne for the pianoforte, and is an extremely simple solo for the pianoforte, useful for the teacher who wishes to reward the young pupil with a solo. "Balmoral" is a dance by Anton Strelezki, and is a good example of this clever and effective composer's pianoforte pieces. It is something in the style of a gavotte. "Mitagorg" is a waltz by E. M. Collins of moderate merit. "Perles De Neige," by Eugène Marigny, is a gavotte treated in a novel fashion, displaying some inventive skill on the part of the composer.

FROM Willcocks and Co., Berners-street, W., we have the following:—"Seven Songs for Children," by Gerald Fitzgerald. These songs are happily chosen for little folks who have some knowledge of music, and the pleasant fancies here suggested will not only delight them, but will serve to advance their studies. The "grown-ups" can start them, and once the early stages are conquered, the rest will be quite easy. "Album of Six Songs," by Margaret Royds. This Album has distinct artistic merit. The melodies are refined, and the accompaniments display knowledge of effect and ingenious combinations such as the cultured musician will appreciate. "Valse-Etude," by Gustave Von Holst, is written for piano and violin, and will be found a genial study, free from the dryness of the ordinary violin practice. Sonata No. 1 in A minor, by Percival M. Garratt, is an ambitious attempt to follow in the footsteps of the great masters. Greatly daring, the composer in his opening movement boldly takes a hint from Beethoven, but falls into the trap which so often misleads young composers. He spins out his stock of ideas until they become attenuated. We grant that frequently there is actual gold in the ore, but it should not be beaten too thin. In this instance the "half would have been greater than the whole." Somewhat similar criticism may be applied to Agnes H. Lambert, who has written Variations on an Original Theme in C minor for the pianoforte. The theme reminds us in style of the old Italian master Corelli, whose violin music is still so much admired after three centuries. The variations are ingenious, and in some instances have a pleasant flavour of Bach such as we hardly expected to find in a feminine composition which holds out promise of future excellence, and already shows the results of good training. We leave these learned works for simpler ditties, and our next song is "The Isle of Love," by Russell Phillips, a ditty that will please many simply because the composer handles the love-theme daintily and dwells on the golden isle and the delight of being there with one dear companion, and winds up with a crescendo almost worthy of Blumenthal. "De Little Curly Coon," by Ellen Cowdell, to words of Arthur P. Coxford, will find a host of admirers owing to its genial subject and lively melody. Coon songs are still very popular, and "De Little Curly Coon" will not fail to have its full share. "Song of the Woods," by Gustav Von Holst, written by Alfred H. Hyatt, has an echo of Mendelssohn that is agreeable. "Sons of the Ocean," words and music by F. K. Weatherhead, is a patriotic song of the "Rule Britannia" school, and may be safely recommended to all Imperial circles. "A Coon Lullaby" is another of Mr Coxford's lively ditties set to a cheerful air by Ellen Cowdell. "Serenade in Rose Time," written by Alfred H. Hyatt, composed by Dora White is rather old fashioned in sentiment, perhaps, but not wanting in merit. The Bohemian dances of Alberto Randegger have already been performed by some of the most famous violinists and will be certain to become popular.

THEATRICAL PATENTS.

The following abridged description is specially drawn for The Era by Messrs Hughes and Young, patent agents, 55 and 56, Chancery-lane, London, W.C., who will give advice and assistance free to our readers on all patent matters.

BERLIN, THURSDAY, Jan. 12.—In some form or other, either for or against, the practice of duelling is now being constantly discussed upon our stages, and we are becoming wearied of the subject. Herr Hartleben's new play is a distinct falling off from his earlier works; it is a long and drawn-out "student drama" with little to recommend; it is, in a word, like so many of the recent plays, Alt-Heidelberg and water. The plot is of the customary kind: a student of the Jena University is drawn into a duel—or to the verge of it—by an incident in a "beer evening." He sings the praises of a certain young lady, and her brother, who has just arrived from America, overhearing, feels himself called upon to avenge his sister's honour. The traveller has learnt in America the absurdity of the duel as practised in his native country, and yet so deeply is he imbued with the old traditions that the first thing he does on returning is to challenge someone. After a good deal of noise and fuss, it transpires that the young lady was not at all insulted, but that she is engaged to and very genuinely beloved by the undergraduate who sang her praise. Finally, therefore, everything is put right without bloodshed. The piece was acted well; but I fear it will not hold its place in the bill for any length of time.

FOLLOWING Hartleben's piece came another of similar type, but far superior—Der Arzt Sonier Ehre, a "grotesque," in one act, by Paul Mongré—the pseudonym, I hear, of a Leipzig professor. There is real humour in this little work, the pity being that it degenerates into a coarse, even brutal, tone towards the end. Two men are about to fight for a woman—the runaway wife of one, the mistress of the other. They meet in the one warm room—the coffee-room—of a small provincial hotel, and are forced to eat at the same table, their seconds being with them. This is the night before the duel; the betrayed husband is not very keen on fighting, for he does not care a button about his worthless partner, and the betrayer is going to fight because he thinks it part of the romantic step he has taken. As the night wears on the men, aided by the excellent wine they partake of, gradually become less antagonistic, and ultimately swear eternal friendship. As the morning—the duel morning—breaks, a letter arrives from one of the seconds who had not turned up; in it he states that he and Daisy—the cause of the impending duel—have eloped together, and are on their way to the Riviera. The interpretation of the amusing piece was capital, Herren Sauer, Patry, Forest, and Grunwald taking the chief rôles, and gaining much applause. One feature of the "grotesque" is that it is only cast for masculine parts.

THE "Neue Freie Volks Bühne" gave a performance at the Neues with that company last week. The play was a three-act comedy by Lothar Schmidt, entitled Josephine Martens, but there is very little humour about the contents. Josephine is a clever, but not particularly sympathetic, young woman, who does translations for a publisher named Max—a young and honest fellow enough, who is willing to marry Josephine to repair the fault he has committed. The girl was in love with him, or thought she was, and knowing she is to become a mother accepts Max's offer of marriage. Later on, however, she repents her decision, discovering that she and he can never assimilate; she will rather bring up her child alone than give it a father she does not care for. There are long discussions and explanations, but Josephine fails to obtain our sympathy, and when she finally bids adieu to Max we feel he does not need our compassion. There seems no reason at all for writing or producing such a play; it proves nothing, it interests not at all—is, in fact, made up of negatives. One of the characters, that of a resigned old maid—the best of all—was admirably acted by Fräulein Gluemer, but the remainder of the cast was not up to the usual mark. Notwithstanding its many defects the piece was cordially received, and the author called before the curtain several times.

"TANNHAUSER" was put in the bill of the Royal Opera last week for the special purpose of affording an opportunity to two "guests" who were singing on approval. Neither of them—Herr Kalisch, in the title-rôle, and Herr Oberstoetter as the Landgrat—was particularly successful; indeed, the whole performance was scarcely as worthy of our Royal Opera traditions as usual. Herr Edmund Von Strauss—frequently confused with his celebrated colleague, Richard Strauss—conducted.

THE Kleines Theatre, the smart little house in the Unter den Linden, has tried a new departure. We have been accustomed hitherto to witness the most realistic, up-to-date, "piquant" plays upon this stage, and Björnson's time-worn piece, of eminently refined type, came as a surprise. The bright humour was not quite in the line of the Kleines company, however talented these artistes may be, and it was some time before they found themselves in smooth water. Herr Engels and Fräulein Wangel proved themselves exceptions and acted in a masterly manner.

ANOTHER "student play," Auf Mensur, four-act drama, by Ottokar Tann-Bergler, has made its successful début at the Raimund Theatre, Vienna. The theme is the students' duel, and dialogue and development of plot are reported to be equally good.

AUGUST ENNA'S new opera, Sancta Caecilia's Goldschuh, has just been performed at the Royal Opera House at Copenhagen, meeting with an enthusiastic reception. The Danish composer has been quiet for a long time, but doubtless he has been living in retirement at work upon the new opera. The book is by the Danish writer, Rosenberg. It is more than probable that the work will be performed here soon.

"HERKULESPILLEN," MM. Bilhaud and Hennequin's laughable farce, has reached its twenty-fifth consecutive performance, and has lost nothing of its popularity. Herr Alexander is still at the head of the capital cast, and is rewarded with storms of applause each evening.

A ONE-ACT play, entitled Bei Fürst Bismarck, has just been completed by Heinrich Von Poschinger and Fritz Schick. The action passes in the boudoir of the Iron Chancellor's wife, and the play is said to contain several episodes of dramatic interest. Herr Von Poschinger was an intimate friend, and has been called the Homer of Bismarck, having published many books about the late Chancellor, and Herr Schick is head manager at the Schauspiel Haus at Hamburg.

HEARTY New Year's wishes have been exchanged per wire by His Majesty the Emperor and Signor Leoncavallo, the latter having left Berlin for Naples. The Italian composer's opera Zaza, by the way, has been accepted for production by the management of the Komische Oper, now in process of building.

Although American successes are generally sure of a warm welcome when produced before an English audience, the hearty greeting and prolonged applause which welcomed the initial performance of At Cripple Creek on Thursday, the 5th, must have proved as gratifying as it was spontaneous. The plot, which deals with the American goldfields, is a strong one, full of incident; and the scenery, though not elaborate, is striking and picturesque. The attention to detail in the matter of costumes and accessories was most noticeable, and several charming musical numbers were introduced.

The play opens at Martin Mason's dancing hall, where most of the principal characters are discovered indulging in a "free and easy." They are interrupted by the entrance of Maggie Mason and Little Tatto, Joe Mayfield's adopted daughter, who explains that Maggie has just saved her life by shooting a bear, the property of Martin, which made a fierce attack on her. Martin is furious at the loss of the bear, and is about to thrash Maggie, assisted by Manuel, but is stopped by the intervention of Ann Marbury, who, it is explained, is a victim of Martin's villainy. Mayfield is the owner of the "Last Dollar" mine, but cannot find gold. Mason, however, learns that gold is there in an opposite direction to that in which Mayfield is attempting to discover it. Belle Gordon, from New York, who has come in answer to a bogus advertisement for a governess inserted by Mason, finds upon her arrival that she has really been brought to the camp by false pretences. She is defended from insult by the gallantry of Reggie Harwood, nicknamed the "Boston Boy," who was a passenger with her in the coach. Martin, however, is not to be balked, and his accomplice Manuel Alvarez, a Mexican, assisted by the miners, disarm Harwood and bind him. Belle screams for help, and is heard by Joe Mayfield, who, dashing in accompanied by his Indian attendant, Wakketah, comes to the rescue. On Belle explaining that she is homeless and penniless now, and owes Mason five hundred dollars for passage money which he had advanced, Mayfield pays Mason and offers Bella a post as housekeeper and guardian to little Tatto. Tatto is really Mason's illegitimate grandchild, and he now claims her as his property, but Mayfield will not give her up. After a heated discussion, Belle and Harwood are allowed to depart unmolested, and as an attack has been made on Ann's life by Manuel, Mayfield offers her a safe home. Mason, driven to desperation, announces he will sell the child and his daughter, Maggie, to the highest bidder. In this way the child becomes the property of Manuel. Joe, however, whips out his revolver, and assisted by Ann and the Indian, and followed by Maggie and Tatto, clears a path through the excited throng and gets them safely away.

In act two a charming love scene between Joe and Belle is introduced. Belle tells him the story of her life. Her parents and baby sister, Alice, were lost in a prairie fire, and she is quite alone in the world. Maggie and the "Boston boy" are also responsible for some pretty love-making, for Ann Marley has lent Mayfield sufficient money to carry on the mine, and Harwood is assisting him in his search for gold. Nothing has been heard of Mason or Manuel for some time, but Joe has been warned by the Indian that they are only awaiting the opportunity and that he had better prepare for attack. Joe, Belle, and Ann, coming out of the cabin door, are confronted by Mason, who points to a rock near by, several thousand feet above the valley. Mayfield, looking up, is aghast to see Manuel with Tatto in his arms on the edge of the precipice. Martin explains that if Joe will sign a deed resigning the possession of the "Last Dollar" mine he shall receive Tatto unhurt, but should he refuse the child shall be thrown and will be dashed to pieces in the valley. Joe would consent, but Ann, suspecting that Mason knows there is gold in the mine, implores him not to sign, and he refuses. Manuel, mistaking the instructions of his leader, lets the child fall; but the Indian, clinging hold of a grape vine, swings out, and catches her in mid-air.

Act three takes place in the interior of the "Last Dollar" Mine. Mason discloses a plot to blow away part of the outer wall, which is immediately underneath a swift mountain stream, and by that means flood the mine. He also explains that Maggie is not his daughter, but was found among the wreckage of a train of waggons, part of which only had escaped from a prairie fire. A gold locket—with "Alice" engraved on it, and containing a portrait—was found round her neck, and he had kept the child in hope of reward. The conversation is overheard by the Negro, who is anxious to escape from Mason's clutches. They all retire to begin preparations, and Ann Marbury, Maggie, and Tatto enter. The men returning find the girls, and, thinking the opportunity too good to be lost, take them prisoners. The Indian, also a prisoner, manages to sever his bonds. He also unbinds Ann, unperceived, and she arms herself with a revolver stolen from Mason as he stoops to light the fuse which he has prepared to explode the mine. The villains now prepare to escape, but are confronted by Mayfield and Harwood, both armed. Wahketah, jumping up, releases the other three, and Ann prevents the escape of Manuel.

In act four we learn that Joe is a millionaire, and is about to marry Belle. The clergyman arrives, and the wedding party retire for the ceremony. Mason and Manuel are seen through the window, and heard discussing a plot to shoot Joe. The bridal group enter, and also Ben, the Negro, who has escaped from Mason. He confesses to Joe, and shows him the locket, which he has stolen from Martin. Belle recognises this as the locket belonging to her little lost sister. Ben explains the finding of the child, and as the portrait is that of Belle's mother, there is no doubt that Maggie is Belle's sister, who was saved from the fire. Ann, glancing through the window and seeing Martin about to fire, throws herself in front of Joe, is struck by the bullet, and dies. The Indian goes in pursuit of the murderers, and returns with the news that they have been captured and lynched.

Mr Mark Blow, who plays Joe Mayfield, is the beau-ideal of a gallant hero. Mr Walter Thornton gives a fine study of Martin Mason, and Manuel Alvarez, nicknamed "the Greaser," and played by Mr Charles D. Pitt, is equally successful. An excellent make-up and fine elocutionary powers make Mr Reginald Harley-West's impersonation of the Indian a fine one. The "Boston Boy" is manly and energetic as rendered by Mr Will Hook, and Mr Albert Rogers is extremely amusing as Ben White. Miss Emilie Polini's melodious voice and handsome presence fit her well for the part of Ann, and Miss Hope Mayne is charmingly natural and unaffected as Belle Gordon. Maggie Mason, a vivacious part, is portrayed with exceptional ability by Miss Daisy Carlton, and Miss May Douglas as Little Tatto submits a most intelligent study.

AT the Theatre Royal, Norwich, on Saturday last were produced for copyright purposes two scenas—Suspected and The Blacksmith's Dream.

ABERDARE.

NEW THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Z. Andrews.—Miss Olga Audre's company is here this week with The Mockery of Marriage. Mr Arthur Winpenny is good as the villainous Dick Kenyon, Mr Harry Stebbing is a manly Jack Stanley, and Mr Frank Dalton is well placed as Seth Pearce. The comedy relief, supplied by Mr Will Skelton and Mrs Sydney Halling, is very amusing. Miss Lydia Audrey is charming as Rose Vernham. Miss Olga Audre is an emotional actress of great ability, and in the part of Alva Kenyon she fairly brings down the house. The Four Aces, acrobats of a first class order, appear in the fourth act.

ABERTILLERY.

THEATRE METROPOLE.—Lessees, Messrs Arthur Carlton and Sam Duckworth; General and Resident Manager, Mr Geo. W. Ventom; Stage-Manager, Mr Fred Thomas.—On Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of this week we were favoured with a special return visit of Mr Bulmer's No. 1 company in Sentenced for Life. Mr T. C. Glenville was good as Sir Wallace Stillwell; Mr Ernest Vaughan as the villainous Captain Paul Derrick was powerful; as Lieut. Roy Stillwell Mr Harry Lloyd was highly successful; Mr Richard A. Greene was well suited to the rôle of the Rev. Martin Orris; Mr Ralph De Bulmer played with ability as Henry Beckwith; and as Bill Sharkey and Toby Mr A. Marchant and Mr Edward Finlay were very amusing. Mr Frank Zara as the Rev. Percy M'Gentle kept the house in roars of laughter, his songs being much appreciated. As Warder Blake Mr Fred Dalby was successful, as also was Mr Hugh Faulkner as Sir George Gray. As Lady Stillwell Miss Mary Dalby played with dignity; Miss Florence Trevoir as Kate Rennel is an actress of sterling worth; and Miss Madge Douglas as Adris Gray was very charming and pathetic.

ACCRINGTON.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr J. E. Barnes.—The Milton Rays have presented a bright and sparkling pantomime here which has already been noticed in these columns.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Mill; Assistant-Manager, Mr T. W. Moyes.—The bill here this week includes Mr James Bowman, comedian; the Brothers Levett, vaulters; Miss Violet Beatrice, comedienne; the Romers, operatic vocalists; Mdlle. Florence, in her globe speciality; G. W. Foster, eccentric; smart sketch by Mat Wilkinson entitled The Registry Office; and the Seltina Troupe.

ALDERSHOT.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Clarence Saunes; Resident-Manager, Mr George E. Williams.—A charming interpretation of The Marriage of Kitty, one of the most diverting little plays seen here, is being given by Mr Frank Wilson's company. Since the first visit several alterations have been made in the company. Mr Frank Wilson is on this occasion John Travers, and is seen to much advantage in that rôle. Of the part of Sir Reginald Belsize Mr Leslie Tyler is a most capable exponent. A fascinating manner and clever acting again cause Miss Vera Fordyce to be a huge success as Kitty; Miss Kate Harwood as the jealous, irascible fiancée, Madame De Semiano, is clever; and a typical "haristocratic" Horbury comes from Mr J. F. Leighton, who also deserves praise for his stage management. Miss Elsie Savile does well as the French maid Rosalie; and Mr W. Craig is effective as Hampton. A neat lever de rideau is Jerry and a Sunbeam.

ALTRINCHAM.

NEW PAVILION OF VARIETIES — Proprietors, Messrs Budd, Howe, and Taylor; Acting-Manager, Mr Arthur Gilman.—The engagement of Calvo, a wonderful double-voiced singer, proved so successful that his visit has been made to extend over another week. With remarkable clearness he sings in baritone and soprano. The Pinellas give a lively and enjoyable sketch entitled A Country Flirtation, and their single turns meet with deserved appreciation. Miss Clair Ingham as a singer of spirited songs is a favourite, and the fun led by Mr F. Budd and Mr E. Howe is of a rollicking character. Benefits seem to be the order of the day, and on Friday another was given, this time to Mr F. Budd.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr Armstrong Fairbairn.—Mr Alfred Paumier and Mr Walter Howard's company is here in the play entitled Why Men Love Women. The part of the hero is sustained by Mr Alfred Paumier in a vigorous manner; the heroine is sympathetically portrayed by Miss Annie Saker; the villain is capably embodied by Mr Bensley Evans; and other characters more or less important are ably sustained by Messrs W. S. Hardy, Edwin Lever, Harwood Roberts, and Misses Olive Lanty, Marie Glynne, and others.

ASHTON HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Chas. Revill; Director of Entertainments, Mr F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr L. Campkin.—The "bright particular star" of this week's bill at the Hippodrome is Miss Maggie Duggan. She sings and dances with as much sprightliness and verve as ever, and is recalled nightly. The other artistes here include Henri, the wonderful boy juggler; Hughes and Elliott, rag-time dancers and coon vocalists; Dot Stanley, serio; Hannah and James, foot equilibrists; Bud Primrose, Octoroon sand-dancer; and Saxo, the musical marvel. The Bioscope presents this week "A Trip to the Sun."

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr W. Leech.—This week's programme includes Carne Curre and his clever dog; Curtis Leo and his Black Piccaninnies are very good; the Brothers Andreassens, the Danish midshipmen, are clever acrobats; Percy Honri's act of "Music, Song, and Story" is remarkably entertaining, and his manipulation of the concertina is masterly; Mill May is a pleasing vocalist and dancer; the Three Laurens give an interesting display of living pictures; and the Four Maisanos, in their novel and eccentric musical show, are attractive. The Louisianian Coloured Serenaders are clever; the Eight Lancashire Lads are popular duettists and dancers; and the Sisters Bartholomew are well received.

ATTERCLIFFE.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr T. Allan Edwards; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Lacy Lyne; Assistant-Manager, Mr W. Massey Baker.—That clever comedy juggler, Weiland, tops the bill here this week. He is ably assisted by a charming lady, who contributes a good deal of fun; Flemine, the one-legged acrobat, gives a clever performance; the F. Warden-Reed company introduces a laughable sketch entitled, Married or Photographed; Harry Zetter is a most acceptable comedian and expert grotesque dancer; Clarke's Nippers contribute a popular turn, and meet with applause for their exhibition of club manipulation, ball punching, and speciality dancing; Deller and Oxford find much favour as duologue artistes; Miss Katie Le Blanche is a comedienne and dancer of ability; and Mr Will Harvey is good as a comedian.

AYR.

NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry W. Day.—The Ben Greet company, under the direction of Mr J. B. Howard, in The Belle of New York, appeared here the first three nights of the week. Ichabod Bronson and his son were well played by Mr Harry A. Meymott and Mr Harry Wardroper. Carl Von Pumpernick was excellently played, and so was the Kenneth Mugg of Mr Walter Uridge. Mr Mack Ollive as Blinkey Bill and Miss Florence Hersee as Mamie Olancy also scored. Miss Ada Elliston was a pretty and sweet Violet Gray. The last three nights of this week Mr Chas. R. Stone's musical comedy company occupied the theatre with What Became of Mrs Racket.

BACUP.

BARNSLEY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr A. C. Mitchell.—Messrs Dottridge, Longden, and Liversey's company in The Village Blacksmith is performing here this week. John Strong, the blacksmith, is a fine character in the able hands of Mr Sam Livesey; Mr Joseph Carter is a sinister Captain Leo; Mr Fred Wells is well placed as Lucas Marler; Mr George Welton is a feature as St. John Harman; Jeremiah Parkins has a capital actor in Mr Thos. E. Marshall; Miss Laura Walker plays with taste as Kate Strong; Ruth Parkins is cleverly portrayed by Miss Maggie Edwards; and the comic element is well presented by Mr George V. Campbell as Billy Twig, Miss Edith Giddens as Martha Mopps, and Mrs T. C. Livesey as Sal Parkins.

PUBLIC HALL.—Manager, Mr G. E. Holz.—Mr Louis Calvert's company is here in Sunday. Miss Jean Sterling Mackinlay in the title-rôle is exceedingly fine; Colonel Brinthorpe is played with ability by Mr J. Edward Pearce; Towzer, Davy, Lively, and Jacky have admirable representatives in Messrs Powell, Manley, Walter, and Kane; Mr Ernest A. Douglas is very acceptable as Tom Oxley; Arthur Brinthorpe is good in the hands of Mr Charles B. Vaughan; Mrs Naresby is charmingly acted by Miss Elizabeth Watson; and Miss Helen MacGregor is especially fine as the nun.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.

ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr George Stone.—That most entertaining musical comedy A Chinese Honeymoon is being presented here. Mr Philip Haydn does remarkably well as Hang Chow; Mr P. Allerton Turner is an acceptable Chippi Chop; Mr Fred Payne is exceedingly comical as Hi-Lung; Mr Foster Courtenay creates great amusement as Mr Pineapple; and Mrs Pineapple is vivaciously played by Miss Jose Collins. Miss Alice Drummond is good as Mrs Brown; Miss Nellie Wigley is an entertaining Soo-Soo; and Miss Vera Vere as Fi-Fi shows herself a comedienne of much ability and resource.

TIVOLI.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Stage-Manager, Mr Tom Whiting.—The top of the bill here this week, Servais Le Roy, is an illusionist of the first water, his feats being quite mystifying and remarkably clever. W. H. Clemart, with his novel ventriloquial entertainment, is very much appreciated, and his mechanical figures are wonderful creations. Dinah Morris's blind collier lad is an especially good turn; Mr Ronald Bayne and Miss Evelyn Hope are seen to great advantage in a very successful dramatic scena, which is effectively staged; and Miss Amy Russell sings exceedingly well some happily selected numbers from the operas. Winnie Scott is very pleasing in her song and dance, and Marie Winsome is very taking as a male impersonator.

BATH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr Lewis A. Long.—This is the third and last week of Mr Peter A. Davey's capital production of Goody Two Shoes, which will now start on tour with every recommendation to herald it. The principals have won the goodwill of local playgoers. Two ladies, who by their pleasing and refined manners, melodious voices, and graceful acting have become great favourites, are Miss Nell Richardson (Crispen) and Miss Jessica Deane (Goody), while in a more energetic style equally successful have been Miss May Hart (Chevalier) and Miss Eva Bevington (Margot). The chief comedy burden has been well sustained by Mr Harry Buss, whose latest pantomime rôle of Dame Durden adds one more to the list of this clever comedian's impersonations. He has received able support from Mr F. G. Thurston (Godiva) and Mr Will Gane (Peeping Tom), each of whom has striven his utmost to keep the fun alive. Mr Arthur Learto and his clever little dog Babs have likewise given immense pleasure to young and old alike. New dances by Miss Hettie Lane and Miss Dollie Shaw deserve to be recorded, as they are executed with excellent effect, and received with loud applause. The music of Mr Correlli Windeatt has proved a big item in the general attractiveness, and a final word of congratulation is due to Mr Harry Turner for the smoothness of the stage-management throughout the run.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr W. Trussell.—Topping the bill this week are the Four Burnells, whose musical and comedy act is one long laugh from start to finish, and their success is never for a moment in doubt. Harry Edson and his wonderfully trained dog Doc cause great amusement, and the recall they receive is richly deserved. As acrobats and tumblers the Three Novells are quite in the forefront in their particular line. Leslie Murray takes a lot of beating as a card manipulator. The Darrell Trio are cordially received in their vocal and instrumental musical act, the banjo playing of the "Poet and Peasant" overture of Miss May Darrell being quite a treat. Cliff and Kean, comedy artistes, shine best as dancers. Clara Victor and L. Hendersen, both descriptive and character vocalists, are popular.

BOURNEMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietors, David Allen and Son; Sole Lessee, Mr Mouillot; Manager, Mr Rowland Stewart.—Mr Mouillot's company opened here on Monday in My Lady Molly, and was well received by a crowded audience. The best presentations of the evening were Lady Molly Martingale and Alice Coverdale, very capably played by Miss Beatrice Edwards and Miss Zoe Gilfillan respectively, both excellent vocalists. As Lady Molly's maid Miss Mabel Carr exhibited all the vivacity that the part demanded. Mdlle. Ebba Darcier as Alice's governess was capital; Mr A. T. Hoare has a nice voice as Captain H. Romney; as Lionel Bland Mr Ernest Mozar sang well and acted with ease; and of Mickey O'Dowd Mr George M'Closkie has made a fine study. Mr H. Godwin Hunt as Sir Miles Coverdale, Mr Frederick Silverston as Reuben Oates, and Mr J. Walton as Judge Romney rendered valuable assistance.

BATLEY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Mr and Mrs J. Edward Whitty; Resident Manager, Mr G. M. Hurst.—Messrs Ed. Marris and W. H. Kirby's pantomime company opened here on Monday with Dick Whittington and his Cat. Miss Winifred Preece, who has a sweet voice, creates a good impression in the title part, and Miss Mamie Iris makes a charming Alice. The rôle of Alderman Fitzwarren is successfully sustained by Mr Dickie Clare, and Mr H. A. Griffiths causes much merriment as Betsy. Mr W. H. Kirby undertakes the character of Idle Jack. Messrs Ryde and Beeman prove themselves comedians of ability, and are admirably placed as M'Flip and O'Flop. Other numerous characters are well filled, and specialities and supplied by Ryde and Beeman, in an American comedy act; the Three Rays, acrobatic dancers; Mamie Iris, sand dancer; Lilian Sivade, trapezist; H. A. Griffiths, with his walking speciality; and the Two Balzers, Japanese top spinners and balancers. The chorus and orchestra are in the hands of Mr Hubert Boggetti.

BELFAST.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr James M'Cann; Assistant Acting-Manager, Mr Wilfred Stanford.—This is the third week of the pantomime Puss in Boots, and the patronage of the public is quite phenomenal, last year's record having been broken. Miss Minnie Jeffs continues to be an especial favourite, and her songs are rapturously encored nightly. She now sings a catchy chorus song entitled, "Have you seen my girl?" Cinquevalli's remarkable juggling is the talk of the city; Mr Marriott Edgar's assumption of Muggles is in every sense excellent. He is frequently recalled for his droll rendering of "On the sands." Mr Martin Adeson's humorous impersonation of King Grabbus is a decided feature; and the dancing of Little Stella creates quite a furore nightly. The sweet vocalism of the Cecilian Glee Singers delights all; and Mr Fred Lyne's impersonation of the Dame is remarkably clever. Tiller's Superba Troupe of dancers furnish a fine exhibition of the Terpsichorean art, the Procession of Silver Warriors also deserves mention.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr John P. Beardmore.—The leading position at this popular theatre is held by the Barra Troupe, whose refined and decidedly clever musical act has been received with much enthusiasm. Bob Hanlon's marvellous troupe has created quite a sensation with their daring feats; and the juggling performance of Angeline, aptly described as "the female Cinquevalli," is one of the best ever presented here. The Three De Veres delight all with their novel and amusing act; and Mr Tony Iveson, described as "the versatile ragman" furnishes a musical performance which would be quite an acquisition to any bill. Mr Dan Maxford, a smart comedian, is funny, his patter being amusing, and the new series of pictures exhibited have created much interest. Miss Lena Brunton, comedienne, being indisposed, did not appear on Monday, but by the kindness of Mr H. T. Downs, of the New Alhambra, Mr Barney Armstrong, the well known comedian, deputised with great success.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Brock.—Mr G. W. Hunter, the popular comedian and raconteur, tops the bill. The Five Ulracs, comedy acrobats, provide a smart performance. Driscoll and Beattie appear in their droll sketch, M'Fee, M.P., which is well acted. Miss Amber Austa is a graceful and accomplished coon comedienne; and Lyane and Geks, novelty contortionists, provide an amazing performance. A novelty is submitted by Mr Barton Howard, described as "the clever mimic of sounds," his imitations being realistic. Also appearing are Mr Frank Harwood, descriptive vocalist, who made a big hit on Monday; and Mr Will Haines, comedian.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr Henry T. Downs.—Mr Michael Nolan, the clever Irish comedian, tops the bill here. Mr Barney Armstrong, the well-known comedian, upholds his reputation with his droll songs; Hector and Paulus are smart comedy acrobats and equilibrists; and Miss Agnes Hazel is a talented comedienne with catchy songs. Collin and Croft, the song illustrators, provide a performance of the most entertaining nature; and the male impersonations of Miss Olive Vane are excellent. Weisker Brothers' Bioscope on the stage delights all with up-to-date pictures; Florizel, described as the Flexible Aerial Beauty, is remarkably clever; and also appearing with much success is Mr George Edney, character comedian.

IMPERIAL HIPPODROME AND CIRCUS.—Proprietors, Messrs Carter and Bosco; General Manager, Mr Irving Bosco; Assistant-Manager, Mr Geo. Dobler.—Congratulations to Messrs Carter, Bosco, and Dobler on the huge success of the spectacle Siberia. The various scenes are presented with striking realism, and the company is an excellent one. The Franklin Troupe of Russian dancers and singers furnish a capital performance, and much praise is due to the Irish duo, Messrs Taylor and White, for their funny songs and expert dancing. Royal Best is a remarkably clever facial delineator. Also appearing are Professor Cliff, high diver, whose feats are so sensationally clever; Princess Annie, the graceful equestrienne; J. E. Stelling and his canine pet, Kis; Funny Burgess; Mdlle. Dennie's comical ride; and Mdlle. Melba, in her representation of the Three Nations.

BILSTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Harry Battersby; Manageress, Miss Grace Battersby.—We are always glad to welcome Mr T. Edward Ward's company to Bilston. Her Fatal Past is the principal drama presented this week, with Miss Ward as effective as ever in the important part of Honor Symes. Excellent work is contributed by Miss Helen Ingelow as Ruth Fernside and Bella De Lara. The efforts of Miss Amy Maitland as Kitty, Miss Marguerite Thorne as Martha, and Miss Kate Newman as Sal Jenkins are praiseworthy. We have a good portrayal of Mark Desmond from Mr Percy Brown, and Messrs B. Dunstan, C. H. Lester, Ward, and Mason lend valuable aid. On Friday Her Wedding Day was underlined for performance.

BLACKBURN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr Harry Yorke; Business-Manager, Mr Reginald Yorke.—Mr A. B. Cross and company are appearing here this week in The Manxman. Mr Cross gives an admirable representation of Pete. As Kate Creegan Miss Minnie Watersford acts with considerable power. Mr William Burchill does justice to the part of Philip Christian. Mr Harry Heller makes as excellent Cæsar Cregan; and Mr Ed. M'Lean is good as Ross Christian. Mr Reginald Yorke's benefit was announced for Friday evening.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr E. H. Page. A Marriage of Vengeance is here this week. Miss Harrision Tate appears as Stella, and receives excellent support from Mr Alfred G. Fry as Paul Earnscliffe, Mr George De Grey as Max Rheinhardt, and Miss Etta Turner as Amelia.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr F. Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr Will Murray; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry Drury.—The pantomime has finished its run, and variety has taken its place. Among the turns are Wyotti, comedy juggler; Wynford Brothers, barrel jumpers; Miss Frances Haskoll, in her illuminated songs; the Glenroy Troupe of dancers; Nellie Elder, comedienne; the Sivronis, burlesque artistes; the Three Sisters Lee, acrobats and vocalists; the Pickards Troupe of pantomimists; and Harry Cotton, eccentric comedian.

BIRKENHEAD.

THEATRE METROPOLE.—Lessee, Mr W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Pell. — Mr J. Rice Cassidy's company, in the musical play Dan the Rake, presents an acceptable entertainment. Mr Cassidy gives an able rendering of the title-rôle, and is well supported by Miss Lilian Clare, who is an admirable Madge. Mr Frederick Biron as Captain Tom Cooper is a host in himself, and is ably supported by Miss Florence Halton, Miss Ada Roscoe, Mr Frank Orchard, and Mr J. Cuthberton.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Pell.—Messrs Alfred Northway and W. V. Garrod's combination in The Sledge Hammer is doing good business. The piece is very capably represented. Mr Northway is a prominent success as Everard Derrick; Mr Charles Herberte is a commendable Matthew Derrick; and Miss Bertha Kingston, a talented emotional actress, excels in the rôle of Rose Haywell. The production is excellently staged, and both company and piece have created a good impression here.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Manager, Mr D. J. Clarke.—The New York Nippers, clever singers, dancers, and comedians, occupy a conspicuous position on the programme, and are cordially received. Cruikshank, a versatile variety artiste, is also a leading attraction, and Madame Collard, with her troupe of trained boarhounds, is an interesting turn. Mr J. A. Wilson, the black oracle, has made a hit, and a good combination also includes Miss Rose Cabani, comedienne; Austin and Cowen, vocal entertainers; Miss Nellie Martell, comedienne; Larola, equilibrist; and Vernando, ventriloquist. A Bioscope display of animated pictures adds to the variety of the show.

BIRMINGHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing Director, Mr Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr Philip Rodway.—The Babes in the Wood has now entered on the fourth week of its run, and is fairly established in favour.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Rodgers, Limited; Manager, Mr J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr Henry Johnston.—The Forty Thieves gains in popularity at every performance, and the company, individually and collectively, is eminently successful. Miss Alice Oppitz is both vocally and histrionically powerful as Abdallah; Miss Marie Campbell makes a winsome, if petite, Ganem, and her dainty singing enhances this impression; Miss Minnie Hunt, as Morgiana, is the personification of feminine grace and vocal charm, and Miss Nellie Stratton gives life to the pretty rôle of Zoe. Messrs Wilkie Bard, Brown and Le Clerq, John Brabourne, Phil Smith, Ainslie Burton, and Harry Zietz continue in their parts, winning much favour. On Tuesday and Wednesday this week, matinées of Alice in Wonderland were held with much success, the attendances being large, and the performances excellent. Mr E. St. Alban, whose company it was, appeared as the Mad Hatter, Miss Ida Thompson distinguishing herself as Alice; while Miss Marie Clavering reigned as the White Queen, with Messrs J. W. Hooper and S. Clifford as Tweedledum and Tweedledee,

GRAND THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr J. W. Turner; Manager, Mr Victor Turner.—The J. W. Turner opera company is now in the midst of a very prosperous season, in which many successes, including at least one notable novelty, have already appeared. This latter was Hansel and Gretel, in reviving which Mr Turner secured the services of Mr T. H. Friend, under whose direction the opera was produced by the Carl Rosa company ten years ago. The present production was wholly successful, Miss Alice Boaden looking the part of Gretel and singing the music pertaining thereto delightfully. Miss Jessie Dennis was admirable as Hansel, Madame Constance Bellamy accounting satisfactorily for the rôle of the broom-maker's wife. Miss Marian Sansome sang charmingly as the Dawn Fairy; Mr Jno. Ridding scored a success as Peter; and Miss Mabel Dennis as the Witch and Miss Ethel Locker as the Sleep Fairy did well. The orchestra also played their parts admirably. Il Trovatore, The Puritan's Daughter, The Rose of Castile, The Bohemian Girl, and Maritana have been included in the fare.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Lester Collingwood.—Dick Whittington holds the public in excellent and irresistible thrall, a full house nightly participating in this festival of fun and splendour. The Wednesday matinée is also largely patronised, and this is a successful feature which endures all the year round without a break. Mr Will Letters proves a valuable recruit, his rich powers of comedy and capital singing abilities as Fitzwarren eliciting frequent rounds of applause. Messrs Barrett and Knowles are his most worthy coadjutors as Silly Peter and Lazy Larky, and diversion runs high with this clever trio in evidence. Mr Albert Darnley acts with robust humour as the disreputable apprentice, and Mr C. L. Ludlow adds to the fun as Amelia Florence, the cook. Mr Alfred Clegg as the feline star is popular, and Mr S. Lockridge shines as the Emperor; while the ladies have increased the attractiveness of their parts most appreciably.

METROPOLE THEATRE. — Manager, Mr Walter Melville; Resident-Manager, Mr J. Hindle Taylor.—The Ladder of Life is presented here by Miss Renee Glendower and her company, the story and the acting thereof proving of a most stimulating character. Mr Roy Milton figures as the hero, David Gordon, with much success. Mr C. H. Matthews acts the villain's rôle, Fergus Gordon, with consummate skill; Mr J. Cook Hinton proves his capability as the Russian spy; Mr Roy F. Gascoigne is appreciated as Colonel M'Gregor; Mr F. Morton Wright creates pleasant diversions as M'Dougal; and Messrs Archie, Percy, and Geo. F. Feros are popular as the three cockney Highlanders, in addition to which they elicit cheers as "the human ladder." Miss Renee Glendower as Mother Flint, Miss Flora Leslie as Meg, Miss Stephanie Baring as Olga, and Miss Hilda Young as Mary Jane also gain excellent opinions.

CARLTON THEATRE, SALTLEY.—Owner and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr Ben Sydney.—A Fight for Millions, in which Mr Robert Perris and company appear, has engaged the rapt attention of crowded houses. Mr Robert Perris, who impersonates a "diamond in the rough," one Willie Neverwork, whose name indicates his profession, that of a tramp, is most popular. Mr Perris is well supported by Mr Karl H. Edwards as Solomon Moses, the "good-natured man;" Mr Nicholas Conway as the comic butler, Hobbs; and Miss Lottie Pearce, who shines in a couple of highly humorous rôles. Mr V. Carlyle as the hero inventor, Tom Manley, acts in a manly and invigorating manner. Miss Eva Purcell wins her way to popularity as Pearl Rivers, and Miss Elm A. Turner gains sympathy for the deserted wife, Helen Dudley. Mr Horace Booth as Richard Dudley is cordially hated for his vices, which he simulates most effectively.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Lessee, Mr Charles Barnard; Manager, Mr Dan Barnard.—Sinbad the Sailor as played here by Mr Fred Mouillot's company includes all the best features that distinguish a modern touring pantomime. The cast also comprises a fine array, and Miss Florence Dillon, in the title-rôle, is a favourite with all. Miss Ada Brennan as the Princess has also enjoyed much favour, and Miss Humphries shines as Zorilda. Mr J. R. Val as Tinbad contributes to the comic side of the pantomime with much success, and laughter attends the efforts of Messrs Denby and Dent as Captain Bunker and Mate Shirker. Mr Stephen Fitzgerald is another incentive to mirth as Mrs Sinbad, and Mr Alec Murray as the Oriental potentate and Mr A. M. Moore as the Old Man of the Sea fare well. The harlequinade is retained, and proves entirely successful.

BLACKPOOL.

HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE.—General Manager, Mr J. R. Huddlestone.—Mr W. H. Kirby's company is here this week with The New Mephisto. The name-rôle is in the hands of Mr Albert Weston, who proves himself to be a clever comedian. Mr Willie H. Vernon impersonates Dick Pilgrim with considerable success. Captain Meredith finds a capable exponent in Mr Clarence Lindon. Lord Humming top is capitally portrayed by Mr Herbert St. John and Mr Arthur Randall is good as Major Bantam. Misses Nellie Burdette (Dolly) and Miss Marion Armitage (Becky Pilgrim) win favour both by their acting and singing. The Thalian Glee Singers contribute several very tuneful numbers.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr T. Sergenson.—An excellent company, under the proprietorship of Mr John F. Asche, presents The World here this week with gratifying results. Miss Beatrice Fay gives a charming picture of Mary Blythe; Miss Octavia Noel merits commendation for their portrayal of Mabel Huntingford, and Miss Maude Scott very capably handles the part of the boy Ned. An earnest and manly embodiment of Sir Clement Huntingford is supplied by Mr Stuart Lomath, whilst Mr Francis Hawley acts with the necessary callous air the rôle of Harry Huntingford. The unscrupulous Moss Jewel is played in a humorous manner by Mr Johnny M'Elroy, and Martin Basford is sustained with fine effect by Mr Jackson Hayes.

PALACE.—General Manager, Mr G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr Fred Waller.—Another strong programme is provided here this week. Cliff Ryland, a comedian, vocalist, and story-teller, is a great favourite. The Dayton Family are clever Risley acrobats. Jimmy De Voye appears with his performing pony. The Bensons give a good comedy act; the Mayvilles are smart in their Lilliputian novelty turn; Mabel Kessler wins favour by her singing; the Seddons take well in their sketch; Jennie Love is a pleasing vocalist; and the Two Wiltons, clever singers and dancers, receive extra attention by reason of the fact that they are local artists.

BOLTON.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Hermann.—On Monday Mr Elliston presented his twenty-fifth annual pantomime Dick Whittington, and he is to be congratulated upon having spared neither expense nor trouble in order to ensure a magnificent production. The "book" is from the able pen of J. Hickory Wood, and with the aid of a clever company of artistes the piece should enjoy a successful run. The story is told in eleven scenes, amongst which there are several striking and attractive sets. Miss Ethel Newman submits an agreeable embodiment of the title-rôle. She sings sweetly and looks the part. Mr Tom Foy, a smart and clever comedian, makes the most of Idle Jack, his eccentricities being responsible for many hearty bursts of laughter. Miss Clara Reid gives a dainty and charming impersonation of Alice Fitzwarren; Miss Nora Beverley infuses a good deal of spirit into the part of Tommy Jinks; Miss Amy Russell is attractive as the good Fairy Zephyr; Miss Nellie Shannon ably fills the part of Queen Susan Tusan; Mr Ted Foy offers a good study as the Cat; Gertrude the Cook receives a droll interpretation at the hands of Mr Bert Byrne; Captain Scuttle and the mate of the Saucy Sarah are quaintly dealt with by Messrs Jack Foy and Will Musgrave; and Alderman Fitzwarren is well enacted by Mr Charles Goff. In scenes 3 and 8 the Matweef Hugoston Imperial Troupe of acrobats and dancers appear and give an exceedingly clever performance.

GRAND THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry Kenyon.—Appearing here are the Three Barowskys, sensational comedy acrobats, who perform some really clever feats; the Itrams, in their perch pot-pourri act; Ada Fawn, burlesque actress; the Zaros, lady and gentleman acrobats and tumblers; Freda Spry and B. S. Monti, speciality artistes; Jack Kavanagh, vocal comedian; George Scott, comedian and reciter; the Imperial Bioscope; and, for one week longer, the Mackweys, in their wire act.

OHMY'S CIRCUS AND HIPPODROME.—A capital variety company is here. Spring and Spring head the bill, and give a smart exhibition of barrel-jumping. Other turns are Mons. Kavados, the cannon ball king; the Stoll Brothers, who give a humorous and clever bar performance; Mons. Rentresg, in a juggling act; Mons. Zasma, gymnast; whilst clever riding is done by Miss Daniels, Claude Ohmy, and Mr Swallow, the last-named introducing his well-trained horse.

BOOTLE.

ROYAL MUNCASTER.—Cinderella is being presented here this week by the Pardoes. The pantomime is well mounted, the dresses being decidedly above the average, and the scenery extremely pretty. Miss Lottie Holland is a stately and dashing Prince, and sings some capital songs in a charming manner. Miss Cissie Kedward is a sweet and winsome Cinderella, and Dandini has a sprightly and vivacious representative in Miss Katie Moore. Among the comedians Mr George Hyams as Scoots, the bailiff, is to the fore, his songs being well received, and he is capitally supported by Mr Tom Hulme as Baron No Cash, and the Misses Ivey Leafe and Violet Rivers as Eve and Maud, the Ugly Sisters, who all do their utmost to keep the ball of fun rolling. The Pardoes give a marvellous acrobatic act in The Palace scene.

BOSCOMBE.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr F. Mouillot; Manager, Mr Rowland Stewart. — Mr Thomas Thorne and company, under the direction of Mr M. Russell Rosse, are appearing here this week in Our Boys. Mr Thorne was suffering from laryngitis on Monday, but pluckily went through with the performance. Except that his voice was not, perhaps, so powerful as usual, his assumption of the rôle of the retired butterman was as successful as ever. Mr M. Russell Rosse is capital as Sir Geoffrey Champneys, and Mr Keith Fraser's impersonation of Talbot Champneys is well received, while Mr Vernon Sansbury is good as Charles Middlewick. Miss Leah Marlborough makes a favourable impression as Violet Melrose, and the rôle of her gay and fascinating cousin, Mary, suits Miss Muriel Godfrey-Turner admirably. Miss Bessie Harrison plays Clarissa Champneys with effect, and Miss Edith Hesketh's Belinda is a capital study of the lodging-house slavey. The main attraction is preceded each evening by a comedietta, The Happy Pair, in which Miss Marlborough and Mr Fraser appear.

BROUGHTON.

VICTORIA LTD.—Managing-Director and Licensee, Mr James W. Haworth; Manager and Secretary, Mr James M. Hardie, jun.—The domestic sporting drama Bound to Win packed the house on Monday evening. Mr and Mrs F. G. Kimberley's company is an excellent one, and the various exciting incidents rouse the audience to a high degree. Mr F. G. Kimberley admirably fits the heroic part of Harry Lyndon, Gladys Orme is successfully portrayed by Miss Kathleen Eckhart, and Mr Sydney Rennef makes a favourable impression as Squire Forbes. Miss Nina Blake Adams is excellent as Marion Forbes; Ned Oakley, a faithful old servant, and Joe Blake, a stable hand, are good studies in the hands of Mr James Hont and Mr Fred Tenaur. Miss Edie Macklin as Winnie Oakley, Mr Horace Custins as Willie Wilkins, and Mr Edgar Morgan as Horatio Buffet are entrusted with the comedy business, which is cleverly sustained throughout. Philip Ayre and Harriet Forbes are respectively in the able hands of Mr F. Strickland and Mrs James Hont.

BLYTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr George E. Good.—The stage here has been occupied this week by Mr J. A. Campbell's company in the domestic drama entitled The Sin of Her Childhood. In the character of Stephen Haysel Mr Austin Milroy is a prominent figure and meets with due recognition; Mr J. A. Campbell is seen to advantage as Captain John Thornton; and Mr Fred Elvin creates much amusement as Barney O'Reilly. Miss Jennie Hicks is well cast as Maria Haysel, and praise is due to Miss Mary Fulton for a fine embodiment of the part of Mary Haysel.

BRADFORD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr Jno. Hart; General Manager, Mr T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr F. Pemberton.—Mr Hart's charmingly staged pantomime Cinders is drawing large audiences, and universal praise is bestowed on the efforts of the clever company and on the charming scenic effects.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Francis Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr N. Hepworth.—Much regret is expressed by the numerous admirers of Miss Adele Roze that temporary loss of voice should have necessitated the lady's relinquishing her part of Robinson Crusoe in the pantomime here. The rôle is now being sustained by Miss Ruby Winstone, a favourite in last year's production, and she is scoring a marked success in the part. The pantomime has settled down into shape, and it runs with a merry swing from start to finish.

EMPIRE. — Moss Empires, Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr J. J. Kelly.—The Rousbys' four electric tableaux, "In Paris," a remarkable reproduction of the late exhibition, form a fine entertainment in the way of picture effects here this week. There is novelty in the clever acrobatic work done by the Baldwin Brothers; Daisy Mayer, a charming singer and dancer, submits a bright turn as a Yankee girl; the aerial trapeze act by Alexandra and Bertie is graceful and clever; Vasco, the mad musician, displays his ability on numberless instruments; a good turn is presented by Katie Butler, comedienne; the clever Japanese juggler, Prince Kokio, is repeating his entertainment this week; strength and agility are features of the smart acrobatic and equilibristic work done by the Four Miltons; excellent vocalism is submitted by the Three Sisters Jonghmanns; and Jan Rudenyl, the Hungarian violinist, earns great applause by a masterly performance.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr J. W. Berry.—There is intense excitement here each evening, Carl Mysto, the Monarch of Manacles, defying all attempts on the part of police and others to firmly secure him. Frank Sylvo submits a diverting turn as a comedy juggler, and Mdlle. Lorette is here, posing again with her submissive statue dog. The Clarkes give a clever banjo performance, and Edith Sylvesto goes through a remarkable display as a contortionist. Tom Parker renders his comic songs acceptably; Florence Gwynne, in her sketch The Stage-struck Servant, displays ability as a pianiste; Marco, the boy magician's, illusions are entertaining; and Joe Almasio does some smart juggling, clever jumping, and with his companion provides an excellent turn.

BRIDLINGTON.

PEOPLE'S PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Morgan.—Mr Harry Firth's pantomime, Cinderella, opened at the Palace on Monday to a full house, which was highly delighted with the fare provided for them by Mr Firth. The pantomime went with a good swing from start to finish, and encores were frequent. Mr E. Wilson as the Baron was very quaint and original; Mr Fred Park as Pimple, the page, never failed to evoke applause by his eccentric mannerisms; Mr J. Binns and Mr H. Haines were well fitted to their parts of Butterina and Margarina; Mr W. Marsh as Ping and Mr W. Morris as Pong, the Prince's footmen, are a couple of clever comedians, their songs and duets being well rendered. As Cinderella Miss Madge Osmond both acts and sings in a most pleasing manner; Miss Dora Denmark is a most impressing Prince Perfect, her songs being finely rendered; and Miss Ethel More as Dandini possesses a powerful and well-trained voice. Miss Rosie Lewin makes a smart Dorothy, and Miss Ella Zoe is a sweet Fairy Crystal. The variety element is very good. The ventriloquial business of Lieutenant Charles Valvo and his Tommy Atkins goes remarkably well; Earle as a card manipulator and conjuror introduces some clever tricks; Marsh and Morris, in the sketch, The Vicar and the Curate, fairly bring down the house; and Miss Clarisse Mignon plays some admirable selections on the banjo and mandoline. The Four Sisters Godfrey as coon artistes and dancers have been cleverly trained, their dancing being especially neat and graceful; and the choruses were well rendered.

BRIGHTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager, Mr Harcourt M. Beryl.—Mr George Dance's company opened here on Monday with The Girl from Kay's. Miss Rita Leonhardt made a graceful and dainty Norah Chalmers; Miss Maisie North as Ellen, and Miss Mabel Champion as Mrs Chalmers were admirably suited; and Miss Nancy Hervyn gave a very pleasing representation of Winnie Harborough. Mr H. C. Barry proved entertaining as Max Hoggenheimer; Mr Garnet Wilson achieved much success as Harry Gordon; Mr Fred Rolph presented a clever character sketch as Pepper, the hall porter; and Mr Leslie Roy Cathie was amusing as the Hon. Percy Fitzthistle. The remaining characters were ably sustained. The chorus and orchestra were effective, and the duties of conductor were in the hands of Mr Sydney Shaw.

AQUARIUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Bernhardt; Acting-Manager, Mr H. De Groot.—The fairy play, The Old Woman who Lived in a Shoe and the Spelling Bee, is running successfully. Miss Decima Brooke as Beatrix, Mr Arthur St. George as Mistress Shoe, and Mr J. G. Forde as Sir Balfy Goff are especially effective, and the specialities by Mr Arthur Hill are very enjoyable.

GRAND THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr W. F. Crowe.—The pantomime, Little Red Riding Hood, is still running splendidly, and attracts crowded houses. Prominent among those who contribute to the successful performances are Miss Blanche Vincent, Prince Peerless; Miss Madge Campbell, Miss Muffitt; Miss Louie Lunelle, Tommy Tucker; Miss Nellie Lunelle, Margery Daw; Miss Norah Arthur, the Herald; Miss Irene Rose, Fairy Sunshine; Mr Dave O'Toole, Dame Trott; Messrs Sandford and Lyons, Johnny Stout and Jimmy Green; Mr Charles Russell, Baron Barebones; and the Tally Ho Trio, W. Doust, Eric Farr, and E. Chester. The conductor, Signor G. D. La Camera, is worthy of warm praise.

ALHAMBRA.—Managing-Director, Mr J. L. Graydon; General Manager, Mr Ernest Lepard.—The following are here this week:—Paul Martinetti's American pantomime company in A Duel in the Snow; Will Farrell, comedian; the Allisons, comedy duettists and speciality dancers; Terry and Bentley, in their comedy The Hunt; Muir and Bartlett, in their funny duologue, The Lady and the Lunatic; the Five Sisters Warwick, trick cyclists; Lauri Wylie, mimic; Walker and Lake, comedians and patterers; Lal Cliff, comedian and dancer; Mdlle. Yvette, with her miniature hippodrome; and the Alhambra Pictures.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—The following are here this week:—Cunningham and Howard's company in the sketch, The King's Hat; the Athlones, herculean athletes; the Brothers Ashley, in their sketch, Next, Please; Staig's motor, sensational act; Virginia and her piccaninnies; Alfonso Silvano, equilibrist; Mons. De Marse, in his shooting act; Ed. F. Reynard, American ventriloquist; and animated pictures.

WEST PIER. — Secretary and Entertainment Manager, Mr A. D. Norman.—Bluebell in Fairyland continues to attract crowded audiences. Miss Rosalie Jacobi as Bluebell and Mr Walter Cranch as Dickie and the Sleepy King are prime favourites.

COLISEUM.—Licensee and Director of Entertainments, Mr Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr C. Smith-Wilkes. — The following are here this week:—Lil Gorman, comedienne and dancer; Massona, Continental juggler; Hettie Chattell, male impersonator and burlesque actress; De Vere and Kenwick, singing, dancing, and speciality artistes; Leo Stormont, actor-vocalist and reciter; Rosa Rosetti, violinist; Nellie Loomis and company, including Dorothy Rayner, whistler, in A Little Bit of Everything; Little Clarisse Heney, comedienne and dancer; and the Coliseum pictures.

BRISTOL.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr James Macready Chute.—There was a large attendance here on Monday evening in all parts of the house, and the pantomime, The Sleeping Beauty, went splendidly. All the artistes have become popular, and play their respective parts in excellent style, and the magnificent staging obtains full appreciation.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Ernest Carpenter.—Robinson Crusoe is getting very popular here. All the artists are very successful, and the pantomime is nicely staged, both in the way of scenery and costumes. The attendance at each performance is highly satisfactory.

PALACE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs Livermore Bros.; Resident-Manager, Mr Horace Livermore; Secretary, Mr F. J. V. Welchman.—Mr Frank Gerald and company are here for a second week, appearing in the equestrian sketch, Captain Starlight. The sketch is interesting, and the well-trained mare Walpera adds much to the attraction of the show. Burns and Evans do a smart turn as American comedians in their speciality Funnibalism; Sydney James's Strolling Players are popular, their entertainment being above the average; Arthur Moss, vocalist, obtains appreciation; Miss Madge Mayfield is a pleasing comedienne and dancer; Zaid, the Spanish Moor, does some clever work on the rings; Dan Conroy, comedian, has some amusing songs; Clark and Gold are expert banjoists, and successfully introduce some eccentric comedy; Miss Flo Cecil, soubrette, obtains considerable applause; Lee and Arden have a good duologue, The Lady and the Watchman; and the entertainment concludes with some interesting animated pictures.

EMPIRE.—Proprietor, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—Walton and Miss Ella head the programme here with their attractive dog show; the dogs are trained to great perfection, and the entertainment is both interesting and amusing. Miss Nellie Wallace, eccentric comedy artiste, does a capital turn which pleases all parts of the house. Miss Ailsa Douglas, soprano vocalist, is highly successful; the Densmores have a good acrobatic sketch, Early Morning in the Kitchen; the Two Falcons do a good act as hand balancers, &c.; T. Nelson Downs is exceptionally expert in manipulating playing cards and coins; Stanley and Vandyke have an amusing comedy duologue; Alexander does some clever trick riding on cycles; and Marquis Iton performs various equilibristic feats, his show being entitled "Scenes outside Port Arthur." The performance concludes with some interesting animated pictures.

COLSTON HALL.—Mr Charles W. Poole's No. 1 War Myriorama continues to attract a large attendance at each performance. There are also a good display of animated pictures and a capital variety company, headed by the Leo Tardy Trio, exceptionally expert flying trapeze artistes.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.

NEW THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr John Waller.—Mr George Dance's company, with A Country Girl, is attracting large audiences here this week. Miss May Glen is chic as Nan, and is heard to great advantage in the numbers allotted to her. Miss Maud Harvey is daintily pleasing as Marjory. Miss Nina Carlton gives an exceptionally good performance as the Princess, and Miss Addie Lennard as Sophie receives enthusiastic encores. Mr Cyril Thompson, who possesses a capital voice, is a prime favourite as Geoffrey Challoner. Of course the fun centres round Mr J. Osborne, who is admirable as Barry. The Rajah has a capable representative in Mr St. John Hamund. Mr H. C. Morton, Mr Arthur Hayter, Mr Willie Hartill, and Miss Edna Knollys creditably fill their respective rôles.

TOWN HALL.—Mr Arthur Cheetham is here this week with some up-to-date living pictures. Madame Rose Garton and Master Gus Cheetham both contribute to the success of a good entertainment.

CARDIFF.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Robert Redford.—Patrons of the Royal are, fortunately, not overdosed with pantomime this season, and already the close of Dick Whittington is announced. Next week will see the finish of this elaborate production, and Cardiffians are taking this opportunity of witnessing a pantomime which has become very familiar with the magic word "success." A more dashing and captivating principal boy than Miss Madeline Rees could not be found, and Mr Bob Hutt's reputation as a clever comedian has been widely acknowledged. Miss Minnie Duncan and Mr Arthur E. Godfrey are also sharing the popularity.

KING'S THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Bateman; Business-Manager, Mr Robert Sawle.—Mr Bateman has been fortunate enough to secure the engagement this week of Messrs Haddon and Loader's comic pantomime, Jack and the Beanstalk. The piece is well produced, the scenery is exceptionally good, and the costumes are elaborate. Mr Jay Laurier as Silly Billy gives a performance which is really most amusing, and, with the assistance of Mr Harry Harrop as Dame Trotter, Mr Reg. Bolton as Squire Musty, and Messrs Kydd and Kydd as Dip and Dap, the fun is kept fast and furious. Miss Bessie Shelley as Jack makes an ideal principal boy. Miss Pattie Bella is excellent as Dora, and Miss Sybil Viney and Miss Cissy Trent as Charlie and Nancy also render artistic help. Clever dances are contributed by the Continental Trio, while an attractive speciality is the Cameron Glee Singers. A pretty show is the aerial flight in scene six.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Lea.—A capital programme here includes the following names:—The Wille Bros., in feats of head balancing; Maud Ross, expert dancer; Will Mitcham, vocal and musical comedy artiste; Morcashani, the eccentric baritone chanteuse; the American Bioscope; Duncan's collies; Tolle D'Araignee, an electrical gymnastic novelty; Miss Lily Lena, the dainty comedienne; the M'Gregors, in their musical speciality; and Newhouse and Ward, trick and comedy cyclists.

CLYDEBANK.

NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Wilson.—These boards are occupied this week by The New Barmaid, presented by Mr Alexander Loftus's company. Mr Joseph B. Montague as Bertie White is a clever comedian, and is ably seconded by Mr Frank Nelroy, who as Mons. Bonsor displays much ability as a dancer. Mr Leslie Austin sings and acts well as Captain Lovebury, and Mr Alexander Loftus as Willie White is highly entertaining. The New Barmaid has a charming representative in Miss Nance O'Neil; Miss Hilda Blanche is very good as Brenda Louth; Dora Heather is safe in the hands of Miss Violet Osmund; and the same may be said of Miss Jean Gilmour as Lady Moulton and Mr Arthur Rodney as Colonel Claymore. The augmented orchestra is under the direction of Mr Otto Cantor.

CAMBRIDGE.

NEW THEATRE.—Manager and Director, Mr W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.—Mr Norman V. Norman and company, including Miss Beatrice Wilson, are on a welcome return visit here, and on Monday and Tuesday the well-known Under the Red Robe was played. Mr Norman was an admirable Gil De Berault; Miss Wilson gave a striking portrayal of Renee De Cocheforêt; Mr Percy H. Vernon was good as the effeminate Captain Larolle; and Clon was well played by Mr L. Cory Thomas. On Wednesday and Thursday the ever-popular Nell Gwynn was played, and for Friday and Saturday David Garrick is announced.

CARLISLE.

ALGIE'S HIPPODROME.—Proprietress, Mrs P. E. Veitch; Manager, Mr C. Algie.—The management has secured a strong attraction this week in the celebrated Savonas and Elliotts, whose musical and cycling acts are now too well known to need description. Suffice to say that they are as popular as ever, and though it is their third visit here, their performance is still followed with wonder, delight, and repeated applause. Mr Tom Walker, described as the "man-monkey," contributes a taking turn; his performance is neat and smartly done, and fully deserves the appreciation which it receives. Mr Percy Farrimond, the singing collier, has an excellent voice, which he uses with discretion and skill in several popular numbers. A quite novel and amusing turn is provided by the Franko Midgets, two miniature gentlemen, whose tricks are done with considerable dexterity and neatness. Mr Phil Herman, a comedian, with an excellent style and capital répertoire of songs, is a favourite. The Original Ladies' Comedy Quartet are also quite successful in several popular selections.

CASTLEFORD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr Chas. Gadsby; Business-Manager, Councillor Henry Masterman.—Messrs Preston and Doherty's company, under the direction of Messrs Sidney C. Cranston and Sidney Dench, is giving a performance of The Rich and Poor of London at this theatre. The acting is good and the scenery is adequate. The character of Spider Jack is suitably played by Mr Sidney Dench; Mr Robert Hall ably impersonates Dr. Leonard Morton; May Braithwaite is well and strongly impersonated by Miss Dora Dench; Gussy Lamb, a familiar stage character, is capably acted by Mr Sidney C. Cranston; the Dan'l Drake of Mr Tom Bowman is a very good performance; Ruby Redgrave is well played by Miss Marie Ramez; Auntie Scrimp is adequately sustained by Miss Lillie Woods; Mr Andrew Money is very good as the villainous Mark Stanley; Miss Dora Pass provokes much laughter as Polly Philpots; Bill Binks is embodied creditably by Mr E. J. M'Sweeny; Matthew Grabbam is ably represented by Mr J. Sydney; and Mr Haxeltine is capital as Poulton. Miss Alice M'Fairlain makes a good impression as Seadrift.

CHATHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr Lionel Barnard; Secretary, Mr Geo. G. Ridley.—Mr Mouillot's Cinderella company is here this week, and this version is from the pen of Mr Mouillot's manager, Mr F. Leslie Moreton, with musical arrangements in the hands of Mr Frank Barrett, who makes an able conductor. In the title-rôle Miss Florrie Saunders gives a pleasing performance; Miss May Thorne is a popular Prince Paragon, whose valet Dandini is played in lively style by Miss Lena Willard; roars of laughter are created by the Brothers Pollard as the ugly sisters, Flossie and Gertie respectively; one of the most successful portrayals is Mr Lionel Braham's Baron, while Mr Ed. Carlton gets plenty of applause as Buttons. Dances are contributed by the Pansy Quartette, nursery rhymes by local children, and a contortionist act by the Neros, who are also responsible for the scheme of the harlequinade.

BARNARD'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor, Mr L. B. Barnard.—The bill-of-fare at this popular hall is as follows:—The clever mimic, Gilbert Girard, on a return visit; the Sisters Mayo, duettists; Fox and Fox, variety entertainers; Thomas Finglas, singer of Negro ditties; Welda and Wynn, comedy jugglers; Angelo, the lightning painter; Fred Wright, character comedian; Lacy's Erascope, and Mr Leonard Mortimer's combination in their latest success, Spectres.

GAIETY THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Captain H. E. Davis; Manager, Mr Frank J. Donne.—The Four Estrellas are giving a smart gymnastic display here; Grace Merton is again affording pleasure with her ballads; Boyd and Gilfain meet with unstinted applause. Pictures by the Edisonograph and varieties by Fred Allsop, Bessie Lind, Flo D'Orville, and a dialect comedian, deputising for Geo. Malcolm, complete the bill.

CHESTERFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing Director, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr Holbery Hardy.—Messrs George Mitchell and John Bilton's company forms the attraction here with The Conscript. Mr Mitchell gives a powerful portrayal of Karl Truevitch; Miss Mary Dawson shows dramatic power as Nadia; Mr Howell Travers gives energy to the part of Ivan Manloff; and Mr John Belton well portrays the part of Doggervitch. Miss Elizabeth Doone plays with pathos the rôle of Catherine Silka; Miss Ivy Chandos as Wanda submits a welcome diversion in a song; Mr F. H. Constable is a severe Count Hardiski; and valuable aid is rendered by Miss Bella Tilbury, Messrs Harry Tilbury, Frank Harvey, and Harold Holmes.

CHORLEY (LANCS.).

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr G. T. Sante; Secretary, Mr J. Clay.—Mr T. Arthur Jones and company are here with the drama Life's Sweetest Sin. Mr T. Arthur Jones depicts Capt. Harold Marston with telling effect; Dr. Colbrooke is capitally sustained by Mr A. H. Garth; and Bob Tanner finds an able exponent in Mr Fred Russell. Miss Madge Morley, acquits herself admirably as Doreen Rivers; Miss Sarah Dudley vivaciously presents Bess Grayson (with songs); and Miss Amy Rudd is successful as Fay Colbrooke.

COATBRIDGE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietress, Mrs Mary Watson; Manager, Mr C. B. Fountaine.—Mr Edward Marris's pantomime company opened here on Monday with Dick Whittington. Miss Joey Preston exhibits great talent as Dick; Miss Mena Eckerman portrays with excellent judgment the part of Alice; Miss James Salter cleverly enacts Betsy, the cook; and Miss Hulo Hodgson admirably portrays Captain Dash. Mr Fred Acton is a host in himself as Alderman Fitzwarren; Mr Harry Russell provides much amusement as Idle Jack; and Mr Ben Rowe successfully looks after the part of Muly Ben Whac. The specialties introduced are much admired, and include Rezene and Robini, in a screaming trapeze act; the Brothers Kashma, equilibrists; Miss Georgina Nicol, child mimic; Madame Roma's twelve lady aërial wrestlers; the Marion Quartet of acrobatic dancers; Mr Ben Rowe and Miss Topsy Holden, coloured society cake-walkers; and the Sisters Roma, club jugglers.

COLCHESTER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Chas. Macdona; Resident-Manager, Mr F. Graham Macdona.—Very cordial was the greeting extended to Mr Lawrence Brough and company on Monday at the above-named house, in The Lady of Ostend. Mr Brough himself played Le Baron De Longueville with extreme polish; Mr Harry Hampson as Dick Whortles was the centre of many an amusing and ludicrous situation; Mr Percy Marshall in the part of the father-in-law was the source of endless fun; Mr Edmund Gurney quite looked the part of the prize-fighter, his make-up being characteristic; Miss Kate Milford played the indignant wife to perfection; and Miss Doris Vayne was a very coquettish Millie. The comedy was preceded by Margaret's Stratagem, in which Mr Harry Collier, Mr Harold M'Nay, and Miss Vayne ably sustained their respective parts.

CONSETT.

NEW THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr Lloyd Clarance.—A Traitor Prince is the attraction here this week, and is being well patronised. Mr G. M. Montanini gives a powerful rendering of the part of Prince Rao Dalmariz, and is well supported by Miss Beatrice Western as Vashti. Mr Alex Temple is a manly Lieut. Frank Derrick, and as Cara Mr Horace Collins is very good. Mr A. H. Longford in the dual rôle of Richard Vane and Colonel Vane gives entire satisfaction. Mr E. Carter Livesey as Billy Bright and Miss Lillian Rignold as Pansy Blossom are excessively funny, and are well supported by Mr Austin Mortimer as Hon. Bobby Vavasour Dalyrimple. Miss Lillian Rosebery is a charming Lola Vane, and as Mrs Martha Blossom Miss Jane Massey is excellent. Andrew Mills; or, The Murder at Brass Farm, a drama of local interest, was produced on Friday night, concluding with the farce, entitled Burglars.

CORK.

OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr John Horgan.—The Osmond Tearle company, under the direction of Mr Herbert J. Montague, opened a week's engagement here on Monday in Hamlet. Mr Alexander G. Marsh as Hamlet afforded keen enjoyment. He delivered his lines with judgment and scholarly perception, and in several scenes created a deep impression. Miss Carrie Baillie, in the rôle of Ophelia, acted with much charm, and proved herself an artist of great resource and ability. Mr John Burton as the King of Denmark gave a meritorious representation; Miss Fannie Chamberlain as the Queen was very successful; and the other characters were well portrayed. She Stoops to Conquer, Othello, Julius Cæsar, Virginius, The Merchant of Venice, The School for Scandal, and The Lady of Lyons are also in the répertoire.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Henry Kemble.—The turn presented here by the Bros. Bellong, two clever gymnasts, is very clever; Satsuma is one of the cleverest magicians seen here; Marie Yorke is a pleasing comedienne; the St. Johns are very entertaining in their musical act; the Two Gems, duettists and dancers, are excellent; Dan Noble is much appreciated in his songs; the Bros. Llodge, gymnasts on silver chains are two finely developed artists; and Tom Packer, who contributes first-class songs, meets with approval. The animated pictures are new and very enjoyable.

COVENTRY.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr Wm. Bennett.—We have here Cinderella, composed by Mr Stanley Rogers and produced by one of Milton Bode's capable companies, and its reception on Monday was worthy of tradition. Miss Flo Beech makes a pretty Cinderella; Miss Hebe Bliss makes a most imposing Prince Brilliant; to Miss Marie Reeves is entrusted the part of Dandini, who is successful in a dainty coon song. Messrs John Nolan and Percy Dawson are respectively responsible for the parts of the two ugly sisters Gladys and Violet, and have worked up their parts admirably. Mr George Antill is a capital Capers, and Mr Leo. Stirling is successful as Baron Balmy. Specialities are introduced with marked success by Miss Maud Dewey with some good imitations of birds; Mr Leo Stirling is very clever in his musical turn; and Major Harry Sitherland is quite a novelty as America's rifle and bâton manipulator.

CREWE.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Henry Taylor.—Messrs F. J. Little and Fred Darcy's company is here in the pantomime Sinbad the Sailor. The title-rôle is played by Miss Lily Beverley in interesting style; Miss Kitty Brewster as Zorilda acts in a most vivacious and energetic manner, and fully deserves the applause she receives. Mr Victor Wallace shines as the Demon of the Deep, and also ably performs the duties of stage-manager. Miss Iona gives a good display of top-boot dancing as Selim. Mr A. G. Hast is a comical Tinbad. Some really refined singing comes from Mr Fred Tobito as Ali Loofah and Miss Flora Buxton as Zoldre. Captain Cook is well sustained by Mr Happy Attwood, and Little Tim is quaint as Octopus. The music was composed and arranged by Mr John Gregory, who is a very efficient musical director. Some excellent lance and sword exercises and acrobatic dances are introduced by the Brewster Troupe. One of the chief attractions of the piece is the marvellous juggling of the Wallys.

CROOK.

CROYDON.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Lawson Lambert; Acting-Manager, Mr Reginald Lawrence.—The Grand is lively with pantomime this and next week, and Mr St. John Denton has brought an exceedingly entertaining edition of The Babes in the Wood. Miss Rose Dearing is all that can be wished in the rôle of Prince Charming; Miss Eleanor L'Estelle as Phyllis is a fascinating lady who works hard and successfully; Mr Willie Scott, a droll and quaint Charlotte, makes a palpable hit; the rôles of Gagem and Scragem are in the hands of Messrs Ferris and Farnley, a capital pair of burlesque villains; Miss Ethel Karri is quite a suitable fairy queen, Water Lily; Miss Rosalind O'Ferral is praiseworthy as Herne; Mr Wensley Russell makes a commendable Billy Buttons; Mr Laurie Lisle as Baron Bluster is whimsical; Miss Dolly Harcourt is nice as Lord Johnny Spoof; and Master Harry Pleon is bright as Augustus. Misses Nora Doone and Rene Reel are an attractive pair of Babes. The scenery, dresses, and chorus are well up to the mark. The varieties, which are much relished, include Bud Snyder, in his sensational trick cycle act; Mr Charles Morton, a smart mimic; the Four Olympian Stars, expert dancers; and Steve Selby, with his mirth-provoking mechanical donkey.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—Resident General Manager, Mr Eustace H. Jay.—Mr J. D. Hunter is paying his annual visit to Croydon with pantomime, and has brought an excellent version of Aladdin, with bright dresses, pretty scenery, and a shapely chorus of ladies. Mr Hunter himself carries the main burden of the work with a jovial and delightful rendering of the Widow Twankey, and meets with a great reception. Miss M. Sadie in the title-rôle is full of animation and good spirits, and is an ideal principal boy; Miss Elsa Brull as the Princess is really charming; Miss Vera Dudley is a handsome Pekoe; and Miss Ivy Bolton a bewitching Nicey Picey. Mr Victor Vernon, a resourceful comedian, deserves special commendation for his portrayal of Abanazar; Mr Fred Boulton is responsible for a deal of merriment in the character of the Emperor; Mr Dick Tubb takes a forward position with a humorous rendering of the Vizier; and Messrs G. Mayer and B. Boden have a good time as Wishee and Washee. Mdlle. Bartenelli, contortionist; Fred Boulton, banjoist; the Four Sisters M'Queen, vocalists; and the Verona-Jay Quartet of lady dancers are applauded.

DARLINGTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manageress, Mrs T. W. S. Jennings.—This week the new musical comedy The Scilly Girl is being presented here by Messrs Frank Nelson and Chas. Cautley's company. Mr Chas. Cautley as Cecil Trevelyan sings and acts in a capable manner. Mr Alfred Donohoe plays the part of Heiro, and keeps the audience amused from start to finish. Mr H. E. Garden does well as the Hon. Dolly Delawarre. Mr Robert Rivers as the Duke of Ayreshire is excellent. Mr Milroy Cooper as Cyrus Wheeler is successful. Miss Dorothy Vernon as the maid is heartily received, her dancing being greatly admired. Miss Susie Oak makes a good Duchess of Ayreshire. Miss Ella Kitson as Madame Endora and Miss Ada Palmer as Miss Catherine Wheeler are seen to advantage. The orchestra is under the direction of the composer, Mr Wm. Neale.

DARWEN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr E. L. Ormsby.—This week we are receiving a return visit from Mrs Bandmann Palmer and répertoire company.—Opening on Monday Mrs Bandmann-Palmer gave a fine impersonation of the title-rôle in Mary, Queen of Scots, being ably supported by Mr F. Skein, who was capital as the Earl of Leicester, Mr Sidney Bland as Lord Burleigh, and Mr William Trant as Sir Edward Mortimer. Elizabeth, Queen of England, was excellently rendered by Miss Katherine Herbert; whilst Miss Hodgson as Margaret Curl was also good. Leah was produced on Tuesday; Sapho, Wednesday; East Lynne and Jane Shore are also being given.

DEAL.

GLOBE THEATRE.—On Monday last Mr Herbert Barrs' pantomime Aladdin opened here for six nights. It is well staged, nicely dressed, and the music bright and pretty. Miss Kitty Clayton makes a fine Aladdin. Miss Ethel plays the part of Pekoe. Miss Ethel Dyson pleases everybody as Princess Badroulbador, and sings and dances well. Mr Billy Jackson is funny as the Widow, and causes much merriment. Mr Herbert Grapho as Abanazar amuses everyone with comical sayings. Mr George Harvie as Washee is a great favourite. The specialities include Miss Ada Marjutti, the flexible Venus; Bernardo, tramp juggler; Travella, wire-walker; and the Empire Troupe of dancers.

DERBY.

NEW GRAND THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and General Manager.—Mr J. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr Charles Denley.—The pantomime Little Red Riding Hood has been freshened up in various ways, and is due to stay for a week longer. Miss Florrie Forde is giving new songs for old, and remains a distinct success. Miss Gertie Gitana also fully maintains her hold on popular favour. The comedians already mentioned with hearty commendation — viz., Messrs Fowler, Thatcher, Frank Dunlop, J. E. O'Connor, C. Brady, and Fred Hallam—are as much to the fore as ever. Miss Millie Denham as Jack and Miss Doris Lillian as Jill are thoroughly deserving; and Mesdames Carrie and Alice King, danseuses, are received nightly with every mark of approbation. Other parts are well rendered by Miss Isa Dainton as Fernando, Miss Sybil Steffany as Margery Daw, Miss Lilian Honeybone as Armand, Miss Marie West as Fairy Gossamer, and Miss Florence Frederica as Cupid. Among the new attractions is Mr E. R. Dainez's dog circus. Mr Geo. Brydon-Phillips, who produced the pantomime, is represented by Major Geo. Stratton; and Mr Louis Stanislaus is the stage-manager; while Mr Alex. Humphreys is the musical director.

PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. Allan Edwardes.—Alma Obrey is the principal attraction here this week. She proves herself a capable character comedienne. Although suffering from a cold, she sings her songs in excellent style. Jean Seul is as mysterious as ever, and is accorded a hearty reception; Texas Hattie, described as America's greatest tight-rope performer, fully upholds that distinction, and her feats meet with general approval; Carr and Rose are praiseworthy in their gems of vocal comedy; Wirson is a daring equilibrist; and the Garden Troupe of pipers and dancers are well-deserving of special mention. Chas. Rose, comedian and clog-dancer, and Frank Hope, acrobatic trick cyclist, also contribute in no small way to an excellent programme.

DONCASTER.

NEW GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. W. Chapman.—Cinderella was daintily produced here on Monday. Miss Edith Harmer's delineation of Fairy Delight was excellent; Mr Tatten Hall was facetious as Baron Hardupp; and Mr Ernie Mayne as Buttons contributed a good deal of humour. Bertha and Flossie, the baron's beauteous step-daughters, were capably presented by Messrs Fred Spencer and Tom Owen, and in the title-rôle Miss Dot Harridine won universal praise. The variety element, which is so popular here, was contributed by Silbon's miniature circus and Boris Fridkin's Imperial Troupe of singers, dancers, and acrobats. Mr Elliston, who has the sole management, is to be congratulated upon the all-round qualifications of the combination.

DOVER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Dover Theatres, Limited; Managing Director, Mr F. C. Dew.—Mr T. Jarman's company is here this week, in the Anglo Russian drama In Dark Siberia. Mr W. T. Riley plays the part of the hero, Captain Victor Gordon, with excellent effect; Mr Wilson Howard portrays the character of Major Waroff with conspicuous success; Mr H. Tarrant is good as Dr. Yeroslaff; and Mr Bert H. Ross as Col. Nevski scored heavily. Mr Louis West causes much amusement by his impersonation of Sergt. Petrovitch; Mr J. Mellor as Bruin the Bear comes in for a good share of applause; Miss Cecilia Ransome acts with considerable pathos as Paul Gregorovitch; Miss Carlotta Anson is equally noticeable as the Princess Natalie; and Sonia and Ivanova are rendered with ability by Misses Ethel Bickham and Linda Riley.

DUBLIN.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessees, Michael Gunn, Limited; General Manager, Mr Charles Hyland.—The pantomime, The Sleeping Beauty, which has undergone some changes, continues to draw large audiences nightly. The members of the company, who have already secured public favour, include Miss Louie Collier, whose songs are nightly encored; Mr Horace Wheatley, who delights the audience with his quaint humour; Miss Dorothy Clark, Mr Harry Maxim, Miss Lucie Caine, Mr Arthur Rigby, Miss Adeline Yohle, Mr Picton Roxborough, Miss Cissy De La Rue, and Mr Ernest Spalding.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Moullot; Resident-Manager, Mr A. Armstrong.—The Moody-Manners company entered on its third week, and on Monday a large and appreciative audience were present to witness La Traviata. Madame De Vere gave an admirable rendering of Violetta, and sang in a charming and effective manner which was greatly admired. Mr Joseph O'Mara's embodiment of Alfred was a praiseworthy performance, and Mr William Dever's fine voice was heard with great satisfaction in the rôle of George Germont. The Misses D. and J. M'Carthy invested the rôles of Flora and Annina with ability, and Mr Glynn Renshaw represented the Doctor, and sang and acted admirably; while as the Baron Mr F. Rowe was very good. On Tuesday Mignon again attracted a large audience. Madame Fanny Moody presented an artistic and beautiful study of the title-rôle, and Mr Wilson Pembroke gave an acceptable performance of Wilhelm Meister. Carmen, The Jewess, Lily of Killarney, and Faust are also announced.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr A. S. Figgis.—The bill here is topped by Tom Edwards, a capital ventriloquist, who meets with a cordial reception. The Sarnthaler Troupe of vocalists and dancers give every satisfaction; and Little Barney, comedian, is a host in himself. Griff, in a clever juggling act, receives applause; as does also Ella Retford for her excellent singing and dancing. Sinclair and Parr, actor-vocalists, are favourably received; and Tom O'Neill is a smart comedian. Vosper, facial mimic, meets with success; and Mabel Hind, who remains from last week, is still to the fore. The Cinématograph display, "A Trip to the Sun," completes the programme.

TIVOLI.—General Manager, Mr Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr H. A. Murphy.—The attraction here this week is Peggy Pryde, comedienne, who is nightly applauded. Mdlle. Haydee, with her electric mannikin theatre, is an interesting item, and Frank, comedian, is as popular as ever. Abel and Welsh, grotesque eccentrics, score, and Mollie Doon is a chic comedienne. Hurman is an expert juggler, and Alice Oakley is a pleasing descriptive vocalist. Louis Murray is a capital actor-vocalist, and Charlie Williams, Negro comedian, and George Prince, comedian, are also good in their respective turns.

PAVILION, KINGSTOWN.—Manager, Mr John H. Stevenson.—The company engaged here includes the Mona Ladies' Orchestra, whose several selections are well received; Mr J. Wellesley Lynn, whose thought-reading and mystic entertainment meets with appreciation; and the Electric Bioscope pictures, which are highly amusing are warmly applauded.

WORLD'S FAIR AND MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr C. A. James.—The following are engaged here:—Pettigrove and Son's Marionettes, in the pantomime The Babes in the Wood; Eugenie, palmist; and Geo. Harcourt, descriptive vocalist.

SAMUELS' EXHIBITION PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr S. Samuels.—Chester and Lee's Marionettes, with the pantomime Mother Goose, are here doing good business.

DUDLEY.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr J. W. Tilley.—Sergeant Brue has taken Dudley audiences by storm this week, and is by far the liveliest and best-staged piece that has been here for some time. Mr Edward Kipling works hard and creates endless amusement in the title-rôle, and Mr Percy Rogers is equally successful as Michael. Miss Constance Lait is charmingly captivating as Aurore, and brings down the house repeatedly; Miss Eliza Earle is a pert and amusing little Daisy; and Miss Violet Dene is clever and graceful as Lady Bickenhall. A good character is that of Mr Crank by Mr Cecil Burt, while Mr George Barrett is remarkably droll and clever as Crookee Scrubbs.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Tom Prichard.—There is a strong programme here this week. Nadji, the Hindoo marvel, who heads the bill, gives a remarkable performance; Charles Bignell is very popular; and the Two Countees, humorous duettists, are repeatedly recalled. Ella Dean makes a most successful first appearance; Ward and Pearce, burlesque boxers, give a very amusing and clever turn; and Charlie Bayman, Negro comedian; Walter Gurney, versatile comedian; and Lily Mason, serio and speciality dancer, are responsible for good turns.

DUMFRIES.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr W. E. Potts.—Mr Charles Frohman's company was here the first three nights of the week in Sherlock Holmes. The title-rôle is in the hands of Mr Kenneth Rivington, who gives a capital portrayal from beginning to end. Dr Watson was well embodied by Mr Fred Inwood; Professor Marlarty by Mr Arthur B. Murray was a complete success; the part of James Larabee was in the hands of Mr Ernest Grey, who did full justice to the part; Miss Florence Radcliffe as Miss Faulkner was sweetly natural; and Miss Carrie Lacy made the best of the part of Madge Larrabee. On Thursday and Friday the Leopolds appeared in Frivolity.

DUNDEE.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Robt. Arthur; General Manager, Mr Sandon Perkins.—The pantomime entitled The Babes in the Wood has just entered on its second week. Miss Veronica Brady is a prime favourite, and her lively songs and dances make the part of Rose an outstanding one. The Sisters Morgan have been seen here before, and make a big hit with "Navaho." Miss Ernestine Desborough makes a fine appearance in the part of the Prince. Her song, "Farewell, little Yo San," goes very well. The two Babes are effectively acted by Miss Muriel Mace and Miss Ruby Forbes. Mr Frank Couch is favourably known here, and in the character of Buttons he gives a really clever performance in song, dance, and story. Mr W. P. Sheen as the Dame never fails to raise a laugh. Mr Harry Douglas and Mr Ernest Sefton as Bumble and the Baron contrive to make things hum, and Messrs Woodhouse and Wells get in quite a lot of effective comedy work.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Will Parker; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr Alf Ross.—Mr Parker deserves great credit for that effective scena entitled The Children's Party, for which he is mainly responsible. Miss Katie Miskel takes the principal part, and charms all by her clever vocal powers. Miss Nellie Edmondson, the Eight Tiny Tots, Miss Valrose, Master David Kennedy, and Mr Johnny Beveridge add to the success of this cleverly conceived trifle. The British Quartette stand out prominently amongst the other turns, which also includes Bendon, ventriloquist; the Jetneys, sand dancers; Grey and Welford, Amandus, Lillie Currie, Musical Rosina, and Frank Royce.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Percival.—Mr Herbert Fuller's London company present a drama entitled The Passion of Life, which has met with the unanimous approval of the drama-loving public who fill this comfortable theatre twice nightly.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Dobell Lyle.—The pantomime Aladdin is still attracting big crowds, and has been a great draw during the holidays.

DUNFERMLINE.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr W. E. Potts.—Mr John Leopold's company is appearing here the first three nights of the week in New Frivolity up-to-date. Mr Herbert Lewis as Oliver Buckwheat is a decided success in his part; Mr John Leopold, jun., does well as Daniel Teething, his singing and dancing are very good; Mr Wilfred Vaughan acts admirably as Jules Vermiglio; Mr Barry Lupino as Samuel introduces some very clever business; Professor Fumble is capably depicted by Mr Tony Leopold; Miss Ruby Wyndham is quite successful as Madame Cobweb; and the singing and dancing of Miss Amy Hall as Lucy Buckwheat is admired and appreciated.

ECCLES.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Potasch and Wardle; Manager, Mr P. Potasch; Acting-Manager, Mr P. Ryan Smith.—We have pantomime here this week, and Mr Peter Thompson's Babes in the Wood is drawing large houses. The comedians include Messrs James Templar Ellis, the Danbys, and Mr Fred Danvers, who keep the fun rolling all the evening. Miss Maud Beaumont possesses a fine presence and voice, and is a dashing Robin Hood. Specialities include N. T. Kioto, the Yankee Quartet, and Miss Rosa Walmsley.

EASTBOURNE.

DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Standen Trigga.—Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr Mark Blow's company is appearing here during the week in Under Two Flags. The drama is excellently staged and the company a good one. Mr Mark Blow is an imposing figure as Bertie Royellieu, and he contributes an ever-dignified performance. Mr Reginald Harvey-West does excellent service as Barklie; and Mr Charles Brooke is an able Lord Royellieu. Mr Walter Thornton is impressive as Lord Rockingham; Mr Charles D. Pitt is a very forceful Black Hawk. Most of the fun-providing is in the safe hands of Mr Will Hook as Rake, and he has a capable partner in Miss Daisy Carlton as Lavinia. Quite an artistic triumph is scored by Miss Emelie Polini, who is a charming and pretty Cigarette, and much of the success is due to her admirable contribution. Miss Hope Mayne is a refined and pleasing Princess Corona, and the remaining characters are well filled.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr George Hayes.—Mr Henry Eglington and his company are supplying the first local pantomime of the season here. Miss Tilley Stewart as Robin Hood has plenty of brightness and dash; Miss Florence is a dainty, refined Maid Marion; Miss Hettie Norma has much to do as Will Scarlett, and her dancing evokes loud applause; Miss Marion Cygnet is a pleasing Margery; and the Babes have good exponents in Miss Cissie Williams and Miss Eileen Leoville. Miss Ella Rose has a fine voice, which she uses with advantage as Fairy Glow-worm. Mr Harry Eglington is quite a favourite as Dame Durden, and his droll style well suits the part. He is ably partnered by Mr Harry Harcourt, who works hard as the Baron. Mr Will Ambro is a good Hannibal, and in his smart dancing earns loud applause for his efforts. Messrs Angle and Harry A'Ban are a funny pair of villains, and their mock duel causes much laughter. Mr Reuben Kitchen as Pompey and Mr Harold Perry as Jack O'Lantern complete satisfactorily the cast. The Three Geronds are smart lady dancers.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Samuel Lloyd.—At the head of the variety bill stand Hanvarr and Anna Lee. The lady is an expert tumbler and Hanvarr's juggling with clubs show extraordinary skill. A remarkable turn is contributed by Mr James H. Lee, whose wire performance is daring and wonderful; Mr Fred Keeton sings his funny songs in a funny manner; Mr Montague Biggs is a realistic female impersonator; Miss Gladys Archbutt pleases as a comedienne; the Two Pagets have a novel concertina act; Hicks' Clerks contribute songs and dances; and new pictures are shown on the Cinématograph.

EBBW VALE.

KING'S.—Lessees, Messrs Arthur Carlton and Sam Duckworth; Manager, Mr Arthur Knight.—During this week Miss Winifred Maude's company is here in The Sins of a City. Mr Ivan Gore as Donald M'Ivor is particularly interesting; Mr Horace E. Herbert does well in the part of Sandy M'Donald; and Mr Leslie Beaufort as Ralph Blackwater, K.C., is a success, being well supported by Mr Victor Du Cane as Isaac Levi. Miss Winifred Maude is most effective in the part of Seaweed.

EDINBURGH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs Howard and Wyndham, Limited; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter Hollister.—The spirit of pantomime had a busy time here all through the New Year holidays, and this week shows no signs of diminution in the spell exerted by Jack and the Beanstalk. Mr Wyndham's tried and trusty trio of comedians work with a will and keep the ball of fun rolling famously. Mr Malcolm Scott's patter as Dame Trot is as fresh and bewilderingly varied as ever, his many allusions to men and events providing plenty of food for mirth and reflection. Mr Ambrose Manning has elaborated his part of Gottem into a creation of genuine comedy; and bonnie Scotland is not forgotten in the rich "Doric" of Mr J. T. Macmillan as the Scottish cousin. Miss Lily Harold has hosts of admirers as Jack; and Miss Daisy Le Hay is captivatingly sweet in all she sings, says, and does as Phœbe. The Lupinos, pere and fils, in their animal personations, fill the children's hearts with joy; and the dancing of the Tiller Troupe is the quintessence of all that is elegant, graceful, and charming. Of the other principals, Miss Violet Englefield and Miss Lilian Grahame make a vivacious pair of lovers, and both are immense favourites with the public.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs Howard and Wyndham, Limited; General Manager, Mr G. T. Minshull.—The Cingalee continued its successful career at this theatre on Monday evening, and the glowing welcome extended by a large audience proved conclusively that the play still enjoys the sunshine of popularity here. The rippling melodies, laughable book, dazzling dresses, and gorgeous setting of this grand musical fantasia, which the presiding genius of Mr George Edwardes has devised and improved with such consummate skill, all combine to lull the senses into a state of complete satisfaction, laughter taking the place of Oriental langour. The outcome has been the signal triumph of The Cingalee. Among the many excellent members of Mr Edwardes's well-selected company are Mr Leonard Mackay, whose vocal ability as Harry Vereker is accompanied by power as an actor; Mr Colin Coop, whose Boobhamba is an unctuously droll performance; and Mr W. J. Manning, whose Sir Peter Loftus is one more humorous addition to that gay gallery of giddy old men, which has made Mr Manning's services so deservedly prized in the provinces. Mr E. Statham Staples as Chambhuddy Ram is a host in himself, and he has elaborated the character with a care and conscientiousness which do him credit. As Vanoya Miss Octavia Barry is a picturesque exponent of the rôle, singing her music with artistic effect. Miss Lily Elsie's Lady Patricia Vereker is one of the most delightful performances seen here for some time. To her beauty of face and figure, which reminds one of a Gainsborough picture, she adds charm of acting, grace of movement, and a vocal brilliance which should ensure her a high place in her profession. The chorus is a powerful one, and the incidental dances, "Devil" and otherwise, are given with the requisite Eastern abandon. The piece is exquisitely staged under the direction of Mr Alfred Clarke, and runs with commendable smoothness, a quality which is reflected in front of the house, where all proceeds like clockwork under the watchful eye and experienced hand of Mr G. T. Minshull, assisted by the courteous and attentive Mr Sidney Vautier, the acting-manager. Mr F. Westby Gibson, Mr George Edwardes's representative, has vied with these gentlemen in contributing to the comfort of the crowded and aristocratic audiences that have assembled here for the past three weeks.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr H. E. Moss.—The Karnos appeared on Monday night in their new sketch entitled Mumming Birds, which proved a very diverting affair, a capital idea being well carried out by a capable company, all the members of whom did full justice to their parts. The Aurora Troupe, in their acrobatic cycling act, performed a number of daring feats on the wheel. Mr Tom Stuart, mimic, imitated several well-known actors and music hall artistes, and Leona Dare presented a novel act on the trapeze, in which her amazing strength was fully demonstrated. The Raies introduced some smart dancing; the Korries excelled in their musical act; the Three Sisters Haydon used their voices with effect; and Edie Veno proved a clever comedy artiste. Charles Adams and Mueller and Coyne completed a first-class company. On Tuesday a distinction was lent to the programme by the appearance of Miss Gena Manon, who performed a clever and original vocal act, which was an instantaneous success. This talented young lady has unusual gifts as a singer, and her turn included brilliant renderings of different national melodies. Prolonged applause greeted her efforts, and Miss Manon had to respond to numerous recalls.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Eade Montefiore.—A new lustre is lent to the attractiveness of the entertainment here by the arrival of that dashing favourite of pantomime, Miss Ada Twibell, who takes the place of Miss Engler, who has had to retire indisposed. Miss Twibell is highly esteemed in this city as a vocalist and burlesque artiste, and has been a reigning star at Christmas time during the late Mr Hatton's eventful régime at the Theatre Royal. Her fine figure, impressive style, and capital methods in comedy and acting have been seen to unusual advantage this week as the Prince, a part she plays admirably. A great many children from local institutions have been admitted free to the pantomime during the past week, their number bringing the total to whom the management have extended this kindness up to 3,000.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Tom Ellis.—Messrs Garside, Knowles, and Ludlow's company appeared here on Monday evening in the exciting drama, A London Fireman, which was received with hearty favour by a crowded house. Mr J. F. Knowles made a spirited appearance as Hal Curtis, the young fireman hero, and Mr Arthur Pringle as the pseudo-Marquis was an accomplished villain. Miss Mona Gray acted with power and pathos as the heroine, and Miss Nellie Garside also was seen to advantage in a comedy part.

COOKE'S ROYAL CIRCUS.—Proprietor, Mr John Henry Cooke.—Variety is given to the entertainments here by fresh engagements, those of the week including the Lovelaces with their illustrated songs, and the Dunvilles, who give a capital musical turn. Syd and Albert are well to the front with some new mirth provoking business, and the popular Brothers Leotard also appear in an amusing and interesting show. Aqua Wreck of course comes in for the lion's share of the applause, and continues to go as well as ever. Two magnificent royal stags, "The Monarch of the Glen" and "Sir William Wallace" are an additional feature of the show.

WAVERLEY MARKET.—Once more Mr Moss's grand carnival has reached its third and last week, and once more a great success has to be recorded. Year after year Mr Moss has catered for his patrons in Edinburgh, and Christmas and New Year would hardly seem the same to the masses and the classes in this city without the mammoth entertainment which Mr Moss knows so well how to provide. Mr Moss has piled Pelion upon the Ossa of success, and this year's record has again been "record breaking." For the last week Mr Moss, with his usual sagacity, has engaged a trump card in the unrivalled little Jap, Yukio Tani, one of the brightest stars of the wrestling ring. He has proved an enormous catch in more senses than one, and his grip on the attention of the huge crowds of spectators that have thronged to see him has been a great one. Other parts of the variety programme embrace the Gatling Guards, in their exhibition of lightning drill; the Volsset Troupe of cyclists, who perform on a revolving table, and Tambo and Sambo, who are America's greatest tambourine manipulators. The Princess Leah, on the invisible wire, has had many admirers, and Peppo's performing monkeys have also appeared. Another sensation of the week has been a contest between a horse and a bicycle, the horse travelling on a revolving platform. On the occasion of our visit the cyclist won. Lieutenant Amer's band has discoursed sweet music, and Edinburgh will be sorry to lose sight of this gifted conductor, whose orchestra reflects the perfection of his bâton's sway. Mr Moss this year has had the assistance of his son, Mr Charles S. Moss, and this clever young gentleman has, by his untiring efforts and business energy and resource, shown special aptitude for the business. Mr Moss starts for Egypt on Monday morning next, and denizens of Pharaoh-land will no doubt be hearing the echo of the Saturday evening crowds here singing "For he's a jolly good fellow."

EXETER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Secretary and Manager, Mr Fred Pollard; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy M. Dunsford.—Robinson Crusoe commenced his third week here on Monday. The Florodora Girls are greater favourites than ever; Mat Melrose and Lalla Cowell provide some smart dancing; a great feature is the rapid clay modelling of Thelma; and the Carlyles, Spanish dancers, are very successful.

FALKIRK.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr Horace W. Ebbutt.—The attractive comic opera Amorelle is here this week. In the title-rôle Miss Dot Stephens was simply delightful. Her acting was graceful and her singing sweet. Mr Arthur Cozens as Jules had much to do, and performed it with skill and ability. He possesses a voice of considerable range. The singing of Miss Adah Gray as Lesbia is an outstanding feature of the opera. Mr Leon Simkin in the important character of Dr. Napoleon Bonaparte Crow was a huge success. Much of the merriment depends upon this personage, and Mr Simkin made quite the best of a rare part. Miss Jessie Hales as Mdlle. Ribot made a very amusing shadow of "Boney." The other chief characters were—Mr Edward Granby as Francois, Mr Horace Manger as Alphonse, Mr Arthur Elwyn as the Count of Cideaux, Mr Fred Carrington as Dotard, and Mr George Paulton as Harpagon. The singing of the chorus was very tuneful, and the dressing and setting were praiseworthy.

FARNWORTH.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr T. Morton Powell.—Pantomime holds sway this week, and Mr Jordison's company is well up to the average. The adventures of The Babes in the Wood form the story, and many of the old traditions are retained. The scenery is much above the average of travelling shows, and the lighting and mounting are excellent. Miss Madge Daley as Robin Hood sings and acts throughout with verve and animation; Maid Marion has a lively representative in Miss Ada Martine, an effective vocalist and dancer; the Sisters Brookland score a success with their song and dance, "Angeline;" Mr Edward Avon as Baron Toodle is the life and soul of the piece, his marvellous legmania dancing being a feature of the performance; and as the two robbers Messrs Cullen and Carthy greatly distinguish themselves, their duel in the wood being one of the tit-bits of the pantomime. Mr Rowland Hill is a most amusing Dame, especially in the School scene. The Babes are played in excellent style by Little Miss Dolly Cullen and Little Miss Elsie Jordison.

FOLKESTONE.

PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr H. W. Rowland.—Mr Peter Davey's pantomime, Goody Two Shoes, opened here on Monday. Miss Maud Nichols as Crispin sings and dances well; Miss Lily Lingard as the heroine gives a capital rendering of that rôle; the Earl of Godiva has a capable exponent in Mr J. G. Taylor, who gains applause for his songs; Mr T. C. Haverley as Peeping Tom does full justice to the part; Mr Harry Calden is a diverting Dame Durden; and Miss Ethel Beech is fascinating as the Chevalier Hurley, and scores a success in the song "Under a Panama." Miss Gertrude Morrow as Margot puts plenty of life into the character and sings and dances charmingly; and Mr Graham Morrison contributes some good whistling solos as Marcodison. Specialities are introduced by the Thurbani Trio, Calden Troupe, and Clown Leo's miniature circus.

GAINSBOROUGH.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton.—Mr Chas. Macdona's company is paying a welcome return visit this week with A Country Girl. Mr Richard Telford as Barry and Miss Sadie Neville as Sophie are as amusing as ever. Mr Bernard Vaughan repeated his excellent impersonation of the Rajah, and the same remark may be applied to the Geoffrey Challoner of Mr Herbert Standing, jun. Miss Lucie Lever sings well as the Princess; Miss Anna Robertson gives a clever interpretation of Nan; and Miss Daisy Davis is a charming Marjorie.

GATESHEAD.

METROPOLE THEATRE, LIMITED. — General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Straughan.—The Royal Tokio Troupe of acrobatic Japs are retained for another week, and again provide a most interesting turn. The bill is headed by the Mysterious Lilith, who gives a novel production of marvellous feats in mid-air while under magnetic influence. Lilian Warren with her "vocal pictures" provides a good turn, as also does Fred Harcourt, magician. Chris Bell, juvenile clog dancer; and the Brothers Laure, Continental acrobats, are responsible for entertaining turns; and a strong bill is completed by Sam Kelly, comedian, and the Singing Furnaceman.

GLASGOW.

KING'S, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr H. Macfarlane. —Another visit to The Duchess of Dantzic amply confirms the good impression of the opening night here, and the crowded houses testify to the appreciation of the public for Mr George Edwardes's latest novelty.

METROPOLE. — Managing Director, Mr Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr John Dunbar.—The Orphan Heiress—one of the best plays written by the manager of this theatre—is being admirably staged this week under the personal superintendence of Mrs Jefferson. Mabel Ainsley, the ill-used heiress, is very pleasingly played by Miss Stanley M. Burt; Miss Atholie Robertson is equally charming as the faithful friend of the heroine; the suffering mother is enacted with extreme pathos by Miss Beatrice Fitzhugh; and the unscrupulous Olive Kingston has a strong interpreter in Miss Marie De Roos. The villain, Douglas Kingston, is powerfully drawn by Mr Riddell Robinson; Mr T. G. Davies as his accomplice is also good; Mr Charles Burdon as the hero gives a manly rendering of the part; and Mr Alfred D. Adams portrays the character of Lord Ainsley with quiet dignity. There is no lack of fun, introduced by Miss Amy B. Ellis as Betsy and Mr Percy Bell as Ginger, the latter especially keeping the audience in roars of laughter at his humorous business and by-play. The setting of the plays during Mr Jefferson's present stock season is specially well done.

LYCEUM.—Proprietor, Mr Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr J. H. Oakden.—Mr E. Hoggan-Armadale and his company are engaged here, the bill for the week being The Sleigh Bells, The Vicar of Wakefield, David Garrick, and Trilby. The performance of The Sleigh Bells on Monday was well received, Mr Hoggan-Armadale in particular meeting with hearty applause for his rendering of Mathias. Mr Fred Emery gave a fine, manly interpretation of the part of Christian, and Miss Violet Wilson was excellent as Annette. Mr W. F. Ulitherow as Hermann and Mr Henry Osman as Fritz obtained a deal of humour from their parts, and the Polish Jew was impressively represented by Mr A. H. Barton. The Madame Mathias of Miss Marie Florence was good, as was also the Lucille of Miss Kate Evelyn. Mr F. Booth-Conway gave force to the character of Mons. Bussey, and the Kaspar of Mr James Fox and the mesmerist of Mr Charles Langton were also interesting studies. The parts of the judge, Dr. Franz, and the gendarme were adequately filled by Messrs William James Hartley and Milton Crabbe. The play was preceded by the amusing farce, A Kiss in the Dark.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss's Empires, Limited; Resident Manager, Mr Arthur Aldin. — Hugh Stanton and Jessie Burgwitz are here again in that amusing satirical sketch, For Reform; Eugen Marrder contributes a novel equestrian turn with a cleverly trained horse; the Three Nevarros, as equilibrists, introduce some novel and daring feats, which prove popular; Alice Simmons sings several high-class operatic ballads; Chas. Vincent as a comedian, has a good style; and Geo. Bohee gives two fine banjo selections. The imitations of popular artists by Rose Archer are neat; the Three Victorias are smart dancers; Jimmy Shields, is a clever one-legged dancer; and the sketch V.C. completes a varied programme.

TIVOLI AND QUEEN'S, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr S. King Alexander; Acting-Managers, Mr Fred C. Ewing and Mr T. J. Colquhoun.—Geo. Formby, who has entered upon his third week here, continues to meet with undiminished popularity; the Karno Trio are most amusing in their sketch and ball-punching act; the Three Dagmars are daring acrobats; Fred Lloyd and company display much humour in a sketch; and W. E. Hilton, the popular Scottish ventriloquist; Marie Joyce, comedienne; Collins and Rice, comedy artists; Ted Waite, comedian; the Lynches, song illustrators; Carle and Carmanelli, musical entertainers; the Weimars, wire-walkers; and Allen M'Askell, comic juggler, also contribute.

PALACE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Rich Waldon and Thos. Barrasford; Assistant-Manager, Mr Harry M'Kelvie.—The company this week is up to the usual high standard. The principal attraction is Lind, who displays wonderful ability in his female impersonations. Other members of the company include Joe Hayman and Mildred Franklin, American speciality artists; Nancy St. John, comedienne; the Donator, acrobatic marvels; Bob Hamilton, comedian and instrumentalist; Lillian, trick cyclist; Alix Lukos, vocalist; Mdlle. Flora Lumière, the human butterfly; George Penn, eccentric musician; the Judges, acrobats and trick leapers; and a display of up-to-date animated pictures.

GOOLE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr John E. Tomlinson.—Miss Lena Stanton's company opened here on Monday in the pantomime Dick Whittington. The company is under the personal direction of the author, Mr Harry E. Joseph. Miss Lena Stanton proves a capital principal boy in the title-rôle, her singing and acting being greatly appreciated. As Alice Fitzwarren Miss M. Gerrard plays the part with brightness and vivacity. Miss J. Burnette is a pleasing Lord Bob. The comedians are headed by Little Keeno, whose funny performance as Captain Spanker goes far to ensure the success of the pantomime. Miss M. Linn makes a decided hit with a capitally executed dance. Mr B. Green puts in some good work as Margarine Mopps and Mr Harry Jay keeps the fun going as Emperor Kopall, and is warmly applauded for his capital topical songs. Mr A. Brooks keeps the house in roars as Idle Jack, and Mr G. James is a capital Fitzwarren. Miss C. Shannons is a charming Princess Pre-Tee. The Cat is cleverly portrayed by Mr Joe Paulette. Some clever specialities are included in the pantomime, amongst the best being Jay, the ventriloquist; Joe Paulitti, French cycling clown; Leo Voel, acrobatic gymnast; and the Great Pynfield, in his marvellous chair performance. Special mention should be made of the Cecil Troupe of lady dancers. The augmented orchestra is under the direction of Mr Raymond Lancaster.

GUERNSEY.

ST. JULIAN'S HALL.—Sole Lessee, Mr C. Robt. Perkins.—On Monday the boards were occupied by Mr Fred Mouillot's company in My Lady Molly on a return visit. Miss Zoe Gilfillan won golden opinions for her bright and vivacious impersonation of Alice. Lady Molly found a charming and clever exponent in Miss Beatrice Edwards; Hester was engagingly played by Miss Madge Carr; Miss Darcier cleverly acted Madeline; Miss Hilda Marks (Allison) and Miss Kate Holmes (Lucy) were both meritorious; Mr George M'Closkie was highly diverting as Mickey; Mr Ernest Mozar scored as Lionel Bland; and Mr H. Hearder capably gave Captain Romney, both musically and dramatically.

GLOUCESTER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Owners, Messrs C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr W. H. Weller.—The visit of the D'Oyly Carte company is always looked forward to, and full houses are a matter of course. The répertoire company is appearing this week in The Mikado, The Gondoliers, Yeoman of the Guard, The Pirates of Penzance, H.M.S. Pinafore, and Trial by Jury. On Monday in The Mikado Mr Albert Kavanagh was quaint in the title-rôle; Mr Pacie Ripple as Nanki-Poo was at once installed a favourite; Mr C. H. Workman as Ko-Ko was droll in the extreme; Pook-Bah was in the hands of the old favourite Mr Fred Billington, who fully sustained his reputation as a laughter-maker; Mr Leicester Tunks was an excellent Pish-Tush; and Go-To was ably played by Mr Fred Drawater. Yum-Yum was vivaciously enacted by Miss Norah Maguire; Miss Theresa Rassam was highly appreciated for her rendition of Katisha; and Miss Jessie Rose and Miss Alice Lisle as Pitti-Sing and Peep-Bo adequately represented their respective rôles. The musical conductor, Mr T. Silver, was absent on Monday owing to illness, but it is hoped he will occupy his accustomed seat before the engagement terminates here.

GREAT YARMOUTH.

ROYAL AQUARIUM.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. W. Nightingale. — The successful musical comedy, In Dahomey, is attracting full houses this week, and hearty applause and laughter greet the quaint humour of a most attractive and uncommon play. The two clever comedians—Dan Avery as Rareback Pinkerton and Chas. Hart as Shylock Homestead—have the lion's share of the work to do, and there is not a dull moment whilst they occupy the stage. Excellent aid is afforded by Pete Hampton as Hamilton Lightfoot, Fred Douglas as Dr. Straight, Walter Dixon as Hustling Charlie, Leon Williams as George Reader, Laura Bowman as Cecilia, and Pauline Freeman as Rosetta Lightfoot. Dances are given with delightful vigour, and songs are sung most expressively. The cake walk is quite a feature of the evening's entertainment.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr Geo. Gilbert.—The Eight Leopolds give a wonderful show as acrobats; the Bros. Lloyd contribute an exceedingly clever rope act; the Cosmos excel as comedian and musicians; and Richard Bellony does a sensational gymnastic turn. Zanfretti and Napio, musical comedians; M'Cann's Troupe of performing Irish terriers; Rabitt and Bishop, Tom Culeen, and the animated pictures complete an excellent programme.

GREENOCK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, the Executors of the late Mr Alex. Wright; Managers, Messrs A. B. Wright and J. J. Wright.—Mr Moullot's company is paying a welcome visit here this week with the musical comedy The Runaway Girl. Mr Henry Latimer makes the part of Brother Tamarind sufficiently lugubrious; Mr Archie Croft plays Guy Stanley in bright and breezy fashion, and also sings and dances well; Mr Alec M. Shinnie distinguishes himself as Lord Coodle; Mr Jake Fern is an amusing Mr Creel; Mr W. Selby gives a capital impersonation of Leonello, and possesses a fine voice, which he uses effectually. Mr Clifton fills the rôle of an amusingly bloodthirsty brigand with success; and Mr Howard Cridland as Flipper causes roars of laughter by his quaintly humorous acting. Miss Amy Edmonds is a vivacious Alice, singing and dancing charmingly; Miss Ethel Netherton is most delightful as Winifred Grey, and sings very sweetly; Miss Addie Plaice as Dorothy Stanley sings nicely; and Miss Marie Shield is very good as Carmentina. Lady Coodle finds an excellent exponent in Miss Kate Vivian, and Miss Violet Lingard is captivating as Mrs Creel, and is applauded for her singing. A strong and well-balanced chorus and orchestra are ably directed by Mr Gordon Stamford.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. L. Skivington.—Sinclair and Whiteford, vaudeville artists, do a very amusing "turn." Harry Cove, baritone-vocalist, sings well; A. J. Gamble, eccentric comedian, is loudly applauded; Benson and Waite are seen in an interesting variety act; R. C. M'Gill is an amusing character comedian; Ralston and France give an excellent nautical scena; the Alskarno Trio of acrobats are clever; and the Cinématograph shows new pictures.

GRIMSBY.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr J. H. Curry; Assistant-Manager, Mr S. Tolfree.—A great success has been scored here this week by the popular Gaiety musical play The Orchid upon its first visit. A capital representation was given by Mr George Dance's company. In the principal comedy part of Meakin Mr Charles R. Walenn's drolleries and quaint mannerisms are productive of much amusement. Miss Ethel Bryant admirably realises the character of the principal student of the Horticultural College, Lady Violet Anstruther, whilst as the pupil teacher, Josephine Zaccary, Miss Irene Desmond performs with infinite charm. The orchid collecting statesman, Mr Aubrey Chesterton, is well represented by Mr Ernest Darrell, whose make-up is highly suggestive of a certain well-known politician, whilst as his adversary in the pursuit of the orchid, the Comte Raoul De Cassignat, Mr Edmund Page is sufficiently bombastic and fiery. Smart dancing is accomplished by Mr Arthur P. Hemsley as the orchid hunter, Zaccary. Mr G. Davy Burnaby is good as the Hon. Guy Scrymgeour, whilst Miss Madge Lucas is well suited to the character of Caroline Vokins. Other parts are well played by Miss Sylvia De Lacy as Zelie Rumbert, Miss Chrissie Ralland as Thisbe, Miss Ida Chichester as Countess Anstruther, and Mr Edmund Hollick as Dr. Ronald Faussett.

NEW PALACE THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr Frank Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr Steuart Cecil.—The experiments in the manipulation and properties of liquid air exhibited here this week have considerably interested the large audiences which have assembled. A harmonious turn was that given by the Gothams, who introduced a musical and humorous entertainment entitled "Miss Green." Valoni has presented some novel juggling, and his performing pigeons were also appreciated. Capital cornet duets were given by the Sisters Maginel-Mullini. A pleasing turn was that given by Dinah Morris and her troupe of Southern State artists. Smart gymnastics were performed by Victoria Dagmar and Clown, and others contributing to the programme were Chas. Mildare, described as the human parrot, and George Foyle, character vocalist.

HIPPODROME. — Proprietor, Mr T. Allan Edwardes; General Manager, Mr H. F. Millar; Assistant-Manager, Mr H. H. Watson. — A comedy duologue, The Man in Possession, presented by Blake and Granby, has caused much laughter at the Hippodrome this week. Slade Murray, actor-vocalist and comedian, has repeated his former success, and has contributed some entertaining songs. A complete marionette circus, manipulated by the Sisters Petram, was greatly appreciated, and was very cleverly worked. The Brothers Vance gave a capital comedy instrumental turn; whilst others appearing were Bert Lytton, comedian; the Delemere Trio, comedy equilibrists; and Lil Hartley, vocalist and comedienne. A display of animated pictures by R. Barnes's apparatus completed the programme.

HARTLEPOOL.

EMPRESS.—Proprietors, Councillor Everton and J. W. Craggs.—On Monday Miss Rose Monerieff and her company presented Little Red Riding Hood to two packed houses. Mr W. C. Matthews as Granny caused much laughter. As the Prince Miss Jessie De Gray scored a success, and others deserving of praise were the Coopers, with musical specialities, and Mons. Levano, the Arabian whirlwind tumbler

HALIFAX.

GRAND THEATRE. — Managing Director, Mr William Robinson; General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—Mr Arthur Milton's pantomime, Bo-Peep, is paying a flying visit here. It is a bright, merry, and smart production. Miss Ada Wright in the title-rôle is pert, piquant, and pretty; Miss Grace Hayward does very well as Ferdinand; Miss Lily Wright is a captivating Boy Blue—she dances daintily and acts charmingly; the Four Trees are ubiquitous, and add materially to the success of the pantomime by their smartness and versatility. The principal male parts are well handled by Messrs Harry Elliston, the Two Eltons, H. V. Morgan, Jack Hylton, and W. G. Wesley. The dresses are picturesque, and the pantomime is adequately staged.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Frank Macnaghten.—A brisk, bright, breezy pantomime is doing well here this week. The subject is Aladdin, and the company is under the direction of Mr Macnaghten. The comedy element is strong, the singing good, and the scenery suitable. Miss Meg Hamilton is a dashing and vivacious Aladdin; Miss Pollie Prim is a charming Princess; and capital work is done by Misses Lillie Brammer, Gracie Moore, Nellie Harrington, Elsie Ellis, Beattie Mayer, and Myrtle Woodward. The fun-makers, who all work hard and successfully, are Gilbert Rogers, Jack Heath, Will Crackles, Walter Purvis, and Frank Lilliput. The palace scene is a beautiful blending of life and colour and forms a fitting finale to the show.

HANLEY.

ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Chas. Elphinstone.—The pantomime Cinderella continues upon a most successful course. This season's pantomime is voted by all to be the best Christmas fare that has been provided for many years. All the artistes have settled down to their work, and now the performance goes with a merry swing from start to finish. Miss Hilda Guiver has become a prime favourite, and her contributions are vociferously encored. Miss Helene, the Cinderella of the piece, is indeed charming. Messrs Leslie Harris and Edmund Russell as the Two Sisters are exceedingly good, and create much laughter; Miss Leila Byron sings admirably as the Fairy Queen; Mr Robert Whyte, jun., as the Baron displays much skill; Mr Morny Cash is a capital Page, his performance being brimful of fun; the New Macs make a great hit; the Donaldson Brothers and Ardell, in their menagerie act, are first class, their speciality being much appreciated; Miss Violet Gordon deserves much praise for her excellent impersonation of Deadly Nightshade. Miss Nora Emerald as Dandini scores successfully, and Miss Rossiter as a dancer is a huge success.

GRAND, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr C. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr James Wynes.—A capital programme is submitted this week. At the head is Carl Hertz in his marvellous conjuring and illusions. This gentleman gives an exhibition which is nothing short of astounding. Belloni's performing parrots are most entertaining and clever. Lillian Travelli is a capital ballad vocalist. Sam Daly is a good comedian, and meets with appreciation. Conn and Conrad, the quiet burglars, are excellent gymnasts. Mr and Mrs Edward Lucas contribute a clever turn, their scenes from Dickens being indeed brilliant. Miss Addie Dorina in a quick-change sketch, entitled How She Did It, displays much histrionic ability, and the changes are made with great rapidity. The Grand pictures are as usual excellent.

HARROGATE.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr F. Smith.—Mr J. Gar Kiddie's company opened a week's engagement here on Monday in the pantomime of Little Bo-Peep. The production is extremely bright and attractive in scenic effects and dressing, full of amusement and entertainment. Miss Flo Warner was thoroughly vivacious as Boy Blue, and Miss Lizzie Payne prettily sustained the title-rôle. Both ladies sang well, and met with great success. Mr J. W. Groves as Granny Brown cleverly sustained the part, and with Mr E. H. Bertram as the Baron, and Mr J. Gar Kiddie as Tommy Long, and F. Blarney as Johnny Stout contributed much to the fun and success of the performance. Miss Grace Compton was smart as Lord De Rhino, Mr W. H. Gatty as the Demon Wolf, and Miss Norah Beverley as Fairy Moonbeam filled their respective parts to the entire satisfaction of the audience. The dancing of the Milstead Quartet was excellent, and the ballets arranged by Mdlle. Thompson, were much admired.

HASTINGS.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Geo. H. Gaze. This week we have Mr E. Oswald Brooke's No. 1 company with the musical comedy, The Girl from Bond Street, conducted by the composer, Mr Louis La Rondelle, and stage-managed by Mr Edward De Vere. Miss Marie Vere fills the rôle of Lucy Harvey very acceptably; she is associated with Mr Campbell Goldsmid as the Earl of Seacombe, who masquerades as one of the trio of Pierrots. Their duet, "Be my Pierrette," is noticeably good, and a concerted number at the conclusion of the second act is a stirring finale. Miss Doris Regan as Lottie Harvey and Mr Edward De Vere as Mickey contribute some good comic scenes; Miss Ethel Russell is graceful as Lady Fielding; Miss Maud Beard acts vigorously as Mrs Harvey; Miss Ivy Alberto as Edna Vanderbilt gains much applause for a well-executed step dance; and as the Kickapoo Girls the Misses Flo Farmer, Miriam Sandford, Ida Curtis, and Louie Francis dance with acrobatic agility. Mr Geo. Watts, who fills the rôle of Sir George Fielding, sings "The Lazy Coon" with novel effects, contributed by the New York Quartet. Mr F. R. Heaton as the Hon. Archie Greene complete the trio of Pierrots, and the remaining characters are adequately presented.

HASTINGS PIER PAVILION.—Pier Manager, Mr R. Turner; Entertainment Manager, Mr J. D. Hunter.—Mr Swinerd's No. 1 company is appearing here in the musical comedy, entitled Dare-Devil Dorothy. Mr Cecil W. Parke is a good representative of Capt. George Vivian. The part of Edward Dudley is well taken by Mr Henry C. Ward; Mr Arthur Verne represents Silas Crump humorously, and Miss Marjorie Cecil, pleasing vocalist, makes a delightful Squatter's daughter. Miss Kathleen Garnon as Ruth and Miss Nellie Harcourt as Judith deserve praise.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr Harold Penny. — The programme here is opened by two clever juveniles, Hill and Lane, who perform in a musical comedy; Miss Minnie D'Aubyn is an attractive burlesque artist; Sibb and Sibb (Gertie and Bertie), give a marvellous exhibition on the double trapeze; the coloured vocalist, Mr W. H. Downs, possesses a fine baritone voice; Mr Frederic Neiman delights his audience with his ventriloquial minstrels; the Katos, in their automatic theatre are a great success; Miss Florrie Moore is warmly welcomed as the comedy girl; and Mr Wal Pink and his comedy company may be complimented on their amusing sketch.

HEREFORD.

GARRICK THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton; General Manager, Mr Louis Karpe; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank J. Pitt.—Mr J. H. Tomkinson's Gipsy Combination company is here this week. Mr Fred M'Lean is a droll comedian who provokes hearty laughter; the Lizzette acrobats are clever; the Keiths, in musical selections, are warmly appreciated; Miss Evie Lynn's songs and speciality dances are excellent; and Gracie Bard, Annie Knowles, May Bishop, and Maurice Lindsay further aid the evening's entertainment.

DRILL HALL.—Manager, Mr A. Lovesey.—A Chinese Honeymoon is the attraction here for two nights.

HUDDERSFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy G. Arthur.—Mr Edward Compton has laid playgoers under deep obligation by his unswerving loyalty to the best in old English comedy. Of a play like Davy Garrick, played this week for the 1,180th time, little that is new remains to be said save that despite its continual repetition it has lost none of its picturesqueness. The fine performance of The School for Scandal showed the resources of Mr Compton and his clever company. Every member of the cast seemed to have caught the spirit of the time, and played with a skill that made every point tell. Mr Compton gave a really brilliant performance of Charles Surface; Miss Haidee Gunn was a most fascinating Lady Teazle; Mr Henry Crocker's Sir Peter was admirable; and Mr A. B. Imeson was to the life the man of sentiment, Joseph Surface. Of the other characters, Mr Chas. R. Stone was breezy as Sir Oliver; Mr Arnold Lucy, cynical as Crabtree; Mr G. W. Johnston, airy as Backbite; Mr Meynall, insinuating as Snake; Miss Evelyn Hall was a scheming Lady Sneerwell; Miss Mackenzie modest yet loyal as Maria; and Miss Marie Hassell a good-natured and irresponsible Mrs Candour. The mounting and dressing of the old play were both well done.

HULL.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr W. Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr W. F. Morton.— After a phenomenal success, the pantomime, Sleeping Beauty, this week draws to a close. It has filled a very large place in Hull amusements, and regret is keen that the engagement must terminate this week. All and sundry have done their best to secure success. Its bright and catching choruses and superb scenery, its dainty dresses, its clever comedians, and sweet singers have all been points that have appealed to the public. Miss Esme Gordon, the principal boy, carries away with her the knowledge that she has scored throughout the production; Miss Daisy Stratton, likewise, has won a warm place; whilst Mr Bishop, Mr Chippendale, and Mr Churchill have given proof of their peculiar powers, and make for fun and frolic clean, wholesome, and pure.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; Local Manager, Mr Wynn Miller.—Mr Leviliy's charming opera company, in the pretty composition Amorelle, is here for a short stay. Luckily it still contains in its ranks that talented comedian, Mr Eric Thorne, whose every appearance on the stage is the signal for loud and prolonged laughter; he is a comedian of ceaseless resource, ever keeping his audience amused. Mr Thorne's efforts are admirably seconded by Miss Stella Gastelle, who adds to a charming voice the additional charm of acting in an intelligible fashion.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Sole Owner, Mr W. Morton; Manager, Mr Geo. Morton. — A Life's Revenge is a play not new to this city, but one that is already well known. Miss Marie Dagmar as the Princess Vanda is a very powerful artist, and adds to the reputation she has already gained.

PALACE THEATRE.— Moss' Empires, Limited; Manager, Mr A. Graham.—Florrie Gallimore is one of the prime attractions this week. The Dandies are a turn that has met much favour.

EMPIRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Jno. Sylvester Sage.—Salmon, the trick cyclist, and the Two Attilas are the principal turns here. Sam Shipley, comedian, is well received, and Tom Vine's extempore songs meet with much favour. Beatie Worth is a comedienne of merit, and Sill and Silcott, Clara Nesbitt, and the Bioscope complete the bill.

CIRCUS.—Resident-Manager, Mr E. Emerson.—Madame Lloyd's choir and orchestra, under the management of Mr S. Lloyd, make a welcome appearance here. The artists include Celia Allington, contralto; Myra Bennett, Tyrolean vocalist; E. Carl, soprano, in illustrated songs; Gilbert Childs, a smart comedian; Lily Leighton, danseuse; and Floretta, who appears in a clever exhibition of sand and smoke painting.

HYDE.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Joseph W. Maloney.—The Fatal Wedding is being presented here this week by Mr Bert Coote's company. Mr Ernest Owttrim plays with earnestness and conviction the part of Howard Wilson, Miss Theresa Osborne makes a sympathetic Mabel Wilson, and the highest encomiums must be bestowed upon Miss Gladys Rose Jones, to whose bright and animated portrayal of the rôle of Jessie is due in a great measure the success of the drama. The villainous side of human nature is admirably depicted by Mr Cecil Collins as Robert Curtis, and Miss Beatrice Whitney as Cora Williams. The comedy element is in the capable hands of Messrs J. Carl Lyle as Toto, Shirley Lea as Peter Schwartz, and Miss Carrie Fenton as Bridget. Mr Jack Waring is successful as the kind-hearted policeman O'Reilly.

HORWICH.

NEW PRINCE'S THEATRE. — Manager, Mr Sandiford.—Mr Frank Lindo's company, in Home, Sweet Home, is here this week. The piece is admirably staged and the scenery very effective. The company is an exceptionally strong all-round one, and includes Mr Frank Lindo, whose impersonation of Stephen Armitage is a masterly performance. Mr Geo. Jervis as David Armitage plays the old fisherman to the life. Captain Gerald Gambier's portrayal of the Duke of Ancaster is very natural. Mr Wilson Coleman depicts Lucas Lyle as a very black character. Mr Edwin Clarke as Gaffer, Mr Jack Lennard as Keary, and Mr Norton Shields as Doctor Granby make the most of their small parts. Mr Geo. Overs as Dick Redmayne, Mr Sidney Bryant as Percy (the Earl's son), and Mr Ernest E. Owers as Lord Silvermere are excellent. Miss Marion Wakeford as Joan is most artistic, both as the humble fisherman's wife and the Earl's daughter. Miss Amy Carlton plays Lady Summerton, an old aristocrat. Miss Gertrude Bingham's Sybil Fay is decidedly good, and her business with Percy very amusing. Dora is very prettily and carefully rendered by Little Madge Bingham.

HOYLAND.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Owner, Mr Arthur Carlton; Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Geo. S. King.—Miss Elizabeth Ruggles and Miss Gladys Rees' company, in A Woman's Redemption, is here this week. Miss Elizabeth Ruggles has a capital part in Ruth, and Miss Gladys Rees' rendering of Mary Griffiths is admirable. Mr Franklyn Graham finely acts the rôle of Bernard Sutcliffe, and Mr Edward Avinal proves himself excellent in the part of Rev. John Ganthony. Mr Fred Lillywhite as Reuben Griffiths is very good, and Mr John A. Stimpson as Claudius Lowe and Miss Ida Cunard as Sally provide plenty of mirth.

ILKESTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr L. F. A. Rogers; Musical Director, Mr C. Keith Smith.—Messrs Forge and Dalton's pantomime, Cinderella, is being played to good houses. Miss Lizzie Primmer as Cinderella gives clever treatment to the rôle, and is rewarded with hearty applause; Miss Chummie La Mara as Prince Paragon evinces much smartness; Miss Julie Alexander as Dandini has a part which fits her well; Mr Fred C. Brooks and Little Tony as Angelina and Seraphina (the Ugly Sisters) are truly humorous; Mr Johnny Chippendale as Baron Bunker is successful; and Mr C. T. Chaloner is a very acceptable Peter Pickles. Messrs J. Forge and T. Lemiere are praiseworthy as the Brokers' Men. Gertrella is a clever gymnastic show. The Quartano Troupe of dancers, George Bright, speciality dancer; Forge and Lemiere, in a musical act; the Swift Trio of cyclists, and the Musical Japs are the specialities introduced.

INVERNESS.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr Cameron Burgess.—Mr Charles Maodona's company, with A Chinese Honeymoon, is here this week. Mr George P. Ascot is immensely funny as M. Pineapple, Hang Chow finds a capable representative in Mr Lester Carey, and Mr Percy Stephens as Chippie Chop and Mr Tom Birch as Hi Lung are both well placed. Mr H. A. Welchman does justice to the part of Tom Hatherton, Fi Fi as represented by Miss Cissy Seofield is exceedingly funny, Miss Mamie Finbow makes a charming Princess Soo-Soo, and Miss Mabel Carlton is all that can be wished as Mrs Pineapple.

IPSWICH.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. G. Fisk.—For the first time in Ipswich The Gingalee was produced on Monday evening by Mr George Dance's company, and has been repeated during the week to large audiences. Mr Francis Ludlow appears as Harry Vereker, his singing and acting being effective throughout. Mr Fred W. Pattrick, an old Ipswich favourite, was well suited in the part of Boobhamba, his fine presence and humorous rendering of the Eastern potentate being heartily acknowledged. Mr F. W. Ford as the High Commissioner was imposing and quaint, while Bobbie Warren, in the hands of Mr George Mudie, jun., showed himself to be an accomplished singer as well as a clever actor. The other male characters were well sustained, Mr Lauri de Frece deserving a special word of praise for his presentment of a Baboo lawyer. The chief female characters were most capably portrayed, Miss Mabel Sealby as Peggy Sabine making a decided hit. Miss Madge Temple was also repeatedly applauded for her fine rendering of Lady Patricia Vane, and Miss Trissie March's dancing was a pleasant feature of the piece.

IPSWICH HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr Fred Barrett.—Among the new turns at the Woodbridge-road place of entertainment this week are the following:—The Cirnocs, handcuff experts, surprised the natives by his easy way of releasing themselves from manacles and leg-irons. A pleasing item was the appearance of the Victoria Troupe of dancers, and Mdlle. Leo-Ville accomplished some PORT ARTHUR.

The Proprietors of FUO shipped to this now historic town a large quantity of their Mouth-Wash, just previous to the outbreak of hostilities. A cynic has suggested that this may have something to do with the tenacity with which the Russians have held on to the town and its contents, and also the determination of the Japs to obtain control of the Port.

FUO is a delicious and refreshing teeth-beautifier and mouth-sweetener.

(Known on the Continent as Barnängen's Vade-Mecum.)

FUO is the most highly concentrated, and consequently the most economical, of all preparations for the teeth and mouth. Five drops of FUO are ample for all ordinary purposes, and each bottle at 2s. 9d. contains about 2000 drops, or sufficient for 400 times.

OF ALL CHEMISTS AND STORES. If unobtainable, a bottle of FUO and address of nearest Retailer will be sent, post free, for 2s. 9d. British Depôt (Wholesale only), 12, Little Britain, London, E.C. wonderful conjuring tricks and other illusions. Other specialities were Miss Allen Douglas, soprano vocalist; George Barron, eccentric comic; Joe Hennesey, club manipulator; Dave Wallace, topical singing; Miss May Barrett, juvenile singer and dancer; and some dramatic living pictures from The Sign of the Cross.

KETTERING.

KIDDERMINSTER.

NEW OPERA HOUSE.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr Jas. P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr R. C. Gudgeon, jun.—This week Mr Arthur Gibbons is presenting his pretty Christmas pantomime entitled Beauty and the Beast. Miss Linda Reston as Beauty gives an excellent rendering of the part; Miss Gertrude Wright makes a charming Amoroso, the Spirit of Love; Miss Marie Beaufort as Prince Charming sings well and acts gracefully; Mr Sydney Vereker creates plenty of fun as Ko-Hop, and Mr Albert E. Mann as Maude Hannah is equally good. Mr Will Holland and Mr Tom Banks the Twin Babes, are very clever; Miss Trissie Mills, Miss Rosie Knott, and the Sisters Hula give a smart exhibition of acrobatic dancing.

TIVOLI. — Proprietors. Messrs Lester Reekie and Howard Stephens.—At this hall Gaertner and Weston give a good show; Sidney Dolf's speciality is interesting; Miss M. Blake, Frank Tyrrell, The Titlers, and Chrissie Leon all do excellent work.

KILMARNOCK.

KING'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr A. Hales.—On Monday Messrs George Edwardes and Charles Frohman's company appeared here in Are You a Mason? As Amos Bloodgood Mr Harry Ashford is a great success, as is Mr Anthony Fawcett in the double rôle of George Fisher and the French Milliner. Mr Arthur Claremont as Trant Perry, Mr Tom Mowbray as John Halton, and Mr Valentine O'Connor as Ernest Morrison show great talent in their respective parts. Miss Harriet Trench makes a capital Mrs Bloodgood, and the parts of Eva, Annie, and Lulu are rendered in a pleasing manner by Misses Violet Graham, Lily Beagle, and Isla Glynn. As a curtain-raiser the comedietta Hushed Up is presented.

KING'S LYNN.

NEW ROYAL THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Bannister Howard; Business Manager, Mr Herbert Leonard. — Messrs John Restall and Reginald S. Turner's pantomime Cinderella is appearing here this week. Cinderella is charmingly played by Miss Ada Lindley, and Miss A. Craig makes a capital Prince Charming. All the other parts are ably sustained. Specialities are supplied by Master Rochester, the wonderful pianist, and the celebrated Sinclair Troupe, the Jersey lillies.

LEAMINGTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.— Lessees, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Manager, Mr Henry Esden. — The attraction here is a musical version of Dickens's novel, The Cricket on the Hearth, admirably presented by Mr and Mrs Calvert Routledge and company. Mr Calvert Routledge gives a sympathetic impersonation of Peerybingle; Mrs Routledge's study of Dot is quite charming; and Mr Sydney Sarl as Tackleton and Mr David Curtis as Caleb Plummer are both well placed. Miss Sybil Ruskin is a capable exponent of Dickensian pathos as embodied in the part of Bertha; and Miss Dora Lewis gives a diverting sketch of the eccentric personage, Tilly Slowboy.

ARCADIA.—The performances of the Municipal Orchestra, under Mr C. S. Birch (Director of Public Music) are supplemented this week by Mr Walter Jeffs' excellent New Century Animated Pictures, which come direct from the Curzon Hall, Birmingham.

LEEDS.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Richardson.—Under the extended title of The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe Mr Hart's annual grand pantomime runs on smoothly and successfully, and there is as yet no diminution of the vast crowds which nightly gather to be entertained. The splendid ballets and show scenes continue to arouse the greatest enthusiasm, and the strenuous efforts to please put forth by a galaxy of clever principals are thoroughly appreciated and enjoyed.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr R. Ernest Liston.—Having settled down into shape, the Royal pantomime of Cinderella is vastly popular, and the "house full" board is in constant requisition. The comedians have rapidly developed their parts, and the show is a feast of fun from start to finish. Messrs Fred Baugh and Standley Wade are to be complimented on the elaborate staging and pretty dressing, for in this direction the production easily eclipses all its predecessors.

QUEEN'S THEATRE. — Lessees, Messrs Dottridge and Longden; General Manager, Mr C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Bush.—There was a very full house here on Monday to witness the opening performance of Walter Melville's newest play A Girl's Cross Roads, and the author's company presented the piece most effectively. Some very realistic and powerful acting is done by Miss Hilda Beverley in the principal part of Barbara Wade. Miss Nell Oliver is likewise very effective as Nellie Meadows, and Miss Grace Richardson submits the part of Constance Cornelle with pronounced ability. As Farmer Meadows Mr Chas. Franmore is a conspicuous success. The rôle of Jack Livingstone is a well-sustained effort by Mr Cecil A. Melton. Mr Barry Lewers, Mr Charles Terry, and Mr Fred Ingram display good ability in leading parts, and have much to do with the general success.

EMPIRE PALACE. — Moss Empires, Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr T. Gerald Morton. — The leading turn here consists of an exhibition of Japanese drill by a bevy of pretty ladies, who do their work very smartly. Charles Coborn, the comedian, reappears after a long absence, and is doing extremely well. The Two Bostons, comedians, are successful with clever and amusing burlesque business. The Tourbillon Troupe repeat last week's triumphs with more expert trick cycling feats, and the Two Butterflies are juvenile performers of a graceful trapeze act. A diminutive eccentric who boasts the name of Little Ulpts is very amusing. The Bioscope pictures are interesting. Enjoyable turns are submitted by Daisy Ray, coon specialist; O'Brien Brothers, acrobatic bar performers; and Three Sisters Slater, vocalists and expert dancers.

TIVOLI. — Proprietor, Mr Thomas Barrasford; Managers, Messrs Charles Weldon and Edgar O. Waller.—Harry Ford, the popular comedian, is a strong top-of-the-bill turn here, his clever songs and patter being original and amusing. Acrobatics are a strong feature, varied exhibitions being given by the Paxton Trio, the Bennicelli Troupe, and Amiel, an expert contortionist. Mons. Slippère, a blind artiste, contributes an enjoyable vocal and musical turn; Tock and Tard provide amusing comedy business; H. Aldridge, vocalist, sings some capital songs in good style; Farley, Rennie, and Farley repeat their novel comedy act with great success; and Lily Seville, comedienne and dancer, completes the bill.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr F. W. Wood; General Manager, Mr J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr S. Jones.—The Loma Trio head an attractive programme with an expert acrobatic act; a clever farce entitled Three Husbands, by Frank Purcell's company, is a very popular and humorous feature; whilst of the rest nobody does better than Charles Russell, a favourite descriptive vocalist, Joe Humphries, character comedian; Oakley and James, speciality artistes; Rappo and Ella, equilibrists and acrobats; and Mystery Gauze, Indian artiste, are also appearing.

LEICESTER.

ROYAL OPERA HOUSE. — Sole Proprietor and Manager, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; Acting-Manager, Mr C. D. Leigh.—Mr Moullot's principal company, in the comedy-drama A Message from Mars, is the attraction here this week. The play, which has been seen here before, is exceedingly well done, and proves as fascinating as ever. Mr F. Rawson Buckley makes a conspicuous success as Horace Parker, and Mr William H. Brougham as the Messenger leaves nothing to be desired. Mr Bruce Lindley is in every way excellent as the Tramp. Both Mr Frank G. Dunn as Arthur Dicey and Mr W. Maxwell as the Policeman are good. Miss Flora Hastings as Miss Parker plays with her usual ability. Miss May Saker makes a delightfully clever Minnie Templar, and Miss Joan Meredith renders a good account of herself as Mrs Clarence.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Sole Lessee, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; General Manager, Mr John H. Clarke.—In Old Kentucky, a favourite with the patrons of this theatre, is being staged here again this week by Mr J. F. Elliston's versatile company under the direction of Mr Chas. Hermann. Miss Amy F. Hermann repeats her clever and popular impersonation of the rôle of Madge Brierley. Mr J. George Steel is good as Frank Harley, and Mr Eric Hudson is capital as Jasper Grafton. Mr Alfred S. Bankes shines as Colonel Pebley Beauchamp, and Mr Harry Leander as Neb plays admirably. Praise should also be meted out to Miss Beatrice Shirley, Miss Edith Halford, Miss Ethel Smith, and Mr Gerald Kennedy. Mr Jimmie James gives an enjoyable selection on the banjo, and Mr Will Whittaker is a siffleur of ability.

PALACE THEATRE, LIMITED. — Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Leonard Vidal.—The premier position in this week's programme is held by La Loie Fuller, whose beautiful performance is enhanced by magnificent electrical effects. Harry Lamore on the slack wire gives a show that is brimful of humour and cleverness; Nellie Coleman, the lady comedian, repeats her usual success; as a clay modeller Dome's turn has the merit of being both clever and laughable; the Sisters Devona give a daring and graceful aerial gymnastic act; the Lumars are seen to great advantage in their novel acrobatic act; Phillips and Terry cause much merriment with Revolt of Man; or, a Hundred Years Hence; Charles Gardiner, eccentric comedian, goes well; Miss Alice Maydue, character comedienne, is entertaining; and the Howards (Ralph and Nellie), in comedy and melody are good.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter Lapworth.—The Five Bon-Bons, in their pantomime trap scena, A Hot Time for One, top the bill here this week. Baker Belphor, baritone, late of Sam Hague's Minstrels, sings well; Almon gives a very clever hand-balancing turn; Gilroy and Cross are capital comedians and dancers; the Zampas shine as duettists, dancers, and bâton manipulators; Jennie Reeves, comedienne; and the Wallonells, in a comic triple bar act, also entertain. Flo Viller, male impersonator, appears as deputy for May Lilian Levey.

LEIGH.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Dewhurst; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Dewhurst—The management is to be complimented on securing Mr Gordon Starkey's company in The Message from Mars. Mr Cyril Austin-Lee gives a thoroughly sound performance as Horace Parker; Mr Percy Tyler is a capital exponent of the Tramp; Mr William Lockhart furnishes a masterly portrayal of the Messenger; Miss Violet Auberles is an excellent Miss Parker; Miss Edith Cuthbert successfully interpreted the part of Minnie Templars; Mr A. Collins-Rolfe does well as Arthur Dicey; Mr C. E. Wentworth as the policeman and Miss Tracey as Polly also deserve mention. The piece is preceded each evening by the amusing farce entitled A Kiss in the Dark.

LINCOLN.

ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr Frank King.—Mr W. W. Kelly brings us his Royal Divorce once again, and a crowded house on Monday bade the company welcome, reserving a special ovation for Miss Edith Cole for her acting as Empress Josephine. Mr Frederick Victor is strong and incisive as Napoleon. Mr H. Gray Dolby does well as Talleyrand, Mr Alfred Grenville is effective as Augereau, and Mr Cecil Due Gue as De Beaumont and Mr E. G. Batley as Murat are also satisfactory. Mr Dennis Bryan creates roars of laughter as Grimaud. Miss Ethyle Murray as Marie Louise, scores an artistic success, and Miss Helen Richmond must be awarded a special word of praise as the vivacious Stephanie. Miss Maggie Cardiff plays the King of Rome admirably.

PALACE.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr Sydney Arthur.—Dida, who recently startled London at the Alhambra, is the sensation which tops the bill here, and completely mystifies local audiences. Zarmo presents a comedy juggling turn with a wit all his own; Alf Levaine's wire act is very smart; and the M'Kays contribute a clever item under the title of Dry Humour and Wet Paint. A very entertaining bar act is that in which the Rozells are seen to advantage; Fred Herbert catches on as a topical vocalist; Charles Bowker, the singing cobbler, gives a notable act; and Flo Deighton sings two songs with much acceptance.

LONG EATON.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr T. Meakin.—The Bells of Haslemere have been ringing merrily at this theatre during the week. Mr Charles A. Chandler has a capable company, and the drama is nicely staged. Mr Leonard Yorke is capital in his representation of Frank Beresford, and Miss Florence Chandler is clever as Nora Desmond. The Smithy scene is amusing, Mr Charles Cecil scoring as the man with the brawny arm, and he is assisted ably by Miss Stafford Smith as Dorothy.

LOWESTOFT.

MARINA THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr E. A. Smith.—The Biggest Scamp on Earth is making its first appearance at Lowestoft this week. The part of Derrick Knight is powerfully portrayed by Mr Percy Carne Waram. Miss Frances Deleval is also seen to great advantage as Naomi Belvedere. Others responsible for good work include Messrs Hamilton Urquhart, Percy Brown, L. W. Halfpenny, Gerald Jeapes, and the Misses Dorothy Mahomed, Sybil Hammersley, and Patty Groves.

LUTON.

GRAND.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr E. Graham Falcon; Assistant Manager, Mr Louis J. Beard.—Mr E. Graham Falcon's pantomime The Forty Thieves is doing good business this week. As Ali Baba Mr W. Cyrus is exceptionally good; Miss Amy Randolf plays the part of Ganem with much dash and spirit; Miss Frances Manners is well placed as Abdallah; Miss Cissie Harcourt does well as Morgiana; Mr Willie Kloof and Mr B. Albert are most amusing as Hassarac and Mustapha respectively; Miss Rosa Charles is a pleasing Zobedie; Mr Arthur B. Carlton as Cogia Baba and Mr Hyam Good as Cassim Baba work well together; and Mr George Dix as the donkey performs capitally. Amongst the specialities the Raynor troupe of acrobats and Cyrus and Maude musical experts, call for special mention.

LIVERPOOL.

ROYAL COURT THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr Arthur Lawrence.—The pantomime of Dick Whittington is now at the floodtide of success, and crowded audiences are nine times each week witnessing its manifold beauties.

SHAKESPEARE THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. M. Hardie; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Gaffney.—Aladdin continues to enjoy public favour, and is running with smoothness, at the same time being strengthened by the addition of new features. The loveliness of the whole production is a matter of general comment.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr J. H. French; Acting-Manager, Mr Sidney Beltram.—The juvenile pantomime Little Red Riding Hood is being enjoyed here by large numbers of children.

ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr M. Montgomery; Licensee, Mr J. G. Howard; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Montgomery, jun.—The popular North-end house is being largely patronised, and Little Aladdin promises to achieve a record as a pantomime.

LYRIC THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Henry C. Arnold; Directors of Entertainments, Messrs T. Barrasford and F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr Fred Coles.—Crowded houses are nightly filling this cosy north-end hall, the chief attraction being Houdini, the original jail-breaker. His performance is without doubt wonderful and mystifying. Tom and Marie Motramo, who bottom the bill, are old favourites here. They are as laughable as ever. Martin Conway is another favourite; he is original and amusing. Ambey Brothers are entertaining, and their sand dancing is loudly applauded. Andy Fagan adds to the evening's mirth; Will Percival is a fine exponent of clog dancing; the Four Arizonas are deservedly applauded for ther acrobatic act; and Bromley and Fontein, vocalists, are good.

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr H. Fineberg; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Simmons.—Honour Thy Father has held the boards here during the week, and has received some measure of public support. The company is led by Mr J. W. Evelyn, an actor of undoubted ability, whose interpretation of the outraged parent is a fine piece of work.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs Carson and Granville; Manager, Mr Fred Granville; Business-Manager, Mr F. L. Arthur.—In the Ranks, despite the fact that it has been before the public for a generation, still possesses drawing powers. The company presenting it is that of Messrs Arthur Carlton and H. Armitage, and includes Mr Edward Lloyd, an admirable Ned Drayton. To Miss Edith Blair-Staples, the Ruth Herrick, warm praise is due for her charming portrayal of the soldier's distressed wife; Mr James E. Page, an able actor, plays Richard Belton with dramatic force and much discretion; the Gideon Blake of Mr Herbert Cecil is a good type of villain; and Mr Archie Chappell proves successful as Captain Holcroft.

EMPIRE, LIMITED.—Acting-Manager, Mr T. A. Cook.—A company of laughter-makers, organised by Mr Fred Karno, is here with Saturday to Monday, a comedy sketch that has held the boards since Boxing Night. The remainder of a capital programme is supported by O. T. Fiske and Nellie M'Donough with a smart comedy-drama entitled Brocky's Temptation; the Vasilescu Troupe of pantomimists are extremely humorous with their eccentricities on the horizontal bars; the Three Donals prove themselves expert acrobats; a pleasing turn is given by the Loro Quartet of musical comedians; the Three Georgis as comic acrobats provoke endless laughter; Harry Lawson sings a number of amusing songs; Charles Cardow is an able mimic and comedian; and the Knick Knacks offer vocal items and speciality dances.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—Mr Arthur Roberts and his company are here this week with the laughable sketch Where's the Count? which has proved a great attraction. The Four Cliftons provide a clever acrobatic show, combining strength with agility; Leo Dryden, the popular actor-vocalist, sings several of his favourite songs; and the Carina Sisters submit an artistic musical melange. Some clever illusions are introduced by Kweery, whose actions are extremely mystifying; Edward and Nettie Masse are a pair of smart comedy jugglers; the Toreadors provide a laughable burlesque entitled "The Spanish Bullfight;" Henry Abdy's canine hippodrome on a revolving table go through a number of neatly performed tricks; Mdlle. Marvelle gives a good show with her trained cockatoos and macaws; and Burton Joyce as a vocalist is an interesting turn.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES. — Manager, Mr M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr F. O'Toole.—The principal part of the programme here this week is provided by Messrs Newland and Walker's comedy company in Law and Jaw, which includes Mr James Newland. The trifle is screamingly amusing and keeps the audience in a continuous merry mood. Additional laughter is the outcome of the work of the Randles with their domestic farce, A Silent Wager; Miss Sheila M'Neil is a clever Scotch character artiste; Mr Syd Herman sings some popular songs; the dancing of Mr Frank Moore is neat; and others in the bill are Little Miss Bobbie, character comedienne, and Mr Will R. Lands, comique.

NEW PARTHENON.—Proprietor, Mr Edwin W. Smith.—A diversified programme is provided here this week. At the top are the Albaro Troupe, with their refined musical act; Tom W. Royal, holder of championships, is undoubtedly an able clog dancer; the Darktown Belles provide an excellent turn as vocalists, comediennes, and sand dancers; Connie Lane is an expert dancer; Fred Casburn sings several acceptable songs; and Rose Finnettee has a good turn with her top-boot skipping-rope dancing. The Royal Bioscope, by Mr Brown, shows a number of excellent films, particularly that of "A Trip to the Sun."

PADDINGTON PALACE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr J. Kiernan.—A good bill is provided here this week. Heading it is Raphael, a comic clay modeller, who with remarkable deftness produces features of classical and grotesque character. O'Connor and Traynor have a turn which creates great amusement, their patter and burlesque boxing being enjoyable. Ivy Graham, a popular serio and coon artiste, gives several pleasing songs; Lizzie Chase is a graceful comedienne and dancer; T. E. Gilbey's show with the rocking ladder is watched with interest; and others are Nora Floyd, contralto and burlesque actress; Little Beatie, child vocalist and dancer; and Bill Bailey (late Billy Renton), comedian and patterer.

WESTMINSTER.—Proprietor, Mr M. Montgomery.—The greater part of the programme here this week is occupied by the Majiltons with their Round the Clock, which seems as fresh as ever. The laughter created by the able company of comedians has been uproarious, and good audiences have been the rule. That versatile comedian George D'Albert has been given a welcome return and accorded loud applause; T. B. Talbot, dialect comedian and speciality artiste, provides a good turn; Harry Naylor, "the man with the funny voice," remains six nights longer; and Carrie Leslie has a répertoire of sensible songs.

PARK PALACE.—Director, Mr James Kiernan.—An acceptable programme is submitted this week at the popular south-end house. Foremost is the sketch company, headed by Mr Charles Carte, with the trifle A Noble Brother, which has been much appreciated. A good turn is that given by Miss Nora Bedford, comedy actress and impersonator; Mr J. Bryce Methven is an accomplished elocutionist and extemporaneous vocalist; Mamie Collins dances prettily; and J. A. Wilson possesses a good baritone voice. Others in the list are Doris Brookes, vocalist and dancer; Gertrude Holmes, contralto; and Payne Reynolds, character comedian.

MACCLESFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr W. K. Gatley.—The drama entitled The God of Night is here this week. Mr Henry L. Osmond as Harry Royce is very successful; Mr W. Corriden as Armond Dubois gives a powerful impersonation; Mr H. Woodin as Sunny Dobbs is capable; Mr A. D. Owen as Henry Dubois does well; the part of Rita is embodied in a successful manner by Mr D. Stewart; Miss Winifred Chalmers becomingly acts the charming Mona Brayton; Little Elsie as Gervaise Dubois delights the audience with some taking songs; Miss Madge Palmer is a charming Estelle; and Miss Maud Yorke as Natalie Latour is very captivating.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Lessee, Mr H. Bendon.—The artistes engaged here include the Evalos, in their new comic juggling and gymnastic mélange; Dan Kennedy, comedian, is a pleasing entertainer; Jarvis and Higgins give a clever and entertaining show; Harry Bendon, comedian, has made a hit with some catchy songs. Barney Noble, character comedian; Miss Olive Poole, comedienne and clog dancer; the Three Sisters Le Graham, vocalists and dancers, are also in the bill.

MAIDENHEAD.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Edgar Dereve and F. L. Schmitz.—Madame Willoughby's pantomime The Babes in the Wood is here for the week. The characters are ably represented, the scenery is good, and the ballets are well arranged. Violet and Daisy Mottley are charming as the Babes, and their Schoolroom scene with the Nurse (Mr Alt Foy) is very laughable. Mr J. A. Halma (Friar Tuck) contributes a clever juggling turn; Brown and Harker, the two ruffians, interest with cross-talk; and Mr B. Gardner, the wicked uncle, scores with "Whisper and I shall hear."

NEW PAVILION.—Sole Proprietor, Mr G. Gude.—Miss Adelaide Twort is paying a return visit this week, and charms everyone with her admirable ballad singing; the Two Harveys supply a clever acrobatic comedy act; and Sid Morelli gives a pleasing musical entertainment on many instruments. Sidney Jones introduces new selections as musical sketch artiste, and character singing combined with dancing is well performed by Jack Stevo, George Stevens, Harry Lynx, and Gracie Drewe.

MANCHESTER.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Mr James Willard's drama In the Shadow of Night, played by a company under his personal direction, is the attraction here this week. The interest and sensations of the piece, including a scene in which the stage is flooded with water, are capitally brought out, while the acting is uniformly good. Miss Amy Corallie as Mollie Woodstock is exceptionally entertaining; and Mr Fred Norburn as Farmer Woodstock gives also a really excellent performance. Mr James Willard is capital as the villainous Clifford Yorke, and Mr Howard L. Tracey and Miss May Richardson are good in the heroic parts. Mr Archie Selwyn shines in a dual-rôle, and other interesting parts are in the practised hands of Mr George Harvey, Mr Chisholme Taylor, Mr William Hayward, Mr John Brant, and Miss Phyllis French.

METROPOLE THEATRE. — Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—The big item in this week's programme here is Mr John F. Preston's dramatic sketch, Streets of Manchester, which is capitally played by a cast in which Mr John F. Preston, Mr Edward E. Louis, and Mr Hardy Macro figure most prominently. Good turns also are Henry Carlton and his comedy team in an amusing sketch; Harland and Rollison, in a clever and comical musical act; the Three Delaries, speciality artistes; Harry Thurston, an excellent mimic of leading artistes; and Mdlle. Yetta, in a graceful wire act and sensational cakewalk.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Messrs Glenville and Osmond's company, in The Still Alarm, occupy the stage here this week, repeating their sensational success of last week at the Royal Osborne Theatre.

ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr R. Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Potasch.—A novel attraction is here this week in the shape of The Crimson Club, a drama apparently founded on the notorious Suicide Club of New York. Sensational incidents are plentiful throughout the piece, and Mr Gus C. Livesey's company are quite equal to the task imposed on them, the most prominently successful being Miss Frances Waring, Mr Gus C. Livesey, and Mr Lionel Thompson. The scenery is strikingly good.

HIPPODROME (HULME).—Manager Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Max Gruber heads the bill here this week, his wonderfully trained elephant and horse being fine examples of animal training. Madge Gray is decidedly successful in her dialect songs, and her amusing stories of "the children," full of freshness and piquancy, are much to the taste of the audience. Will Souls is a capital laughing comedian, who contributes three songs; Alba and Amba are exceedingly smart jugglers, introducing original comedy, which pleases greatly; some enjoyable songs and clever burlesque are introduced in a novel scena entitled A Water Nymph, by unnamed artistes; Andy Higginson sings in good style; Otto and Olga present a musical comedy act; Moto is particularly good as a musician of the eccentric order; and entertaining items also are Fred Clifford, baritone; Beattie Kendal, vocalist; and a series of animated pictures.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Juma's Octoroons, a troupe of juvenile minstrels, who sing, crack jokes, and dance, are here this week, and meet with considerable success. Aga, the Mystery, is a turn which arouses much interest, and completely mystifies the audience. Gladys Mavius sings and dances with great dash, and is well received. Wilfred sets all the laws of anatomy at defiance by his contortions; Davis and Davis sing and dance well; Charlton Howarth, the Yorkshire tenor, sings illustrated songs; Percy Handel plays a number of instruments in a praiseworthy fashion; and Rice, Rose, Davis, and the Half cause much merriment with their funny sketch Ferguson's Dog. Fred Weston gives impersonations of the late Charles Godfrey; Gus Balsiger contributes Negro melodies and trick instrumental feats; and Kellino and Pape are successful in a comedy acrobatic act.

TIVOLI. — Managing Director, Mr Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr Arthur B. Wilkes. — Jenny Valmore figures at the top of the bill here this week, and treats the audience to several interesting songs in her well-known style. Conspicuously successful is Johnny Worman, eccentric comedian, whose quaint style and capital songs are highly popular; while Johnny Dwyer, character comedian; Onda and Artell, in a gymnastic act; Rexford and Hunt, in their grotesque sketch The Widow and the Duke; and May Young, a refined contralto vocalist, also provide good turns. A pleasing programme is ably completed by Charles Pond, a clever monologue artiste; France and France, knockabout comedians; Alec Kennedy, actor-vocalist; the Three Sisters Adrienne, burlesque artistes; and Flo Burriss, comedienne.

EMPIRE.—Managing Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Will Collins.—As usual, the programme here is good. George Gray and company are paying a return visit with the effective and highly concentrated drama, The Fighting Parson, to the delight of crowded houses. Theo Hardeen demonstrates successfully his ability to extricate himself from numerous handcuffs and legirons, and also presents a neat trunk trick. Harry Champion meets with an enthusiastic reception, his "quick" songs being highly amusing. Other excellent turns are those of the Marconis, who manipulate fire and present some marvellous electric wonders in a surprising fashion; the Labakans, acrobatic grotesques, with a smartly trained little dog; Dolph and Susie Levinos, who appear in an original and novel vocal sketch; Kitty Bell, vocalist and dancer; Little Nelusco, a smart little conjuror; and L. B. Athol, character comedian.

GRAND.—Lessees, Messrs Thomas Barrasford and Will Sley; Manager, Mr H. C. Arnold, jun.—The principal turns here this week are those of Al Lawrence, an exceptionally entertaining and clever vocal comedian mimic; and Mr and Mrs Gene Hughes, in a most amusing sketch, with plenty of excellent business. Considerable applause attended the efforts of Miss Mattie Boorum's Young American Quintet, the singing and dancing being most enjoyable. The Zampah Brothers contribute some wonderful jumping feats; and the dancing of the Gorney Quartet is decidedly good. Mons. De Lil does some smart conjuring tricks and paper manipulation; Edgar and Gaskell delight with a musical turn; Carlotta Mason, comedienne, sings well; and Hulbert is responsible for an enjoyable ventriloquial act.

PALACE. — Manager and Secretary, Mr P. Watson; Assistant-Manager, Mr J. H. Stringer.—The last two weeks are announced of the Six Brothers Luck in their capital pantomime, The Babes in the Wood, which still remains a big attraction here. The new comers include Charles R. Sweet, the "original musical burglar," who gives some excellent selections on the piano and cornet, and creates much amusement with his patter. Les Bollingers are loudly applauded for their very effective and striking rag-painted pictures; and Arthur Albert, actor-vocalist, sings well. Cyrus Dare, child mimic, and Howard and Collinson, who figure on the programme, did not appear on the occasion of our visit.

MANCHESTER HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr E. P. Morgan; Assistant Acting-Manager, Mr H. Hall.—Tally-Ho! the great equestrian sketch still remains in the bill at Manchester's latest place of amusement. In addition to this big item, the programme is full of other good things. The Four Lukens appear in a highly sensational aerial act; Iwan Tschernoff shows to what perfection animal training may be brought in his unique performance, "Entertainment in a Sporting Yard;" Albert Voyce and company are particularly good in their vocal scena, Jack Sheppard; and Hall and Earle are clever and amusing eccentrics. Alice Lethbridge, one of the most graceful of dancers, appears with Stratton Mills in a musical sketch entitled A Dress Rehearsal; Barton and Ashley, American duo, introduce some capital eccentric business in their act, and meet with much applause; Theodor Hugo's transformation is beautiful in the extreme; "Roses," an illustrated song, is pleasingly sung by the Choristers; and last, but not least, is the astounding contortions of Juno Salmo, the "Golden Mephisto," on the high column and bar.

MARGATE.

GRAND THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr Frederick Moullot; Resident-Manager, Mr C. F. Bawtree.—Mr Arthur St. John's company opened here for a week on Monday and Tuesday evenings with the historical drama Jane Shore. Mr Arthur St. John appeared to advantage in the dual rôle of the Duke of Gloucester and Matthew Shore; Mr Marmaduke Langdale gave a capital presentment of Lord Hastings; and Mr Walter Foster was an excellent Sir Wm. Catesby. Miss Lilian Burns played well as Elizabeth Woodville; Miss Ida St. John was a capital Alice Grist; the rôle of Lady Effingham was well sustained by Miss K. Bennett; Miss Patty Trounsell's Jane Shore was a carefully enacted part; Mr E. Fergusson was good as John Grist; and the other characters were all satisfactorily sustained. On Wednesday and Thursday evenings the bill was changed to The Taming of the Shrew.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr E. Macknight; Business-Manager, Mr C. E. Hardy.—Dr. Walford Laurie's vaudeville company has been at this house with a variety programme, most of the turns being very good. Leo Selwyn has freed himself from handcuffs and escaped from a well-corded cabinet, to the huge delight of the gallery patrons. Mons. Duro, hand balancer and staircase performer, is clever; and Monty Santos as a coon juggler has shown smartness. Certo on the flying rings is good; and James Cooney, Negro comedian, also gives a capital show; Cyclo, the comedy trick cyclist, has proved very amusing; Daulby and Dault are good; and other contributors to the programme include the Sisters Rosini, Miss Tina Sheppard, vocalists and dancers; and Will Clarke, comedian.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr Will Smithson; Assistant-Manager, Mr Albert J. Lewis.—My Lady Molly, presented by Mr Arthur Hart's company, opened here on Monday. Miss Agnes Tandy in the title-rôle sings in excellent style; Miss Maude Thorne plays Alice Coverdale admirably, her songs and dances being very effective; Mr Edmund Sherras sings and acts well as Captain Harry Romney; and Mr Stuart Alexander's light tenor voice is heard to advantage as Lionel Bland. Mr Arthur Powell is humorous and entertaining as Micky O'Dowd; Mr Frederick Hobbs is bluff and hearty as Squire Coverdale; Miss Sybil Thorne figures agreeably as Hester; and Miss Florence Wakeman is to be commended for her acting as Mdlle. Mirabeau.

MIDDLESBROUGH

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Middlesbrough Theatres, Limited; Managing-Directors, Messrs Geo. and Chas. Imeson.—Messrs Carson and Granville's company is presenting The Drama of Life here. Mr Jerrold Ord appears as Harry Beech, and does exceedingly well; and as the wronged wife Miss Cissie Bellamy gives a pathetic rendering. Mr John J. Hooker as Walter Beech appears with success, and the same may be said of Mr Owen Remonde as Sir Dobson Wilde. As Richard Brenton Mr Walter Steele provides amusement, and Mr George Shaw appears to advantage as William Harrison. Miss Marie Murray is an intelligent Robert Beech.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, The Middlesbrough Grand Opera Company, Ltd.; Licensee and Manager, Mr T. Hopcutt.—Cinderella concluded its visit here on Saturday. On Thursday the place was reopened with The Fiends of London.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Brill Manager, Mr J. W. Thornborrow.—An attractive programme is submitted here this week. The Deer Family, at the head of the bill, submit a novel turn, which is favourably received; Albert Whelan, entertainer, meets with much success; and the Three Romas, the gladiatorial marvels, are one of the best turns in their line. Kitty Clover and company, including Mr Reginald Courtney, appear with success in a sketch Not a Word; and Francis and Melli in a musical act, "Please." Preston and Balmain, with illustrated songs, are favourites; and Harry Desmond, comedian; Mark Leslie, the Dusky Prince; and some good films on the Biograph complete the programme.

OXFORD.—Lessee, Mr Wm. Peacock; Manager Mr W. Ainsworth.—Imro Fox, conjuror, the principal turn here, meets with a capital reception. Another good turn is provided by Serra, equilibrist Robbins and Collier, in a comedy scena, The Lady and the Porter, create roars of laughter; and Atroy, society juggler, does some clever tricks. Julian Mack, with his patter, keeps the house in a merry humour; and so does Billy Richardson. The Sisters Marion, vocalists, are favourites; and Mdlle. Violi, instrumentalists; Vasey and Ramsey, dancers; and the Biograph complete a capital bill.

MEXBOROUGH.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. H. Melton.—Messrs Fred Moule and E. D. Nicholl's company is this week playing The Life that Kills. Mr Fred Moule displays rare dramatic power as Kendal Croat; Mr E. G. Fare gives a fine soldierly rendering of Hector Rodney; Mr Morris Maud aptly portrays the weak, vacillating Valentine Telford; Mr F. Serle gives a fine interpretation of Lord Kelmarsh; and Mr E. Lodge is highly capable as Capt. Montague. Miss Marie Menzies gives full sympathetic treatment to the character of Laurie Lindon; Miss Cathleen Cavanagh as Brenda Croat plays with great skill in an arduous rôle; Miss Lucy Murray gives satisfaction as Johanna Dicks.

MIDDLETON.

PARDOE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr William Pardoe.—Miss Grace Warner, supported by a capable company, is this week appearing here in East Lynne. Miss Warner gives a charming interpretation of Lady Isabel, and is quite at home in the portrayal of every phase of the character. Mr George Gordon gives a vivid and stirring picture of the villain Levison; Mr St. Bernard Wyntour's Archibald Carlyle is calm and dignified; and Mr Frederick Meade's Richard Hare is effective. Miss Marion Fawcett provides a piece of quiet but effective character acting.

MOTHERWELL.

NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Resident Manager, Mr W. Gillespy.—The management has been successful in securing for two weeks Messrs Little and Darcy's pantomime company in The Forty Thieves. Mr Dan Agar is extremely amusing as Ali Baba, and is well supported by Mr James Ferguson as Mrs Ali Baba; Miss Minnie Silcott is smart as Abdullah, Captain of the Thieves; Misses Violet and Marie Silcott merit applause as Ganem and Morgiana respectively; and mention must be made in appreciative terms of Mr Louis Scott, Mr Malone, Mr Ernest Brown, and Mr Ted Wootton. Some clever work is shown by the Daunton-Shaw Australian Troupe of cyclists; the Three Woodbee Wonders give a very clever acrobatic turn; and the Tivoli Quartet are pleasing dancers. The scenery is well arranged, the dresses are pretty, and the singing and dancing very vivacious.

NEATH.

THEATRE ROYAL (LATE ASSEMBLY ROOMS).—Lessee and Manager, Mr A. W. James.—Mr J. H. Clyndes' company is here this week in A Royal Revenge. Mr Clyndes gives an artistic performance of Estevan Alvarez and also of Pedro De Castro. Mr Geoffrey Broughton is good as the King of Spain. Mr James Willoughby merits praise as Nicholas Vargas, and Mr Charles Jordon ably sustains the part of Manuel Mondega. Mr Jack Bigwood is amusing as Michael Sancho, the innkeeper. Mr Richard Webb does well as Friar Dominic. Miss Bessie Elma's rendering of Inez is natural and sympathetic. Cora Casilda and Paquita Marcela have excellent representatives in Miss Aimee Gratton and Miss Evelyn Shannon. Miss Lizzie Lennon is capital as the Mother Superior.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.

TYNE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr Fred C. Sutcliffe.—An unbounded measure of popularity has been secured by Mr Wyndham's pantomime Cinderella. For this gratifying state of affairs Mr Mark Sheridan is largely responsible. As the Baron his buoyant and effervescing humour permeates in the most enjoyable manner almost every scene. Mr Josh Dixon as Lily and Mr Gus Le Clerq as Gertrude share in the general success, and fun of a lively order is contributed by the Egbert Brothers. A trio of clever and prepossessing ladies in Miss Bessie Featherstone as Prince Caramel, Miss Alice Ruson as Cinderella, and Miss Lina Verdi as Dandini figure to the best advantage in their songs and performances generally, while Miss Lily Cole makes an acceptable Fairy Queen. Mention must also be made of Lottie Stone's troupe of dancers, who perform much excellent work throughout the pantomime.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr F. Teale Lingham.—Appreciation of the heartiest description continues to be evoked by the performance of The Babes in the Wood. Mr T. E. Dunville as the Baron is applauded for his songs, that concerning the "Gallant Highlanders" being perhaps his most successful effort. A valuable member of the company is Mr R. H. Douglass, who makes a voluble and witty Mrs Worzell. The comic business in which the Poluskis (Sam and Will) indulge, as Bonny Beaucaire and Sunny Jim, is always provocative of mirth. Both Miss Maud Prenton as Robin Hood and Miss Elise Cooke as Maid Marian afford the maximum of pleasure by their charming acting and singing, and the Sisters Govell contribute bright performances. The "boy" Babe is now acted by Miss Dolly M'Calla, who sings pleasingly "The Darktown Dandy Band," followed by a neat dance; and Miss Hanid Alexander as the other Babe continues to display her great proficiency as a pianiste. The American Comedy Four are rewarded with abundant signs of satisfaction for their singing and amusing business.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr T. W. Rowe.—Palace audiences are finding suitable dramatic fare in the performance of the play Defending His Honour by Messrs Carson and Granville's company, the members of which occupy themselves to some purpose in giving a faithful and effective representation of the drama.

NEW EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Director, Mr Richard Thornton; General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr E. Leslie Conroy.—Mdlle. Diane De Fontenoy excites admiration in a series of artistic poses. Much pleasure is to be derived from the clever musical performance given by the Jackson Family. Arthur Lennard, the actor-vocalist, well maintains his popularity. Ball manipulation is the speciality of Robertus and Wilfredo, who display cleverness, and Joko and Koko contribute a novel equestrian act. The efforts of Little Uno a boy comedian, meet with well deserved approval, and there are also appearing acceptably the Mascotte Trio of lady gymnasts, Lizzie Fletcher, comedienne, and the Sakers.

OLYMPIA THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Thornton and Bacon; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr Nelson Barry.—Mr Frank Macnaghten's company is appearing here in The King's Pardon, a drama founded on facts in the life of Spence Broughton, the highwayman. The company includes some well-known names, and the whole production calls for praise.

GRAND THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr E. W. Bacon.—Mr John Tiller's pantomime Dick Whittington is the attraction here, and on Monday it was received with much enthusiasm. It is a pantomime full of genuine fun, with many excellent songs and some brilliant dancing. The company is headed by Miss Gracie Graham, who scores a big success as Dick Whittington. Her singing of "The Bull and Bush" receives six encores, and her other songs are all encored. As principal girl we have charming Miss Fanny Harris, a great favourite here. Miss Harris has a big part, and her singing of "Little Yo San" and "The Panama Hat" receives encores, and her whole performance is of much excellence. Miss Edna Morgan makes a picturesque Emperor, but unfortunately has too little to do. Of the comedians Mr Dan Thomas as Eliza scores an enormous success, his performance being one of the best seen here. Mr Bob Selvidge as Idle Jack is also good. Mr Harry Lyndon makes a capital Alderman Fitzwarren, and a special word of praise is due to the Diamond Quartet of dancers.

PAVILION THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr Thos. Barrasford; Resident-Manager, Mr Will H. Boardman.—A somewhat novel principal turn is provided here this week by the engagement of the Hebburn Colliery Brass Band, winners of the Crystal Palace 1,000 guineas trophy. The Hilgart Arkas Troupe introduce some clever acrobatic business into their sketch. Fred Earle has a really funny song in "Seaweed," which he sings in his best style. A most enjoyable act is provided by Alfred Barker and his performing animals. As Risley performers the Pistrel Troupe display remarkable daring and cleverness. Gus Harris, Hebrew delineator; Melaine, on the tight wire; the Vaudeville Trio, comedians; Alice Ormonde, comedienne; Ethel Yorke, serio; the Arleys, comedy cyclists; and Emma and Victor, acrobatic dancers, all contribute largely to the evening's entertainment.

NEWPORT.

LYCEUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Sidney Cooper.—Messrs Dottridge and Longden's company, under the supervision of Mr James Willard, is presenting The Midnight Mail here this week to appreciative houses. Mr Fred G. Evison's Billy Brewer is smart; Mr Geo. Howard as Harry Steyne acts with sincerity; and Miss Mildred Carr's Nancy Brewer is a true type of the vulgarly good-hearted.

EMPIRE.—Moss Empires, Limited; Managing-Director, Mr O. Stoll.—The company here is excellent. The Max Werson Four, European rope performers, display considerable ability; Milner Verren, tenor vocalist, is popular with his latest success; and the Brothers Peublo, cakewalkers and sand dancers, earn applause. The Resuas Trio of acrobats give a finished performance; the Jees, in their "Musical Smithy," have lost none of their popularity; and as jugglers Alburtus and Barham are hard to beat. Grais' baboons are a source of much amusement; the Llewellyns are accomplished vocalists; and the Bioscope shows pictures of an interesting nature.

NORTHAMPTON.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr W. J. Andrews.—The pantomime concludes to-night. The special feature this week is the smart and clever Risley business of the Andys, who have already gained a reputation here.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr Robert Barton.—Captain Alphonso Gerarde, with his highly-trained African lions and tiger-dogs, heads the programme this week. Will M'Ivor is a pleasing tenor; Les Fontain's Marionette Palace gains approval. Lillie Le Briton is a smart and graceful gymnast; Tiny Reiffe is a very chic comedienne; the comic conjuring of the De Roys is vastly amusing; Miss Florence Wood is a pleasing serio; and Diana Hope and Co. present a society episode, entitled Her Good Name, which meets with approval.

NORTH SHIELDS.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Jefferson; General Manager, Mr Horace Lee; Secretary, Mr Gordon Jefferson.—The attraction here this week is Mr Charles Frohman's company with Sherlock Holmes, which has been cordially greeted by large audiences. Mr H. A. Saintabury, who plays the title-rôle, gives a capital representation; Mr Lawrence Leyton is seen to advantage as Doctor Watson; as Professor Moriarty Mr W. F. Stirling makes a great hit; Mr Leslie Carter is well placed as James Larrabee; Mr Pelham Rayner meets with considerable success as Sidney Prince; and Mr Marc M'Dermott is good as John Foreman. As Alice Faulkner Miss Vera Longden admirably sustains the part; Miss Maud Linden is smart as Madge Larrabee; Miss Lilian Locke is satisfactory as Thérèse; and Mr Gissing Walters makes the most of Count Von Stahlberg.

NEW CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Wm. Mould.—The Scottish Meisters Comedy Glee Singers are meeting with much success here. Mr Mike Cray and his clever dog, in their comedy act, also prove a great attraction. Mr Dave Hallie, eccentric comedian, has made a great hit, and Messrs Steeley and Dowton, acrobats; Miss Sadie Dann, coon impersonator; Le Warren, singing ventriloquist; and the Bio-Photoscope all meet with favour.

NORWICH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr Fred Morgan.—Mr W. H. Hallatt's company in The Two Little Sailor Boys occupies the boards this week. Mr William H. Sams admirably acts the part of Noel Tregarthen, and is well received. Mr W. H. Hallatt is equally good as Captain Tom Yorke, and Mr Geo. Cecil Murray does well as Admiral Grey. Mr Leonard Booker as Lieut. Richard Redstone and Mr Ambrose Horton as Jim Royson do well in their respective parts. Mr Tom E. Sinclair as Ben Baxter and Mr Oscar Power as Jack Jolly create much amusement. Miss Mabel Scudamore charmingly portrays the confiding Mildred Grey. Miss Blanche Steele deserves praise as Lola Grey, whilst Miss Lizzie Chambers is everything desirable as Lucy Wilson. Miss Ethel Francis and Miss May Day submit interesting sketches of Cyril Grey and Tom Yorke. The acting of these ladies calls forth sympathy and applause.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr F. W. Fitt.—There is a capital programme here this week. The Imperial Boys' Orchestra heads the bill, and their performance is much appreciated, especially the soloists, the sword dancer, and the comic singer. The selection "Lazy Musicians" is well received. Fred Fox is a very capable comedian, and the Dixon Brothers are clever musicians. Clara Hastings renders some excellent songs, whilst Tom Lloyd sustains his popularity here as a comedian. Essman is an expert juggler, and Geo. Booker and Mabel Narbis create amusement in their sketch, The Interviewer. Joe Hastings is a clever jumper, and Lanos and Montes are excellent in their novel acrobatic comedy act.

NOTTINGHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Managing, Mr Howard Finney.—Robinson Crusoe is now in good working order. The singing and dancing of Miss Madeline Du Val call forth much approval, and her new song "John Bull's Sweethearts," in which she introduces representatives of Scotland, Ireland, Wales, and Japan, is a decidedly taking novelty. Miss Mabel Osborn's sprightliness is quite a feature of the performance, and the Sisters James add their quota to the general pleasure. The Dame Crusoe of Mr Bob Baxter calls for special praise, and he works with unflagging zeal. The "legmania" dancing of Mr Fred Solo is mightily appreciated, and the Two Austins show to advantage, especially in their juggling feats. An ideal Topsy is seen in Miss Nellie Christie, and her laughing song is nightly redemanded. Miss Madge Melbourne is a charming little vocalist, and Miss Castleton continues to delight also by her enjoyable singing. The comic efforts of Messrs Algernon Newark, Harry Crane, Wally Scott, and Herbert Stanton are to the liking of the audience, and the chorus numbers are given with commendable spirit.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Charles P. Cooke.—Goody Two Shoes continues to attract good audiences, and the fun goes fast and furious. Miss Ida Gladstone and Miss Annie Casey work capitally together as principal boy and girl, and they are now firm favourites. The Sisters St. Julian sing and dance with considerable fervour, and the sprightliness of Misses F. Spencer, Bessie Dears, A. Marsden, and Issa Steel gains them unmistakable favour. The comedians are in fine form. Mr Charles Chard is a host in himself, and when supported by such smart artists as Messrs Bliss and Bliss, Pete and Juno, Sydney Dean, James Kurry, and Arthur Stratton success is assured. Jackley's Wonders contribute a clever acrobatic turn, and the Mikado Troupe dance with neatness and finish.

KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, A. W. Bull.—The Two Hussars, an interesting romantic drama, is being presented by Messrs F. J. Webb and Wilson Benge's company. Mr Wilson Benge portrays the varied fortunes of Harry Alton with skill and dramatic force; Mr F. J. Webb depicts boldly the knavery and malevolence of Paul Villiers; in the dual rôle of Harry Maythorne and Colonel Manners Mr V. Vivian displays artistic abilities; and Mr G. Paradies makes a notable success as Sergeant M'Finnie. Miss Sadie Smith manifests abundant emotional power as the heroine Marie; and Miss Lallah Price submits a spirited rendering of Molly Cutts; Mr Louis Nanton creates much diversion as Robert Runn; and minor parts are well filled by Messrs H. Wilson, Charles Fynes, S. James, and C. Walters.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Hatton Wharton.—Mr G. H. Chirgwin was billed for this week, but, owing to his unfortunate motor accident, he has been unable to appear, and Miss Nellie Coleman filled the breach with great credit to herself. There are performing animals in plenty, but the bears trained by Richard List show almost human intelligence. Miss Lily Marney gains warm approval for her song, "The Spanish-Irish Girl;" Morton and Elliott are exceedingly clever as paper manipulators and harmonicon players; the Selbinis win rounds of applause; Auto and Mobil evoke merriment by their motor antics; Virto, assisted by his daughter Irene, provides an exceptionally good musical turn; the mimicry of Wilson Hallett finds a ready reward; and the Bioscope presents a number of fresh pictures.

OLDHAM.

ROYAL, LIMITED.—Manager, Mr Ernest Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr George Knowles.—The star turn here is James and Marie Finney, whose welcome to their native town is exceedingly hearty. Their swimming entertainment and graceful evolutions under water meet with hearty appreciation. Verno and Vovce are a clever pair of singing comedians; Leon, Edmond, and company, including D. Macare, give a clever turn; the Rhondda Glee Singers are well received; Miss Alexandra Edwin is a soprano vocalist of merit; J. C. Jimson presents a clever entertainment with his performing dogs; Fred Elton as a versatile comedian is deserving of much praise; and as a musician and dancer Lilian Rigby is well received. The Hamiltons are clever as American buck-dancers, and Sam Lee, mimic, is duly appreciated.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Oldham Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr Ernest Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr Hulme.—Aladdin, now in its last week, continues to elicit the warmest admiration. Mr Fred Carey as Abanazer throws much energy into his part, his speciality skit, "A Professor of Mesmerism," being heartily received. Mr Fred Graham as Widow Twanky continues to be well received for his dry humour and new wheezes; the Bros. Brooke have become popular with their mirth-provoking antics; the special introduction of the Du Cros Trio, with their wonderful gymnastic performances adds greatly to the success; and Messrs Keith and Marson are popular. Mr J. Donald as the Emperor is smart. We cannot speak too highly of Miss Mimi Fisher in the title-rôle. Her clever singing and dancing are still captivating large audiences. Miss Harriet Fawn as the Princess acts and sings with much charm; Miss Cassie Walmer has made a great hit with her song, "Play in your own backyard," and her sand dance is also received with a genuine outburst of applause; Miss Lena Vere as the Prince is highly successful in the song, "Blue Bell;" and Les Belles Americaines continue to be well received for their charming dances.

GAIETY.—Manager, Mr E. J. Dexter.—A capital variety programme is submitted here, including Lilo, contortionist; Terras Brothers, novelty entertainers; Long Amos, comedian; Atkins, who gives a clever musical entertainment; the Sisters Terry, vocalists of much ability; Will Dalson, eccentric comedian; and the Bioscope with new pictures.

OXFORD.

NEW THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Lucas, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr C. C. Dorrill.—Mr Trevor Lowe's company, under the personal direction of Mr Leonard Pagden and Mr Lewis Gilbert, is paying a successful visit this week with Alice in Wonderland. Miss Rosie Dane gives a sweet performance of Alice and sings and dances delightfully; and Miss Lina Nazeby, in the prologue and as Queen of Hearts, is alike excellent. Mr Frank Lincoln repeats the wonderfully clever performance of the mad hatter which so delighted all when he last visited here. Master Leslie Gordon deserves praise as the Cheshire cat, and Messrs Frank Norman and Thomas Pauncefort as Tweedle Dum and Tweedle Dee delight the youngsters with their clever fooling. In act two Miss Maude May Murray contributes a clever danse illuminee, and the scenery, dresses, and music add to the enjoyment of a most delightful evening's entertainment.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Albany Ward; Acting-Manager, Mr H. G. P. Wells—Mr Ian Maclaren's company is here with The Prince of Rogues. Mr Ian Maclaren gives a careful and consistent portrayal of the villain, Geoffrey Flint, while Mr Chesham as the hero, Frank Farrell, is admirably true to nature. Mr Henry Howard is forcible as Richard Harwood, and Mr Henry Wilson good as Stephen Leyton. Mr James F. Firth causes diversion as Josh Buggins and Mr Francis Hope makes a great success of Gilbert Henry. Miss Dorothy Mackenzie is well placed as Rita Congeive, Miss Kythe Mackenzie makes the most of Polly Dibbs, and Miss Ruby Maclaren is winsome as Winifred Harwood.

PAISLEY.

PAISLEY THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. H. Savile.—Aladdin, which scored an emphatic success when first produced three weeks ago, continues its prosperous career. The present pantomime will bear favourable comparison with any of the other seven which Mr Savile has produced in Paisley. The characters are sustained with great spirit and conspicuous success by a talented company, and the appreciation of the public is expressed with marked cordiality on every occasion.

EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr J. H. Savile; Manager, Mr Delno Fritz.—The company engaged here this week includes Mr and Mrs Paul Knox, in their own original creation, Down on the Congo; Tony Freedman, comedian; Amy Bell, serio; Patty Yole, comedienne and dancer; Bandoni, the one man band; Hampson Brothers, comedians and dancers; and Eck Ray's schoolboys. The Empire animated pictures this week are new and excellent.

PETERBOROUGH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr A. Darville Vernon.—This week we have those inimitable pantomimists, Messrs Charles and Frederick Renad, with The Swiss Express. This diverting piece is capitally staged, and the Renads are well supported by a clever company. Mr Wilford Bailey is a capital Dr Gull, Miss Dolly Doyle is an excellent Virginia, and Bob Rollingstone is well played by Mr George Martin.

PONTYPRIDD.

ROYAL CLARENCE THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Milton Bode; Business-Manager, Mr Rex Dooley.—A big attraction this week is provided by Messrs Fred Moule and E. D. Nichols' company, in The Grip of the Law. Zeph Sorrel, a stuttering detective, is most grotesquely played by Mr E. D. Nichol; Mr William Matthews portrays the villainous Sergeant Frank Paul in an admirable manner; Mr Herbert Evelyn imports a surprising amount of dramatic talent into the rôle of Noel of the Night; Mr Harry Beaufort shows exceptional power as Dave Arkwright; Mr Sam Robert's Andy Blunt is very amusing; Mr Courtney Robinson as Jacob Hookaday wins great praise; and Mrs Ada Lucelle in the dual rôle of Mrs Baddiscombe and Marion Arkwright becomes a prime favourite. Miss Ada Frank is worthy of the highest praise as Beu'ah Blunt.

PERTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Aldridge.—Mr Charles R. Stone's company was engaged during the first three nights here this week in My Sweetheart. Mr Charles Ross is a prime favourite as Tony Faust; Mr Edwin Oxlee Clarke is applauded for his manly impersonation of Doctor Oliver; Mr Ernest M. Stone causes amusement as Dudley Harcourt; Mr Edward Rawlinson enacts Harold Bartlett with cool skill and daring; Mr A. Doubelle proves an ideal Farmer Hatzell; and Mr J. F. Hayward is accorded a special mark of favour all to himself as Joe Shotwell. The dancing of Misses Winifred Maye, Bertha Clifton, and Emmie Hill is much appreciated. Miss Edith Madelle enthralls the audience in her daring adventures as Mrs Fleeter; Miss Emily Kelsey's impersonation of Mrs Hatzell could scarcely be surpassed; and Miss Daisy Stone at once became a marked success as Tina. The singing of Miss Daisy Stone and Messrs Ross and Clarke is worthy of special note.

PLYMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr G. V. Keast; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Langdon Lee.—The third week of the pantomime of Dick Whittington here has witnessed the introduction of new business and new songs calculated to enhance the popularity of the production. It is essentially a pantomime for children, and no one amuses and interests the juvenile element more than Mr Tom Katte, who plays the cat. He is very realistic, and his pranks evoke shouts of laughter. Tribute has already been paid in these columns to the principals, all of whom enter into their work with much energy and enthusiasm, so that the piece goes with a swing all the time.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy Williams.—The Ugliest Woman on Earth, despite her physical deficiencies, is attracting large numbers here this week. Written by Mr F. Melville, it is also produced by him. The company is an excellent one. Miss Beatrice Homer appears in the title-rôle with conspicuous success, and in the part of Morita Miss Margaret Watson acts intelligently and well. As Aggie Miss Nellie Jackson acquits herself satisfactorily, as also does Miss Rosabel Dodd. Mr Leyton Cancellor and Mr Stanley Bedwell sustain important characters with credit, and humour is forthcoming from Mr T. Edlin.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton.—The pantomime of Sinbad the Sailor is going strong, improved as it has been by fresh jokes and songs. Most of the principals are now favourites, and encores are very plentiful.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Directors, Messrs Livermore Brothers; Manager, Mr J. Field.—This week's bill-of-fare includes many good things. Very smart are the Great Northern Troupe, whose national dances are most artistically performed. An attractive turn is provided by Les Francois, acrobats of high excellence. Russell and Roper bring down the house with their vocal act "The Opera-singer and the Sandwich-man;" Alf Chester's songs "catch on;" and there is expert juggling and conjuring by the Jalvans. The Marion Troupe appear in a pantomime sketch which causes loud laughter. The Two D's render "Anona" in a commendable manner, and first-class comedy is put on by Ellis and Watts. Animated pictures and good orchestration complete an enjoyable programme.

HANCOCK'S WINTER GARDENS.—In addition to a capital variety programme a "cake-walk" competition for children is drawing large attendances here.

PORTH.

POOLE'S OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr W. Bynoth.—Mr and Mrs William Maclaren's répertoire company opened here on Monday in the romantic drama entitled Proof. Miss Lily C. Bandmann meets with much approval and plays meritoriously the parts of Madeline and Valentine; Mr W. Maclaren successfully impersonates Pierre Lorance; as Chamboran Mr Kingsford Pearce is very amusing; Mr Richard Fulton gives a capital rendering of Lazare, alias the Count De Laval; Mr Tom Roberton is well placed as the Duke D'Aubeterre, so is Miss Wynne Hanley as the Duchess D'Aubeterre. Miss Gertrude Evans scores as Adrienne. On Tuesday evening David Garrick; on Thursday, The Lady of Lyons; and on Friday, East Lynne were presented.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietress, Miss Ada Alexandra; Managing-Director, Mr D. Taylor; General Manager, Mr E. Pryce.—Another excellent programme is provided here this week, and is headed by the marvellous Florens Troupe of acrobats (twelve in number), whose clever acrobatic performances are much admired. Caban, with his troupe of twenty ponies, deserves mention; Savaro, whistler, is a great favourite; Mark Anthony, mimic, is appreciated; Day and More, comedy athletes, contribute much amusement; the Dillons, in a novel comedy gymnastic performance, are also very good; Mr Sam Anderson does well in his new equestrian scena, "The Life of a Sailor;" and other noteworthy turns are E. J. Sheldon, the curious comedian, and Eva Bashall, refined serio and dancer. Rabbit and Hairpin, the two clowns, are still the rage.

PORTSMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr Armstrong Bell.—Mr George Dance's company is here in the comic opera, Veronique. Miss Ruth Lincoln in the name-part deserves the highest praise for a finished performance. Miss Maud Boyd is a good Agatha, her singing being greatly admired. Miss Lena Maitland as Emerance does well, and sings charmingly. Miss Gracie Sinclaire as Denise deserves mention for her careful acting. Mr Scott Russell makes an agreeable impression as the volatile and romantic Florestan De Vallancourt. The Mons. Coquenard of Mr Leslie Holland is a most amusing impersonation. Mr Ivan Berlyn plays cleverly as Mons. Loustot. Seraphin is ably interpreted by Mr Tom Shelford.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr T. E. Agate.—The pantomime Dick Whittington, in its last week, is still running merrily, full houses being the order, and, being kept quite up to date with new songs and dances, the audiences are having a right good time.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Secretary, Mr W. Pratt.—An attractive bill is being offered to the patrons of this place of amusement. Arthur Reece, vocal comedian, is in good form, and has had a cordial greeting; the Three Sherrys, in their acrobatic act, are very clever; Kit Keen, Ethiopian delineator, has had a good reception; the Four Jumels give a popular musical turn; the Davenports, silent magicians and illusionists, are distinctly above the average; Barnard's marionettes are manipulated with great skill, and cause roars of laughter; Payne's Bio-Photoscope pictures are good; and also appearing are Amy Sullivan, soubrette, and the Sisters Charnley, duettists and dancers.

RAMSGATE.

AMPHITHEATRE.—Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General Manager, Mr Henry Bowman.—The American Biograph company has this week been reproducing, by means of the clearest of films, Buffalo Bill's picturesque Wild West Show and Congress of Rough-riders of the World. Other animated pictures are also exhibited, to the evident entertainment of audiences. Variety in the programme is effected by the excellent turns contributed by Mr T. Carrick, comedian; the Great Gilroy, a most amusing ventriloquist; and Miss Lily Carrick, vocalist.

RAWTENSTALL.

GRAND THEATRE.—Co-Proprietors and Lessees, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr J. Ellis Miller.—Mr Arnold Bell's fine répertoire company opened her on Monday with a fine representation of Ben-my-Chree. As Mona Mylrea Miss Lillian Earle was a great success, her reading of the part being thoroughly womanly and sympathetic. As Dan Mylrea Mr Arnold Bell gave a realistic interpretation, the sorrows of the young Manxman being vividly depicted; as Ewan Mylrea Mr Cuthbert Imrie was careful and artistic; Mr Frank C. Robson did well as the Deemster; Mr H. M. Clifford as Gilchrist Mylrea, the Bishop, was very good; Mr William Reid as Daisy Fayle and Mr Joe Bardsley as Hommey Beg were each responsible for good work; and Mr Dan Farrough as Governor Harcourt made the most of his part, and the same may be said of Miss Violet Campbell as Kitty. The Shaughraun, The Ticket-of-Leave Man, and The Octoroon, will also be produced.

GRAND PRIX
ST. LOUIS EXPOSITION, 1904.

RADCLIFFE.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Geo. T. Sante; Acting-Manager, Mr Jas. Boothman.—Messrs James Stillwell and Paul E. Tuckton are presenting Queen of the Night. Mr James Stillwell is realistic as Frank Cavendish; Mr Chas. V. Sandford is strong as Philip Stoneleigh; Mr F. Thorpe Tracey is very good as Old Brisket; and Miss Irene Tracey is also capable as Dick. Miss Lilla Wilde gives a fine rendering of Paulina; Miss Katherine Barnett is satisfactory as Maude Sylvester; and Miss Becky Elliston is energetic as Kitty White.

READING.

ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr W. E. Barnett; Secretary, Mr Reginald Taylor.—The popular musical play The Duchess of Dantzic is being performed here this week with pronounced success by Mr George Dance's company. Miss Rita Presano plays the difficult rôle of Sans Gêne in a vigorous and lively manner. François Lefebvre is embodied in a soldierly and manly style by Mr Mackesay Cullin. Mr Frederick Moyes gives a most impressive and characteristic impersonation of Napoleon. Mr Thomas C. Maxwell's excellent singing in the character of Viscomte De Bethune in the first scene and his handsome appearance as Adhemar in the subsequent acts evoke much admiration. Mr Colin Mackay is entertaining and vivacious as the Court milliner Papillon, his song and dance in the second act, accompanied by a chorus of pretty milliners, being vociferously encored. Miss Alice Coverick gives a pleasing rendering of the part of Renée. Miss Lillian Drake plays with dignity as the Empress Josephine. Miss Edith Carlyle and Miss May Harris assume appropriate supercilliousness and hauteur as the Emperor's sisters. The special scenery is extremely effective. A full chorus and augmented orchestra are under the able direction of Mr B. J. Patereon.

ROCHDALE.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr W. Robinson; General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling; Resident Manager, Mr Charles Clucas.—The Carl Rosa opera company is fulfilling a welcome visit, after a long absence, here this week. On Monday the well-known Tannhäuser was performed in fine style. Herr Julius Walther in the title-rôle gave an admirable delineation. Mr Lewys Jones in the part of Wolfram both acted and sang with distinct success. Mr Arthur Winckworth possesses a powerful bass voice, and was heard to great advantage as the Landgrave. Mr Frank Arthur as Biterolf and Mr H. Butcher as Reinmar were both successful in their efforts. Madame Sobrino as Elizabeth delighted the audience with her beautiful vocalism. Madame August Renard as Venus acted with spirit and sang with charming effect. Don Giovanni was submitted to a crowded house on Tuesday evening. Pagliacci and Cavalleria Rusticana, Carmen, Lohengrin, and Faust are amongst the répertoire for production during the week.

CIRCUS OF VARIETIES AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs Smith and Lee; Business-Manager, Mr S. L. Lee.—Brothers Babuslau in their staircase performance astonished the audience with their clever and daring feats; Harry Morris, comedian; Florrie Claribell, comedienne; the Percys, duettists and dancers; Bock Pylades, impersonator; Sandy and Carl, knockabouts; the Aindows, in musical act; and Charles Best, comedian, contribute with success to an enjoyable evening.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Thomas Hargreaves; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Hargreaves.—Prosper and Madame Benn submit a cleverly performed musical act entitled From Pavement to Stage; Our Cis, comedienne and lady dancer; Wal Croft, Scotch comedian; Kurtz in "The Mexican Vaquero;" Barney Stuart, impersonator; the Violas, in mental telegraphy, the Moxons, musical experts; and the Empire Bioscope completes a capital programme.

ROTHERHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr W. Manning.—Mr Frank M. Thorne's company, under the direction of Messrs Carson and Granville, is here this week with Napoleon the Great. Mr Hugh Montgomery gives a thoughtful portrayal of the title-rôle; Mr Henry Earlesmere is a clever Colonel Lavarennes; Mr Phil Harper is seen to advantage as Colonel Jules Meuron; Mr J. G. Maine scores as Paul Laczinska; Mr Frank M. Thorne is humorous as Pierre Pomponnet; and Mr C. W. Spencer is deserving of mention as Sergeant Choupin, as is also Mr Louis Edmonde as Monsier Fouche. Miss Chrissie Dunbar is pleasing as Marie Waleswka; Miss Marie Harcourt is a vivacious Marcelle Choupin; Miss Adelaide Cromer is a sprightly Lisette; and Miss Maud Russell gives a sympathetic rendition of the part of Mdlle. Leonie Martœuf.

RUGBY.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr E. Parker Royston.—This week the Anglo-American Biomotograph Co. is giving a very good entertainment. The Tour Round the World is attractive and instructive and the Scenes on Board the Trawler Crane and the Japanese Warships are full of interest. The variety turns are of a very high order. Mr Sydney T. Pease in his vocal and dramatic sketch, The Convict's Dream, is seen to great advantage. Miss Millie Milton also scores a success; and Mr Percy Dunkley is responsible for much amusement. Miss Edna Reeve shows unmistakable talent as an elocutionist.

FOSSITT'S HIPPODROME.—The company is practically the same as last week, but with a complete change of programme. Dick Turpin's Ride to York is given with much success, Mr Robert Fossett as Dick Turpin and Mr John Irvin as Tom King being much appreciated. Miss Pinder and Mr Irvin are very successful in their double act on two barebacked horses, and Mr C. Beckett introduces several novelties into his performance, proving himself to be an excellent gymnast and acrobat. The Bros. Smarte are also good as usual, and Miss Fossett by her daring and skilful performance contrives to win much applause.

RUNCORN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr H. W. Caddick.—The stage is occupied by Mr Edward Neville and company in the highly sensational drama entitled The Anarchist Terror and The Sorrows of Satan. The former was produced on Monday. Mr C. T. C. O'Connor is the embodiment of a stout-hearted naval officer (Lieut. Armstrong). Mr Edward Neville appeals strongly as the Anarchist Terror, Ranagoon, an exceedingly strong part, played with real power. Mr J. Nelson-Turner as Silas Washington, Mr Harry Rose as Mickey Doolan, and Mr Gus Bowerman as Ishmael are further capable exponents. Miss Violet Hammersley enlists much attention with a charmingly piquant Columbia; Miss Annie Brunette sustains the deserted Jewess, Marita, admirably; and Miss Louie Esmond presents an equally acceptable Kitty Malone with songs and dances.

RYDE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Bannister Howard.—Local playgoers have been delighted during the first three nights of this week by a visit from Messrs J. A. Thompson and J. D. Hunter's pantomime Aladdin. The company is a strong one, and several excellent speciality turns give a pleasing variety to the performance.

SALFORD.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr Harold Goulden.—A pretty humorous children's pantomime, Little Red Riding Hood, commenced a week's run here on Monday before a large audience, and gave evident pleasure. The book is by Peter Eland, and the beautiful scenery is by E. Egerton. The title-rôle is undertaken by Miss Mabel Manley in a pleasing manner. Miss Dollie Hook as Robin Oakapple is a dashing model young farmer in love with Miss Bluebell Buttercup, charmingly represented by Miss Rita Vincent. Mr G. Royle as Widow Bailey makes the most of his opportunities, and keeps the house in roars. Mr H. Flockton Foster works well as Sir Seeley Chump, the bad baron, and Mr Charlie Howarth as John William is a droll page boy. The Webrwolf is carefully played by Mr W. Raynor, whose singing is favourably received. Miss Annie Swires also sings well as the Fairy of the Hood. Miss Rosie Kearns satisfactorily fulfils the duties of the Clerk to the District Council, and two comic policemen are amusing in the hands of Master Lennie Ankers and Mr G. R. Wontnor Hill. Several specialities are given, and those by Watson and Eastwood and the modern magician, Syd Mountford, find much favour. The whole is produced by Mr H. Flockton Foster, under the direct supervision of Mr Peter Eland.

REGENT THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford; Licensee, Mr James M. Hardie; Secretary and Manager, Mr C. Shayler.—The programme is headed by the Six Brothers Luck's pantomime company, in their pantomime sketch The Hermit. Charles Morritt does marvellously clever illusions. Other turns include the Brothers Forrest, musical eccentrics; a wonderfully clever blind calculator; Ida Ross, comedienne; Starr and Jerome, coon vocalists, buck and sand dancers; and Kitty Campbell, comedienne. An excellent turn is given by Mountford and Walsh, speciality artistes, whose patter is very smart.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr Wm. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr J. B. Taylor.—Beginning on Boxing Day, the matinée has been changed from Tuesdays to Mondays, and last Monday the three performances drew large houses. Katie Lawrence had some pleasing songs. Claude Ginnett's sketch, Cockney Sportsman, kept the house in roars. Chard's Dogs do some marvellous and amusing things, including high leaping. Clever turns were given by Fred Horsfall, mimic; Jack Horsley, ball puncher; Ted Fields and Fred Acres in comedy act, The Park-keepers; Vere and Royal (Percy and Edith), amusing comedy act; Ray and Lee, clever comedy gymnasts; Ettenas, globe speciality artiste; Evelyn Taylor, male impersonator; and Fred Melton, burlesque comedian and grotesque dancer. There are also some amusing animated pictures.

L. AND N. W. PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietress, Mrs S. A. Higham; Manager, Mr Sam Higham.—Park and Crescent, comedy artistes and dancers, head the bill this week, and among the other turns are those by Madame Allas, lady baritone; Charlie Hughes, vocalist; and Fred Crescent, baritone vocalist.

BRIDGE HOTEL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Tom Bradbury.—Mr James Conroy, comedian, is again appearing before crowded houses, and the new comers include Mr Harry Goldsmith, character comedian; Miss Nellie Rigby, serio and coster comedienne; and Mr Colwyn Thomas, tenor vocalist.

SCARBOROUGH.

LONDESBOROUGH THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs Waddington and Sons; Acting-Manager, Mr J. T. Carpenter.—The attraction here this week is Mr A. E. Smith's pantomime, The Babes in the Wood. Miss Lily Colman is good as the fairy queen, Flora; Miss Edith Wallis soon wins favour as Robin Hood; Mr Arthur Slater as Baron Balderdash is most amusing, and his efforts are well seconded by Mr Charles Gladwell as Dame Quisby-Diggs. Good work is also put in by Messrs Bob Padley and F. Wheatcroft as Weary Willie and Tired Tim; Mr John Mathews's voice is heard to advantage as Friar Tuck; the Edna Trio are repeatedly encored for their speciality dancing; and the Colleys, contortionists, do some clever feats.

PEOPLE'S PALACE AND AQUARIUM.—Managing Director, Mr Wm. Morgan; Secretary and Manager, Mr Walter Kitchingman.—Mr James Hare's company is occupying the boards here with the farcical drama, The Golden Chance. The principal character, Hubert Zac, is well played by Mr James Hare; Mr Herbert King is a capable Stephen Clinton; Mr Tom Arkinstall ably plays Isaac Shelberg; and Miss Irene Clifford cleverly acts the dual-rôle of Mother Hawk and Viva Zac.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Quinton Gibson.—There is again a capital programme here. Mr R. M. Lang gives an amusing burlesque conjuring performance; Spargo appears both as a strong man and musician; and Mr Joe Corvison, ventriloquist; Beattie Foster, comedienne; Wallace Whitney, comedian, with some well-rendered songs; the Valmores, comedy duettists; Stratton Hall, comedian; and others help to complete the programme. The pantomime sketch by local children, Little Red Riding Hood, is also given nightly.

SEAHAM HARBOUR.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr A. C. Harrison.—The Naval Detective, Mr Fred J. Kirke's latest musical comedy, is visiting Seaham this week, the company being the author's. Mr Kirke in the title-rôle is clever; Dr. Schreiner is played in good style by Mr Richard Purdle; as Captain Hustle Mr Harry E. Ray is greatly appreciated; and Mr Arthur Beaufort is clever as Bertie Fairlox. Miss Edith Claris as Susan is immensely entertaining; Phyllis is attractively presented by Miss Violet Russell; Miss Florry Hayes is a graceful Lulu; as Rebecca Gentle Miss Lily Seymour does well; and Miss Lily Gwynne and Miss Kitty Clark are charming dancers.

SHEERNESS.

COLISEUM.—Sole Proprietor, Mr T. C. Dorling; Manager, Mr Chas. Melvin.—The Six Casino Girls are at the top of the bill for this week, and are loudly applauded for their excellent selections on both wind and brass instruments. Evered and Vaughan, in the musical comedy act, Romance and Reality, are eminently successful. The Sisters Beatrice, Parisian dancers, are much admired; a highly diverting vocal entertainment by Harry Gold, assisted by a chorus of local children, is capitally received; and Mdlle. Latour, soprano vocalist, and Mr Alf Davies, comedian, are also deserving of special mention. The Bioscope is also included in the bill.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr P. Reymond.—A capital programme here includes the Walcot Combination in the dramatic sketch, A Brother's Revenge. Hawley and Crescent, comedy sketch artistes, are amusing; and others equally meritorious items comprise Miss Roy Tracy, character comedienne; Mr Harry Hilton, eccentric comedian; Miss Marie Roselle, burlesque actress; Mr Fred Mallyon, comedian; and the Daintons, in the laughable farce All Right Now.

SMETHWICK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr C. Barnard; Manager, Mr E. Hewitson.—The musical comedy Florodora is paying its first visit to Smethwick this week. It is capitally presented by Mr Tom B. Davis's company, under the able management of Mr P. Howard Sturgess. The choruses are well sustained, the dresses very pretty, the scenic effects picturesque, and Mr Gerald Luke is to be complimented on the stage arrangements. In the rôle of Gilfain Mr T. Ellis Buxton is all that can be desired; Mr Cyril Dane is exceedingly good as Abercoed; Mr Derick Knowles is an able Captain Donegal; Leandro is well represented by Mr Lionel Williams; Mr Albert Bruno in his amusing portrayal of Tweedlepunch keeps the audience in constant laughter; Miss May Desmond is a charming Dolores; Lady Holyrood is well represented by Miss Rene Steadman; and Miss Daisy Byford is a dainty Angela.

FAMOUS SCENIC ARTISTS.

MR. WILLIAM RAPHAEL.

Mr William Raphael confesses that he is a "canny Scot," a native of the "Queen of the South"—that is to say, the ancient borough of Dumfries, where he was born in 1858. From boyhood he had the ambition to become a scenic artist, and he still cherishes the same aspiration. In early life he studied a great deal from nature, and continued his studies in the School of Arts, passing through all the different grades with much success, and gaining many prizes. He received his first lesson in the practice of mixing the various colours at the old Theatre Royal, Dumfries.

As a youth he went to Glasgow, for it was the dream of his life to be associated with Mr William Glover. Eventually he succeeded, and continued under his skilful tuition for several years. His last engagement in Glasgow was with Mr C. Byrle at the Grand Theatre, when he produced Babes in the Wood.

From Glasgow he migrated to the Theatre Royal, Plymouth, when Mr Rollo Balmain took over the house, and remained with him for some time. During his residence in Plymouth he engaged with Mr Henry Reed to paint his pantomime production of Cinderella for his new house, known as the Grand, and afterwards he worked with Mr Reed for four years.

On leaving Plymouth Mr Raphael came to London to fulfil an engagement at the Princess's for Mr Rollo Balmain. After completing his work at the Princess's, he obtained a contract to paint a stock of scenery for a theatre situated in the Himalaya Mountains, India. This engagement finished, he removed to Birmingham, where he remained for six years at the Prince of Wales's Theatre in the time of Capt. Rodgers, continuing with him until he retired. He produced for Captain Rodgers six successful pantomimes and other productions. Captain Rodgers acknowledged his appreciation of Mr Raphael's services in the form of a cheque, which was received by the artist every New Year's morning. When they parted Captain Rodgers gave Mr Raphael a letter of thanks.

"From Birmingham he headed for the North, and arrived at the Theatre Royal, Newcastle-on-Tyne. After a considerable period on Tyneside, he returned to London for good, and has executed many contracts in the metropolis, having undertaken important work for the Haymarket, Duke of York's, St. James's, Royalty, Avenue, Terry's, and the Globe. Mr Raphael passed a season with Mr Harry Brooks at the Covent-garden Opera House, and has assisted many well-known scenic artists. From time to time he has had the privilege of fulfilling contracts for scenic work in Greenock, Aberdeen, Dundee, Perth, Paisley, Stirling, Coatbridge, Carlisle, Wigtor, Bishop Auckland, Blyth, North Shields, Oldham, York, Lincoln, Longton, Reading, Eastbourne, and Brighton.

MR. HEDLEY CHURCHWARD.

Mr Hedley Churchward was in 1881 placed under Mr Spong, who was then painting at Sadler's Wells Theatre for Miss Bateman's management, and the first scenery he was able to assist on was a burlesque, Don Giovanni, and Dion Boucicault's drama The Colleen Bawn. After that he went with Mr Spong to the Princess's Theatre to paint for The Lights o' London. Mr Spong had contracts to paint special scenes for several pantomimes in the provinces, and Mr Churchward accompanied him to the Grand at Leeds, Prince's and the Queen's, Manchester, and Royal, Sheffield. This was in the summer of 1881. He also went on a sketching tour with Mr Spong through Spain. They returned to London to paint at the Imperial Theatre. After that Mr Spong and Mr Perkins became partners, and they had the Globe and Olympic painting-rooms. Mr Churchward assisted in the production of The Promise of May and the comic opera, Dick, at the Globe, The Yellow Dwarf at Her Majesty's, together with two or three scenes each year for Drury-lane drama and for the pantomimes at this house. They also had scenes to paint for each of the Gaiety burlesques, Very Little Hamlet, Jack Sheppard, Little Monte Cristo, &c. Mr Churchward worked in the Dorothy Staircase scene, and is not likely to forget it, as he was sent by Mr Perkins to the Tower of London to copy some locks and hinges of a certain door in the Beauchamp Tower, which is up a small turret away from the part shown to the public. While he was busy making his sketch two of the guard came up and arrested him, and were not satisfied with his explanation until Mr Charles Harris was sent for from the Gaiety.

In 1888 Mr Churchward left London for Australia under engagement to Messrs Brough and Boucicault, and remained with them about five years. On his way home he stayed for several weeks at Gibraltar, and here he was unlucky enough again to be arrested for sketching the Rock. Unfortunately, at the time of his arrest the Governor was away attending the funeral of an officer, so the artist had to remain over five hours in the guard-room until the chief returned.

His next work in London was for Mr Edouin's Trooper Clairette at the Opera Comique, and for two or three pieces of Mr Edouin's at the Strand, and for Mrs Charrington's Alexandra at the Royalty. In conjunction with Mr M'Cleery, Mr Churchward also painted several scenes for the Lyric and other London theatres.

Mr Churchward left London for South Africa in 1895 under engagement to Mr Searelle, and while there he received offers to paint and decorate the new theatres then being built—viz., the Gaiety, Johannesburg; Royal, Durban; Royal, Kimberley; and Town Hall, East London; so he stayed after his engagement had terminated, and, with the exception of a visit once in about eighteen months to England, he has remained there ever since.

Mr Churchward was again unfortunate on his return home. This time he broke his journey at Port Said so as to make a brief stay in Egypt, where he lived for awhile in a tent pitched at the foot of the Pyramids, but he woke up one morning to find he had been robbed of his dressing-case containing all his money, tickets, watch, and chain. His clothes were also missing, and he was obliged to cable, through the British Consul, to Mr Rayne for fresh supplies before he could leave the place.

SCENIC ARTISTS' BENEVOLENT FUND.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Will you allow me to call the attention of such of your readers as are interested in the theatre to the forthcoming dinner in aid of the Scenic Artists' Benevolent Fund, which is to be held at the Imperial Restaurant on Feb. 19 next?

Sir Laurence Alma-Tadema will preside, and he will be supported by most of the big London theatrical managers, scenic artists, and others in sympathy with the purpose of the dinner.

So much of the success of modern stage productions is due to the scene-painters' craft that no doubt many who have carried away with them visions of the beauty which it has created will welcome this opportunity of giving practical expression to their appreciation of it by contributing to the fund which is being raised—on the lines of the Artists' and Actors' Benevolent Funds—for the relief of such members of the scene-painters' profession, their widows or orphans, as have fallen upon evil days, or through old age or infirmity are hindered from the prosecution of their calling.

The number of these artists who contribute so conspicuously to the pleasure of all theatre-goers is a small one. The association under whose auspices the dinner will be given, and which includes practically all the best-known scene painters of England, and of which Mr Hawes Craven is president, consists of only about eighty members all told. It is manifestly impossible for so small a community to raise sufficient money among its own subscribers for the purpose indicated without appealing to that wider public for whom it has laboured so long and worthily; and it cannot be doubted that such an appeal will meet with generous response.

It is, therefore, with the object of informing those of the public who may not have heard of it of the existence of this fund that, as hon. secretary of the Dinner Committee, I am begging you, Sir, to give publicity to these facts.

The dinner tickets will be one guinea, and cheques for these or any further contribution to the fund will be gratefully received and acknowledged if sent either to the secretary or myself, at the office of the Scenic Artists' Association, 5, Robert-street, Adelphi. Yours faithfully,

PHILIP BURNE-JONES,

Bath Club, 34, Dover-street, W.

THEATRICAL COSTUMES.

At the Southwark County Court, on Tuesday, was decided an action brought by H. and M. Rayne, theatrical costumiers, &c., of the Theatrical Stores, Waterloo road, against Harry Bruce, actor, manager, and author, of 170, Crampton-street, Walworth, for £41 5s. 10d., for goods supplied.

Mr Glasgow, for the plaintiffs, said in 1902 defendant took out a touring company to South Africa and obtained a number of articles from the plaintiffs. The venture proved a failure, and when pressed for payment defendant set up the plea that the company belonged to a Miss Margaret Trevosper, and he was only her manager.

Mr Henry Rayne said that at the time the defendant ordered the goods Miss Trevosper was but about twenty years of age, and he would not have given her credit.

Mr Ricardo (for the defendant)—If the witness says Miss Trevosper was then only twenty he could never have seen her off the stage. Is it usual for these actresses to supply their own costumes?

His Honour—If you are curious, Mr Ricardo, I will tell you what is usual. Ladies' shoes are awkward and difficult things to fit, and so they provide their own. Then, ladies are very vain about tights, especially the ladies in the chorus and the ballet, and so they provide their own. The proprietor finds everything else, even the paint. The girls do not provide that, I am sure, because it is used so indifferently.

Defendant said he sold all his interest in the company to Miss Trevosper, who was then the leading lady, at 50s. a-week, and became her manager for the South African tour at £15 per week and 5 per cent. of the profits. The tour cost over £6 000, which Miss Trevosper obtained from a Mr Welton, who was her guardian and godfather.

His Honour—This would do for comic opera. Where is she now?

Defendant—I shou'd like to know, because I am suing her for salary. She left me high and dry out there.

Mr Ricardo—I don't think I can profitably occupy your Honour's time any longer.

His Honour—No; there is not a ghost of a defence. Judgment for the plaintiffs for £41 5s. 10d. and costs, but I am afraid the only satisfaction Mr Rayne will get will be the privilege of reading the case in the newspapers.

PRESENTATION.—Miss Millie Engler, who has been compelled through indisposition to relinquish her part of Prince, in Cinderella, at the Grand Theatre, Edinburgh, was presented on Saturday night with a magnificent floral emblem, accompanied by the following letter:—"To Millie Engler, from the ladies and gentlemen of the company—fellow workers. A token of love and admiration for a sweet woman, a small tribute to rare and exquisite refinement, a regret that the 'parting of the ways' has come, and a wish for the success she is bound to achieve in South Africa." Miss Engler was also presented with a beautiful bouquet bearing a card with the inscription: "A token of respect and love from the Edinburgh chorus girls."

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.—All suffering from irritation of the throat and hoarseness will be agreeably surprised at the almost immediate relief afforded by the use of Brown's Bronchial Troches. People troubled with a hacking cough, a slight cold, or bronchial affections cannot try them too soon, as similar troubles, if allowed to progress, result in serious pulmonary and asthmatic affections. See that the words "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are on the Government stamp around each box. Sold by Chemists everywhere, 1s. 1½d. per Box.—[ADVT.]

THE SCENIC ARTISTS' ASSOCIATION.

The first annual general meeting of the Scenic Artists' Association was held at the Caledonian Hotel, Adelphi-terrace, at eight o'clock on Monday. There were present Mr Walter Hann, in the chair; Messrs E. G. Banks, O. Bernard, H. Brooke, H. K. Browne, F. Browning, J. Comus, J. Carl, G. J. Dodson, Richard Douglass, F. J. Dowling, R. H. "Sir Philip Burne-Jones, with Mr W. B. Spong, has arranged a public dinner at the Imperial Restaurant, in Regent-street, at eight o'clock on Sunday evening, the 19th prox., and the following donations have been received in connection therewith for the Benevolent Fund meeting, namely:—Sir Edward A. Busk, £1 1s.; Mr Anderson Crichet, £1 1s.; Mr W. L. Courtney, £2 2s.; Mr Tom B. Davis, £1 1s.; Mr Sidney Goldman, £7 7s.; Mr George Herring, £2 2s.; Mr Max Hecht, £2 2s.; Mr Henry Arthur Jones, £1 1s.; Mr Louis N. Parker, £2 2s.; Mr Thomas E. Ryan, £1 1s.; Mr Felix Semon, £1 1s.; Mr J. A Sargent, £2 2s.; Mr Fred Terry, £1 1s

"Your committee have taken the Grafton Galleries, Bond-street, from April 10 to the 15th (with option of extension of time) for the exhibition of works of members and deceased scenic artists, and the Guarantee Fund asked for has been oversubscribed. Donations to this Guarantee Fund have been received from the two following honorary members, namely, Sir Philip Burne Jones, £5 5s.; and Mr J. Forbes Robertson, £5 5s.

Mr J. W. WOODWARD moved the adoption of the committee's reports as above. He was seconded by Mr HENRY WOOLLS, and the resolution was carried unanimously.

Mr W. T. HEMSLEY proposed, and Mr HENRY WOOLLS seconded, that Mr G. Herbert Wallis be elected auditor, in the place of Mr Phil Harker, resigned. Mr Wallis assenting, the resolution was carried.

Mr J. N. O'Farrell, of Paisley, by his proxy, Mr J. DAVIES MAXY, moved, and Mr SPONG seconded, that members be at liberty to add after their names the initials, M.S.A.A., to denote that they are members of the Scenic Artists' Association. After some discussion, this resolution was also carried.

Mr RICHARD DOUGLASS moved, seconded by Mr HARRY POTTS, that the following be added to the rules, namely—

An entrance fee of 10s.6d. shall be paid by each member elected on and after March 1, 1905.

This was carried unanimously.

Messrs E. G. Banks, Harry Brooke, Richard Douglass, William Harford, W. T. Hemsley, R. C. M'Cleery, H. W. Owen, Harry Potts, W. Raphael, W. B. Spong, George Tweddell, and Henry Woolls were duly elected by ballot to serve as the committee for this year.

A vote of thanks to Mr Walter Hann, the chairman, carried by acclamation, concluded the proceedings.

A smoking concert, under the direction of Mr Denham Harrison, followed the meeting. It was well attended by upwards of one hundred guests. Mr H. W. Owen was voted to the chair. A very enjoyable evening was brought to a conclusion at midnight by the singing of the National Anthem. The following is a copy of the programme:—Violin solo, Mr Paul Glazer; song, Mr Robert Eadie; song, Mr Lewis Blackburn; comic song, Mr Joe Willis; song, "The Sailor's Grave," Mr Shakespeare Stewart; imitations of children, Mr Harry Hemsley; song (selected), Miss Yvonne Lamor; humorous song at the piano, Mr Edwin Henry; flute solo, "Spring Song," Mr H. W. Warner; imitations of popular artistes, Miss Elith Eatherley; song, "Bid me discourse," Miss Ivy Hemsley; pianoforte recital, Kopski; humorous song, "Just for the look of the thing," Miss Iris Vane; a story, Mr J. A. Bentham; humorous song, Mr Harry Hall; card tricks, Mr James Carl; song, "A true little woman," Miss Violet Lisle; humorous song, Miss Dolly Harmer; sketch at the piano, Mr Lewis Sydney; harp solo, "Watching the wheat," Mr G. T. Miles; comic song, Mr Sid Cooper; humorous song, Mr Ambrose Thorne; song, Mr Broughton Black; humorous song, "The way to sing a song," Mr Joe Willis; duet, Mr Broughton Black and Mr Willis Page; song, "Eileen Alannah," Mr Hatton M'Cullah; coon song, Mr Johnny Banks; humorous song, Mr Ralph Lynn.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.

Mr Graham-Falcon's pantomime of Little Bo-Peep has been played to full houses each afternoon and evening, but owing to previous arrangements is obliged to give its farewell performance at this theatre to-night. The management claim a record for the treasury during its run. The artistes have improved with practice, and the musical numbers are as vociferously received as on the opening night. We did an injustice to one lady, Miss Alice Mantell, who enacted the Fairy Sylvania, and accorded the excellent violinist, Miss Vera L. Appleby, the credit of the impersonation. It was the first-named who scored a success with her song of "Dreamland" but in no sense does this correction under-rate the value of Miss Appleby's services as an instrumentalist; for she has continuously met with the heartiest of receptions. The pantomime was witnessed by the victorious football team the Tottenham Hotspurs on Saturday evening when the occasion was taken advantage of by Mr Medley Barrett to introduce appropriate topical allusions. We may add that the trustees and Mr Graham-Falcon have kindly invited the inmates of the Edmonton and Barnet Unions to witness the production.

MISS ALICE LLOYD, who is playing Cinderella at the Crown Theatre, Peckham, and other members of the pantomime company at that house, gave an agreeable entertainment to about 350 poor children in Mr G. F. Morgan's auction-room in the High-street on Tuesday. The youngsters were delighted with the treat afforded them.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Jan. 9, the Pantomime, by J. Hickory Wood, entitled "SINBAD."

Badoura	Miss NELLIE RANDALL
Zoe	Miss AMY MAPLE
Princess Naggles	Miss CLARE FARRON
Mrs Sinbad	Mr WALTER KING
Hindbad	Mr FRED MAPLE
Jack Bobstay, Ben Bunk	EDMOND and VERONA
King Tibbles	Mr GEO. F. SNOW
Hassan	Mr F. KEMBLE
Captain Scuttle	Mr LESLIE DIGBY
Agrippa	Mr FRANK SEABROOKE
Crystal	Miss CECILIA MAUDE
Haidee	Miss MADGE BERESFORD
Zolinda	Miss MAY CARTWRIGHT
Morgiana	Miss POFFIT M'NALLY
Hafiz	Miss NITA DOLORES
Maidee	Miss ROZA REICHENBERG
Badroulbadour	Miss BELLA PRESTON

Crouch-end's loss has been Dalston's gain in the matter of pantomime. The Christmas annual, written by J. Hickory Wood, which would have been produced at the Opera House, Crouch-end, on Boxing Day had not a disastrous fire which originated on the stage destroyed all the scenery just before the hour fixed for the first performance, was destined to be reserved for the amusement of Dalstonians. The old story of Sinbad is followed as nearly as present-day needs in the matter of stage production will allow. When first Sinbad enters it is to indulge in the well-known altercation with his antiquated mother concerning his weakness for staying away too long. But very soon the attention of the hero is directed to the charming slaves, Badoura and Zoe, and he is utterly dazzled by the beauty of the first-named, whom he determines to possess. Hassan, who is in charge of the slaves, becoming aware of Sinbad's passion for one of them, threatens destruction to all concerned, but nearly everybody of any importance in the story contrives to get on board Captain Scuttle's ship, the Merry Matilda, and so escape the vengeance of the Sultan's representative. Sinbad has a secondary object in going to sea, and that is a hope of reaching the Diamond Valley, a chart concerning which is possessed by two comical seamen, Jack Bobstay and Ben Bunk. Of this important chart Sinbad becomes possessed, but, during a dispute with the sailors and a violent storm, he consigns it to the ocean, where it is claimed by the Old Man of the Sea. This individual is subsequently encountered in the mysterious regions of the rich valley, and, after a somewhat warm time of it, they manage to become possessed of what they seek in the matter of treasure. At the Palace of King Tibbles—a monarch who "besses" an island, but is, as his massive sister, Princess Naggles, explains, himself "bossed" by her—a great deal of fun is introduced, which is applauded to the echo. However, Sinbad's good fortune and that of his beloved Badoura is, after all, the chief point of interest with the audience, and as their happiness appears to be, in the end, fully assured, when the gallant young sailor comes forward at the conclusion of the story and asks if everyone is satisfied the answer in the affirmative is emphatic. Efficiency is the leading feature of the general representation of the pantomime. Miss Jessie Preston as Sinbad invests the character with an enviable amount of vitality. Sinbad, as he should be, is the life and soul of the story, and Miss Preston also sings the songs incidental to the rôle with vigour and effect. Mrs Sinbad, as played by Mr Walter King, is one of those quaint stage characters calculated to keep an audience well amused. Mr King's naturally quaint manner and his own peculiar mode of detailing his woes (relating to his married past and his widowed present) cause his every entrance upon the scene to be awaited with pleasurable anticipation. He takes part with Sinbad in a duet in which references are made to Bill Bailey to the tune of "Poor Cock Robin," and this is accepted as one of the funniest things in the performance. Messrs Esmond and Verona as Jack Bobstay and Ben Bunk respectively are a continuous source of amusement, and the dancing of the first-named is quite a marvel in agility. Mr Fred Maple is active as Hindbad, and his dancing and acrobatic performances, in which he is joined by Miss Amy Maple (who takes the part of Zoe, one of the slaves), constitute one of the features of the performance. Their cake-walk, as it is done in Japan, is loudly applauded. Similiar dances are introduced by Mr George F. Snow as King Tibbles and Miss Clare Farron as Princess Naggles. A captivating Badoura is Miss Nellie Randall, and she sings the song "My Barney" with good effect; she also dances neatly. Mr Leslie Digby's make-up as Captain Scuttle is a good imitation of the celebrated Captain Kettle, and Mr Frank Seabrooke's Old Man of the Sea, is, as it should be, a weird impersonation. Mr F. Kemble as Hassan wears his Eastern dress with remarkably good effect, and he plays the part with vigour. Miss Cecilia Maude, who appears as Crystal, a fairy, sings "The land of make believe" very prettily. Special dancing is introduced by O. Potter. In the harlequinade the following appear:—Clown, Harry Gardner; pantaloon, J. Lees; harlequin, F. Squire; policeman, James M'Hugh; columbine, Miss Bella; nurse, Miss Marjory Day. The pantomime is produced under the general direction of Mr George Brydon-Phillips.

THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD.

On Monday, Jan. 9, the Drama, in Four Acts, by Sutton Vane, entitled "A WIFE'S TRIUMPH."

The mission of A Wife's Triumph might be a crusade against the betting evil, for from beginning to end of the piece the playgoer has this most graphically illustrated to him. The wreckage wrought in the life of Frank Wilton, who as a bank clerk becomes a thief, as a rich landowner disposes of his estates, and as a husband maltreats his wife, through his craze for gambling on horses, allied to persistent persecution from one Ellis Jordon, is the case in point; and it is well for Frank and a matter of satisfaction to the audience that he has a faithful friend in Robert Dewhurst, who in the end leads him back to the paths of rectitude. Well written and interesting throughout, the sentiment of the piece appealed directly to the patrons of the Stratford Theatre Royal on Monday night, who showered frequent applause upon the play and its interpreters. Mr Ernest R. Abbott as the Yorkshireman, Robert Dewhurst, is well suited and makes the character exceedingly popular. Mr George C. Doughty plays with much feeling and intensity as the vacillating and weak-kneed gambler, Frank Wilton; and Mr W. H. Garbois duly emphasises the cunning and craftiness of Ellis Jordon, whose Hebraic partner, Julius Hartman, is portrayed in a sufficiently unfavourable light by Mr Edward Ouston. Mr Edwin Keene is exceedingly good as the well-proportioned Ben Bradford; and Mr W. H. D. Brown is excellent as Stubbs. Miss Ada Abbott easily enlists the sympathies of the audience for Bessie Dewhurst, playing the part with much expression and charm. Miss Warlhouse is a natural Mrs Wilton; Miss Jessie Mason makes the most of her opportunities as Alice Wilton; and Miss Constance Medwyn is entirely successful as the pugilistically inclined Margery Crib. The remaining parts are in capable hands.

MR WILLIAM MORGAN, the Mayor of Scarborough, who owned the Scarborough Promenade Pier, which was wrecked in the gale of Saturday last, will not rebuild the structure, and the pavilion and restaurant at the seaward end of the pier will be demolished. The restaurant at the end of the pier and the entertainment saloon are now isolated amidst the waves.

"ALADDIN" AT THE MARLBOROUGH.

(SECOND NOTICE.)

A second inspection of Aladdin at Mr F. W. Purcell's pretty theatre only endorses our favourable estimate of the entertainment, and helps to increase our admiration of its merits. The additions which have been made have chiefly been those of detail; the strong point of the pantomime—the admirably selected and clever company—remains to be admired and commended. It is difficult to overpraise, for instance, the energetic and artistic manner in which Mr Harry Tate plays Abanazar. His imitations of music hall artists are exactly accurate, and he keeps up the mimicry even when delivering the dialogue allotted to the much-disguised magician. When on his first entry Mr Tate appears as Mr Joe Elvin, every tone and gesture of that comedian is reproduced with almost phonographic fidelity. It is the same with his depiction of Mr R. G. Knowles's eccentricities, and with his admirable imitation of Mr Harry Lauder's rendering of the famous "tickling" ditty. There is no exaggeration in Mr Tate's work, and no omission of the smallest characteristic inflexion of voice and the most delicate peculiarity of style. Mr Tate's motor sketch has stood the test of annual repetition, and is as irresistible as ever. The house "simply screams" at it. He has introduced, in addition to the minor characters on the first night, a raw youth, supposed to be the son of the proprietor of the car. The lad openly derides his father, who endures his scoffs with fondly parental gentleness. Then there is a German passer-by, who tries to explain the working of the car in the language of the Fatherland. The stolid boy who is the caddie in the golf scene and the giver of cigarettes in the motor act now has several words to speak. We confess we preferred his monumental silence; utterance rather breaks its charm. Altogether Mr Harry Tate has done very much indeed to secure the success of the Marlborough pantomime. Those two quaint comedians, Messrs Rich and Rich, repeat their droll impersonations of Chew Chew and Chop Chop. Their business goes as well as on the first night; and every detail is laughed at and applauded most heartily. Miss Simeta Marsden is full of sprightly vivacity, attractiveness, and animation, and makes a most smart and spirited Aladdin. Miss Nancy Langtyre as the Princess has a refined and artistic style, and her singing of several charming ballads is commendable for the distinctness of the enunciation as well as for the vocal ability displayed. She looks extremely pretty in the becoming dress of Badroulbadour, and altogether is a great factor of the popularity of the annual. Mr George Brooks plays Mrs Twankey with a twinkling-eyed comicality which makes him a favourite from his first entry, and dances with great energy and activity. Miss Elsie Roby is a delightfully espiègle Cheekee, full of brilliancy and fun. Miss Lizzie Daniels, who plays Nicee, makes her points with an alertness which is very effective and gets every ounce of value out of her songs and dialogue. Mr W. Fullbrook extracts all possible amusement from the part of Lip Tung Tee; and Mr J. W. Wilkinson plays the Emperor of China with all the necessary dignity and ease. The other parts are all capably and agreeably sustained. We must again praise the Jewel ballet, the music of which is introduced by special permission of Mr G. W. Byng, the musical director of the Alhambra. The ballet is pretty without being tediously elaborate; the colours of the dresses are well chosen, and the introduction of wheels or hoops glowing with electric lights is very telling. In short, Mr F. W. Purcell, Mr Hickory Wood, and Mr J. F. Elliston, who are jointly responsible for Aladdin, have realised the changes that are required to bring the old-fashioned pantomime "up to date." The entertainment has been rehearsed and planned with all the care usually devoted to a comedy or a drama; and while the spectacular portion is dainty and delightful, the "fun of the evening" is not sacrificed to the mere joy of the eye. This is as it should be, especially in the suburbs; and we congratulate the management of the Marlborough upon having produced a pantomime which sends everyone home unwearied and in excellent humour.

"FORTY THIEVES" at FULHAM.

(SECOND NOTICE.)

A second visit to the Fulham theatre finds The Forty Thieves still "going strong," and all the members of this gallant and graceful band disporting themselves in truly captivating fashion. From the very first the pantomime went with unmistakable dash and élan, but now that everything is in full swing and time has dictated certain cuts and additions, and thorough acquaintance with their parts has mellowed their methods, Mr Robert Arthur's first Fulham pantomime is one that everybody should see. The sumptuous style in which it is dressed and mounted, the gorgeous and tasteful costumes, and the beautiful and artistic scenery are but the setting to a veritable feast of fun. Miss Beatrice Willery is a charmingly fresh and winsome Morgiana, and her song, "Farewell, my little Yo-san," is delightfully rendered, and throughout she acts with sparkle and vivacity. Miss Nellie Emerald is a perfect principal boy as Ganem—active, alert, neat, and dexterous, and, above all, most refined and natural. Mr Leonard Barry's sprightly wit and humour is of the utmost service, and his rendering of "The Old Bull and Bush" is enthusiastically received. Of Mr A. Felino's performance as the donkey Abbas we have already spoken in the most eulogistic terms, but one cannot have too much of a really good thing, and no praise is too high for this artistic and humorous exposition of asinine drollery. Mr Eardley Turner sings the song "The Latest London Betting," and as Cogia he gives a most quaint character sketch of a stage old dame. Messrs Harry Herbert and Will Spray as the two Lieutenants of the band of Forty Thieves materially assist in the fun-making, and do not spare themselves in their endeavours to amuse, and success seals their endeavours in this direction. Miss Seymour Hodges's commanding presence is exactly suited to the part of Abdullah, the captain of the band. Mr George Cockburn as Cassim Baba and Mr R. Howard as Mustapha, a cobbler, render good service. The Steinway Quartet and the Peri Troupe of Oriental dancers also contribute attractive items in the vocal and callisthenic line. Our advice to all and sundry is to go and see the Fulham pantomime while there is yet time.

"RED RIDING HOOD" at the CORONET.

(SECOND NOTICE.)

For pure fun it is difficult to beat the rollicking gaiety and amusing absurdity of Mr Robert Arthur's Red Riding Hood at the Coronet Theatre. An infectious gaiety and joyfulness pervade this pantomime; and mirth is wedded with refinement and vivacity. All that was needed on the first night was a little compression and that familiarity with their lines which breeds confidence and spontaneity on the part of the artistes concerned in the production. Now the "plums" are picked out and rearranged so as not to be all in one place, and the pantomimic pudding is well browned at the fire of experience and daintily decked by the art of the theatrical chef. So successful has Mr Robert Arthur's first Coronet pantomime been that extra matinées have been given. All the artistes are now thoroughly at home in their parts, and special improvement is to be noted in Miss Valli Valli as Miss Muffit, Mr J. J. Dallas as Mother Hubbard, and Mr Harry Phydora as Peter Piper. Mr Johnny Schofield has introduced a lot of new and original business of a screamingly funny nature, whilst elaborating and perfecting his former "wheezes," and there is not a dull moment while he is on the stage. Mr J. J. Dallas is a capital Mother Hubbard; in make-up, manner and appearance he is the facsimile of many an old dame we have all seen at some time or other. The topical song "Shall we stand it?—No we won't," is so humorously rendered, with such quaint extravagance and realistic absurdity, that it provokes roars of laughter as expounded by Messrs Schofield and Dallas. Miss Valli Valli's song "My Pyjama Girl," with ballet arranged by Mr Bert Coote, goes with a swing, and her "I've lost my Sammy" ditty is also remarkably well received. Miss Madge Vincent still remains a most sparkling and animated Boy Blue, and sings and dances with spirit and taste. Little Cliff as Rupert of Hentzau is a prime favourite, and the Sisters Crisp in their "Golliwog" dance continue to receive quite an ovation at each and every performance. Little Dora Fraser is a dear little Red Riding Hood, and sings and dances as charmingly as ever, and Miss Ada Fraser as the Fairy Glowworm sings "I love you" most agreeably. Mr Fred Zeitz has been redressed as a French poodle—a great improvement on his other "uncanine" costume. Mr Maitland Marler still waters his plant and otherwise nurtures the children's love of comic entertainment. Misses Dot Harvey, Helen Rose, and Lilian Pollard all contribute to the pleasure of the performance with song and dance and dialogue, and Mr Albert Chapman as Lupus, the wolf, confirms the good impression he made as a dramatic actor and vocalist at the first performance. It is really marvellous how cleverly and completely the condensation and compression of act two, without the elimination of a single scene or a good bit of "business," has been effected since Christmas Eve. In consequence, the pantomime now plays well within the customary period without any item of interest being sacrificed. The mechanical change from summer to winter in Poppyland Glen as a finale to act one still remains one of the prettiest effects imaginable.

"BEAUTY AND THE BEAST" at WOOLWICH.

Although even on the night of the production the performance of the pantomime at the Grand, Woolwich, went with remarkable smoothness there is now observable a decided improvement all round. The principals have gained the assurance only to be obtained by practice, the chorus feels itself at home, and works with perfect unanimity, and the comedians have had time to shake down to their parts and introduce many good gags, local and otherwise, accompanied by much telling business. As Prince Rupert Miss Maude Danks is an extremely popular principal boy, scoring both vocally and, in the few chances she has of showing her power in this direction, histrionically. Her admirable figure enables her to wear several splendid costumes with success, and her singing is much to the taste of her audience, her song, "Arizona," having been rendered considerably more telling by the strengthening of the chorus "off." Miss Gladys Huxley's impersonation of Beauty is as charming as ever, and her bewitchingly dainty style has evidently made her a firm favourite with her many friends in front. One of the most successful items of the evening is Miss Huxley's rendering of "Baby dreams," the last verse of which, sung to a couple of children in nightgowns, secures a most determined encore. A very sprightly representation of Trixie, the maid, comes from Miss Maude Hope, who plays with archness and abandon, and whose singing of "Navaho," in which she is supported by a chorus of dancing girls, is so much appreciated that the refrain is instantly caught up by the house. Miss Lilian Stanley as Smart, the Prince's valet, is full of life and go, and plays at high pressure the whole time she is on the stage. Miss Stanley has a good voice and an excellent idea of how to make the most of it, as witness her success with "Bluebell" and "When the band begins to play," both of which songs are emphatically redemanded. Miss Audrey Stafford is an easy and refined Fairy Prosperita, acts with becoming dignity, and sings "The sweetest girl in Dixie" very effectively. Miss Emily Taylor, whose clever song "Go away, Mr Crocodile," is very well received, and who is understudying Miss Huxley, had her chance the other day through the latter's temporary indisposition, and came off with flying colours. Mr Tom W. Conway has largely improved his impersonation of Martha, the merchant's wife, his performance in this character now being irresistibly droll, while at the same time he carefully avoids anything approaching that vulgarity which is all too common in pantomime dames. Mr Edwin Adeler is also to be congratulated on the way in which he has worked up the part of Samuel Steele, and on several original gags which he has introduced. Some of his scenes with Mr Conway are laughable in the extreme, and altogether these two comedians thoroughly deserve their success. The rôle of Johnny is in the very capable hands of Mr J. Wilkinson, who gives a witty and amusing representation of the part. A number which is received with great merriment is a comic song by Messrs Conway, Adeler, and Wilkinson, entitled "The father, the mother, and the son," into which several much appreciated verses, bearing on local questions and grievances, have been introduced. The Brothers Harrison, as Wiggle and Waggle, contribute largely to the hilarity of the evening with some amusing knockabout turns and clever patter, their song recording the prowess of the Arsenal football team evoking uproarious applause. Mr R. Lomas's excellent acrobatic turn is followed with breathless interest, and Mr C. Hinchliff as the Demon sang "The song of the wind" in good style. Miss Nellie Harper carried out the complicated evolutions of a serpentine dance with ease and grace, and the dancing of the Stella Troupe adds brightness to the whole performance.

"ALADDIN" at EALING.

(SECOND NOTICE.)

Packed houses have been the rule since the opening to witness one of the prettiest and most up-to-date pantomimes ever produced here, and great credit is due to Mr Arthur Carlton for his farseeing policy in producing a children's entertainment that is amusing to their parents as well. Congratulations must also be given to Mr Stephen E. Blythe, who has written some very good music, which is excellently played under his direction. New sayings songs, and general improvements have been added to the production since the first night. We now witness a very pretty skirt dance by Miss Grace Huntley, and a scene in which all building trades are represented deserves special mention. Mr Cecil Clayton keeps the house in roars of laughter by his eccentricities and peculiarities; Mr Jack Oromo in his quaint performance is also very funny; Mr Frank Bertram as Abanazar with his catch-phrase, "Not a word," takes well, and is much appreciated, his song, "Oh," receiving numerous encores. Messrs Carl and Carr are comedians of no mean order who are much applauded in their sketch; Miss Jennie Richards is as charming as ever, and makes a sprightly Aladdin; and the Princess, Miss Hettie Gale, plays the part very prettily, receiving many encores for her songs and dances. The elegant costumes are tasteful, the numerous stage pictures are excellent, and the management deserves to be heartily congratulated.

"PUSS IN BOOTS" at KINGSTON.

(SECOND NOTICE.)

The Kingston pantomime, Puss in Boots, which Mr Peter Davey, the enterprising manager, produced at the Royal County Theatre on Boxing Night, has since been carefully pruned and added to, and forms a very bright, funny, and enjoyable entertainment. Mr Davey has been fortunate in securing a good company all round, who work most harmoniously together, and even seem to take a personal interest in the success of the show in which they are engaged. Several of the ladies have already made themselves favourites, notably Miss Rhoda Windrum, who plays the Princess Carita with engaging and unaffected charm. Miss Windrum is successful in the "turns" in which she takes part with Mr Chas. S. Kitts (King Komlifo). They are entertaining features of a production that is full of fun and frolic. Miss Lily Gullick, who plays Lola, does some clever dancing, and her sprightly and vivacious style captivates all. Miss Nellie Welling, who as Juan has a great deal of singing and dancing to do, wins favour nightly. Miss Ida Lawrence as the good fairy and Miss Ethel Thorne as a danseuse, have also ingratiated themselves with the audiences. Mr Leonard Thiel gives a grotesque depiction of a dame, and sets the audience in a roar, his efforts being ably seconded by Mr Charles S. Kitts as the King, by Mr Harold Carson as Sancho, and by Mr Arthur Somers as Pancho. Mr George Danvers, jun., has considerably improved upon his conception of the Cat, which is now an admirable bit of feline acting. Messrs Eugene and Willie are still diverting as the sportive black bull.

THE TERRISS.

Compensation for the lack of pantomime has been provided for the holiday season at the Terriss in the latest melodrama from the pen of Mr Walter Melville, which for three weeks has thoroughly proved its powers of attraction. The Girl who Lost Her Character is a fine specimen of Mr Melville's dramatic skill, and large audiences at the Terriss Theatre have found in it a story of the most engrossing character, while scenes of wholesome pathos and excitement recur with agreeable frequency. What could be more exhilarating than the spectacle of the deeply-wronged Molly Vernon, mad with rage at man's inhumanity, wrecking the drawing-room of her betrayer? Armed with the leg of a mahogany couch, she smashes chairs, tables, chandeliers, mirrors, and art-pots until nothing whole remains in the room. Miss Ada Marius, who plays the part of the determined girl, does the work of destruction with a vigorous hand, and its progress is accompanied by applause. Miss Marius has nevertheless her moments of tenderness, and the pathos of the young mother wandering homeless in the snow is made very intense. A performance instinct with charm and sincerity is given by Miss Elaine Vanbrugh in the part of Rose Seymour, and her light comedy scenes with her lover are naturally performed. Fire and vigour distinguish the embodiment of Jack England by Mr Wingold Lawrence, whose varied expression and distinct delivery give the requisite colour to a well-drawn character. Mr Frank Adair makes a capital villain as Capt. Geoffrey Caversham, the metallic harshness of his voice aiding the effect of his evil speech, while in action and byplay he is equally despicable. A well-matched coadjutor is found in Marian Franklyn, a typical adventuress, with ever a sneer on her lips and a fine contempt for virtue of every kind. Miss Marie M'Aulay's voice and bearing enable her to give adequate poignancy to the iniquitous rôle, and the actress finds her reward in appreciative howls of derision. Mr Edwin J. Collins has a suitable rôle in that of the young clergyman, the Rev. Robert Everton, whose nobility of character is skilfully brought out. Humour is provided with a liberal hand throughout the play, and long and loud is the laughter caused by Mr G. Hammond Azquin, whose irrepressible gaiety as Dick Punch, the faithful friend of the hero, leads the audience into the ways of mirth. No less productive of merriment is the Isabella Jones of Miss Daisy Maynard, who combines with a comely appearance an acute sense of drollery. A strong characterisation of James Sutton, a repentant forger, is given by Mr Eugene Santley; Mr George Terrers makes a dapper detective; and Mr John Wilson as a countryman, Mr Jack Clarke as a policeman, and Mr John Dixon as an itinerant quack doctor make much of their respective parts. The play, which is produced by Mr Walter Melville, is mounted in the best style of the Terriss Theatre, which has a local reputation for scenery, a country cottage being a well-painted set, while a supper hall at the Carlton Hotel is elaborately reproduced.

"THE CHOSEN PEOPLE."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—I note a play is about to be produced in London bearing the above title. I wrote a piece four years ago entitled The Chosen Race. Eighteen months ago I disposed of the rights to Mr T. Morton Powell.

Yours faithfully, WILFRED H. BENSON.
People's Palace, Tottenham, N., Jan. 11.

WE regret to record the death of Mr Walter Velone (for seven years bill inspector at the Royal Court Theatre, Liverpool), which took place on the 2d inst., after a brief illness. The deceased, who was only thirty-four years of age, leaves a widow and five children. The funeral took place at Anfield Cemetery, on the 5th inst., when many sympathisers attended to pay their last respects to one who was so deservedly popular. Four members of his staff (Messrs Fish, Clydesdale, Davis, and Harrington) constituted the bearers, and there were also present:—Mr Pearce, bill inspector at the Shakespeare Theatre; Mr Crompton, Liverpool, manager for David Allen and Sons; Mr Lambert, of Parr Bros., bill-posters; Mr Watson, a close intimate of the deceased, and Mr Sennott, Mr Corney, Mr Cole, Mr Wm. A. Greene, Mr Brannigan, Mr S. Crosby, Mr and Mrs John Yates, from the Royal Court Theatre. Wreaths were sent by Miss Hetty King, Mr and Mrs Pearson, Mr and Mrs Yates, Mrs Harrington, the theatre staff, the billroom staff, and the programme boys.

Sall Snoggs	Miss AMY WRIGHTON
Katie	Miss MONICA KELLY
Laurie Bernard	Miss ANNIE HYLTON

Great interest was centred in the production of this drama, as it was the initial effort of the authoress for a recognition of her abilities as a writer of drama. As the performance proceeded it was easily to be seen that the authoress had paid special attention to making the plot of an interesting and exciting character.

The drama opens with the homecoming of Jack Bernard after an absence of two years, during which he has been superintending his mines in Mexico. Among those assembled to receive him is one George Burgis, an erstwhile enemy, but who, to further his ends, pretends to forget old scores and adopts the rôle of a friend. Bernard's wife has a sister whose existence has been kept a secret from him, on account of her supposed lapse from duty and honour. Coincident with Bernard's return, his wife receives a letter from this sister begging her to go to her at once, but not to mention her errand to anyone. Laurie contrives to leave the house without her husband's knowledge, but is seen and followed by Burgis. Laurie finds her sister in a wretched garret dying, and—though married—deserted by the man for whom she had sacrificed home, relations, and friends. The dying woman, in fear that her husband will carry out his threat to kill their child should she divulge their marriage, implores Laurie never to disclose it till the boy is of an age to protect himself. Laurie promises, only to learn to her horror that the man is none other than George Burgis himself. Mary (the sister) dies, and Burgis, arousing Bernard's jealously with veiled hints, succeeds, by a note he manages to have conveyed to him, to raise doubts in Bernard's mind of his wife's fidelity. Laurie unable, on account of her oath to her sister, to satisfactorily explain either her absence from her house or the letter, is, despite her appeals to have faith in her, cast off by Bernard, who threatens to seek release in the Divorce Court. Six months later find the husband and wife divorced, and the former en route, as a volunteer, to the war in Cuba. On his return to New York, Bernard, in consequence of the failure of his Mexican mines, discovers he is penniless. He takes, with his sister, apartments in the house of the O'Reillys. Meanwhile, Laurie, who has, in order to keep her promise to her sister, been forced from time to time to give large sums of money to Burgis, accidentally meets the latter at the house of the O'Reillys. Burgis, availing himself of the meeting, endeavours to levy further blackmail, but to his astonishment is confronted with a flat refusal; also with the information that, his child being dead, Laurie, free from her oath, fears him no more. On recovering from his amazement at the turn affairs have taken he plays the hypocrite. He induces Laurie to leave in search of her husband, secretes in Bernard's coat pocket a supposed stolen pocket-book, and when Laurie returns it is only to find that her husband has been, at her supposed instigation, arrested for the theft. Through the assistance, however, of the O'Reillys Bernard effects his escape, only to be discovered shortly after in his hiding-place and rearrested. Burgis, thinking Bernard will soon be secure in prison, and wishing to add further to his misery, discloses the whole truth about his wife. He has barely made his confession when O'Reilly and his brother Michael appear on the scene, and, extracting from him that a ring found in Bernard's pocket is his property, they turn the tables by accusing him of planting the notebook on Bernard. A fight ensues, and Burgis escapes from the room, but is eventually captured. Bernard, filled with remorse, returns to his wife, who, woman-like, forgets all her wrongs, receives him with open arms, and extends to him her forgiveness.

In the part of Jack Bernard Mr Robert Faulkner played in a manly and spirited manner; Mr Albert Sinclair was a capital exponent of Jim Ford; Mr Dane Clarke, who essayed the part of the Blackmailer, George Burgis, was heartily "hissed" by the "gods" for his realistic impersonation of that despicable personage. The two leading comedy parts were entrusted to Mr James O'Brien as Matt O'Reilly and Mr James Daly as Michael O'Reilly, and their humorous acting was well appreciated. Mr Ion Ireland personated with great fidelity the rôle of Richard Alison, and Mr T. L. Rooney was good as Colonel Wynne. Seth Rawlins had a capable representative in Mr Smithson, and Mr Charles Boyle scored as a Sergeant of Police. In the part of Sergeant Roller Mr Harry Richardson acquitted himself well, and the rôle of Policeman No. 143 was safe in the hands of Mr Thomas Dalton. Miss Annie Hylton was deserving of the highest praise for her clever and artistic rendering of the part of Laurie Bernard, and Miss Helene Forrest was charming and graceful as Helen Bernard. Miss Arnott in the trying rôle of Mary acquitted herself well, and Sally Snoggs had a good exponent in Miss Amy Wrighton. Miss Monica Kelly had a capital part, to which she did full justice without exaggeration. Mr P. M. Levenston was responsible for the musical numbers, and the scenery specially painted by Mr W. W. Small was excellent.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

SIR HENRY IRVING has kindly consented to be president, and Mr Beerbohm Tree has undertaken the duties of treasurer, to the fund which has been started for the widow of the late John Hollingshead. A small committee is being formed, and the amount raised will be applied to the erection of a stone over John Hollingshead's grave in Brompton Cemetery, any balance remaining being invested for the use of the widow, in the manner which shall be deemed most judicious by the committee. Information respecting the fund may be obtained on application to Mr Tree at His Majesty's Theatre.

MR BEERBOHM TREE will preside at Mr Raymond Blathwayt's lecture to Mr William Crooks's mass meeting of men in Poplar Town Hall on the 22nd inst.

LADY BANCROFT celebrated her birthday on Thursday. It is forty-eight years and three months since the captivating Marie Wilton made her first bow to a London audience. She was married to Sir Squire, then Mr, Bancroft a year later. Their quaintly written, interesting book of reminiscences was published in 1888.

MR AND MRS KENDAL will be the guests of the New Vagabond Club on Feb. 2. Mr W. L. Courtney will be in the chair, and Messrs G. B. Burgin and Coulson Kernahan will be deputy-chairmen. The Bishop of Ripon, Mr and Mrs George Alexander, and Mrs Tree will be among the Club guests.

A PAINFUL incident was witnessed on Tuesday evening in the Rotunda Theatre, Liverpool. A young man named Alfred Williams, of Humber-street, was seated in the pit enjoying the pantomime Aladdin, when suddenly, pointing to one of the artistes on the stage, he exclaimed to his mother-in-law, who sat beside him, "Why, that's my wife," and fell to the floor unconscious. The man was carried into the passage of the theatre, and medical aid was sought, but he soon expired. He had previously suffered from heart disease. At the inquest held on Thursday it transpired that the deceased had made a mistake. One of the ladies of the ballet bore a strong resemblance to his wife, who now came forward and declared that she had never been on the stage.

MR RICHARD DOUGLAS presided over the sixteenth committee meeting of the Scenic Artists' Association, held at 5, Robert-street, at eight o'clock on Friday, the 6th inst. Mr Frederick Fox, scenic artist of the Empire, Cardiff, was elected a member on the nomination of Mr W. T. Helmsley, seconded by Mr Harry Potts. Mr O. P. Bernard, of the Covent-garden Theatre, was also duly elected a member on the nomination of Mr H. W. Owen, seconded by Mr George Tweddell. On the nomination of Mr W. Hann, chairman and treasurer of the Association, the following gentlemen were unanimously elected members of the Association, namely:—Sir William Richmond, R.A., K.C.B.; Sir Squire Bancroft, Mr Oscar Asche, Mr Louis N. Parker, and Mr W. L. Courtney. The secretary reported many offers of loans for the forthcoming exhibition of sketches and pictures of celebrated deceased scenic artists.

MR MARSH ALLEN'S solicitors have set down for hearing at the Law Courts an action against Mrs Langtry, from whom Mr Allen claims damages for wrongful dismissal on the American tour of Mrs Dering's Divorce.

SIR HENRY IRVING will start his spring provincial tour at Portsmouth on the 23rd inst., paying farewell visits to many other provincial towns. His repertory includes Becket, The Merchant of Venice, The Lyons Mail, Louis XI., The Bells, and Waterloo. The audiences at all the places visited by Sir Henry are certain to be very large, as this will be the last opportunity the local public will have of seeing his admirable acting. Mr Harry Lawson, who was elected M.P. for the Mile-end division on Thursday, received early in the day, from Sir Henry Irving, the following telegram:—"May success sit at the helm."

MISS ELLIS JEFFREYS has signed a starring contract with Messrs Liebler and Co., the well-known American managers, and will make her New York appearance this spring in the adaptation of The Prince Consort, by Mr Cosmo Gordon Lennox. Miss Jeffreys will take over with her a complete English company. Mr Alfred Sutro, the author of The Walls of Jericho, has been commissioned to write a play for Miss Jeffreys, to be ready by Jan. 1, 1906.

MR E. S WILLARD, with his company, including Mr Cooper Cliffe, Mr J. R. Crauford, Mr H. Cane, Miss Marie Linden, Miss Leila Repton, Miss Faith Reynolds, and Miss Alice Belmore, sailed from Liverpool on Wednesday for New York. Mr Willard will produce in the "Empire City," on the 23rd inst., the late Wilson Barrett's play, Lucky Durham, American audiences, with whom Mr Willard is an immense favourite, will heartily welcome him back to the States, where his splendid performance in The Cardinal is so warmly admired and so keenly appreciated.

MR PHILIP CARR, the son of Mr J. Comyns Carr, will open in London at Easter a Répertory Theatre and School of Acting, probably at the Royalty Theatre. Among the distinguished dramatists who have promised to assist are Mr Pinero, Mr Henry Arthur Jones, Mr Sidney Grundy, and Mr W. S. Gilbert; and in the list of revivals promised are The Middleman, The Palace of Truth, The Lady of Lyons, and several of Sheridan's and Robertson's plays. Translations will also be presented of pieces like Le Gendre de M. Poirier. One play will be given every week. The fees for the school will be thirty guineas for six months and twenty for three months. The pupils will understudy and have daily rehearsals, and each will appear on the stage at least once a fortnight. At first Mr Carr will give two seasons in London, from Easter to July and from September to December. In the intervals the company will visit leading provincial towns.

MR GORDON CLEATHER, the new Harry Vereker in The Cingalee at Daly's, is a young singer whose work has principally been on the concert platform. His first appearance as "a musical actor" was in My Lady Molly on tour, afterwards playing the chief part for a few nights at Terry's. This was followed by an engagement in Ib and Little Christina, and he then went to the Apollo to understudy Mr Laurence Rae, appearing several times as the lover in Veronique.

MR CLEATHER is of Scotch descent, and was born in Cagliari, the principal town in Sardinia. He was a choir boy at Oxford, and, a little later on, in New York, where his people lived for several years. On returning to England the new hero at Daly's commenced his studies at the Royal College. He obtained the appointment, while he was still on the sunny side of two-and-twenty, of professor of singing at the Royal Irish Academy of Music, remaining in Dublin for six years. Mr Cleather is a tennis enthusiast, and belongs to the All England Tennis Club, at Wimbledon.

ON the committee of the new Boz Club, which was founded at the Athenæum Club in 1900 by a group of gentlemen who had known Charles Dickens personally, are Sir Squire Bancroft, Mr George Alexander, Mr John Hare, Mr Bourchier, Mr Seymour Hicks, Sir Henry Irving, Mr Cyril Maude, Mr Beerbohm Tree, and Sir Charles Wyndham.

MR HORACE HODGES, who plays Chauvelin, the French Envoy, in The Scarlet Pimpernel, is one of the many graduates of Mr Wilson Barrett's company, which he first joined at the Princess's. He walked on in The Romany Rye, his only previous engagement having been at the old Greenwich Theatre, where he played many parts, including that of Perkyn Middlewick in Our Boys. He received his first press notice for this youthful performance of the immortal butterman. It only differed from his own opinion in one word. Young Hodges considered himself "on the whole very good." The critic considered him "on the whole very bad." He stayed with Mr Barrett for about twenty years. He was a great friend of poor Franklin M'Leay, and shared with Mr Ambroise Manning the distinction of never failing to appear in every performance of The Sign of the Cross given by the original company, from the night when it was produced in St. Louis, U.S.A., in 1895, until he—Mr Hodges—left Mr Barrett in 1904.

ON his first landing in New York Mr Horace Hodges, finding himself in a crowd of expressmen, Custom House officers, and excited passengers greeting their friends, determined to get through with his personal luggage as quickly as possible. So he accosted a man who was standing idly by, apparently interested in the scene, and requested him to "help with the bags and be smart about it." The man was in a dark uniform; and Mr Hodges took him to be connected with the Customs or the steamship company. Without a minute's hesitation, he seized a portmanteau, and obediently did everything the young Englishman asked him until he was ready to start for his hotel. Then Mr Hodges put his hand to his pocket, but the stranger checked him with the words, "Never mind about that! Have you been to this country before?" "Never!" he replied. "You'll be sure to get on," said the American. "What makes you think so?" asked Mr Hodges, feeling flattered. "Because I've never seen a young man with such cool, darned impudence!" was the amazing answer. The supposed servant of the steamship company was a well-known man in a high official position in New York. A friendly acquaintanceship grew out of this embarrassing mistake, but Mr Hodges has never forgotten his first attempt to tip an American.

WHEN the Wilson Barrett company appeared in Washington, Mr Grover Cleveland, who was then president, attended one of the performances of Claudian, and sent a messenger to say that he would be pleased to visit the distinguished actor-manager in his dressing-room at the end of the play. Mr Hodges, who was acting as prompter at the time, requested several supers, who were lounging in the passage adjoining Mr Barrett's room, to get out of the way. One of them refused to do so, declaring, in an indignant twang, that he was just as good a man as any President in the world, and had the right to stand where he chose. Mr Hodges protested in vain, and the discussion ended in a scuffle. The actor was holding several prompt books and a quantity of sheet music. They were scattered in all directions, and almost before Mr Hodges knew what had happened he found himself and his opponent struggling on the floor. At that minute the doors at either end of the passage opened. Mr Barrett appeared at one, and Mr Cleveland at the other. The amazed expression of the President was reflected in the face of his host, as they both stared at this unexpected scene. Mr Barrett sent for the young prompter afterwards, but instead of the severe lecture he prepared to receive, "the Guv'nor" only asked for an explanation, and expressed the hope that he had not been hurt.

ON one occasion Mr Hodges, when playing Brabantio in Othello, and just before entering the Duke's council chamber, in the first act, forgot half-a-dozen lines in his most important speech. He hastily told Mr Barrett, who was standing behind, of his difficulty, but Othello could not help him and passed on the request to Iago, who appealed in his turn to Roderigo, and before Roderigo had time to answer the cue came for them all to enter. Every eye was fixed on Brabantio when the time came for his long speech. In the middle of it, instead of using the proper words:—"It is a judgment maim'd and most imperfect"—he exclaimed, "Oh! It is—preposterous! It is impossible!"

MR HODGES is, as everybody knows, one of the three actors whose names are included in the pseudonym "Thomas Raceward," author of Sunday. Their first play, When the Devil Drives, was produced in Manchester some time ago. Mr Hodges is now engaged on a third, in collaboration with Mr Wigney Percyval, Mr Edward Irwin having dropped out of the party. Sunday is now making a most successful provincial tour. Miss Jean MacKinlay, who plays the wild, sweet heroine of the west, is exactly suited to the part. She is the only daughter of the late Madame Antoinette Sterling, and Miss Jean Ingelow, the poetess, was her godmother.

THE "Ugliest Woman on Earth" and the "Prettiest Girl in Birmingham" met on the stage of the Metropole Theatre, Birmingham, last week. The ugliness of the one was of course, caused by a skilful make-up for the purpose of the play—the claim to beauty of the other rested upon the judgment of a jury of half-a-dozen local gentlemen, the competition being arranged by Mr Frederick Melville. About twenty-five ladies competed, and a prize and a consolation prize were duly awarded.

A GOOD many people are complaining of indistinctness of speech among the Berlin actors and actresses, and the German press is beginning to take up the matter. Herr Julius Keller, one of the best Berlin dramatic critics, has given utterance to the opinion that German artistes, in their efforts to be natural, become careless in speech. This, our correspondent assures us, is a positive fact, and the evil has been growing steadily for some time.

MR GILBERT MILLER, the son of Mr Henry Miller, a well-known American actor, is serving as a private in the marine corps on the U.S. cruiser Denver at League Island, San Francisco. He carries a musket and scrubs the decks according to the commands of his superiors. The young man's position is the result of a dispute between him and his father. Gilbert, who was educated in England, was anxious to follow his father's footsteps, but Miller, senior, was opposed to this. So the son secured an engagement with Miss Amelia Bingham in The Climbers; and although he had but a small part, he displayed considerable ability. The father refused to withdraw his opposition, and the youth answered, "All right, I'll give it up and be a soldier." He marched to the recruiting officer, and "joined." That was eight months ago. Since then father and son have become reconciled, and the popular actor has several times visited his son on the island.

THE management of Drury-lane Theatre, having greatly enlarged and improved the seating capacity of the balcony of the house, have decided to permit booking seats for the pantomime in that part of the house, which was formerly unreserved. In future, places in the balcony, a tier which is now equal to the first and grand circles in comfort and accommodation, can be taken in advance on application at the box office.

MR OTHO STUART'S souvenir, to be presented to each member of the audience at the Adelphi Theatre on Wednesday evening, when the sixtieth performance of The Taming of the Shrew will be given, is an album containing portraits, in character, of all the principal members of the cast

SIR SQUIRE BANCROFT has accepted an invitation to deliver an address on the drama at the Royal Institution on the evening of Friday, March 17.

MR LEWIS WALLER'S cast for his brief but elaborate revival of King Henry the Fifth at the Imperial Theatre on Saturday evening will include, besides Mr Waller himself, Mr Owen Roughwood, Mr William Calvert, Mr Edward Ferris, Mr A. E. George, Mr Cecil M'Guinness, Mr H. Tripp Edgar, Mr Eric Scott, Mr Frank Woolfe, Mr Norman M'Kinnel, Mr Thomas Kingston, Miss Kate Ruskin Mr William Mollison, Mr John Beauchamp, Mr Frank Dyall, Mr Henry J. Carvill, Mr S. B. Brereton, Mr Arthur Lewis, Miss Mary Lewis, Miss Sarah Brooke, Miss Constance Walton, Miss Minnie Griffin, and Miss Mary Rorke.

MR MARTIN HARVEY will commence his spring tour on the 23rd inst. at Cheltenham, where he will play for three days, spending the rest of the week at Leamington. He will open at the Broadway Theatre, Deptford, on the following Monday for two weeks, which will be followed by a week at the Camden Theatre and a week at the King's, Hammersmith. His répertoire will consist of The Only Way, The Breed of the Treshams, and After All.

A DRAMATIC reading of As You Like It will be given by the British Empire Shakespeare Society on Sunday at the Art Gallery, Queen's-road, Bayswater. The "cast" will include Miss Mabel Hackney, Mr Laurence Irving, Mr A. E. Drinkwater, Mr Frank Lascelles, Mr Clive Currie, Mr Gordon Bailey, Mr Chris Walker, Mr Lewis Casson, Mr Lewis Willoughby, Mr Moncton Hoffe, and Misses Rita Jolivet, Helen Haye, Dorothy Rowe, Hazel Thompson, and others. The reading will be under the direction of Mr Acton Bond.

MADAME SUZANNE ADAMS will again be a member of the Grand Opera Company at Covent-garden during the forthcoming season, making the eighth consecutive year she has been connected with this organisation.

THIS week Zapfenstreich fills the evening bill of the German company at the Great Queen-street Theatre. There will be a matinée of Gerhart Hauptmann's stirring play, Die Weber, to-day. On Monday Alt Heidelberg will be played, and on Tuesday there will be another performance of Zapfenstreich. On Wednesday Ein Rabonvater, a farcical comedy, in three acts, will be given. Mr Arthur Bourchier holds the exclusive English rights of this play, as well as the right of production in German, and Messrs Andresen and Behrend are indebted to him for his courtesy in allowing them to present it.

MR ALFRED LESTER, who has been so successful with his summer stock seasons in the past few years, and who met with gratifying results last summer at the Theatre Royal, Cardiff, has arranged with Mr William Forsdike to run a six weeks' stock season at the Alexandra Theatre, Sheffield, in June and July.

UNDER the auspices of Mr J. T. Grein, acting on behalf of an influential committee in Russia, London, and New York, a Russian company will produce in Russian at the Avenue Theatre, on Saturday, Eugen Techirikoff's play The Chosen People, which has already been performed in Russia and Germany. The play deals with the miserable condition of the Jews in Russia under the present régime. This will be the first occasion on which a Russian company of actors has visited this country. The management, by kind permission of Messrs Hans Andresen and Max Behrend, will be placed in the hands of Mr B. A. Meyer.

MR E. J. ABBOTT, head of the firm of Abbott, Deeley, Hill, and Co., of Bennett's-hill, Birmingham, and chairman of the Theatre Royal Co., Birmingham, died in London on Thursday, last week. Mr Abbott, who occupied many public positions, had been seriously ill at his residence, The Austins, Handsworth, for a considerable time, and on Saturday, Dec. 30, he was removed to London in order to undergo an operation, which, unfortunately, proved fatal. The funeral took place on Tuesday, the 10th, at Handsworth Parish Church, Birmingham.

FRANCO LEONI'S Ib and Little Christina has been accepted for production at the Paris Opera Comique, and M. Jean Richepin is preparing an adaptation of Captain Basil Hood's libretto. The piece will probably be produced in April with the new opera, La Cabrera, by Dupont, which recently gained the £2,000 prize offered by Sonzogno, the great Italian editor.

THE cast of The Designers, the original farcical comedy, in three acts, by Fritz Zorn, which will be produced at the Brixton Theatre on Feb. 13, will include Messrs W. Hargreaves, Edmund O'Grady, William Luff, Arthur Dennis, Frank Lester, Herbert Lloyd, Gerald Clark, A. Smith, and Miss Dorothy Sidney, Miss Mignon Hester, and Miss Ina Rozant,

MR G. V. KEAST, who wrote the pantomime now running at Plymouth Theatre Royal, and was the author of many similar productions in the provinces, died at his residence at Stonehouse on the 6th inst, at the comparatively early age of fifty-six. He was a well-known journalist in the West, and a humourist of considerable ability.

MISS NELLIE CLARENCE gave on Twelfth Night an entertainment to the patients and staff in Charing-cross Hospital. The programme included a three act farcical comedy, and songs and recitations by Mr George Thorne, of Savoy Theatre fame, and who acted as Miss Nellie Clarence's stage-manager. The entertainment was an unqualified success, and a vote of thanks was given to Miss Clarence and her kind helpers.

THERE has been trouble in San Francisco concerning the rights in Old Heidelberg. On learning that the Majestic Theatre management intended producing the Mansfield version, Messrs Belasco and Mayer, proprietors of the Alcazar Theatre and sole owners of the right to the play on the Pacific Coast, decided to give an elaborate production of it. Eighteen of the best singers in San Francisco were engaged, and Mr John Craig was secured for the leading rôle.

AT Wednesday's meeting of the Lambeth Board of Guardians, a letter was read from Mr J. Murray Elliott, of the Brixton Theatre, inviting the children under the control of the board at Norwood Schools to go to a matinée and witness the pantomime of Aladdin, free of charge. Lieutenant-Colonel Mackinlay moved that the invitation should not be accepted. He contended that by allowing children under their control to attend theatres the guardians would be subjecting them to great moral danger. Mr Bellati seconded, contending that the children already had sufficient entertainments provided them at the schools. Mr Philcox opposed the resolution, failing to see there was anything wicked or immoral in a theatre. He was surprised the resolution had been moved, and objected to guardians being looked on as "kill-joys." The Rev. E. Denny did not think children could come to any harm by attending a decent theatre. He thought pauper children should go out a little more, like other children. It seemed to him very strange that any objection should be raised to the acceptance of the invitation. After further discussion a vote was taken, with the result that ten voted for the motion and six against, and the clerk was therefore instructed to write and thank Mr Elliott for the invitation, but to decline it.

MR GEORGE ALEXANDER, when he presents at the St. James's Theatre Mr Alfred Sutro's new play, Mollentrave on Women, will not himself take part in the performance, but he has engaged Mr Eric Lewis, Mr Norman M'Kinnel, Mr Leslie Faber, Mr E. Vivian Reynolds, Miss Lettice Fairfax, and Miss Marion Terry for the production.

THE Stage Society will present at the Court Theatre on the afternoons of the 30th and 31st inst. a modern comedy in three acts, by G. S. Street, called Great Friends. In the cast will be Mr Dawson Millward, Mr Philip Leslie, Mr Lewis Casson, Miss Dorothy Grimston, and Miss Gertrude Kingston. Mr Clifford Brooke will be the stage-manager.

MRS LEWIS-HILL, who was so well known before her second marriage as Mrs "Sam" Lewis, recently offered a prize of £50 for the best pianoforte quintette, the judges being Sir Alexander Mackenzie, Dr. Frederic Cowen, and Herr Schönberger. There were over thirty compositions submitted. Mr Hamilton Harty, the successful competitor, is a particularly fine accompanist.

MR OSMAN EDWARDS will read to the Playgoers' Club on Sunday, at the Hotel Cecil, a paper on "The Nursery and the Stage." The chair will be taken by Miss Queenie Leighton, the "principal boy" in The White Cat at Drury-lane Theatre.

AT the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, the other day, during a rehearsal of Fidelio, a large upright piano standing up the stage came sliding down it and headed for the orchestra. It reached the footlights and went over into the orchestra, which, fortunately, the players had just vacated, or they might have been seriously injured.

COLONEL W. F. CODY will sail for France in February with his Wild West show, which will remain several years in Europe. Colonel Cody is very fond of France, and was negotiating the purchase of a large estate near Paris on his last visit to the French capital.

AT the Leicestershire Bankruptcy Court, on the 6th inst., John H. Clarke, theatrical manager, of Leicester, came up for his public examination, with liabilities amounting to £1,300, and assets £50. He admitted, however, that there were £1,500 of other liabilities, and that he had previously failed for over £10,000. The debtor was wearing a gold albert, gold watch, and diamond ring, and he was asked to hand them over to the official receiver. He divested himself of the jewellery, and the official receiver took possession of it.

MISS ITALIA CONTI has been presented by Mr Aylmer Stander, the translator of Tolstoy's Power of Darkness, with a copy bearing the following inscription:—"To Miss Italia Conti, whose courage, quickness, and talent saved the Stage Society from a fiasco. With best wishes."

MR J. PITT HABDACRE, in the King's Bench Division on Thursday, obtained a verdict against Mr H. Armitage and others for performing the Wilson Barrett version of East Lynne, and infringing Mr Hardacre's rights. The points of the case are familiar to all our readers. Judgment was reserved until Monday upon points of law relating to copyright.

MR CLAUDE KING, who is leaving England for South Africa to-day in the s.s. Greek, has been engaged by Messrs Sass and Nelson to play Karl Heinrich, in Old Heidelberg; François Villon, in If I Were King; the title-rôle in Monsieur Beaucaire, Charles Surface, Young Marlowe, Orlando, and Orsino. With the exception of a short season in Brussels with Miss Madge Macintosh, this will be Mr King's first engagement out of England.

MR DUDLEY BENNETT may be congratulated on obtaining the services of Les Four Papillons in his pantomime, Dick Whittington, at the Shakespeare Theatre, Clapham. These lady Terpsichorean experts are undoubtedly the finest dancers London has seen for many years. They have, with their smart appearance, dainty costumes, and agile and graceful manner, scored an emphatic success, and have become established favourites.

AT the committee meeting of the Touring Managers' Association, held at 23, Bedford-street, Strand, on the 6th inst., the resolution referred from the annual meeting to the committee with reference to taking suitable premises for offices was adopted, and a sub-committee was appointed to secure such premises. They will probably be entered into about Easter. The subscription in future will be one guinea and a half, which will include the use of the offices, where appointments can be made and letters written and received.

MR DUNCAN YOUNG, of the Opera House, Crouch-end, occupied a private box at the Dalston Theatre on Monday evening to witness the performance of the pantomime of Sinbad, after the rehearsal of which the disastrous fire occurred which shattered the hopes of the Crouch-end management. The appreciative manner of Mr Duncan Young's approval testified to the treat that the habitués of the Hornsey Temple of Thespis had lost. We trust the success which is sure to follow will make ample amends to the artists who have been such sufferers from the fire.

MISS ETHEL NETHERTON, who has played the title-part in Mr Mouillot's A Runaway Girl company for over two years, is a native of Plymouth, and received her early musical training from the late borough organist, Mr John Hele. Lili, in The Transit of Venus; and the principal parts in A Greek Slave, The Geisha, and The Circus Girl have also been undertaken by Miss Netherton with considerable success. She is particularly fond of horses, and drives a four-in-hand with confidence and skill.

THE Duke and Duchess of Connaught were present on Saturday, with the members of the Portuguese Royal Family, at a performance of Massenet's opera Le Roi de Lahore at the Lyric Theatre, Lisbon.

MR NOEL M'GUCKIN, who is making his first appearance in London with Mrs Langtry's company at Terry's Theatre on Wednesday, in Mrs Dering's Divorce, is a son of Mr Barton M'Guckin, the famous tenor vocalist.

AT the usual weekly meeting of the council, held last Tuesday, John W. Woodbridge, Constance Howard Medley, Winifred Leeson, Sibyl Lonsdale, Herbert Clayton, Christine Silver, Naomi Neilson, T. Langton-Lane, Herbert Bunston, Violet Sims, Frances Aline Leslie, Estelle Despa, T. Harry Irvine, John Collins, Walter Pemberton, Mary Pemberton, H. Buckstone Clair, and Mabel Ormonde were elected members of the Actors' Association, and Phyllis Carr, Jean Donovan, Cecil Wyndham Standing, and Katherine Carroll were nominated as candidates for election as members. A former member was reinstated. The hon. solicitors reported having advised several members upon points submitted. A question having arisen as to the alleged insufficiency of means of egress at a provincial theatre in case of fire, the secretary was instructed to bring the matter again before the council at the next meeting, when the manager's reply to the complaint made would be further considered, and the promised alterations discussed in detail. Matters in reference to the holding of the fourteenth annual general meeting of the Actors' Association, at an early date, were under discussion, and the secretary received instructions.

IN the cast of Mr R. C. Carton's new three-act farce, which is being rehearsed at the Avenue Theatre, are Mr Fred Kerr, Mr Henry Kemble, Mr Graham Browne, Mr Henry J. Ford, Mr Charles Allan, Mr Athol Stewart, Mr Henry Stephenson, Mr Hubert Drury, Miss Annie Hughes, Miss O'Malley, and Miss Compton.

THE many friends of Mr Arthur Milton, proprietor of the Milton-Rays' companies, will be sorry to hear that he has been seriously ill for the last fortnight, but, with the careful nursing of his devoted wife and the attention of Dr. Mooney, he is slowly recovering. It will be some little time, however, before he is convalescent. His son, Mr Milton Rosmer, is ably looking after Mr Milton's interests, although Mr Rosmer has had to refuse two excellent London offers in order to do so.

THE cutting of the Baddeley cake at Drury-lane Theatre on Twelfth Night was performed with all due ceremony by Mr Harry Nicholls, who made a brief but eloquent speech to the assembled guests.

A CURIOUS incident recently occurred in connection with the pantomime of Little Red Riding Hood, which is running merrily at the Grand Theatre, Derby. A little brown terrier conceived a great admiration for the pantomime, and insisted on coming to see it nightly. He managed to elude the vigilance of the doorkeepers, and got in regularly, only to be ejected when discovered. One day last week it appeared in the gallery and joined in one of the choruses. The whole staff pursued it, but to no purpose, and at the conclusion of the performance the dog quietly went out with the other members of the audience.

THE company appearing in The Scilly Girl, the new musical comedy by Messrs Athol Mayhew and William Neale, under the direction of Mr Frank Nelson and Mr Charles Cautley, will return to town next week, after its very successful five weeks' trip. The production will be reorganised and improved, and the piece, greatly strengthened, will go out on tour again on Feb. 27, with a chorus of twenty-four, a company of over forty, seventy new sets of scenery by Egerton, and a liberal supply of tasteful and expensive costumes. Everything will be carried, the production only requiring a clear stage.

AT the meeting of the Dramatic Debaters' Society last Sunday evening Mr Aylmer Maude gave a clever and interesting lecture on Tolstoy and his play The Power of Darkness. Before the debate that followed Mr Grein, the president of the society, who was in the chair, made an announcement to the effect that though up to the present no actor or actress had been asked to join the society, yet there were present at this meeting two ladies who had rendered such service to their art that the committee proposed to ask them to accept honorary membership. He would mention Miss Italia Conti first—as her feat in taking up the part of Anisya in Tolstoy's great masterpiece at a moment's notice was fresh in everyone's minds—and he would ask his dear old friend Mrs Theodore Wright—whose services to the drama were too well known to require naming—if she would consent to join Miss Conti as a member of the Dramatic Debaters' Society. The ladies replied, thanking the president and the committee for the great compliment which had been paid them.

"THE UGLIEST WOMAN ON EARTH" has created quite a sensation in Plymouth, and Miss Beatrice Homer wins the highest praise in this difficult and trying rôle. Crowds of curious women waited to see Miss Homer leave the theatre on Tuesday last to see the Ugliest Woman off the stage, and one young lady was heard to say to Miss Homer, "Why, you're quite 'andsome."

AT the New York Metropolitan Opera House last Saturday, in the course of the performance of Carmen, a large property bridge collapsed, many of the chorus falling amidst the broken timbers on the singers below. Madame Aokté, who was playing Micaela, had her foot injured, but, though suffering great pain, bravely continued her part. Her shoe was cut off, and she wore a slipper for the remainder of the evening. After first aid had been rendered to the injured, Mr Frank Palmer, the stage-manager, was arrested and taken to the police-station.

FUNERAL OF MADAME BELLE COLE.

The funeral of Madame Belle Cole, who died on the 5th inst, took place on Monday at Putney Vale Cemetery. The body was conveyed by road from the residence of the deceased lady at South Kensington. A large number of relatives and friends attended, including Mr John Calvin Cole (husband), Mr Sharpe (nephew), Mrs Sharpe (niece), Madame Paléologue, Miss Geddes, Mrs and Miss Gordon, Mrs Scott, Mrs Sands, Dr. Fitzgerald, Mr Coleman, Mr Fitzroy, Mr Guy Sands, Mr Henri, Mr W. Shankland, Mr Baddeley, and Mr Monteith Fisher. The service, which was that of the Established Church, was conducted by the Rev. Ernest J. A. Fitzroy, a friend of the family, who delivered a brief appreciative address before the committal of the body to the grave. He said they were mourning not only one who was dear to them but one who had used the great gift of her voice to the glory of God and to the delight of her fellow-creatures. A good voice was a blessing to anyone who used it properly, but it could also be made a curse, Madame Belle Cole had used her gift to the holiest and best effect. As one who had watched her career with considerable interest he was able to testify to her kindness of heart and sympathy. She had been of great assistance to other singers who had not been so high in the profession as herself. He particularly remembered a case in which she had considerably helped an orphan girl at Liverpool in her education as a singer, and had otherwise looked after her interests. Her example, indeed, was such that they should all try to imitate it. The coffin, which was of English oak, bore the following inscription:—"Belle Cole, Died 5th January, 1905." There were numerous floral tributes, one of the most conspicuous being a yellow chrysanthemum wreath with the motto "O rest in in the Lord," which was deceased's favourite air. The following societies also sent floral tokens of affection and esteem:—The American Society of Women, the Eccentric Club, the National Sunday League, and Our Dumb Friends' League.

FRESH AIR FUND MATINEE.

The little people certainly "had it all their own own way" at the matinée for the benefit of the Fresh Air Fund which was given at the St. James's Theatre on Tuesday. They were here, there, and everywhere. Children were on the stage, and children were applauding—or envying—them in the auditorium. In the passages fond mothers were seen wrapping up their "little brood" after their perspiration-producing efforts on the boards. Children, in their efforts to get at their friends, walked cheerfully upon the feet of their helpless seniors in the stalls, and, in the vestibule, other children, having disposed of many souvenirs, exultantly handed over their earnings to the promoters of the entertainment. The chief item of the afternoon was the production of a fairy play, in one act, by Netta Syrett, music by Dalhousie Young, entitled

"WHITE MAGIC."

The Queen	DOROTHEA SELOUS
The Witch	GRACE CORBETT
The Princess	MARIE LOHR
The Prince	ROBERT BOTTOMLEY
Edelbert	GEOFFREY DEARMER
The Dryad	BERTHA SELOUS
Thistledown	DOROTHY BARRETT
Flowerfoam	ALISON WHITE
Blue Butterfly	BARBARA BUTTAR
Dragon Fly	MARGUERITE LUCK
Malabo	CHRISTOPHER DEARMER

The scene of this pretty piece was a wood, with a cottage on one side of the picture. Here dwelt a witch, who was consulted, for bad purposes of her own, by a certain Queen, who wanted an eligible Prince to marry her own daughter, instead of her step-child, a fair and good Princess. So it was arranged between her Majesty and the sorceress that the Princess should be brought to the witch to take lessons in witchcraft, so that the Prince, being informed of the habits of the young lady, should refuse to wed her. Unfortunately for the schemes of the conspirators, the Prince came to the wood by accident, met the Princess, and fell in love with her. She was protected, too, by a good fairy, otherwise the Dryad. Thus, when the Queen made the accusation of witchcraft, which was endorsed by the witch, instead of demon sprites appearing to condemn the Princess, a number of beautiful and virtuous fairies presented themselves. Whereupon, the Prince, who previously had "had his doubts," was convinced of the Princess's innocence, and they were betrothed. The best performance in the production was given by Miss Grace Corbett, who was picturesquely villainous as the witch; and Miss Marie Löhr was gentle and pleasing as the Princess. Mr Robert Bottomley acted intelligently as the Prince; and Miss Bertha Selous spoke her lines distinctly as the Dryad. There were some pretty dances done by juveniles and arranged by Mr and Mrs H. Louis D'Egville. Another item was the performance of scenes from The Tempest by children appearing at His Majesty's Theatre. Miss Maggie Jarvis as Ferdinand and Miss Clarisse Batchelor as Miranda had a fair notion of how those parts should be played, and their enunciation was good. It is not necessary to comment on the performances of the other juveniles; nor need we deal individually with the contributions made to the variety sketch called A Musical Party, in which little Miss Dorothy Neville sang "If no one ever marries me" with delicate daintiness. Like Thackeray's paper in "Pendennis," which was written "by gentlemen for gentlemen," the Fresh Air Fund matinée was given by children for children; and as both performers and audience were pleased and the Fund was benefited, little more need be said. The children's dances, however, were worthy of praise. Miss Nancy Buckland and Miss Phillis Monkman, who joined in the "Golly wog" duet from The Cingalee, had the advantage of the instruction and help of Miss Gracie Leigh and Mr Huntley Wright. Mr and Mrs D'Egville had arranged four "action songs" with dances, the music being composed by Mr Wakeling Dry. These were prettily gone through by pupils from Messrs Bellew and Stock's Academy. Miss Phillis Yorke sang the Sweep Song from The Orchid, assisted by members of Mr Stedman's choir, Mr Sydney Ellison being responsible for the production. With regard to an entertainment of this kind serious criticism is, of course, quite uncalled-for. In the case of the two little "toddlers," who in White Magic, attired as fairies, seemed half dazed by their surroundings and half blinded by the light, the confusion, and the various noises, censure was entirely disarmed. It would have been an act of lèse-majesté against "King Baby."

AMUSEMENTS IN BOMBAY.

BOMBAY, DEC. 23, 1904.—VICTORIA THEATRE.—Sandow has shown for fourteen days here to such houses as have never gladdened the eyes of any previous entertainer in India. His tour has been an unqualified success, and each evening the cultured athlete had to come forward again and again to acknowledge the enthusiasm of crowds of Europeans and natives, some of whom travelled miles to see him. In every station of note on his way from Calcutta there were crowds of folk eager to see Sandow, and he had quite a royal welcome here in Bombay. The popular tenor, well-known in India and the East, Mr Will Lansdowne, was a great favourite with all. World and Kingston, a pair of really quaint Yankee humourists, were a big hit, the scarecrow dance by them being a novelty to Indian audiences. Alva, another American, was quite a host in himself as an expert conjuror. The Sisters Mowbray always take well here, as they have toured India for some years under various managements, and are, of course, very popular.

WE have two circuses here, Chatre and More, both native but well worth seeing, and to-night our old friend Warren's Circus opens. He has some old faces from home, and we anticipate a successful season for them.

TOWN HALL.—Mr Edward Branscombe, the popular English tenor, and his glee singers, known as the Westminster Glee Singers, have just had a very short successful season here. They are touring the world, and have been in Canada, America, South Africa, Australia, and are now doing India and China.

A LARGE and attractive collection of signed photographs of celebrities of the stage is being shown by Mr William J. May at an exhibition of photographs and pictures at Aldershot this week. The series includes many well-known actors and actresses, leading professional singers and musicians.

MR KENNEDY ALLEN, who has speedily become popular in the Stratford Borough pantomime, The Forty Thieves, by his capital performance as Hassarac, assumed at a moment's notice, on Saturday night last, owing to the sudden indisposition of Mr Nat Clifford, the important rôle of Ali Babi, contributing also his own special numbers as well as undertaking, in conjunction with Miss Claire Romaine, the burlesque duet "Prophets," which Mr Clifford and Miss Romaine have made such an important feature of the pantomime. It says much for Mr Allen's resourcefulness that his rendering of an entirely unfamiliar rôle was highly to the liking of the huge audience present, and at the conclusion of the performance he was the recipient of unstinted applause, in which the pantomime principals also joined. We are pleased to learn that Mr Clifford was better on Monday, and able to resume his part.

AT the last performance by the D'Oyly Carte opera company at the Lyceum, Newport, last Saturday, Mr Sidney Cooper made his appeal for the local hospital, when the handsome sum of £23 4s. 6d. was collected, a cheque for the amount being immediately handed to the treasury.

"THE ACTORS' BENEVOLENT FUND."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—After considering Mr Raleigh's scheme, I am compelled to oppose it on the following grounds:—The income from matinées is too uncertain. Are there 300 theatres that would show an average of £25 per matinée on an off day after paying for the lighting, the stage-hands, money and check-takers, dressers, cleaners, and bandsmen, or allowing their charities to share in the takings? I think if we name 200 theatres, we are doing very well.

Again, if all the London theatres are to give matinées on the same day, they will be competing against each other on an off day for business, if it is not to interfere with the run of the play. Do the public support our present benefit matinées, with special programmes, in sufficient numbers to hope for a return of £7,500? Personally I think the actor himself supports in no small degree the present matinées, which he will be debarred from doing if he is in an engagement, and if he is out of one, he can hardly be expected to pay for entrance to the theatre.

Then would any manager be willing to admit the poor drawing powers of his play by allowing the members of his company to give extra turns, when another theatre on the other side of the Strand offering the same style of play is considered sufficient attraction without them?

Now permit me to go into figures of my penny in the pound tax:—

50	Companies with a salary list of £200 per week =		£10,000
100	"	£25 "	£2,500

That at forty weeks in the year would give the A. B. F. an income of £4,583 odd, and when you reckon the odd pence derived from the odd shillings in salaries, the income would be nearer or quite £5,000 a year. Now, to collect this, I suggest the Fund issue six tickets of one, two, three, four, five, and ten pence each to the managers of the companies, and they in making up their salaries enclose them in the envelopes with the full salary and collect the pence from the actor whose duty it would be to see they are correct, and to destroy them. A salary of one guinea pays a tax of 2d.; a salary of £2 15s. pays a tax of 3d.

I ask you, Sir, if you are issuing voting papers to find room for this scheme, and I appeal to all actors and actresses to vote for the certainty in place of the very little bigger uncertainty.

Yours faithfully, Q. M'PHERSON.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—In your issue of Dec. 24 I read the letter from Mr Charles Cruikshanks setting forth roughly, as he puts it, a scheme by which Mr Cecil Raleigh's suggestion of a matinée throughout the kingdom on a certain day in aid of the Actors' Benevolent Fund may be carried into effect. It seems to me that the scheme he puts forward is more than the nucleus of an idea, and carries the notion very much further than could have been expected, except from anyone of such well-known methodical and business ability as Mr Cruikshanks. As I wrote you a few weeks ago supporting Mr Raleigh's primary idea, I now would like to say that I most heartily concur in the proposition set forth by Mr Cruikshanks for the carrying out of the scheme of matinées throughout the kingdom by every company performing at a certain time. I for one shall most heartily hope to see it carried out, and I think that the thanks of everybody interested are due to Mr Cruikshanks for the thought and care he has given to the matter, and for laying his plans before the council; and to the council for so heartily taking the matter up. I suppose, from what my old friend John Maclean used to call the "shouts of silence" on this question of a general matinée meeting, that it is carried unanimously. At any rate, I have not seen any correspondence condemning it. I hope the council will go ahead and endeavour to concentrate the scheme and carry it into effect.

Yours faithfully, W. LESTOCQ.

THEATRICAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

At the Westminster County Court, on Tuesday, Judge Woodfall gave judgment in the case of James Willing and Co. v. Maynard. Mr Lewis (of Messrs Dodd and Longstaffe) were for the plaintiffs, and Mr Lloyd Humphreys appeared for the defendant.

Plaintiffs, the advertising agents, claimed a sum of £13 from Mr Richard Maynard, for advertisements issued in respect of the Court Theatre.

Mr Lewis explained that in December, 1903, the defendant approached the plaintiffs and told them that he was solely interested in the production at the Court Theatre, of Snowdrop and the Seven Little Men. Plaintiffs undertook the advertising, and were paid altogether by Mr Maynard £220. The last money due, £13, represented a week's advertising, and this the defendant refused to pay on the ground that a syndicate for which he said he had been acting was liable.

Evidence was given by employees of the plaintiffs' firm that they always believed they were dealing with Mr Maynard as a principal.

Mr Richard Maynard, the defendant, deposed that he told Messrs Willing's manager he was advertising for a syndicate, and said that the cheques he signed were always stamped 'Snowdrop Syndicate."

Judge Woodfall held that the defendant had made himself personally liable to the plaintiffs, who had previously had business with him, for it was incredible to believe that they would have entered into such a heavy contract with a syndicate of which they knew absolutely nothing. He accordingly gave judgment for plaintiffs for the amount claimed.

Mr Maynard said his present salary was a very small one. He could only offer 10s. a month.

Judge Woodfall pointed out that Mr Maynard had a remedy against the syndicate, and said that if, within fourteen days, he entered an action against the latter, he might apply to the Court for a further stay of execution.

HOCKEY.

MISS CECILIA FOWLER'S LADIES ATHLETIC TEAM V. COTHAM AND REDLAND LADIES ATHLETIC CLUB.

Played near Clifton Downs on Jan. 7. During the end of the first-half Miss W. Bradley was injured and had to retire, Miss F. Hooper went on in her place. The following were the teams:—

Miss Cecilia Fowler's Ladies Athletic Team.—Miss E. Bowman, goal; Miss L. Carter and Miss I. Bowman, backs; Miss N. Bailey, Miss C. Fowler (captain), and Miss G. Thomas half-backs; Miss A. Bernard, Miss B. Godfrey, Miss T. Maynard, Miss K. Elvin, and Miss G. Leonard, forwards.

Cotham and Redland Ladies Athletic Club.—Miss M. Fisher, goal; Miss A. Gibbs and Miss E. Francis (of Miss Cecilia Fowler's Eleven), backs; Miss E. Lawrence, Miss N. Lewis, and Miss L. Norris, half-backs; Miss W. Bradley (captain), Miss A. Mitchell, Miss N. Lawrence, Miss K. Montgomery, and Miss M. Burgess, forwards.

Referee, Miss E. Lewis (of Cheltenham). Result:—Miss Cecilia Fowler's Ladies Team, one goal; Cotham and Redland Ladies Athletic Team, three goals. Misses G. Thomas, L. Norris, E. Francis and N. Lawrence scored for their respective sides.

MR FELIX PITT has been engaged by Mr Louis Calvert for his tour with The Garden of Lies.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

MR. FRANK LACY.

THE subject of our biography this week has had a long and—for a comparatively young man—varied career, having played nearly all lines of business before settling down to that of a light comedian, with an occasional serious juvenile part. After leaving King's College School, where he had as contemporaries many who have since earned fame on the stage, Mr Lacy started life in the City, and after trying his hand at various things there and meantime playing many parts with the Lotus Amateur Dramatic Club, he elected to take up seriously an actor's calling, and after much waiting at stage doors and the writing of many letters managed to obtain an engagement to appear as a guest in the drawing-room scene of The Dean's Daughter, at the St. James's Theatre, in 1888, under the management of Mr Rutland Barrington, and had for a partner as a lady guest Miss Irene Vanbrugh. Then when a first piece was required A Patron Saint was chosen, Mr Lacy was fortunately (he says importunately) selected for the part of the flunkey, consisting of a single line. But at the first rehearsal the author, Mr Charles Thomas, got the idea that the part could be, not made more of, but could be made more, with the result that lines were written in and fresh scenes introduced, making the one line part into a nice little character comedy sketch. After The Dean's Daughter came Brantinghame Hall, in which Mr Lacy played the part of Jim Blueby, and sang the song which took the curtain up on the first act. In this play Miss Julia Neilson made her début, if we except the matinée in which she played Galatea. This engagement was followed by a provincial tour with Chispa, an American comedy-drama, in which Mr Lacy not only played three parts and looked after the stage-management, but had to change back from one character to the other continually. Then a tour as Captain Cameron, in The Balloon, then as Capt. Julian Chandler, in The Middleman, and from that was specially engaged to play Edwin Honeydew, in New Lamps for Old, that clever comedy by Jerome K. Jerome, and was twice re-engaged. Then a short tour as Frederick Leighton Buzzard, in The Bungalow, and Mr Lacy joined A Pantomime Rehearsal at the Shaftesbury Theatre to play Sir Charles Grandison, during the run of which Mr George Edwardes engaged him to play Brogden, in First Mate, the two-act comedy which was played in front of Joan of Arc at the Gaiety, and A Pantomime Rehearsal not starting till ten o'clock, he was able to fulfil both engagements. Migrating with A Pantomime Rehearsal to Toole's Theatre, ultimately to the Court, the triple bill was augmented by A Highland Legacy, and Mr Lacy played the part of Cavendish Howley. Then when the triple bill came to an end, a short provincial tour with a new comic opera by Bucalossi, entitled Brother George, and then back in town to create the parts of Beaujour, in The Broken Melody, and Harold Hernshaw, in The White Lady, at the Prince of Wales' Theatre. Then came a country engagement as Reginald Foster (Mr Charles Hawtrey's part), in Godpapa; Peter Fletcher, in Uncle; and Felix Featherstone, in Snowball; Charles Fullalove, in The Noble Art; Corney Griffin, in Niobe; Charles Middlewick, in Our Boys; Reginald Sylvester, in Our Flat; and back to London to support Miss Minnie Palmer as Captain John Rattlebrain, in The Little Widow, at the Royalty Theatre. Then came a two years' engagement with Mr William Greet to play Don Juan, in Little Christopher Columbus, then engagements as Robert Walker, in Sweet Seventeen; Chevalier de Vaudray, in Two Orphans; Dr. Bill, in Dr. Bill; and then came a tour of South Africa, playing a round of Shakespearian and Robertsonian comedies; back in England at the Shaftesbury Theatre understudying Mr Yorke Stephens in The Sorrows of Satan, then off again on tour to play Felix Crackle, in Mr Geo. R. Sims's Skipped by the Light of the Moon, followed by a tour as the Earl of Kilbeggan, in The Ballet Girl. Mr Lacy was then engaged to create the part of Christopher Rook, in Black and White, and remained with that piece until he had to leave to fulfil an engagement to create the part of Dandy Triplett, in Little Miss Nobody, at the Lyric Theatre. Then to the Princess's Theatre to play the juvenile leading parts in Alone in London and In Old Kentucky. Then Mr Lacy was engaged by Sir Henry Irving to create the part of De Pons, in the Lyceum production of Robespierre, and received an offer, which he was obliged to decline, to accompany Sir Henry to America; and off on tour again to play Dr. Shepherd, in Oh! Susannah, when he was engaged to create the part of the Hon. Bertie Ferrars in Mr Milton Bode's production of Night Birds of London, from which he was engaged to create the part of Arthur Sportington in When a Man's Married. Then to the Strand Theatre to play the part of Bertie O'Brien in Newspaper Nuptials, when Mr Lacy was engaged to produce and to play the part of Dick Oswald in Brother Bill. Then a suburban tour as George D'Alroy in Caste, with Mr G. W. Anson, a tour as Reggie Brownhill in Broun at Brighton, following the Avenue production, and Mr Lacy was then engaged to support Mr Henry Neville, as Edward Falkner, in The Liars, at the termination of which he was engaged by Mr Charles Frohman to play Sir Harry Harmon in Billy's Little Love Affair, and was re-engaged by Mr Percy Hutchison to play Capt. Fritz in The Money Makers. Mr Lacy was kindly released by Mr Percy Hutchison from the last three weeks of his engagement with The Money Makers company to enable him to play a part in Mr Arthur Bourchier's Christmas production of Little Black Sambo and Little White Barbara at the Garrick Theatre.

THE proprietors of several Liverpool theatres, including the Court, Shakespeare, Star, and Queen's, recently allowed collections to be made at their establishments in aid of the Children's Infirmary. About £60 was realised.

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

Comedy, in Four Acts, by M. Jules Lemaître,
Produced at the Renaissance, Jan. 11.

PARIS, THURSDAY, JAN. 12.—M. Jules Lemaître, who, in an evil moment, gave up literature to devote himself to politics, has wisely resumed his former work and given us a new play, which met with a cordial reception. In the opening tableau we are in the Académie Justinian, one of those painting academies for young ladies, some of whom—the professionals—work seriously, whilst others, mostly wealthy young mondaines, have taken up Art as an amusement. Among the former is Juliette Dupuy, a charming, clever girl, whom her comrades have elected "Massière," a post of honour, which, in studio slang, means that on her devolves the duty of maintaining proper discipline in the school. But the pupils have not failed to notice the special attention which Marèze—their professor, a famous painter, a man about fifty-five—pays the "Massière;" and one of them, Suzanne, gives a funny imitation of the manner in which Marèze generally addresses Juliette. We soon discover that the pupils have hit upon the truth—the professor loves his young "Massière," the bread-winner for her widowed mother and little brother. She is a high-minded, hard-working girl, and Marèze admires her for her great qualities. He takes, as he thinks, nothing but a fatherly interest in her, but soon realises the fact that life without her near him would be a blank. Unfortunately, Marèze's wife has noticed her husband's partiality for Juliette. Her jealousy has been awakened, and she so far forgets herself as to start a violent scene with the girl, whom she forbids to re-enter the studio. Jacques, Marèze's son, has witnessed this painful scene, of which he ignores the reason, and reproaches his mother for her cruel conduct. He manages to meet Juliette several times, and resolves to make her his wife. When he informs his parents of his intentions, Madame Marèze, who still looks upon the girl as her rival, grows indignant and raises all kinds of objections. But her anger is nothing compared to the feelings roused in Marèze, sen., at the thought that his beloved pupil will be carried off by his own son. He in his turn has become jealous—jealous of his son. This time Madame Marèze understands the danger that threatens to undermine their happiness. Moreover, she has discovered that Juliette is worthy to be her son's wife, and Marèze, whose eyes have been opened to his own folly, consents to their marriage. The plot is by no means a novel one, but it is skilfully developed. It is, however, a matter of surprise to see M. Jules Lemaître make such fun of the Institut de France, of which he himself is a member. The interpretation, as is always the case at the Renaissance, was beyond praise. M. Guitry gave us a masterly impersonation of the infatuated Marèze, whom, however, he made appear older than should have been the case. In the ungrateful rôle of Madame Marèze Madame Judic won golden laurels. Time is dealing gently with this gifted artiste. Mdlle. Brandès sketched cleverly the gentle figure of the "Massière;" and we had a charming group of lady students in Mdlle. Heller, Mdlle. Ryter, and Mdlle. Lavigne.

MDLLE. DUCANGE, of the Theatre de Montrouge—where she was paid £12 per month—suddenly threw up her rôle and went to Algiers, where she was engaged at £40 per month. The manager of the Montrouge Theatre thereupon brought an action against the lady, claiming the £120 forfeit stipulated in the agreement. Mdlle. Ducange, who appeared in person, informed the Court that a serious reason had compelled her to leave Paris. She was suffering from rheumatism, and her doctor had told her that only a stay in a warm climate could cure her. The Tribunal, however, was of opinion that rheumatism could be cured in Paris as well as in Algiers, and ordered the young actress to pay the £120 claimed by her ex-manager.

M. LELOIR, the talented Sociétaire of the Comédie-Française, has read to Madame Sarah Bernhardt his five-act comedy. It was at once accepted, and will be brought out towards the end of the season.

MADAME SARAH BERNHARDT has fixed the 27th inst. for the production of Victor Hugo's Angelo.

AS I informed you already, M. Jules Claretie asked M. Jean Richepin to write Don Quichotte for the celebration of the fête to be given at the Comédie-Française in honour of Cervantès. M. Claretie has already ordered the scenery of the eight tableaux, and special attention will be paid to the costumes. The Cervantès fête will take place in May prox.

AT the Opéra-Comique several novelties are in preparation. After Hélène and Xavière, announced for next week, the rehearsals will begin of M. Alexandre Georges's lyric drama Miarka, to a libretto by M. Jean Richepin, and wherein the principal rôle will be sung by Miss Mary Garden. There is also a question of Madame Héglon appearing in this work, provided M. Gailhard gives his consent. Massenet's Marie-Magdeleine will also be put into rehearsal, and be brought out in April with Madame Calvé.

M. ALBERT CARRÉ has accepted Ib and Little Christina, by Basil Hood and Franco Leoni. M. Jean Richepin—who seems to be the persona grata at the Opéra-Comique, has been entrusted with the French translation.

M. LUGNÉ-POE, of the Théatre de L'Œuvre, promises us several interesting plays. Besides D'Annunzio's La Gioconda and La Fille De Jorio, the Œuvre will give us M. Joachim Gasquet's Dionysos, for which M. Leon Moreau has written the incidental music played at the Lamoureux concerts under M. Camille Chevillard's direction. Mdlle. Moreno will impersonate Dionysos.

ANOTHER novelty at the Œuvre will be Hugo De Hofmansthal's Elektra, with Madame Suzanne Desprès in the title-rôle. The work has been translated by MM. Paul Stroheker and Stephen Etienne.

M. URBAIN GOHIER continues to accuse M. Henry Bernstein with having for his comedy Le Bercail, appropriated the plot of Les Chaines, a play translated from the Russian. M. Gohier extended his accusation even to MM. Brieux and Sigaux, who, according to him, had also taken their story in Desertuse from the before-mentioned Russian play. But the Authors' Society acquitted MM. Brieux and Sigaux of this charge; and M. Bernstein has now brought an action against M. Gohier for libel, claiming £4,000 damages. There is, however, little chance of the case ever coming into court.

MR WILLIAM CLARKSON will take the chair at a House Dinner at the Playgoers' Club this evening.

"THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL" at the New Theatre is a "dream" of beautiful dresses, bright colour and handsome accessories, the date being the last decade of the eighteenth century, just before the great French Revolution. But the loveliest scene is a ball-room at a great English nobleman's house; and here is introduced a very handsome suite of Louis XVI. furniture, with gold frames and softly coloured brocades, one great tall-backed chair being enriched with heraldic blazonry. The furniture for the new play has been supplied by Messrs Oetzmann and Co., of Hampstead-road, whose names are always a guarantee of accuracy and good taste.

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

MELBOURNE, NOV. 15, 1904. — PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Melbourne playgoers are fully enjoying the change in their dramatic diet afforded them in the charming play Old Heidelberg, which was produced on Saturday evening. Mr Clinton has made a very close study of the old tutor, Dr. Juttner, the result being in every way satisfactory. Of the other parts those undertaken by Mr Harcourt Beatty, Mr Harry Hill, Mr Malcolm Dunn, and Mr Dallas Cairns are most prominent, Miss Nellie Stuart gives a good account of herself as Kathie. The costumes and scenery are on Mr Musgrove's usual liberal scale. All things considered Old Heidelberg is reaping the success it deserves.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Closed in accordance with Board of Health injunction.

BIJOU THEATRE.—The latest sensation of the class of drama in which Mr Anderson's patrons specially delight was produced on Saturday night under the title The Best Must Win. The scenes of the play are laid in France, and all the characters belong to that volatile and entertaining race. Miss Duggan appeared at her best in some of the scenes and was well supported by the rest of the company.

OPERA HOUSE.—The American Travesty Stars produced on Saturday evening, a new "play without a plot" entitled The Whirligig, in conjunction with a second part under the title of Pousse Café. Taken on the whole these two productions are about on a par with the previous performances of this company. Most interesting of all was the work of the dancers and the well-trained chorus. Miss Lily Sutherland deserves special mention for the really clever and original "Yiddish cake-walk" which fairly brought down the house.

MESSRS WIRTH BROTHERS have been doing excellent business with their huge combined shows, consisting of circus of up-to-date performers and large wild beast menagerie. A feature of the entertainment is the introduction of a number of Wild West cowboys headed by Captain William M'Leod. Messrs Wirth Brothers deserve the highest praise for their clever trick riding on two magnificent pure-bred Arab horses.

SYDNEY, NOV. 15, 1904.—Romeo and Juliet succeeded L'Aiglon at Her Majesty's Theatre on the 12th and Mr J. C. Williamson staged the Shakespearian tragedy elaborately. The scenery was excellent, a notable departure being cloisters with floral courtyards instead of the gloomy cell in which Friar Lawrence was wont to arrange the youthful lovers' wedding. Miss Tittell Brune was the Juliet, and gave a charmingly interesting portrait. Sweetly melodious in speech, never exaggerating, but ever alert for every point, the youthful actress won success step by step, until the crowded house shouted commendation and loudly demanded the reappearance of their favourite again and again. Mr A. E. Greenaway was the Romeo, and played the part most expressively. The unctuous voice and stately dignity of Mr Gaston Mervale made for us an excellent Friar Lawrence. He was fatherly and friendly both. Mr Roy Redgrave made a decidedly good impression as Mercutio. He looked well and dressed superbly, as did, indeed, all Mr Williamson's company. Miss Mabel Lane as Lady Capulet was beautiful and dignified. Miss Clara Stephenson, a fine actress in the seventies, was the Nurse, a very capable impersonation. Mr Harry Sweeney—the worthy son of a worthy father—made a handsome and graceful Paris, speaking capitally. The angry Capulet was well acted by Mr Roland Stavely, and Mr J. B. Atholwood was a perfect Apothecary. Miss Mayers made a handsome Lady Montague.

"SIDEWALKS OF NEW YORK," an American melodrama of lower life, is Mr Walter Sandford's Lyceum bill at present. Without being heavy or bloodthirsty, the play has some vivid situations, notably the attack on and rescue of the bank safe. Mr Sanford is the hero, Arthur Burton, and the villain, Rochester, could not be better acted than by Mr Johnson Weir. Miss Ada Clare makes a repulsive character sketch of Mother Bergman. Miss Laura Wall is a sentimental Agnes Jasper, and a bright and coquettish Lottie Blake comes from Miss Adelaide Boothby. Mr George Kunkel is an excellent Soloman Ernstein.

THE TIVOLI had a novelty on Saturday in the Reseda Sextette, a group of sweet singers and graceful dancers, giving a pleasing turn. The return of an old favourite, Harry Fitte, under his new name of Harry Atkinson, was welcomed. Mr Harry Rickards' bill also includes Mr Carden Wilson, with his imitations of favourite actors; and the Sisters O'Meers, the Frasettis, the Cadwaladr Trio, and the talented soprano Miss Hilda Lane.

SYDNEY.—NOV. 22, 1904.—Mr Bland Holt is particularly fond of plays which include representations of English sporting scenes. Going the Pace is an example. In this the circus scene is exceedingly well staged. Mr Holt as clown is a firm favourite; and Mrs Holt is a demure Quakeress as Hannah. Mr Walter Baker is the hero Richard Mervyn; Miss Frances Ross appears as Alice Maxwell; Miss Harrie Ireland supplies a genial rendering of the circus rider Electrina; and Miss Pollock is a quiet Lucy. Mr Albert Norman as the comic scoundrel Pariel does good work; Mr Charles Brown as the good-hearted Terence O'Rafferty is a typical circus proprietor; Mr Arthur Styan portrays violent Caleb Swanson in a sufficiently convincing manner; and Mr Max Maxwell plays the rôle of the dude cabman No. 10,037 in capital style. In the circus scene Mr Percy Kehoe introduces a Pierrette ballet danced by clever girls. Professor Fowler exhibits his performing dogs; and Miss Eugenie Perry appears in an American Hurricane Estrade act.

"TEMPEST TOSSED" is the latest bill of Mr Walter Sandford's American players at the Lyceum. A storm at sea is the chief sensation, and it is capitally done. Mr Sandford is himself the hero, Richard Wentworth; Miss Laura Wall is an excellent Mary Haggard; Miss Kate Gair, always handsome, is interesting as Nellie Preston; and Mr George Kunkel scores as Jabez Haggard. A reliable actor is Mr Johnson Weir, who accentuates all the individuality of Zachary Pegg, and Miss Adelaide Boothby gets fun out of Polly Perkins.

AT the Tivoli on Saturday an enthusiastic welcome back was given to Madame Lydia Yeamans Titus and Professor Frederick Titus, who have completed an all-round-the-world tour. The Sisters O'Meers, Les Frasettis, Harry Atkinson, the Cadwalladr Trio, Miss Hilda Lane, Reseda quartet, Gregson and Goodfellow, Kearns and Rosslyn, Carder Wilson, and Tom Dawson, all these and many more are in Mr Harry Rickards's bill.

MR JOHN B. STEELE, a leading actor of the "good old days," and husband of the late Miss Adelaide Bowring, died in the Liverpool Benevolent Asylum on the 18th, and was buried with Masonic honours in the local cemetery on the following day. Mr Steele was in excellent health until recently when throat cancer set in with fatal results.

THE Stage Society's next production will be Great Friends, a modern comedy by G. S. Street, which will be presented at the Court Theatre on the 30th and 31st inst.

AT the Greenwich Theatre this week The Lady's Maid, a musical comedy by C. A. Lord, has been drawing good houses. It is ably acted throughout, especially by Miss Maggie Bowman, whose Jane Taylor is an admirable study, being both bright and clever, and by Mr William Pringle, whose Samuel Spriggs is a most amusing impersonation. Mr Carr Shirley is very good as Josiah Biffin; Mr Stenson Liddard is a manly Charles Marchmont; Mr Harold Eden is a clever Augustus Pushpayst; and Mr Frank Randall a diverting Sergeant Tomkins. Miss Pauline Hague is an interesting Alison Grey, and the remaining ladies and gentlemen in the cast are all seen to advantage.

THE COLISEUM FATALITY.

In the Westminster Coroner's Court, on Wednesday, Mr John Troutbeck held an inquiry concerning the death of Fred Grice, aged twenty years, lately living in Tottenham-court-road, the jockey who died from injuries received at the London Coliseum during the spectacle "The Race for the Derby," on Friday night, the 6th.

Mr C. F. Gill, K.C., and Mr Travers Humphreys (instructed by Messrs Smith, Rundell, and Dodds) appeared on behalf of the proprietors of the Coliseum, and Mr D. P. Andrews, from the Solicitor's Department, Spring-gardens, watched the case on behalf of the London County Council. At the outset of the proceedings Mr Gill said the proprietors of the Coliseum greatly regretted the accident that had occurred, and wished him to express their condolences with the relatives of the deceased.

George Albert Thomas, who was present at the performance on Friday night with his son, described how the accident occurred. About eight o'clock, when "The Race for the Derby" had fairly started, he saw the six horses come into view through a gap in the scenery to the right of the stage. They were on the revolving part of the stage, and were riding two abreast. By the time they reached the centre of the stage, three of the horses appeared to be getting rather close together, and then the middle horse of the three suddenly slipped and went down on its haunches. The rider, Grice, appeared to be doing his best to assist the animal to regain its feet, but failed, and the horse was carried along a certain distance by the revolving stage, and then fell against the proscenium, whence it was thrown, by the movement of the stage, into the orchestra. He did not see what became of the jockey.

Mr Will Bishop, stage producer and dancing master of the Coliseum, said that at rehearsal instructions were given for the horses to travel in pairs, and the jockeys were strictly told that they must not attempt to pass each other. There had been eight or ten days of rehearsal before the first public performance, and no mishap or difficulty had occurred. The floor of the stage was covered with felt, over which matting of a colour to resemble turf had been firmly nailed to prevent slipping. The surface was not slippery. At the time the accident happened the stage was revolving at the rate of between fourteen and fifteen miles an hour. The horses came into view at the gallop, and it appeared to him that after they had gone round once Grice tried to pass another of the horses, with the result that his horse stumbled. The three horses were then close together, and Grice appeared to be trying to secure the inside berth. When the horse stumbled Grice tried to save it, but the animal slipped down on to its haunches. He believed that it then fell on to the edge of the fixed stage, and was caught by the revolving part and thrown against the proscenium, whence it fell into the orchestra, carrying Grice with it. The performance had not been submitted for the approval of any authority, so far as he knew.

Mr Gill explained that where there was a music and dancing licence, it was not necessary to submit any part of the performance to the licensing body. They had no power by statute to regulate the nature of the performance, but, of course, any suggestion from the authorities would be adopted.

The witness, in answer to Mr Gill, said that this week would see the 100th performance of the spectacle. As a matter of fact, although it was called a race, it was no race at all. The same horse always won.

By the jury—Grice was at the back, and tried to pass the horse in front of him.

One of the other jockeys said his instructions were to keep behind, and they were all forbidden to race.

By Mr Gill—All the jockeys were experienced riders. He had himself been apprenticed at a racing stable, and Grice had lived with a trainer.

Mr Henry Pemberton, supervising engineer at the Coliseum, said the revolving part of the stage gave a track 24ft. wide, and was in two distinct circular parts, which could be worked either together or separately. On the occasion of the accident both parts were locked together by means of six iron locks. The stage was started so slowly that it took about twenty seconds to make the first revolution. Its highest speed was about twenty miles an hour. At the time of the accident it was revolving at from fourteen to fifteen miles an hour. No mishap occurred and no jerk. He examined it after the accident, and found the revolving table and the rest of the appliances in perfect order.

Mr Marshall Moore, chief of the general staff of the Coliseum, said he had given strict instructions to the jockeys, both at rehearsals and since, that they were not to race, but were to keep their positions all through, and only ride two abreast. He had never seen any of them race. He admitted there was always an element of danger in such scenes. The moving portion of the stage was now cut off from the rest by barriers of rope, which prevented either animals or men from being thrown off.

Mr Thomas Davis, house-surgeon at the Charing-cross Hospital, said Grice was unconscious when he was admitted, and died twenty minutes afterwards. Death was due to an extensive fracture of the skull.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

Boy Glen is the name of the latest raconteur on the variety stage, and this youngster's success at the Metropolitan as an extra turn has secured for him much gratifying attention from London managers. Mr Jesse Sparrow has secured him already for the Granville and Camberwell Palace, and he is winning honours this week at the Euston. Mr Ryder Slone is his pioneer.

In reference to Mr Sam Mayo's recent feat, Mr Tom Prichard writes from the Empire Music Hall, Dudley: "Eight turns nightly were worked a few years ago by Mr J. W. Rowley, with horse and brougham, and he sang three and four songs at some of his engagements. Therefore, until our young friend can work nine turns, and sing twenty-seven songs in one night he cannot talk of holding a record."

The costumes of the Tschin-Maa Troupe of Chinese jugglers at the Alhambra are distinguished for their striking and characteristic combination of colours. The member of the party to whom is entrusted the swinging bowls of water appears in a rose-red shirt, grass-green belt, and black trousers. The tiny contortionist is in purple, gold, and crimson. The fire-eater is in scarlet and black. The attendants' suits are all handsomely embroidered, one of them looking particularly effective in vivid yellow satin. Perhaps the most "childlike and bland" member of the troupe is the man who throws knives, and whose costume is a lovely shade of heliotrope. None of the Tschin-Maas speak English, but several of them understand Russian. They dress off the stage in European clothes.

Mr D. Bliss, of Rosen and Bliss, has started his Continental tour. All artists will kindly send lithos to the Hotel St Petersbourg, Paris. — Mr George Fairburn produced with gratifying success, at the Dunbar, Balham, Jan. 2, a new speciality, by C. Osborne, entitled The Busy Barber. — Harry Clyo and Rose Rochelle return to London, Monday, to the South, for one week only, after five weeks' starring provincial tour.

Mr Fred Neiman, who has been representing Macdermott's Agency for over three years, has commenced an agency for himself. His long experience as an artiste shou'd stand him in good stead. Mr Neiman is not relinquishing the stage, as he is pretty well booked up for the next two years.

"L'IDOLE BRISÉE."

A Wordless Sketch, in Three Scenes, by Percival H. T. Sykes, Produced for the First Time in England at Collins's Music Hall, on Jan. 2.

Lizette ..... Mrs Percival H. T. Sykes
Pierre ..... Mr Percy Leslie
François ..... Mr Fred Lester
The Bride ..... Miss Janet John
The Mother ..... Miss Ada Murray
The Father ..... Mr Chas. Frome

The wordless playlet, which was produced here on the first Monday in the New Year, is still affording delight to visitors to the hall by the green. The staging evokes the warmest admiration, and the appropriate music has been composed and is personally conducted by Mr Sam Cudword. The story told without words is the old one of a woman's misplaced confidence and a man's duplicity. A pretty girl named Lizette has been staying with her brother, Pierre, in Rouen. Here she has met and fallen in love with a heartless fop called François, who induces her to accompany him to Paris. He soon wearies of her and the child she has borne him, but the unhappy girl still loves him in spite of his heartless conduct. The opening of the story is on the eve of the wedding of François with another. We see poor Lizette in her home tending her sick baby. She has received a letter from François, promising to come at two o'clock, but the clock strikes the hour and there is no sign of her lover, and she is sadly disappointed. However, François does come later, and makes a pretence of being as fond of her as ever. He even goes so far as to kiss the cross as a pledge of his intention to marry the mother of his child. His parental affection, however, does not prompt him to kiss the sleeping babe, and he hurries from the room. She throws him a kiss from the open window and also a rose. Her brother Pierre, who has been searching all Paris for his sister, sees her throw the rose. She also catches sight of Pierre, and, fearing his wrath, she bolts the door, but her brother forces an entrance and with angry gesture throws to the ground the rose he has picked up outside. He discovers François' letter and swears to avenge his sister's honour. As he rushes out, she falls upon the floor in a dead faint. Then in a vision she sees the marriage of her lover François to another. The scene changes to François's home. The wedding bells ring out a merry peal, and his aged father and mother joyfully greet him and his bride, who receives presents from them. The newly wedded couple take an affectionate farewell as they prepare to start on their honeymoon. At this moment Lizette enters with her child in her arms. She informs the astonished guests that the bridegroom is the father of her babe. François denies it, but the grandmother points to the child's face, which closely resembles that of their son. Pierre enters and challenges his sister's cowering betrayer to fight a duel with pistols. François, who is a pitiful coward, refuses, but his father compels him to accept the challenge. The terrible discovery is then made that the bride has committed suicide by stabbing herself to the heart. The last scene is the Forest of Fontainbleau. It is a winter's day, and the snow is falling fast. Lizette has made her way here with the object of preventing her brother risk his life in a duel. The principals and their seconds, together with the doctor, arrive on the scene, and the necessary arrangements are made. Placed back to back, the duellists walk a few paces then turn and fire. Pierre has the first chance and misses. It is now François' turn, and taking steady aim he fires. Lizette rushing forward is wounded. The story closes with the suggestion that the girl will recover and that François will, now that his bride is dead, keep the oath he has sworn to Lizette, though whether he is a very desirable husband is another question. The sketch was admirably performed by the members of Mr Percy Murray's company of artists, their pantomime being extremely clever. Mrs Percival Sykes played the part of Lizette extremely well, and Mr Fred Lester scored as François, his quick changes of expression being most effective. Mr Percy Leslie was appropriately grim and determined as the avenging brother, and the elderly couple and the bride had excellent exponents in Mr Chas. Frome, Miss Ada Murray, and Miss Janet John.

MR. E. E. GILES'S BENEFIT.

Mr Edwin E. Giles, who, for the last eighteen months, has ably managed the Battersea Empire, took his farewell benefit on Wednesday evening. As was anticipated it proved a bumper, and artistes, patrons, and old colleagues turned up in good numbers. The presentation took place at 10·15. When the curtain went up Mr Giles was to be seen surrounded by a whole regiment of friends. Mr Jesse Sparrow made a telling speech, in which he paid many well-earned compliments to the departing manager, explained the contents of the illuminated address, and amid much hearty cheering presented Mr Giles with a welcome cheque, the amount of which he stated ran nearly into three figures. The address, he explained, contained many neat compliments to his old comrade, and also the signatures of some eighty gentlemen well-known in the music hall world. Mr Giles expressed his sincere thanks to all who had given their help in making his benefit such a success. Miss Lottie Lennox, who is a great favourite at the Empire, followed Mr Giles with a song which she had had written for the occasion. It was a clever parody on the once-popular "Dolly Gray," and the chorus, which ran "Good-bye, Teddy, you must leave us," &c., was chorused over and over again. Great enthusiasm was also shown when the band struck up "For he's a jolly good fellow," and amidst hearty singing the fall of the curtain put an end to the expressions of friendship and admiration. Thirty-three artists helped to make the benefit the success it was. Early in the evening Mr Sam Mayo put in a welcome appearance and gave his contribution by way of two songs, which received well-merited applause. "I'se a waiting for you, Josie," was well received from the original singer, Mr G. H. Elliott. Princess Nouma-Haws, said to be the "smallest lady on earth," supplied an interesting item. The jokes and pranks of Tom White's Arabs caused much enjoyment. Sketches were presented by Messrs Johnny Holland and company and Messrs A. Wyndham and company, an absurdity, The Looking-Glass, being performed by the former, and a Shakespearian episode entitled Prince Arthur being given by the latter. The wrestling match between Tom Cannon, ex-champion of England, and Walter Stockwell, comedian, caused much excitement. Tom Cannon offered to forfeit to his opponent £10 if he failed to throw him in ten minutes. Contrary to expectations, Walter Stockwell was still holding his ground at the end of that time. The following artists also appeared:—Luis Hardt, the Mezzettis, Tom Brantford, the Watson Family, Sisters Hall, Marguerite Broadfoote, Fred C. Glover, Jack Charman, Dolly Harmer, Ford and Hanson, T. C. Callaghan, Ella and Ross, Nelly Farrell, Ena Beryl, Flo Raynor, Marie Blythe, Daisy Ernie, Connie Williams, Mamie, Lily Wood, Marie Braham, Brothers Durant, Queena Barnes, and Henry Tray.

Mr Charles B. Cochran sails to-day for America per ss. St. Louis in order to secure attractions for the English and European variety market. Mr Cochran is also the American representatives of several of the largest acts on this side.

At the Bordesley Palace, Birmingham, this week, Hagedorn's Fairy Grotto, with its delightful electrical effects, is much admired. The Trapnell Family of acrobats, Mdlle. Emmy's trained dogs, Sybil St. Elmo, Charles Diamond and Miss Beatrice, musicians, and Arthur Forrest in his descriptive songs are all well received.

At the Gaiety Theatre, Birmingham, this week Pat Rafferty is heading the bill with great success, and is as humorous as ever. The Eskimos are responsible for an entertainment of a high order of merit, and the vocalism of Les Rubens is very good. The Langdons, in illustrated songs; Orpheus, in a musical entertainment; Jenny Belmore; the Skandias Quartet; and Ida Brophy add to the success of the entertainment.

Mr Douglas Stuart will publish next month a new and revised edition of his popular "Railway Fare Book," and requests intending advertisers to forward the "matter" for same as soon as possible. The new book will contain a number of novel and interesting features of use to all performers travelling.

Advertisers and Subscribers who are moving about, and who have their Copy of "The Era" sent direct from this Office, 49, Wellington-street, Strand, are requested to forward the Addresses for their Papers not later than the Tuesday in each Week.

SKETCHES AT MUSIC HALLS.

At the Sessions-house, Clerkenwell, on the 6th inst., before Mr M'Connell, K.C., the Metropolitan Theatre of Varieties, Limited, of Edgware-road, appealed against a conviction by Mr Curtis Bennett, sitting at the Marylebone Police-court, and against fines amounting to £180, for having on divers days kept the Metropolitan Music Hall for the public performance of a stage play without the authority of letters patent or the licence of the Lord Chamberlain. Mr Avory, K.C., Mr Grain, and Mr Payne appeared for the appellants at the instance of the London Entertainments Protection Association; Mr Gill, K.C., and Mr Bodkin appeared on behalf of the Theatrical Managers' Association in support of the magistrate's decision. Mr Gill, in opening his case, said the appellants admitted the offence; and the only question for the court would be whether the magistrate was right in the fines he inflicted—£20 for the first offence, and £10 each for the subsequent days. The prosecution was instituted in the interest of proprietors of theatres throughout the country. At present there were two kinds of licence granted, one for theatres, by the Lord Chamberlain, and one for music and dancing, by the London County Council; and an applicant must elect which kind he preferred. Instead of slight sketches, which occupied about a quarter of an hour, music hall managers, with licences for music and dancing only, had lately introduced into their programmes condensed plays, comic operas, and musical comedies of considerable length; and it was this practice which it was desired to stop. Penalties having been inflicted upon different persons as the result of similar proceedings, attempts were made to come to some agreement, but without success; and then some persons determined to adopt the course of openly defying the law. In this case, a sketch called The Fighting Parson, played at the Metropolitan Music Hall, lasted forty minutes, and had all the incidents of a "comedy-drama," with twenty or thirty characters and four scenes. The magistrate, in inflicting the penalties, said that he was dealing with a wealthy corporation with a large capital who had ignored the law and must take the consequences. Mr Avory, for the appellants, said that it was impossible to deny that The Fighting Parson was within the letter of the Act, and the appeal was only brought to obtain a mitigation of the heavy penalties inflicted. These prosecutions were not instituted in the interests of the public, but in the interests of theatrical managers; and it was not desirable, by the infliction of prohibitive penalties, to obstruct music hall managers in their endeavours to place before the public a wholesome entertainment above the level of a mere "knock-about" show, which was the ordinary exhibition at music halls in 1843, the year in which the Act was passed under which these proceedings were taken. The modern music hall, which catered for a different class, was not then in existence. The Act was not intended to create a monopoly for managers of theatres, but to prevent blasphemy, profanity, and treasonable opinions from being uttered on the stage. In 1892 Sir Henry Irving was one of a committee which decided not to enforce the Act in cases of sketches which did not exceed forty minutes in length and in which the characters were not more than six; and that tacit understanding existed until 1903. If a serious interference with the law had occurred the Lord Chamberlain would have taken proceedings, as he was the person vested with authority.

The Bench affirmed the conviction, with costs, but reduced the penalties by one-half, to £90.

The Oxford, Limited, appealed against a similar conviction by Mr Kennedy, sitting at the Marlborough-street Police-court, and against penalties amounting to £120. The same counsel appeared in this case. Mr Avory said that he would have been content to let this case be governed by the decision in the last but for the fact that, the only question being whether the punishment was excessive and the appellants having succeeded on that question, they had nevertheless been ordered to pay the costs. For years high-class sketches had been given without objection, and in putting on the stage The Belle of the Orient the managers of the Oxford had no idea that any objection would be raised. By the infliction of heavy penalties magistrates would drive high-class sketches from the halls.

After further argument Mr M'Connell said that the Bench were unanimously of opinion that the conviction and penalties should be affirmed and the appeal dismissed with costs.

AGENTS AND COMMISSION.

In the Westminster County Court, on Tuesday, Judge Woodfall heard the case of Howard v. Siegenberg, which raised the perennial question of music hall agents' commissions.

Plaintiff, a theatrical variety agent, who sued through Mr Granby, to whom he had given his power of attorney, sought to recover from Miss Lottie Siegenberg certain sums which he alleged to be due to him from her by way of commission on engagements obtained for her at different halls. Defendant denied liability in the majority of cases named, but paid a small sum into court in satisfaction of the claims admitted by her.

For the plaintiff it was stated that it was owing to him that the defendant was successfully brought out at the music halls, and that there was an agreement between them that he was to have 10 per cent. commission on salaries earned by her. For some time the commission was duly paid, but subsequently there was a disagreement between the parties, and the defendant took to making engagements for herself with music hall managers.

For the defence, Miss Lottie Siegenberg said she had to complain of the manner in which Mr Howard had endeavoured to obtain contracts for her. In the course of her cross-examination it transpired that she had actually paid sums for which she was now being sued.

In the result, Judge Woodfall gave judgment for the defendant, with costs up to the time of the payment into court.

FOOTBALL.

Bristol X.L.C.R. and Harry Hare's Orchestral Band Athletic Clubs v. Music Halls A.F.C.

Played on Clifton Downs on Jan. 7. Harry Belding (goal), who was injured in the match on Dec. 24, was able to turn out for his club. The following were the teams:—

Bristol X.L.C.R. and Harry Hare's Orchestral Band Athletic Clubs.—H. Belding, (captain), goal; A. Hamlin and J. Lewis, backs; S. Carter, H. Slade, and A. Mattock, half-backs; I. Hamlin, H. Edwards, E. Belding, P. Hewlett, and E. Bowman, forwards.

Music Halls A.F.C.—F. B. Nicholls, goal; J. Tyley and F. Arnl, backs; J. Lacey, T. Neagle (captain), and A. E. Bailey (of Bristol X.L.C.R. A.F.C.), half-backs; P. Reardon, F. Hansford, B. Cullen, H. Clements (of Bristol X.L.C.R. A.F.C.), and W. Hinder, forwards.

Referee, A. Cox (of Bristol X.L.C.R. A.F.C). Linesmen, H. Hare and J. Stuart. Result:—Bristol X.L.C.R. and Harrry Hare's Orchestral Band Athletic Clubs, nil; Music Halls A.F.C., two goals. J. Lacey and P. Reardon scored for Music Halls A.F.C.

Presentation.—Mr M'Leod Loader, the popular manager of the St. Helens Theatre, was on the 6th inst. presented with a handsome cigar-case by the principals of Jack and the Beanstalk company. Mr Jay Laurier, in a few well-chosen words, made the presentation. The recipient thanked the donors for their useful and valuable gift, and at the same time expressed his and Mr Haddon's high appreciation of the manner in which they had worked to make the pantomime the success it was.

SEACOMBE.

Irving Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. Kiernan.—Mr and Mrs William Giffard's company is in occupation here this week in The World's Desire. The Hon. Ellis Tridley (the principal villain) is powerfully presented by Mr William Giffard; the dual rôle of Robert Selkirk and Henry Selkirk is skilfully managed by Mr Clifford Rean; Nathaniel Mutley leaves little to be desired in the hands of Mr George Child; Godstone Clair is well handled by Mr Herbert Light; the required modicum of low comedy is supplied by Mr Charles Rogers as Washington Dobbs; Ragged Jack receiving a pathetic rendering by Miss Violet Carr; Justerina Hook (Miss Frances Bruce) and Helen Berkshaw (Miss Ella Seton) are both well played by their respective exponents; and Mrs William Giffard proves herself a skilful and powerful actress in the part of Dora Mutley.

SHEFFIELD.

Theatre Royal.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr F. W. Purcell; Acting-Manager, Mr T. S. Carter.—Mr Ernest Dottridge's gorgeous and costly annual, Little Goody Two Shoes, continues its triumphal career. Miss Minnie Cunningham is still the bright particular star of old and young, and she trips through the pantomime as Goody an admirable embodiment of sweet femininity and dainty grace. Miss Georgina Leonard is a favourite as the gallant Prince, and her careful rendition of "Good-bye, my lady-love" invariably secures several encores. Miss Molly Wastenholm's good voice is heard to advantage in "Il Bacio," and Miss Rita Rhylle is a piquant and pretty Dolly Dimple, who dances divinely. Messrs Downes and Langford's clean humour and rich eccentric comedy are just suited to the Theatre Royal audience, and these up-to-date artistes will always secure a cordial reception here. Mr Fred Lincoln as the Dame and Mr George French as Simon cause great mirth, and the Five Sunbeams do some clever and graceful dancing. The resplendent glories of Hagedorn's Fairy Grotto are nightly applauded to the echo.

Lyceum Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; General Manager and Treasurer, Mr J. E. B. Beaumont.—A crowded audience welcomed Miss Ada Reeve on Monday in the bright and amusing musical comedy, Winnie Brooke, Widow, which, beautifully mounted and smartly played, was received with enthusiasm. Miss Ada Reeve in the title-rôle acted with all her well-known charm, grace, and vivacity, and her songs, given with characteristic verve and delicacy of expression, were loudly applauded. Miss Ruth Hazlewood was a lively little Norah, and very successful were Mrs Maltby as Hannah, Miss Cecile Beresford as Gracie Frampton, Miss Drusilla Wills as Eglantine Brown, and Miss Alice Lawrence as Mrs Garside. Mr Edgar Stevens was an admirable Reginald Frampton. Mr Charles Weir, an old local dramatic and comic opera favourite, again demonstrated his histrionic cleverness and versatility in the character of Dudley Mayne. An amusing caricature was the Rev. Elihu Garside of Mr Fred Tyrrell. Mr Leon Ashton-Jarry was good as Julian Croft, and Mr Harry Halley made a commendable Montague Brent. There was a large chorus, and Mr J. A. Robertson ably conducted.

Alexandra Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr C. A. Ramsay.—Aladdin continues to give pleasure to large audiences. The chief mirth-providers are those original and diverting drolls, August and September. These artists have a remarkable fund of grotesque humour, and the peculiar vocal method of Mr September simply keeps the house in screams. The latter's method is quite unique, and he possesses the faculty of being aggressively comical and at the same time never bores or offends against the canons of good taste. Mr Charles Austin is popular as Abanazar, and his mock melodrama is very acceptable. A special feature is the coon song and dance introduced by the pretty and refined Miss Esta Stella, the delightful Balroulbadour. Miss Maud Esmond continues to win hearty applause for her two principal songs, "Lazy Maisie" and "Ma Jersey Lily." Miss Ida Worsley sings "In Dixeyland" very acceptably, and the agile dancing of the Four Magnets invariably brings down the house.

Empire Palace.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr A. W. Young.—Staley's novelty transformation scene is the principal item in the programme this week. Good turns are also done by Horace White, ventriloquist; the Five M.P.'s, in a musical episode; Winona Winter and W. H. Banks, in a clever little farce; Keno Welch and Montrose, American acrobatic experts; Harry Bent, comedian and mimic; Bijou Russell, comedienne; Gallagher and Hild, versatile comics; Doody and Wright, Australian entertainers; and Miss Russell, dancer.

Grand Palace of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr Beagle.—The company here includes Max Sterling, conjuror and illusionist; Read and Write, comedians; Florien and Zenella, wire performers; Wat Tyler, comic vocalist; Mr and Mrs Clifford Bronté, comedy artistes; and the Two Jagos, in a novel act.

Wonderland.—Proprietor, Mr Victor Samson.—The pantomime of Cinderilla is being performed very creditably by the stock company.

SHREWSBURY.

Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Business Manager, Mr W. C. Dornton.—Mr A. E. Smith's bright children's pantomime, with pretty dresses and scenery and excellent music, is here this week. Mr Fred Arnold is a capable Emperor of China; Mr Teddy Lennon acts and dances in spirited fashion as the Grand Vizier; Messrs J. H. Maxwell and Fred Rumsdale, two old favourites, amused immensely in their low comedy as Abanazar and the Widow Twankey; Miss Rita Resdan, a popular and highly successful principal boy, sings and acts with untiring vivacity; Miss Elsie Douglas is an effective Princess; the Bros. Taylor, knock-abouts, put in plenty of hard and capable work; Miss Maude Bettison sings sweetly as the Genie of the Lamp; Miss F. M. Sinclair is a pleasing fairy as the Genie of the Ring; Miss Rose Whillier is capable as Chee Chow; Miss Carrie Salisbury makes a capital Hi Toff; and Miss Alma Winter merits praise as Song Sing. A capital variety turn is that of Arnold, an illusionist whose card manipulating and other feats are most artistically performed; and the Four Snowdrops dance with agility and grace.

SOUTHAMPTON.

Grand.—Sleeping Beauty has undergone a thorough overhauling since the first performance, and it now plays much more smartly. Mr Chas. J. Cameron continues his extremely humorous performance as the Nurse, his fun being of the fast-and-furious order. He introduces a new song, "A B C D," which makes the audience roar. Mr Chas. Penrose, whose catchphrase is "Silly woman," plays with great success and makes Peter Piper a truly humorous personality. He sings two capital songs, cracks innumerable wheezes, and is never at a loss for a gag. Miss Florence Vie, a skilful actress and talented vocalist, is a charming Prince, and introduces "Bluebell" and "Anona" with great success. Miss May Davis (Beauty) has some capital songs and sings them well, acting also with great charm. Very trim and smart are the Sisters Morde, who dance divinely. The specialities by Bion and Baroux, the Miltons, and the Stuart Quartette of dancers are all excellent, and the music, composed and arranged by Mr J. Warwick Moore, the resident chef d'orchestre, is bright and effective. The popular manager, Mr Sydney Paxton, is to be congratulated on a successful pantomime.

Prince of Wales's.—Mr George Kirk and company are paying a welcome return visit here with Judy, including the wonderful child actress, Miss Florrie Groves, who considerably enhances her already brilliant reputation on this occasion. Miss Mary Neill gives a capital portrayal of the heroine, in addition to appearing as Polly, the Coster. The whole of the parts are extremely well played, and good houses follow the interesting story with pleasure.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr W. Marlow, sen.; Manager, Mr W. Marlow, jun.—This week's attraction is the musical play entitled Three Little Maids, presented by Mr Charles Macdona's principal company. The singing is excellent and the dancing very good. Ada, Hilda, and Edna Branscombe, daughters of the Vicar of Market Mallory, are capitally embodied by the Misses Vera Vallis, Nellie Groves, and Mabelle Lavelle respectively; Madame Ilma Norina makes a pleasing Lady St. Mallory; Gretchen finds a very able exponent in Miss Laura Wright, whose dancing wins great favour; Miss Mabel Sarl is well suited as Miss Price; Mr Arthur Longley gives prominence to the part of Lord Cheyne, and acquits himself very creditably; Brian Molyneux is in the capable hands of Mr Sidney Lindon, who charms with his singing; Mr Gus Oxley makes a vivacious "Cupid" and Caddie, his clever dancing wins applause; and Mr Jules Charmettes makes a good Mr De L'Orme, and gives a well-executed 'cello solo.

SOUTH SHIELDS.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs J. and F. Coulson.—The pantomime Robinson Crusoe is having an excellent run of prosperity here. Messrs Will Lytton (Will Atkins), Jack Foley (Dame Crusoe), Harris (Sammy Sackless), and Worth (Dick Drymaath) are the responsible fun-makers, their ceaseless efforts evoking hearty laughter. Miss Louie Hurman as Robinson Crusoe and Miss Rose Bartlett as Polly Perkins have both, individually, their admirers. Mr W. H. Hardman renders capably the baritone song, "Revenge," in his capital portrayal of Davy Jones, and Miss Flora Leonard, who sings so sweetly as Fairy Coral, is a befitting contrast. Messrs Harry Morgan (Friday), Chas. Cork (Rajah Ram Jampotte), and the Misses Delia Cherry (Midshipman Merry) and Dora Langham (Nancy Lee) are all allotted important parts. The dancing of Miss Ivy Lane's Vaudeville Troupe of dancers affords distinct pleasure, and the chorus and orchestra are ably presided over by Mr Isaac J. South.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Richard Thornton; General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr Geo. F. Thompson.—Mr Frederick Maxwell, supported by Miss Lois Du Cane and powerful company, is proving a decidedly strong attraction in the intensely dramatic sketch, Lord Harkaway. The acting is good all round, and loud applause testifies to the keen enjoyment felt by the large audience. Mendel, the blind pianist, is reappearing here with success. Morris and Morris submit their funny grotesque acrobatic act, entitled "Fun on a Broom-handle." The Major and the Maid, as essayed by Rastus and Banks, is bright and entertaining. Mersano succeeds easily in mystifying the house by his clever conjuring performance; Brown and Robinson sing their numbers pleasingly; Cline and Clark, comedy artistes, are good dancers; and Harry Martell is chiefly notable for his dancing. The American Bioscope is again scoring a success.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors and Managers, Councillor J. K Hall and Mr Jos. Sweeney.—A capital bill is headed by Gintaro, Japanese juggler and top spinner. The Atkins Trio, speciality vocalists, are attractive, and those droll knockabouts Juan and M'Que are appreciated. Henderson, the blind concertina player, secures many plaudits; the eccentricities of Fred Land cause amusement; and J. W. Elliston, vocal comedian, and the Haldyne Duo, in a vocal comedy act, ably complete the bill.

ROYAL ASSEMBLY HALL.—The Kilties band, under the conductorship of Mr William F. Robinson, are giving a varied programme of the different composers, almost every item being heartily encored. In addition to the selections by the band, the entertainment is capitally contributed to by the choir; Pipe-Major Albert Johnstone, bagpipe soloist; the Clan Johnstone Troupe of dancers; John S. Leick, cornet soloist; and J. Coates Lockhart, vocalist.

SPENNYMOOR.

CAMBRIDGE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Harding Thomas; General Manager, Mr Herbert Vere.—Mr C. March's company has presented the drama entitled The Priest of the Temple here this week. Mr Chas. March scores as Valerius, and Mr Percy Ballard's portrayal of Decus Fronto is a powerful piece of acting. Mr Henry Moxon's rendering of Appius Herdonius is admirable, and Mr Stanley May is all that can be desired as Hermanus. Miss Violet Crauford must be complimented on her forcible rendering of Polita. Miss Marie North wins much approval by her charming representation of Praestantia. Other parts are suitably embodied by Mr Wilton Cross and Mr W. Clarke. The company has also appeared in The Gamester of Metz during the week.

ST. HELENS.

THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr M'Leod Loader.—Messrs Haddon and Loader's Jack and the Beanstalk company finished its engagement here on Saturday. Miss Bessie Shelley and Miss Pattie Bella were special favourites. Flowers and other gifts were handed up from the orchestra, and all was jollity and good humour. The curtain had to be repeatedly taken up, the audience cheering again and again. The Craggs commenced a six nights' engagement here on Monday in their successful absurdity Laughter-Land, and are proving a strong attraction. A special matinée of Alice in Wonderland, by Mr E. St. Alban's company, was given on Thursday.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs Barrasford, Sley, and Willmot; Resident-Manager, Mr A. V. Carnell.—An excellent programme here includes Mr George Gilboy, comedian; Messrs Ray and Miles, Continental grotesques; Sisters Russell, burlesque artistes; Mr Tom Johnstone, vocalist; Stylo, hoop manipulator; Mr Will Hall, mimic; Craig, Rose, and Craig, gymnasts; animated pictures, and Barton and Franklin, musicians.

STOCKPORT.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr Wm. Revill.—Messrs Dottridge and Longdon's pantomime, The Forty Thieves, concludes its engagement after three weeks of remarkable success. The boisterous fun of the Reed Oetzman troupe, the realistic impersonation of a man monkey by James Dubois, and the marvellously clever acrobatic feats of the Achmed-Ibrahim troupe of Bedouin Arabs have each been gratifyingly appreciated, their respective entertainments undoubtedly adding greatly to the success of the pantomime.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietress, Mrs Weldon Watts; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr R. G. Elder.—Mr E. Hill-Mitchelson and company are here again in a new military play entitled Revenge. Mr Hill-Mitchelson as Prince Orloff has a part well fitted for his subdued yet forcible style. Mr Wellesley Draper as Captain Vanessa acts with much vigour. Mr Theo Balfour as the King is very creditable and T. W. Hurst's Captain Carr shows great capability. Mr Arthur M'Culloch's Court Mussant and Mr Fred Yarnold's Jim Jennings divide honours in the humour of the piece. Miss Violet Carlyle's Queen is done with charm and dignity; Miss Grace Almer's Lieut. Maurice is clever; and Miss Frances White's Draga Vanessa is a successful performance.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr J. Batty; Manager, Mr W. Batty.—Chief turns here are taken by the Three Rickards, acrobats; Ben Hur, the clever young athlete; Maud Courtney, in refined songs and storyettes with an American flavour, which is unique; Johnson and Bert, in a clever comedy act, The Queer Customer; and the bill also includes Hilton and Hilton, on the bars; Harry Clifford, comic; Lily Turner, balladist; and the usual biographic display with fresh films.

STOKE.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr P. Collins; Manager, Mr Frank Egerton.—Another capital programme is presented here. The premier position is held by Professor Hocking in his truly marvellous electrical, and healing performance; Les Kyasyas contribute a wonderful strong turn, which is much appreciated; the Brothers Hersleb are a pair of really funny knockabouts; Bert Dansie, descriptive artiste, is successful; Gracie Logan is a smart comedienne and dancer; George Fairburn is a comedian of much merit; Walter Adams is very funny in his humorous ditties; Cissie Heath is an excellent soubrette; the Five Leopold Legleres are acrobats extraordinary; the animated pictures are, as usual, capital.

STOURBRIDGE.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—Manageress, Miss Maude Lynton.—Messrs Draycott and Peppin's company is here in the new drama The Best Must Win. Mr Charles Draycott appears in the leading rôle of Gaston, Marquis De Marcel, and handles this arduous character with his customary skill and effect. Mr Robert Watson makes a capital hero as Paul Dumaresq, and Miss Lilian Watson Loyde proves herself an accomplished artist in the part of Denise. Mr Fred Aldworth scores a deserved success in the rôle of Sabretache, and Mr Henry W. Monte is very amusing as Juan Minos. Other prominent artists who contribute to a most effective presentation are Messrs Frank G. Kent and Miss Maud Heatherington.

STROUD.

SUBSCRIPTION ROOMS.—Manager, Mr H. J. Twitchett.—Miss Gertrude Gray's Cinderella pantomime company was here on the 6th and 7th. Miss Lottie Mellor makes a good Prince Charming, whose valet Dandini is played with good effect by Miss G. A. May. Mr Herbert Colley gives a droll impersonation as Baron Lowralotte. Messrs Harry May as Gertie, Ernest Thirlway as Lily, and E Benham as Pimples are responsible for a good deal of fun. Miss Eameson as Cinderella wins sympathy, and Miss Amy Lovedale makes a charming Fairy Crystal.

SUTTON-IN-ASHFIELD.

KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Sutton Theatre Syndicate; Manager, Mr Edward Gray.—Mr Clifton Alderson and company are this week occupying the boards with the domestic and military play, A Soldier and a Man. As Harry Sinclair Mr Alderson scores with his earnest acting, and Mr Harry F. Wright and Mr Charles Percy are worthy of special mention as Jim Farrow and Colonel Westerton. Miss Nellie Schrier soon gains the favour of the audience in her dashing style and capital rendering of the part of "Sergeant" Jane Wicks. The play presents many pretty scenes, Nestleton Nook Farm and the British Camp at Night being applauded.

SWANSEA.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs David Allen and Sons, Limited; Lessees and Managers, Messrs E. Oswald Brooks and J. W. Woodbridge; Resident Partner, Mr E. Oswald Brooks.—The Moody-Manners company on Monday commenced the third and last week of their engagement here, when Cavalleria Rusticana and Pagliacci were again put on. Miss Enriqueta Crichton as Santuzza scored a great success, as also did Mr Edward Arthur as Turiddu, both artists gaining the heartiest appreciation. They received excellent support from Mr T. H. Wood (Alfio), Miss L. Egville (Lola), and Miss T. Edwards (Lucio), who were extremely good. In Pagliacci Miss Grace Nicoll was a charming Nedda, and Mr Charles Carter (Canio), Mr Charles Tilbury (Tonio), Mr Robert Brooks (Beppe), and Mr Walter Barrett (Silfro) rendered excellent service. The following works have been performed during the week:—La Traviata, Mignon, Maritana, Lohengrin, and Carmen.

NEW STAR.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. Morton Powell; Acting-Manager, Mr William Coutts.—The attraction here during the week has been provided by Mr Henry Furnival and company, who are appearing in the romantic drama, Lost in Paris.

NEW EMPIRE.—Managing Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Albert Mitchell.—An excellent programme here includes the following:—Mark Melford and company, in a very amusing sketch, Black and White; the Szarvasi-Ferencz Troupe of Hungarian singers, dancers, and acrobats; the Alaskas, clever jugglers and comic tumblers; Burke, Andrus, and Frisco, in the comical sketch, In Trafalgar Square; John Alexander and company, in Troubles of a Tourist; the Three Sisters Ronay, the original lady clowns; the Picquays, in a novel acrobatic display; Clown Ferreros, assisted by his cleverly trained dog; Princess Pauline, serio; and Burke, Moller, and Teller, in the sketch, The Professor and His Pupils.

PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. W. Grantham.—The engagements here for this week are as follows:—The Merry Peasants, refined vocalists; Charlie Craston, comedian; Dainty Maggie Rimmer, comedienne and dancer; Nellie and Nora, instrumentalists; Vernon's animated pictures; George Helen and Emmie Cozens, in sketch, The Doctor and the Patient; Mdlle. Lily Lenora, comedienne and dancer; E. W. Selman, humorous comedian; and Williams and Brown, cross-talk comedians.

SWINDON.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Responsible Manager, Mr Alfred Manners; Musical Director, Mr F. H. Lucas.—On Monday La Poupée was welcomed here with enthusiasm, presented by Mr Ben Greet's capital company, under the management of Mr J. Bannister Howard, the orchestra being ably conducted by Mr H. H. Shaw. Miss Cissie Wade must be highly complimented on her admiral work as Alexis. Her performance was full of charm and her singing excellent. Miss Alice M'Farlane was very effective as Madame Hilarius. Mr Edward Thirlby was remarkably clever and droll as Hilarius; Mr Algernon Lee was excellent as Launcelot; and the part of Father Maxime was safely entrusted to Mr Joseph A. Brull, who was deservedly encored for the song "A Jovial Monk am I." Mr Stanley White must be commended for successfully doubling the part of the Baron with the duties of stage-manager; Mr Harry Bishop distinguished himself as Loremois; and Miss Eva Ellis was bright and pleasing as Henri.

TORQUAY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Managing Director, Mr R. Smerdon; Secretary, Mr A. Pearse.—Mr Herbert Barrs' popular pantomime, in its second edition, was accorded a hearty reception on Monday. New songs and dances and new business with fresh jokes were introduced throughout with considerable success. Special mention should be made of the engagement of Miss Maggie Stewart, a great local favourite, who was accorded a cordial welcome on Monday, and was rapturously encored for her coon song, "My Queen Bee." Miss Tessie Vandean also sang and danced with much acceptance, and Miss Minnie Willett, Mr Paul Pry, and Mr Oscar Wills were also applauded.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER,
BY
ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (Lond.).
Chapter I.
Chapter II.
PERFORMING RIGHT.
Chapter III.
Chapter IV.
MUSICAL COPYRIGHT.
Chapter V.

"The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer, by Albert A. Strong, LL.B., solicitor, author of "Dramatic and Musical Law" ("The Era" office), seems to be the one compendious and indispensable authority on the subject, as vexed as "the Bermoothes" and as tortuous as a Chancery suit, that has long been wanted. It is in every essential a text book for the perplexed layman, and no solicitor or barrister worth his salt ought to think of taking or appearing in "proceedings" without consulting its pages. It must suffice, after what has been said, to state little more than that the contents include five chapters respectively named "Copyright as Opposed to Performing Right," "Performing Right," "Infringement and Remedies," "Musical Copyright," and "International and Colonial Copyright." The work, for all its precise authority, is not dry reading. The statutes, with the elucidatory notes, necessarily impose a task on the reader which takes some tackling, but they had to be there. The cases adduced, however, are full of interest. Certain of them might fitly find a place in the romance of copyright. There was the fight of Charles Reade with George Conquest over "It's Never Too Late to Mend," for instance, and the equally interesting conflict of Mr J. A. Cave with Chatterton over "The Wandering Jew." The latter was a famous battle. Chatterton took it to the House of Lords, and was finally beaten, to the unspeakable relief of Mr Cave, who is never weary of relating the story. Had the result been otherwise it would have meant his ruin. I well remember meeting him on the day of his victory and "crashing a cup with him" in honour of the same. "The Law of Copyright," is dedicated to Mr A. W. Pinero.—Sportsman, July 31st, 1901

Mr A. A. Strong has published a book on "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" which should be in the hands of everyone who is obliged to know about this perplexing subject. Dramatic copyright in England is in a particularly unsatisfactory state, and it is much to be hoped that ere long some more rational method of securing protection for a play may be devised than the slovenly and sometimes costly "production for copyright purposes" which is at present required.—St. James's Gazette, Aug. 3d, 1901

THE ERA

SATURDAY, JANUARY 14, 1905.

THE IMPORTANCE OF AMUSEMENT.

In all artistic work, whether of brush, chisel, or pen, the "personal factor" always makes itself felt. The proverb that those who wear the shoe know where it pinches has its corollary in the statement that those who never wear it cannot imagine how it feels. The political economist is generally a highly educated man, whose literary labours and social diversions are amply sufficient to fill up his existence. One cannot imagine the late JOHN STUART MILL patronising a "round-about" or Mr JOHN MORLEY throwing balls at cocoa-nuts. The only philosopher we know of who has had a glimmering sense of the sort of life that is led by the thousands, as contrasted with that which is led by the hundreds and the twenties, is Professor HUXLEY. HUXLEY, however, whose keen perception was not corrected by real knowledge of the condition of the people, rather exaggerated their sufferings. Being poor is bad enough; but, to the poor themselves, it is not so bad as some people think. The late GEORGE GISSING took a similarly warped view of the matter. He was a sensitive man of genius, who lived in a cellar in a street off the Tottenham Court-road, and he saw everything colour de London fog. We only remember one attempt of his to describe poor people disporting themselves à la TENIERS, and a gruesome and prejudiced account it is. GISSING never enjoyed fun himself, and consequently could not appreciate the influence of EMERSON'S doctrine of "Compensation" on the lives of the masses. As the Scotch say, it is "ill talk between a full man and a fasting." Between the philosophers and the proletariat—to paraphrase Perkyn Middlewick—a great gulf lies; and that gulf is Education.

So, in the writings of the political economists and the philosophers we notice the same contemptuous estimate of those who provide amusement for the million. They are, we are told, "non-producers," and are scorned, by implication, accordingly. And when, by accident, a peasant genius like CARLYLE "gets Education," and scatters sham axioms as a bumble bee smashes up spiders' webs, his eyes, alas! are bleared with Scotch puritanism, and he joins with the philosophers in their sneers.

Amusement is a necessary of life. The average man and woman cannot go on working at his or her best strength without a change or a contrast. The philosopher turns up his nose at the "roundabouts," the "shooting galleries," and the wild beast shows; but he is hardly a judge of what is good for strong, healthy, unsophisticated people. We well remember, when detachments from all the Indian and Colonial regiments were bivouacking at the Alexandra Palace, seeing "soldiers of the Queen" who had recently been looking death in the face in South Africa riding round with the greatest delight on the horses of a "roundabout." Looking on was a magnificent Indian "non-com.," tall and noble, and superb in turban and much-ornamented uniform. Grave and dignified, he seemed to scorn the childish joys of Tommy Atkins. We thought of MATTHEW ARNOLD and the patient East with its "quiet, deep disdain." With what scorn, we fancied, does this splendid Oriental regard our western frivolities! As we watched, one of the horses became vacant. The stupendous subadar smiled; and, promptly tucking up his lower garments, he mounted into the vacant saddle, and was soon whirling round with the Hussars, the Australians, and the Canadians. The masses are the best judges of what they like and what they want in the way of amusement.

In the excellent and very informative article which we published last week, by the Rev. T. HORNE, the popular honorary chaplain of the Showmen's Guild, the importance of the modern showman's work was emphasised in words so true and so terse that we make no apology for quoting them here:—"The modern showman has no need to be ashamed either of his work or his position in the national economy. To cater for a people's natural relaxation involves no slight share of responsibility in the nation's well-being. The strenuous toil of a highly developed industrial system demands frequent opportunities of recreation and change. Experience has demonstrated more than ever that the most complete provision of this natural demand is the healthy, all-absorbing, and ever-varying amusements of our fairs, feasts, and wakes. A mere casual study of the root conditions of life of the workers will be enough to show the reason for this. With the toilers at the loom, the machine bench, or in the mine, a prime necessity is that they shall not be expected to take too much trouble about the matter of necessary recreation. They cannot make a toil of a pleasure. With those whose work is less exacting it may be different. With the worn-out toiler it is essential that the amusement be brought to his very door. There is no sounder principle of true economy than that which is embodied in the old saying, 'All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy.'"

It is only to be expected that all the baser forms which "respectability" takes should be arrayed against these truths. The parson seldom looks with a kindly eye on shows and showmen. This again is quite natural. His sympathies are with those who ask him to dinner—with those who shoot pheasants, not with those who fire at swinging bottles and revolving eggs; with those who ride in the Row in the season, not with those who bestride "galloping horses" in and out of season. In the parson's eyes swings are superfluities, and machine organs inventions of the devil. Smug trade, on the other hand, finds plenty of amusement in, metaphorically, sanding its sugar, and in a certain fussy, greasy piety. It objects to noise, to loud laughter, to hilarious, demonstrative enjoyment. Penny readings and prayer meetings satisfy its wants; why should not they satisfy those of the proletariat? So it joins hands with clericalism to suppress the local fair.

Fortunately for the caterers for the people's amusements, they have risen to a sense of their danger, and have combined to meet it. Helped by sympathising friends, advised by clever lawyers, and with one of the most broad-minded and clear-headed of chaplains to assist and bless their efforts, the showmen have successfully "fought for their lives" against the forces of prejudice, bigotry, and selfishness. Of the part which The Era has taken in the defence of the show-people we need not speak. The back files of our paper contain evidence enough without self-glorification, which is therefore unnecessary. And after all, self-help is the great requisite in a case like this. We urge on every showman not to neglect to do all in his power by early and ready subscription to strengthen the hands of those who have already done so much in defence of his class. We want every member of the showman's calling to appreciate the importance of "standing shoulder to shoulder," and to show his appreciation by sending in his "mite" promptly and regularly.

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

(SPECIAL TO THE ERA.)

THE dinner of the No. 1 Branch N.U.T.S.E., announced in this column to take place on Sunday in the Salisbury Hotel, will, owing to the death of the manager of that establishment, be given in the Nag's Head Hotel, Floral-street, at 7 0 on Sunday evening. It is expected there will be about 100 present. A few tickets are still available.

ON Sunday last a meeting of stage employees was held in Glasgow, when it was decided to convene another meeting on the 22nd inst. to consider the formation of a benevolent fund, in addition to the other benefits provided by the local branch of the N.U.T.S.E.

AT the annual general meeting of the Newcastle-on-Tyne Branch of this society, the following were elected to hold office during the ensuing year:—President, Mr Patrick Mullany; vice-president, Mr James Preston; treasurer, Mr John Oxnard; secretary, Mr J. Paterson; trustees, Messrs James Johnson and Wm. Murray; committee, Messrs Frank Arbrickle, Wm. Murray, Charles Lowe, James Redhead, C. P. Conley, and C. Thompson; auditors, Messrs James Gillhespy and N. Younger. This branch will also consider the question of establishing a benevolent fund as an addition to its present sick and funeral benefits.

AT the meeting of the committee of the No. 1 Branch on Wednesday evening a number of applications for membership were granted. An application for a grant from the benevolent fund by a member unable to work owing to an accident was granted, the sum of ten shillings per week being allowed.

A PROPOSAL to form a Theatrical and Music Hall Sharing-out Fund is being submitted to the employees of the metropolitan theatres and music halls. It is suggested that the payment should be 1s. per week, with a levy of 1s. and 6d. respectively on the death of a member or a members' wife. With 3,000 members—a number which it is anticipated would join, the funds being open to all sections—the income would be £150 per week. A similar society shared out £2 5s. at the end of the year after providing sick pay at the rate of 18s. per week, and sums at death to the amount of £60 and £30 in the case of a member and a member's wife's death.

NOTICES and reports of meetings, &c., are invited from the various societies with which stage employees are connected.

PRESENTATION.—On Wednesday, Jan. 10, Mr Percy Atkins, the courteous box-office manager at the Marlborough Theatre, Holloway, was presented with a handsome gold-mounted umbrella, silver cigarette case, and clock, by the staff of the theatre and a few friends, as a birthday gift.

MR EDITOR.—Sir,—In last week's Era, in the notice re Aladdin at the Brixton Theatre, you mention Miss Kittie Harrold singing "Bull and Bush" with big success. It should have been yours faithfully, MAY KENT (as Hi Toff), Brixton Theatre. Brixton, S.W., Jan. 11.

TON-Y-PANDY.

ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs Carlton and Duckworth; General Manager, Mr S. Duckworth; Acting-Manager, Mr H. Counsell.—Mr Wentworth Croke's company is presenting The Christian here this week. Mr Hilliard Vox as John Storm is excellent. Parson Quayle is ably presented by Mr C. Hill; Mr S. Radcliffe does well as Father Lamplugh. In the rôle of Glory Quayle Miss G. Chalmers displays admirable power and is also very graceful.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs Carlton and Duckworth; Sole Lessee, Miss Alexandra; Managing-Director, Mr Dd. Taylor.—The progromme here includes the Florenz Troupe of acrobats and Atlas and Vulcana, who give a graceful and pleasing turn. Gustave Fasola presents the magic kettle. The Baleros show great agility on the horizontal bars. Alec Aubrey, the Welsh athlete, also scores. La Place continues to create merriment.

VENTNOR (I.O.W.).

GRAND PAVILION.—For two nights only Mr T. R. Nugent has presented his lively and up-to-date pantomime here. Miss Maggie Gardiner made a dashing Crusoe. Miss Kitty Keane was quite delightful as Polly Perkins; the Billie Taylor of Miss Phillis Watson was one of the hits of the evening; Dan Kenny met with great success as Mrs Crusoe; a well-studied character was Jimmy Crusoe, played by Mr Willie Vivian; and Master Sidney Nugent, jun., in the character of Tommy Crusoe, caused the house to roar with laughter. Mr A. Mayhew was the bold and bad Will Atkins, and Friday was most faithfully represented by Mr H. Gardiner.

WAKEFIELD.

ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—Mr Howard Hinton's company in the pantomime Dick Whittington opened here for one week on Monday. Miss Kitty Phelps makes a handsome and dashing Dick; Miss Daisy Clements becomingly enacts the part of Alice; Miss Maud Leonard sings well as Sir Rowland; the Sisters Bronson are admirable as Algy and Polly; Miss Gracie Clements makes a capital Fairy Goodwill; the Cat is excellently played by Mr Harry Cardoe; Alderman Fitzwarren is judiciously played by Mr Mount Stephens; and the fun is well maintained by the untiring efforts of Mr Harry Rennior as Idle Jack. Mr Steve Cooke, a diverting Cook; Mr Tom R. Seymour as Captain Bunting, and the Bowery Boys as Shuffle and Shirk. The Emperor of Morocco is satisfactorily represented by Mr H. H. Hastings, and Miss Violet Welsh makes a charming Princess. Specialities are given by the Sisters Bronson, the Bowery Boys, the Sisters Clements, in a smart coon song; Stephens and Rennior, and J. M. M. Style, a local double-voiced vocalist. Some spirited dancing is supplied by the Empress Quartet.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Wakefield Hippodrome, Limited; Manager, Mr D. G. Mooney.—Mr J. H. Milburn, vocal comedian, sings in excellent style; Miss Daisy Morell, burlesque artiste, is a great success; Mr George Martinengo, 'cello soloist, provides a clever turn; Martino, the man frog, wins applause; Mr Alf Berg, performs some excellent feats of strength; Miss Bessie Travis delights with her ventriloquial performance; and Miss Cora Gray, ballad vocalist, finds favour.

WALSALL.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, LIMITED.—General Manager and Secretary, Mr W. H. Westwood.—Mr John Walter's pantomime, Cinderilla, which is having a short but successful run at this place of entertainment, is exceedingly good. Miss Flo Merry is very successful as the Baroness Auto-Atlas, and lifts with his teeth a motor-car in full working order, containing three adult passengers.

GRAND THEATRE.—General Manager and Secretary, Mr W. H. Westwood. — Saved from the Sea is being played this week by Mr Leslie Vyner's company. Mr Leonard Robson is seen to advantage as Dan Ellington; Miss F. Russell-Spiers is an attractive heroine; Mr H. Vernon as Billy Snooks is comical; and Miss Dora Condor creates much laughter as Polly Blake. Little Miss Alberta Heath is successful in the rôle of Jack Ellington; Peter Scalcher is embodied by Mr S. C. Kearns; and the part of Richard Fenton has an able exponent in Mr William A. Attfield.

WEDNESBURY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr Harry Battersby; Acting-Manager, Mr W. J. Cranston. — Messrs Montague Beaudyn and Sidney Crowe's No. 1 company in the melodrama entitled The Way of the World is here this week. Mr Montague Beaudyn as Cecil Montague and Mr Herbert Skardon as Captain Slade do excellent work in their respective parts. Mathew Malyon is admirably portrayed by Mr Robertson Foulis. The part of Horatio Bluff is humorously rendered by Mr Lewis Scott. Mr John Keane as Sir John Slade and Mr E. Vicars Rees as Silas Montague are warmly applauded. Miss Sidney Crowe as Adele De La Roche, the circus queen, proves herself a capable artist. Marion Fanshaw, an heiress, is artistically portrayed by Miss Annie Clunn. Miss Irene Munroe cleverly acts the rôle of Kate Montague, and as Polly Bell Miss Violet Vivienne is all that could be desired.

WALTHAMSTOW.

KING'S THEATRE.—Messrs Harry F. M'Clelland and Harold Whyte's amusing pantomime Little Red Riding Hood is still drawing excellent business, thanks no less to its own intrinsic merits than to the unflagging exertions of the clever company engaged. In the course of the evening Mr Robert Williams (Sir Goose Green) has been giving a very fine sword display, which is at once interesting, graceful, and clever. Mr Bob Hall, not contented with the roars of laughter that nightly greet his clever impersonation of Master Goosey, has now introduced an amusing and good-humoured burlesque of the "magic" performances of a certain gentleman whose "electric cures" have caused no inconsiderable sensation at "the halls." This new "Blizzard of the North" is received with a storm of applause. A very capable young dancer, Little Jeff, makes a decided hit, her "splits" and "wheels" being accomplished with neatness and dexterity. Mr Geo. Mayes is still quaintly funny as Jonathon Wisenut. Miss Trixie Toole looks very sweet and sings delightfully as Red Riding Hood, while the Boy Blue of Miss Ruth Wallace is charming; Little Miss Hazel Kirke holds her own as a prime favourite with the audience. Mr J. Gill and Mr Wm. L. Delvoy are a capital pair of ruffians. The transformation scene, The Birth of the Rising Sun, works with perfect smoothness, and is provocative of delighted applause, while the harlequinade is funny enough to send everyone away in good humour. The music, selected and arranged by Mr Sheridan Gordon, is not the least pleasing feature of the production.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr G. Adney Payne; Manager, Mr Arthur J. Barclay; Acting-Manager, Mr G. F. Slatter.—Mr Barclay, ever on the alert to secure the best available talent, has for the present week engaged several turns of exceptional merit to supplement—or, rather, introduce—the attractions of Mr Espinosa's pantomime. Lieut. Travis, one of the very best ventriloquists on the stage, delights everyone with the humour he infuses into his dolls, a pleasure which reaches a climax when he sings a song whilst smoking a cigarette. Of the Two Erolls it would be impossible to speak too highly. Described as "marvellous leapers," the marvellous is certainly merited, although the leaping is limited to the gentleman. His somersault over the head of his tall companion standing on a table is a thing to remember. Ernesto is an extremely clever and original juggler, all his tricks being performed with excellent precision. A particularly pretty turn is the Vernon Troupe. The four smart young gentlemen and the pretty girl certainly earn the hearty reception they receive. Jules Keller gives an interesting exhibition of hand-walking. Cinderella, now in its third week, goes with a swing, but there are no essential changes to chronicle. Miss Eva Kelland is still the most captivating of heroines, and Miss Kate Brandon quite a dashing Prince Charming. Miss C. Stroud Wilson sings with grand effect "Let me dream again," securing an irresistible encore. The other members of the company manage to extract all the fun possible from their various characters. The harlequinade is rattled through with a spirit that sets the youngsters screaming with delight, and special mention should be made of the neat dancing of Mr Billy Poole as Constable XYZ. The overture for the week is Mr H. Petersen's pretty "Pot-pourri," brilliantly played by the orchestra, under the direction of the talented composer.

WARRINGTON.

ROYAL COURT.—Proprietors, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter.—Mr T. Morton Powell's company in The Greed of Gold made a welcome reappearance here on Monday. Mr Carthage Caldcleugh acts with dramatic force the part of Harry Hood, and a really clever study of Tom Welstead, the dumb man, is submitted by Mr B. Fox. Mr Charles Coleman is well placed as Arthur Errol, and Mr W. M. Cameron as Cull Snig is humour personified. Mr T. G. Warry is a dignified Mr Brighton, K.C., and Mr Ernest Bright as Mee Chow and Mr H. Creamer as Conn Creamer also score. Miss Daisy Halling acts charmingly as Dora, and Miss Gracie St. John makes the most of Mrs Maxwell.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Proprietors, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter: Director of Amusements, Mr F. Willmot.—Another capital company is here this week. Tennyson and Wallis are a smart pair of comedians, and a delightful entertainment is provided by the Four M.P.'s (the Musical Palmers), and their speciality, The Officer's Rehearsal, is well received. The Sisters Spillerini are charming duettists and instrumentalists, and their success is pronounced. Miss Daisy Almer, serio and dancer; J. P. Carrol, tambourine player; Smith and Johnson, coloured duettists; Guy Ryder, boy whistler; and the Royal Bioscope pictures complete a capital bill.

PAER HALL.—Licensee, Mr J. Lyon Whittle.—Mr Charles Harrington's company in Uncle Tom's Cabin is here this week. Mr Harrington scores a big success as Phineas Fletcher, and Mr B. Lenton as Mr St. Clair is well placed. Mr Guy P. Ellis submits a clever study of George Harris, and Uncle Tom has a worthy representative in Mr J. Carr. Mr J. H. Rogers acts with dramatic force as Legree, and equally successful is Mr J. Gilson as Mr Wilson. Mr Fred Charles is amusing as Marks, a lawyer. Miss Zerlina Zerbina is a complete success as Cassy, and Eliza Harris is safely acted by Miss Hettie Johnson. Mrs Hero Hathaway does well as Mrs St. Clair, and Miss Sylvia Stella as Topsy scores at every opportunity. Miss Ida Fane as Aunt Ophelia and Mrs Carr as Aunt Chloe are alike excellent, and Little Minnie as Little Eva is a charming actress. The specialities by Sylvia Stella, Shorty May, W. H. Nott, and Ikey Jones are all received.

WEST BROMWICH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. P. Moore.—Mr Tom H. Taylor's company in the original drama The Female Swindler is paying its first visit to this town. The chief character is Jack Coulson, a criminal investigator, and is played with great force by Mr Jerrold Heather, Mr Luke Foster working well with him as Billy Binks. It would be hard to find a part more suitable to Mr Bernard Mervyn than that of Geoffrey Warden; his acting is excellent. Abraham Mikestein is in the hands of Mr Rule Pyott, who does full justice to the part; Miss Florrie Kelsey is responsible for a smart rendering of May Andrews; and the title-rôle is exceedingly well portrayed by Miss Violet Ellicott.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.

GRAND — General Manager (for Mrs Weldon Watts), Mr Sidney Bacon; Resident Manager, Mr Fred Conneaux.—A return visit of Florodora had been anticipated with a good deal of pleasure by the people of the Hartlepools, and none were disappointed with the presentation of the bright little musical work by Messrs N. J. Callan and Wentworth Croke's company. Miss Maud Lake, who possesses an admirable voice, gives a charming interpretation of Dolores, and Miss May Yates is vivacious and attractive as Angela Gilfain. Miss Cissie Sephton, a most capable artiste, makes the part of the society widow Lady Holyrood very entertaining. Mr Arthur Lenville as Anthony Tweedlepunch makes the most of the rôle, bringing out the humour to its fullest extent. As Cyrus W. Gilfain Mr C. Young Fixott appears to advantage, and other artistes who deservedly enjoy popularity are Mr Wm. Everard and Mr Frank Gran.

PALACE. — Director-General, Mr Frank Macnaghten.—Otto Schuman's Circus is the star turn here, and the performances of the clever horses are being received nightly with enthusiasm. The dramatic episode by Grahame and Harrington, A Daughter of Pleasure, is a special feature of the programme. It is absorbing and interesting, and is most artistically played. Franco Piper, the celebrated banjoist, is an accomplished musician; Fatmah Diard's beautiful voice is charming everyone; the Wartenburg Brothers are wonderfully clever in their novel double-foot act; the dancing by Hart and Rudd is remarkably smart; and Stanert and Yondi, musical comedy artists, and Billy Hubbard, comedian, complete a strong bill.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE.

GRAND PIER PAVILION.—The "Smart Set" entertainers, under the sole direction of Mr Walter George, are paying a most welcome return visit here. Miss Georgie Martin gained a hearty encore for her singing of "Go Away, Mr Crocodile;" Miss Ethel Wilford was very successful with her recital; and Miss Margaret Long rendered "Dear Heart" most artistically. Mr Frank Swinford's fine voice was heard to advantage in "The Yeoman's Wedding;" Mr Arthur Court was entitled to much praise for his singing of Blumenthal's "An Evening Song;" and Mr Walter George's humorous songs and sketches proved irresistibly droll. An original opera, in one act, entitled The King's Command, filled the second half of the programme, in which Mr Frank Swinford (Frederick the Great), Mr Arthur Court (Sergeant Karl, Miss Margaret Long (Rosa), and Miss Georgie Martin (Dame Grida) all acted and sang with distinction.

WEST STANLEY.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr M. H. Lindon.—Mr Frank E. Burdett's company with the military play, The Indian Mutiny, is fulfilling an engagement here. Mr H. Rylland Leigh gives a manly impersonation of Lieut. Manley, and Mr Reginald Fox is a capable Captain Manley. Mr W. S. Tindall does full justice to the part of Major Ingleby, Mr John Hignett is very droll as Terry O'Brien, Miss Kate Bruce as Mrs Ingleby and Miss Agnes Kingston as Kate Ingleby are entirely satisfactory. Mr Villiers Stanley gives a good rendering of Nebu Singh, whilst Mr J. S. Shedden is good as Abul Khar. Mr Ernest Keand as Ra-Goonga proves himself an actor of ability, and too much praise cannot be given to Miss Maud Digby for her careful rendering of the part of Ghuznah.

WHITEHAVEN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Clark.—Miss Cissie Moxon's company is paying a return visit here in the musical comedy, A Trip to Rum-Fum. Mr W. S. Hutchinson is as good as ever in the character of Biddy, and Mr Charles Bu-Val is amusing as Van Swanck. Miss Nellie Ingram is a lively Flossie Kixie, and Miss Rosie Stewart is pleasing as Peggy. The Saxon Troupe submit some clever dancing.

WIGAN.

ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Company; Managing-Director, Mr John Worswick.—Messrs G. M. Polini and Austin Melford's company, by arrangement with the late Mr Wilson Barrett, is presenting The Silver King. Mr Herbert Ford gives a powerful representation of Wilfred Denver, and Mr Edward J. George Daniel Jaikes and Mr Charles Levey as Capt Herbert Skinner are capable exponents of the respective parts. Miss Lilian Bethell as Nellie Denver and Miss Amy Manfree as Cissy Denver enact their rôles admirably.

GRAND THEATRE AND HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Company; Managing-Director, Mr J. Worswick. — The programme this week is exceptionally interesting and entertaining. Tom Grove performs his sensational cycling feat of "flying the revolving wheel," a sort of "looping the loop," with this difference, that Grove cycles round the inside of the revolving wheel several times; the Bros. Lang give a remarkably clever and amusing knockabout act; and J. W. Hall, the popular eccentric comedian, is several times recalled. Ryan and Hall are capital acrobatic comedians, and the Lyons Trio are excellent pantomimists and dancers. Millie Harris, Post Mason, Fred Cooper, and Eric Graham, vocalists, &c., are well received; and the Vyponds give a drawing-room act in which mirth and music are combined.

EMPIRE.—Manager, Mr W. Birchall.—There is a good bill at the Empire this week. Mons. Leonhardt's troupe of performing collies and other dogs give an excellent show. Ryder Davis and Daly O'Doran, comedians; Miss Eva Ward, vocalist; and Alec Kendal, eccentric dancer, are also well received. George York, a one-legged dancer; the Sisters Ely, vocalists and dancers; and Hugo, champion clog-dancer, gives acceptable performances.

WOLVERHAMPTON.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Mr E. H. Bull and Mr Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy Perceival.—Mr J. Bannister-Howard's company presented The Darling of the Gods to a Wolverhampton audience for the first time on Monday. The staging was admirable. Mr D. Lewin Mannering, who appeared as Zakkuri, was particularly clever; Kara was portrayed in stolid yet excellent style by Mr Alfred Goddard; Mr Leonard Grey was an efficient Saigon; Mr. Alexander Havilard did well as Tanda Tanji; and Mr Launcelot St. George Lowther ably filled the part of Inu. Miss Inez Bensusan was a charming Yo-San. Other characters were well filled by Miss Mary Mannering, Miss Edith Anton Laing, Miss Kate Hamilton, and Miss Stella Wynne.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr Chas. Bernard; General Manager, Mr W. H. Lennon.—Amongst this week's attractions are the Original Vivians, a pleasing quintet, who supply an enjoyable and vivacious entertainment. The Stavordale Quintet give an excellent performance on banjos and harp. Larry Lewis, comedian; the Gregson Comedy Trio; Harry Wenburn, comedian; Monks and Woods, in an amusing act; Amy Donns, dancer; Ossy Soupless, contortionist; the Sisters Brooklands; and Ruffell's Bioscope are also in the programme.

WORCESTER.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton; General Manager, Mr Louis Karpe.—A first visit of the popular musical comedy, The Earl and the Girl, has throughout the week drawn generous and distinguished patronage to Mr Carlton's comfortable and commodious house. Mr Wm. Greet's company is a large and capable one. Mr Reginald Switz is admirable as the dog-trainer, Jim Cheese, introducing a lot of new "business," which is highly effective. As Liza Miss Cynthia Carey is responsible for a clever impersonation. Miss Rosa Carlisle has taken the place of Miss Mary Fraser as Elphin Haye owing to the latter's illness, and has achieved a great success. She plays with a natural grace which is highly attractive, and sings and dances very daintily. Mr Alec Fraser is a capital Dick Wargrave, whose bright and breezy nature makes him a great favourite. He sings a good song, and works very hard for the success of the comedy. Miss Maud Aston is a charming Daisy Fallowfield, Miss Mary Morrison sustains the dignity of the part of Miss Bliss very naturally, while Mr H. B. Brandreth as Bunker Bliss, Mr Tom Edwards as Downham, Mr W. T. Hybert as Mr Talk, and Miss Maud Adams as Mrs Black cause a good deal of laughter by their boisterous vagaries. A largely augmented orchestra, under the direction of Mr A. L. Spittle, contributes considerably to the general success of the comedy.

WORKINGTON.

QUEEN'S OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr Stanley Rogers.—Mr Edmund Tearle's company was unable to appear at this theatre on Monday owing to the illness of Mr Tearle in Derry, Ireland. On Tuesday night the company presented Jeanie Deans, with Mr Tearle omitted from the cast.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr Helsby Wright.—Sapho was produced on Monday before a large and appreciative audience. Miss Annie Bell as Fanny was charming, infusing energy and pathos into the part. Mr F. Ross was excellent as Jean, and there were stirring scenes between him and Fanny. Mr G. Antley was sprightly as the uncle, Mr A. Helsby was good as the convict, as was also Mr J. A. Storey as Father Legrand. Miss Bell was ably supported by Miss C. Greenhalgh, Miss L. Desmond, Miss G. Oliver, and Miss D. Brinklow.

WORTHING.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Herr C. Adolf Seebold.—Miss Rose Faith and company are here this week in No Cross No Crown, Mr J. P. M'Bride makes a manly Sir Francis Luttrell; Mr H. Chapman ably acts the part of Professor Nebb; Mr Logan Darra capably portrays the villainous Austin Blake; Mr F. C. Hudspeth is distinctly humorous as Rawson Haines; Miss Rose Faith is excellent as Clare; Miss Gwen Stewart in the double part of Lady Margaret Luttrell and Mistress Gray acts admirably; Miss May Warden prettily sustains the juvenile part of Doris Luttrell; and Miss Dolly Turner as Plato deserves praise, her song "In the land of make-believe" being well-rendered.

YORK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr T. H. Barrow. — Mr Chas. Macdona's excellent company appeared on Monday before a large audience, in The School Girl. Miss Nellie Hodson, an actress endowed with a peculiar charm of manner, is particularly well suited to the rôle of Lillian Leigh; Miss Jennie Bonnie as Cicely plays with much vivacity; Mr Alec. Chantrens is altogether an excellent Edgar Verney; and Mr Max Copland makes Ormesby St. Ledger a mirth-provoking personage. As Col. Marchmont Mr Charles Adeson has ample scope to display his abilities, and from start to finish he never loses his grip of the part. Another clever comedian is Mr Alfred Leslie, who as Tubby Bedford creates roars of laughter. Miss Kate Forster doubles the parts of the Mother Superior and Mrs Marchmont, and in the former sings with her accustomed taste and expression.

OPERA HOUSE AND EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr Sidney Brooke.—Variety is the rule this week after a short spell of pantomime. Ginnett's Rejected Remounts heads the bill, and the fun caused by their appearance is of the most boisterous kind. Mr Charles Clifford, a warm favourite in York, plays sweetly on the harp and is well received; the Revell Troupe, in their speciality entitled "Mischief," are well received; Jack and Evelyn, in their sketch, are extremely clever, their sand dancing being a pleasing item; Mdlle. Roseltha dances in first-class style; and Wood and Merion are comedy artistes of the first rank. Bert Watson's new songs catch on, and the Three Seabornes are remarkably clever in their line of business.

MUSIC HALL GOSSIP.

MR H. H. WELLS, a director of the Canterbury and Paragon, Limited, is the adopted Unionist candidate for the Parliamentary representation of St George's-in-the-East, Tower Hamlets, in the ce of Sir Thomas Dewar, the present respected mber, who will retire at the dissolution of the esent Parliament.

MR WELLS organised a special matinée on Thursday in aid of the St. George's and Wapping Fund for the relief of the distress that so largely prevails in the district. The co-operation of his co director, Mr George Adney Payne, Mr Joseph Davis, Mr E. Rawlings, Mr Fred Miller, general manager of the Canterbury and Paragon, and Mr Charles Beecham, resident-manager of the last-mentioned hall, was readily and heartily given; and the artistes, orchestra, and staff gave their services. It is anticipated that at least £100 will be handed over to the fund.

AMONG the entertainers was Dr. Walford Bodle, whose special treatment of children suffering from paralysis was exemplified before the audience with very remarkable results. Others who appeared were Walter Bentley, the Harvey Boys, Fred Karno's Company in Mumming Birds, Ella Lane, Rosie Lloyd, Ethel Loftus, Queenie May, Victoria Monks, the King's Musketeers, Little Minnie Saunders, the Royal Six, Arthur Verne, Dion Wade, and the Five Whiteleys. The programme concluded with "The Favourites of the Past," in which Miss Elsa Joel and Mr Hamilton Hill sang the songs made famous by music hall stars who have joined the great majority.

TO the enterprises of the year we may add the Putney Hippodrome and Palace of Varieties, which Mr Walter Stephens, of 12, Haymarket, is arranging to erect in the High-street of the favourite Thames-side town. The building is to be a distinct departure from the styles of the suburban halls and theatres; and a special feature of the entertainments to be presented thereat will be high-class Continental turns. The interior will be of an imposing character. Mr Stephens is acquiring a long building lease, and the board is now up on the site. He is also arranging for a similar building in Kilburn—one that will seat 1,800. Both places will be run on the two-houses-a-night system.

THE Lewisham Palace of Varieties, another of Mr Stephens's ventures, is to be erected forthwith. The L.C.C. have passed Mr Stephens's plans, and granted the permit to build on Dec. 13.

MR GEORGE HENRY CHIRGWIN, the White-eyed Kaffir, met with an accident on the Welford-road, Leicester, on Sunday afternoon. It appears that Chirgwin, who was accompanied by his wife and daughter, was motoring through Leicester, on his way to Nottingham, to fulfil an engagement at the Empire there. Near the Bedford Hotel, which is situated at the bottom of the Welford-road, the hind wheels of the car skidded, and the fore part of the carriage came in contact with an electric tram column. Mrs Chirgwin was thrown out, and sustained an injury to her ankle, being also badly shaken. Happily the other occupants of the car escaped serious injury. The base of the column was smashed, and the cap knocked off the top.

THE car, which was travelling at a moderate pace, was doubled up and rendered useless. The accident was witnessed by many people, and willing help was rendered by several on the spot. Mr, Mrs, and Miss Chirgwin rested for a time in an adjoining hotel, after which they proceeded to the George Hotel, nearly opposite the Leicester Palace Theatre, where they were seen by a doctor. It was found that Mr Chirgwin had been severely bruised, but that no bones were broken. Mr Chirgwin, writing to us on Tuesday, says:—"All is well, bar the car, which is a complete wreck. Many thanks to friends for hundreds of wires and letters." He did not appear at Nottingham on Monday.

THE scenery stores situated at the rear of the Queen's, Poplar, were on fire on Thursday evening. A district call brought up over a dozen steamers with a force of ninety firemen, who went to work with two hydrants. The building was severely damaged, and most of its contents destroyed, but the hall itself was in no way affected, nor was there any interference with the usual evening performance.

MISS ALICE LLOYD, who is appearing at the Crown Theatre, Peckham, in her favourite part of Cinderella, did a very kindly act on Tuesday night, when, by the invitation of the local tradesmen, some 350 of Peckham's poorest children were fed and entertained at Mr G. F. Morgan's auction rooms in High-street. During the evening Miss Lloyd drove up in her brougham, and sang a couple of songs, much to the delight of the kiddies, one of whom presented her with a lovely bouquet. The little guests were regaled with sandwiches, pastry, and fruit by many willing helpers.

MR JOCK WHITEFORD, the latest Scotch comedian to make a success in London, is, like his predecessors, Mr W. F. Frame and Mr Harry Lauder, a Clyde man, having been born at Greenock about seven-and-twenty years ago. He commenced life in the shipbuilding industry. An excellent voice and musical taste made his services welcome at concerts, and for some time he sang as an amateur. His success, however, encouraged him to make the plunge, and he became a full-blown professional, when he was induced to join Mackenzie Murdock (the Scotch Paganini) and his concert party. He toured the towns on the Clyde, and played at most of the more important centres in the Highlands. He then joined Adeler and Sutton's Pierrots, a combination that has had among its members such distinguished comedians as Malcolm Scott, Hal Forde, and Ambrose Thorne. Young Whiteford belongs to a musical family, and in his burlesque of a female ballad singer he discloses a very powerful falsetto.

HE made his début on Saturday last at the London Pavilion with results that must have been as pleasing to himself as they were to the management. He repeated his triumph on Monday evening, when he took the place of Mr Harry Lauder, who was unable to answer to his number on the programme on account of indisposition. Mr Frank Glenister has secured Mr Whiteford's services exclusively for the West-end, and he will commence his first engagement at the London Pavilion in May next. He had to return on Tuesday morning to Glasgow.

THE Rev. John A. Warner, Hadlow Down Vicarage, Sussex, in respect to the name given to the new theatre of varieties in St. Martin's-lane, asks the reason for spelling it Coliseum. He says Colosseum is undoubtedly the word intended, which serves to point to the gigantic nature of the scheme. The only possible origin for the spelling Coliseum is, he suggests, the French equivalent colisée. The word is derived from the Latin colossus or colosseus, or the Greek kolossaion. In the days when there was a building of the same name at Cambridge-terrace, Regent's-park, some persons were found who spelt its name "Coliseum," and there was an outcry by scholars against the practice.

THE 388th meeting of the Executive Committee of the M.H.A.R.A. was held on Tuesday afternoon, Mr Joe O'Gorman, chairman of the committee, presiding. The secretary reported that forty-two new members had joined during the past week, making the total number enrolled since the commencement of 11,100. The hon. treasurer's financial statement was submitted, and was passed as read.

THE Duke and Duchess of Fife and family were present on Wednesday afternoon at the Hippodrome, Brighton, and showed much appreciation of the excellent entertainment provided by Mr Thomas Barrasford.

MAJOR GEORGE STRATTON, so many years manager for Mr William Greet, has been appointed acting-manager by Mr Stoll at the Empire Theatre, Liverpool.

FOR the first time in the history of amusements in Cork "The King" was played on Monday, and loyal Irishmen gave proof of their feeling by the waving of hats and cheering. The management of the establishment by Mr Henry Kemble is proving a big success.

MR CHARLES H. BOWMAKER, late of the Surrey, and recently the acting-manager at the Elephant and Castle, has been appointed by Mr Oswald Stoll to the management of the Empire, Nottingham, a magnificent variety theatre capable of holding over 3,500 pleasure-seekers.

THE directors of the Brighton Alhambra have decided to adopt the now popular plan of giving two performances nightly, and on Monday next this arrangement will come into force. The first performance will commence at 6 45 and the second at 9 0 o'clock. The residents of the outlying districts around Brighton will be able to witness the whole of the entertainment and return home to an early supper. The second performance will be a boon to those who are detained late in business houses. The popular half-price matinée on Thursday will continue as usual.

AT the Hippodrome, Southport, on Monday, in the first house, during Rozel's performance, a rope suspended from the roof dropped on to the gas-ring, and caught fire. Rozel, seeing the danger, climbed to the side of his apparatus, and, with the assistance of his climbing rope and one of the attendants, who pulled him over, he seized the burning material and extinguished the flame with his hands. He then pulled down all smouldering pieces, which he dropped in the ring. Though he had burnt his fingers, Rozel pluckily returned to his place and finished his act amid enthusiastic applause.

MR FRANK EGERTON, the enterprising manager of Collins's Hippodrome, Stoke-on-Trent, is presenting to the inhabitants of the Potteries Professor Inman Hockinge, the miracle worker, who has been packing the houses nightly to witness the effects of his wonderful healing powers. He is causing the greatest excitement by doing everything in full view of the audience. He pays a return visit on April 17, and opens at Sadler's Wells on Monday next.

MR E. J. DEXTER, the genial manager of the Gaiety Theatre, Oldham, showed his generous spirit and feeling for his suffering fellow men by devoting the proceeds of the second performance on Wednesday, Jan. 4, to the relief of the starving in the town. From the crowded aspect of the theatre it is expected that a substantial sum will be handed over.

MR HARRY BURNS is still very ill, and his Hartlepool manager (Mr C. Ferrier) wishes us to state that as no one is allowed to see the invalid he hopes that all clients and managers will excuse any delay in answering correspondence. Mr Ferrier is doing his utmost to cope with the large amount of work that has fallen upon him.

MR GEO. S. DOUGLASS, late resident-manager of the Empire Palace, and general manager of the Tivoli, South Shields, has been appointed by the directors to be general manager of the Wakefield Hippodrome. Mr Douglass has been connected with the variety profession for the last thirty years, and was well known in conjunction with his wife as Dexteria and Douglass, the mirthful mystifiers.

MISS ADELE ROZE, much to the regret of the Bradford public, the management, and herself, is obliged to relinquish her engagement as Robinson Crusoe at the Prince's Theatre there. Unfortunately Miss Roze contracted a severe cold during rehearsals, and, influenza supervening, her medical man thinks it imperative that she should go, as soon as she is able to travel, to the south coast, there to thoroughly recuperate. One can quite understand Miss Roze's great disappointment; and this is shared by Mr Frank Macnaghten, her manager, who has, however, offered her his tour when she is able to resume work.

MESSRS W. F. AND CHARLES MAFFEY, two representatives of the Music Publishers' Association, have been in Birmingham since Christmas, and in their endeavour to trace the source of the large output of pirated music in the Midland metropolis they have at last succeeded. They have for some time suspected a man named Evans, and in order to throw him off the scent they visited his premises disguised as hawkers. The woman in charge had to unlock three doors in succession before the room where the pirated music was stored was entered. In this room about 30,000 copies of pirated music were found, including many of the most popular songs of the day, such as "My Cosy Corner Girl," "Sammy," "As your hair grows whiter," "The Holy City," "The Lost Chord," "The Star of Bethlehem," "The River of Years," "The Miller's Daughter," and "Because."

TWO policemen were called, and the whole stock was seized. Messrs. Maffey then proceeded to some other premises owned by Evans, with the intention of having him taken into custody. When they had arrived, however, they found that Evans had already been arrested on a charge of being concerned in recent jewellery robberies which have occurred in the city. Evans was placed in a cab and driven to the police-station, while the music and the proceeds of the robberies followed in a large van.

MISS DAISY MORELL has been specially engaged by Mr Arthur Milton to open on Monday as principal boy in the Milton-Rays' pantomime, in which she will introduce her successful original songs.

MISS BERTHA SEEBOLD, of the Two Musical Seebolds, has quite recovered from her severe illness, and will resume business again on JAN. 23.

THERE can be no possible doubt that the Albert and Edmunds Troupe have made one of their greatest successes in Edmund Edmunds and W. Scott Phippa's pantomime at the West London Theatre. The press and public have alike been unanimous in praise of the show, which is one long roar of laughter throughout. The book and music have received very careful attention, and the several side-splitting absurdities of the troupe are deftly blended into the plot. The scenery, too, is delightful, and the whole entertainment goes with a swing that is positively exhilarating.

THE great Rubie, "La Femme Mesmer," has been creating quite a furore this week at the Grand Varieties, Clapham, with her startling and up-to-date electric and hypnotic experiments. Packed houses have been the rule nightly, Rubie having made a great and phenomenal hit. She opens Monday next at the People's Palace, Tottenham, and Collins's, Islington.

IN the course of a performance in the Juliana Menagerie, installed on the Boulevard de Ménilmontant, Paris, Gaston, the lion tamer, was seized by the lioness Coralie, who injured his hand so seriously that he had to be taken to Lariboisière Hospital. Some time ago the tamer had his right hand slashed by another lion.

FOR the Music Hall Home Fund a matinée is to be given at the Palace, Camberwell, on Thursday, Jan. 26. Both Mr Jesse Sparrow and Mr J. Fruin are working hard in the interests of a charity whose good work on behalf of the aged professional should specially recommend it to the more fortunate variety entertainer of the present day. The Home is in great need of funds, and we may call our readers' attention to an appeal on its behalf printed in another column. The Era Shilling Fund is, we believe, the most practical and popular method of help that can be adopted, and to the many who will be desirous of assisting in the collection of silver for so benevolent a cause we earnestly recommend an immediate application for cards to Mr J. Fruin, Music Hall Home, 31, Wilson-street, Camberwell.

THE committee of the Music Hall Sick Fund have decided that, in future, candidates for membership will not be compelled to undergo a medical examination, in this respect following the example of some of the life assurance offices. They have, further, extended the age limit to forty-five. The medical examination and the age limit have always been formidable obstacles in the way of getting fresh members, and the committee have good reason for believing that under the new conditions there will be a large increase in the membership.

MR HARRY RANDALL, president, has consented to occupy the chair on Sunday, Feb. 5, at the forthcoming dinner and dance at the Trocadero, of the M.H.A.R.A., and Mr Joe O'Gorman, chairman of the committee, will be in the vice-chair. The tickets will be on sale next Monday, and can be had on application to the secretary at the offices.

MR HENRI GROS has been kept at home in a position of complete rest on account of an attack of phlebitis. To one possessing such an energetic temperament this forced inactivity must have been a sore trial, but it is now over, and the popular president of the London Entertainments Protection Association is out and about.

MR B. P. LUCAS and his manager, Mr H. F. Lovesey, may be heartily congratulated on the improvement that has been introduced this week at the Bedford. The stalls bar is now closed in by a handsome wood and glass partition. By this means the conversation of those taking refreshments is made inaudible, an advantage both to audience and artistes.

THE Empire commenced on Monday a series of matinées primarily intended for children, for whom no better attraction could have been found than The Dancing Doll ballet. The youngsters shouted their glee at the beautiful and interesting toy shop scene; and so great was the success of the experiment that it will be continued, but only on the afternoons of Wednesdays and Saturdays, as Mdlle. Genée—now the proud possessor of a beautiful diamond brooch given to her by the Duchess of Devonshire after her performance at Chatsworth last week—cannot stand the strain of more than eight performances a week.

MISS NITA CLAVERING, who is so successfully fulfilling the rôle of Maid Marion, at the West London Theatre, in Babes in the Wood, had a very narrow escape on Monday night from what might have proved a serious accident. Whilst awaiting her cue in the wings, her dress was accidentally set light to by one of the choristers, who were standing by holding lighted lamps. The flames were luckily noticed by one of the supers, who dragged Miss Clavering's bonnet from her head, and crushed in his hands the burning portions of her dress. At this moment her cue came, and although trembling from head to foot with the shock she pluckily walked on the stage and immediatly took up her solo, "In Dreamland," which has proved one of the hits of the pantomime, and for which she received her accustomed unstinted applause from the audience,

MY FANCY, the graceful sand dancer, opens at the Coliseum next Monday, appearing at the second and fourth performances The charming artiste has been appearing with great success at the Chelsea Palace this week.

MISS ARABELLA ALLEN, the Dickens impersonator, met with rather an exciting little adventure at Manchester last week. As she was driving, accompanied by her mother, from the Hippodrome to the Ardwick green Empire, the driver of her carriage attempted to pass between a couple of trams. The wheels were locked between the two, but neither of the ladies, although alarmed and shaken, received any injury. Mr Frank Glenister has just offered Miss Allen return dates for the London Pavilion, where she made such a successful début last year.

AN exceptionally graceful performance on the slack wire is given at the Alhambra by the Four Harveys, attended by a young lady in a black satin court suit. The Harveys' silk costumes look golden in some lights and pink in others, and the two pretty girls of the party wear knots of pale blue ribbon in their hair and sparkling jewels on thin gold chains round their necks. For the finish of the turn they appear as a couple of "white coons," dancing on the quivering wire with amazing skill. The little gentleman is in a pale grey suit lined with cerise, with a stiff grey beaver hat. The little lady is in a cleverly-cut Princess dress of the same vivid tint, sequins flashing from shoulders to waist, with a deep flounce of shaded cerise chiffon, and a big picture hat.

MR TOM COSTELLO'S latest venture, a song entitled "The Old Clown," produced a few nights since at Gatti's, adds fresh laurels to his already great reputation. A special scene depicting the stage door of a theatre is employed, and the singer, as a worn-out wearer of the motley, sadly peruses the pantomime poster on the wall with its announcement that there will be no harlequinade. He then sings a song about his former glories, the while regarding an old wig, the sole remaining relic of the once-loved dress. Suddenly a faint cheer sounds from the theatre, and the gleam of red fire is seen, denoting that the "opening" of the pantomime is over, and the well-known sound proves too much for the old pantomimist, and with a wild "Here we are again!" he is once again, in fancy, enacting the familiar character till his dream is rudely dispelled by the matter-of-fact policeman. The song, with its attendant business, is by A. J. Mills and George Everard.

MAY Swanborough and the "cake-walk" flourish! The second annual Twelfth-night celebration at the Chelsea Palace on Friday, the 6th inst., reminded "Teddy" and the merry company present of the historical bequest of the comedian, Baddeley, originally a cook, who died in 1794 and left £3 per annum for the purchase of cake and wine, to be dispensed to the Drury-lane Theatre company. At the King's-road establishment there is, of course, no special fund for such a celebration; but the custom instituted last year was a happy thought and its repetition brought together a goodly gathering of the staff and friends. The ceremony of cutting the cake was performed by Mr Lyon, who incidentally referred to the Baddeley bequest, and congratulated those present on their connection with so luxurious and well-managed a theatre of varieties. After Mr Angelo Asher had pronounced a blessing upon the cake and its recipients, Mr Edward Swanborough proposed the health of Mr Henri Gros, the managing director, alluding in a most feeling manner to his recent illness, and asked the company to join him in wishing the invalid a speedy recovery. Mr Leon Zeitlin, the acting-manager, replied, and proposed the health of the genial Teddy, who was presented with an opera hat, Mr Angelo Asher being endowed with a pair of gold sleeve links,

DR. BODIE (who is this week appearing nightly at the Paragon and Euston), having failed to obtain from the Illustrated Mirror the retractation and apology demanded by him in connection with their criticisms upon him as contained in the issues of that paper of the 5th, 7th, and 9th inst., his solicitor, Mr Othen, has, on Dr. Bodie's instructions, issued a writ against the proprietors of the Illustrated Mirror claiming damages for libel, and has retained Mr Rufus Isaacs, K.C., M.P., and Mr Gill, K.C., as counsel on his behalf.

MR WALTER DE FRECE, who will blossom into a music hall manager at Boscombe, recently commissioned E. W. Rogers—a writer for the variety stage excelled by none and equalled by but few—to write a musical burlesque, a commission which the author and composer of "Skylark" has executed in record time. The piece is likely to see the light in the spring.

MISS VESTA TILLEY is adding to her song répertoire two new lyrics, entitled, "Poor little me" and "The Royal Artillery," in which she will impersonate respectively a meek young curate and a "soldier bold." Both of these have been written and composed by the writers responsible for Miss Tilley's forthcoming Brazilian scena "Bonita," Messrs John P. Harrington and George Le Brunn.

MISS MARIE LLOYD is actively engaged in studying a new novelty scena entitled Beauty and the Looking-glass, specially written and composed for her by Messrs John P. Harrington and George Le Brunn. She has also this week accepted two other songs, "I'm satisfied, if you are" and "Transformation Scenes," from the same versatile pens.

JOHN RINGLING, the genial and energetic proprietor of Ringling Brothers' Circus, is at present in Europe looking for talent for the coming season. The Ringling Brothers' arenic establishment is one of the largest circus combinations in the United States. They own over 600 horses, ninety-five railway cars, and their outfit is of the costliest and most elaborate description. John Ringling, who is better known in America as the "Showman King," travels in a style that would make Vanderbilt jealous. His private car, which cost over $15,000, is the acme of modern comfort and luxury. All the railway companies of America have given the great-hearted and sociable proprietor a permanent pass over the whole railway system of America, not alone for his private car, but for any party that may accompany him. The receipts of the Ringling show have been enormous this season, and the Paris representative of The Era, Mr C. M. Ercole, who travelled with the show all through Texas and enjoyed Mr Ringling's princely hospitality, says that they exceeded $2,500 daily.

IN several towns, in fact, the races could not be given, the track being covered by the public. The Ringling Brothers have formed a combination with Mr James A. Bailey to purchase the Forepaugh-Sells show, which will now be under the joint management of Mr J. A. Bailey and the Ringling Brothers, who are the ideal types of go-a-head, up-to date modern circus managers.

THE following artistes are sailing to-day by the Kildonan Castle from Southampton for the Cape to fulfil engagements under the Hyman management at the Johannesburg Empire and Tivoli, Cape Town:—Charles Faning, the Brothers Durant, the Three Sisters Florence (who have but just arrived from America), and the Wilsons.

MR WALTER STOCKWELL has become a Boniface, and takes possession on Jan. 24 of Thompson's Commercial Hotel, Bridge-street, Bristol, where he will always be pleased to see old friends, and try his best to make them comfortable. Mr Stockwell has just finished one month in town, and on Monday goes to the Gaiety, Chatham. He opens in Bristol on the 23rd.

CHING LING FOO, the Chinese juggler at the Empire Theatre, recently issued a challenge offering to forfeit £1,000 if Chung Ling Soo, of the Hippodrome, could prove himself an equally adept magician. The contest was arranged to take place at a newspaper office on Saturday. Chung Ling Soo duly arrived with his secretary and his little daughter, but the Celestial from the Empire was conspicuous by his absence. The Hippodrome man gave a very remarkable show to a select audience, and there was no collection!

MR R. G. KNOWLES has been fined £20 by the manager of the Orpheum Theatre, Brooklyn, for perpetrating one of his jokes. His solicitor has demanded the remission of the fine, and talks of beginning an action for damages to reputation.

AN amusing turn was given by Mr Lew Wells, on Monday evening, at the Palace Theatre. This eccentric American musician was born in Grand Rapids, a little town in the State of Michigan. He was not allowed to study music, for his father, himself a clever violinist, knew the hardships and disappointments of a professional's life too well to desire his son to follow his own calling. During his absences from home, however, the small boy learned to play the piccolo, and the father, returning unexpectedly one day when he was practising, realised that it would be absurd to check his inclinations. Mr Wells has been on the variety stage for twenty years, his favourite instrument nowadays being the saxophone. He arrived in England last April, and made two tours under the Stoll and Barrasford managements before opening at the Palace.

MR HORACE GOLDIN, the astonishing American magician, commenced another successful engagement at the Palace on Monday. His production of a "Chinese" interlude is for the present delayed, but his repertory has been enriched by a very attractive and puzzling variant of the box trick. Bringing forward a large specimen of stage cannon of the Long Tom pattern, he places therein his charming assistant, Mdlle. Fransiola, and fires a pistol. A large trunk is immediately seen to be descending slowly from the roof to the stage. It is quickly uncorded and opened, and the same process is followed with two other receptacles placed inside. From the last the charming Fransiola lightly steps out.

ANOTHER unfathomable mystery to the ordinary layman is what may be called the target trick. Mr Golding fires at a bullseye. The target swells inexplicably, and a large box, that seemingly has its origin in space, appears. From this receptacle again emerges the smiling and pretty Fransiola. Mr Goldin will probably present his new "Celestial" show to-day at the Palace matinée.

COUNCILLOR JOHN COVENEY, chairman of the Royal Cambridge Music Hall, has arranged with his co-directors, Messrs Harris and Graydon, for a special matinée at that hall on Thursday, the 19th inst., the object being to raise funds to help alleviate the great distress in the borough of Stepney, and also in aid of the Tweeddale Working Guild. Many foremost artistes have promised assistance, and doubtless more will volunteer. Among well-known folk interested deeply in the matter are the Marchioness of Tweeddale, the Mayor, aldermen, and councillors of the borough of Stepney, the Hon. Harry Lawson, Major W. Evans-Gordon, M.P., and the ladies of the guild. Mr "Jack" M'Carthy, father-in-law of Miss Marie Kendall, will, as usual when deeds of benevolence in this neighbourhood are needed, be strongly in evidence.

MISS FANNY WENTWORTH, who concludes her present engagement at the Oxford the week after next, ends her turn with a verse on the fall of Port Arthur. It goes exceedingly well. She also tells a new little story of two Englishmen returning to their native land after a long absence, and quarrelling as to whether a street singer whom they heard faintly in the distance was warbling "Annie Laurie" or "The Death of Nelson." A bet was made, and a boy dispatched to question the singer. "If you please, gentlemen," said the boy on returning, "he wouldn't mind trying to sing either of the songs if you like, but he isn't singing at all just now. He's 'awking fly-papers."

MR FRANK WEEKS must have been a proud and happy man on the afternoon of Friday, the 6th inst., when he surveyed the crowd of gleeful children, whom, by the kind permission of his directors, he had invited to the South London. No fewer than 2,500 kiddies—from the poorest families in Southwark—attended. The selections—a really difficult matter—were made by a large representative committee, acting for the subscribers, on whose behalf the mayor, the Rev. A. W. Jephson, extended to the little ones a hearty welcome. At the outset the National Anthem was sung by Mrs George Adney Payne, the children joining in the chorus with fervour. An excellent variety entertainment was given, the Wedburns, Fred Neiman, Marie Pownall, Carrie Laurie's Juveniles, and Major Moss and Son being among the performers. Prof. Rosser's Punch and Judy and Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope also formed popular turns, a patriotic flavour being imparted to the occasion by the finale, entitled the Royal Standard Each child on leaving received a bun and an orange. Mr R. K. Causton, M.P., and Mr Clavell Salter, K.C., were present during the afternoon.

MR CYRUS DARE, music hall artist, on Monday, sued Mr Andrew James Walke, of 11, Peckham-rye, S.E., to recover £9 7s 5d, money paid on the defendant's behalf, and £10 damages for a distress which was levied at the plaintiff's flat by reason of the non-payment by the defendant of the general district rate. The Deputy Judge, Mr James Scarlett, said the case was a very unusual one. Plaintiff had been put to great inconvenience and indignity in having a man in possession for five days. He should not increase the amount of the plaintiff's claim, but should award him the £19 7s 5d asked for, with costs on "B" scale. Defendant asked for leave to appeal, but his honour refused the application.

THE death of Madame Belle Cole removes from our midst a singer of great natural gifts. She possessed a voice of rare quality; but much of it, alas had gone when we heard her at the Tivoli a few months since in her favourite solo "The Lost Chord." The organ tones were not there to thrill us, but the skill of the artist remained, and the singer experienced a lively sense of satisfaction at the reception given to her at her music hall début. She even yielded to the popular taste and sang "Genevieve." During her engagement she also gave "Killarney," and one of her most embarrassing experiences was when the audience insisted on singing it with her. She did not quite appreciate the humour of the situation, and was much relieved when a stentorian voice shouted out "Silence!" She finished the song to a hushed house, and was rewarded with a storm of applause.

MR HARRY BEDFORD has been essaying with enormous success, first at the Holloway, and this week at the New-cross Empire, a type of song entirely new to him. As the last genuine British workman left in the East-end of London, the singer relates in clever lines, pregnant with withering sarcasm, how the swarming aliens who infest the neighbourhood have come to regard him as an interloper, and greet him with the cry of "Here comes the foreigner!" which is the title of the ditty. It is by A. P. Weston and Fred J. Barnes. The same writers have just disposed of, to Mr Harry Randall, a highly humorous song entitled "At ninepence-ha'penny an hour."

MR EDMOND BOSANQUET, the violin virtuoso, is giving his illuminated musical séance next week at the Camberwell Palace, where he will introduce his wonderful instrument, the "Bosanquephone." This instrument has finger-board, pegs, and strings similar to a violin, and is fingered in exactly the same way. The tone, however, is rounded, developed, and strengthened by its passing through a large bell-mouthed instrument shaped something like a euphonium. The sounds produced on this novel "phone" by a skilful player like Mr Bosanquet are said to be the nearest approach to the human voice ever heard.

THE MUSIC HALL BENEVOLENT FUND.

MR JOSEPH LYONS' APPEAL TO THE MEMBERS OF THE PROFESSION.

As president for the year of the Music Hall Benevolent Fund I ask you to kindly send me a donation to help us carry on the good work with success.

I do so confident that my call to the profession will be responded to with the benevolent liberality for which it is noted. I do so in the belief that music hall artistes of every grade, those at the topmost rung of the ladder and those who are still climbing, will recognise that the cry for help which comes from their brother and sister artistes, who from accident, sickness, or dire misfortune have been compelled to seek assistance, should be answered first by the profession to which they once belonged. Charity may be welcome from whatever source it comes, but it must be doubly sweet when it comes from those with whom we have worked and played the game of life.

Apart from this I feel sure it would do immeasurable good to the status of the music hall profession if it could be shown that it recognised its duty in this respect, and was proudly striving to keep its Benevolent Fund in a state of financial prosperity without the necessity of urgent appeals to the general public. In every branch of professional and commercial life where this spirit has been fostered charities have been built up on sound financial foundations, and it is my aim and hope to see the same happy state of things effected for this Fund. I want it to be known to the world that members of the music hall profession take a pride in caring for their poorer members.

The line which divides success from failure is but a faint shadow; do please remember those who have struggled and fallen back beneath that shadow. Your success will be doubly sweet and their joy of receiving multiplied a hundredfold by the knowledge that the help comes from the profession they love with a fervour which none but "pros." can fully understand.

He gives twice who gives quickly, so please fire away and fill up the enclosed slip for as much as you can afford; the same will be duly acknowledged by me and by The Era, not to speak of those whose hearts will be made the brighter by your timely generosity.

Yours faithfully, JOSEPH LYONS.

LONDON PAVILION.

The surprise of the London Pavilion programme on Monday was Mr Jock Whiteford, a Scotch comedian. The absence of Mr Harry Lauder through indisposition was Mr Whiteford's opportunity, and though he was simply described as deputy, he made such a pronounced and most unmistakable hit that his presence in London is assured for many years to come. Mr Whiteford, who is only in the twenties, evidently sees the humorous side of things, and has lighted upon an original skit of a would-be Scotch dude—the Count of Inverary. This is no kilted lairdie, but a shabby genteel person in a faded plaidie lounge coat and short breeks. The young comedian gives a better example of his powers by his most diverting sketch of a Glesca loon's attitude at a football match, in the result of which he is profoundly interested. It would be thought that such a sketch would be caviare to a London audience, but nature and humour are so cunningly intermingled that its success was never in doubt, and the triumph of the débutant was rendered complete by his parody of a Scotch ballad singer in "Robin Adair." We shall hear a great deal of Mr Whiteford before many weeks have passed, and Mr Frank Glenister is to be heartily congratulated on his latest find. Mr Hal Forde—who is quite English, you know—returns to repeat his success, and with an excellent new number, a skit on "Who's Who?" and similar works, Mr Forde introduces references to the Beck case, the Baltic fleet, Chamberlain, and other topics, and does so in a way that is witty and smart. Mr Forde also appears with Miss Edith Housley and company in an original incident, written and arranged by Rutland Barrington, with music by Geoffrey Gordon, entitled Her Chance. The scene is the Dressing-room at the Peerage Playhouse, wherein we discover a number of fascinating musical comedy chorus ladies putting the finishing touches to their make-up. There is much anxiety in the breast of the stage-manager, who has heard of the probable non-appearance of the star of the company, and has not yet set eyes on her understudy. This is Peggy Plantagenet, who arrives soon, and with a determination to make the most of "her chance." She runs over a very tuneful number, "I don't want to go too far," and with a dance off the incident concludes. Miss Housley is both dainty and clever, and her companions are a pretty and bright contingent of girls, who look exceedingly well in some tasteful dresses. Early in the evening Mr Charles Coverdale, a new comer to the London Pavilion, has a long and interesting song dealing in a witty manner with obvious truisms. His chief claim to distinction lies in his patter. He is surprisingly glib, and his imitations of a motor smash—assisted by the scene-shifters—is a piece of whimsical nonsense that sets the house in a roar. It may be said of Mr Coverdale that he does not take his audience seriously, and they return the compliment with interest. Mr Chris Richards, who has made an emphatic hit here, is one of the most eccentric dancers we have seen on the variety stage for many years, and his every movement is as quaint as it can be. He makes the "splits" appear quite easy, and his genuine oddity and surprising antics complete his supremacy as a laughter-maker. It is not necessary to give the titles of his songs; they are, however, excellent vehicles for his drollery. An agreeable quarter of an hour can be spent with the vocal and dancing scena presented by E. Espinosa and company and entitled La Posada. In the front of a village inn, in fair Castile it may be, a number of the peasantry are enjoying themselves. A gipsy girl, in divining the future of a brutal ne'er-do-well, foretells that he will die by the hangman's hands. Enraged, he offers to strike her, but her cause is taken up by her lover. The quarrel becomes serious, a knife is drawn, and the chivalrous defender is struck to the ground. He rises, however, apparently but little the worse for the blow, and after defying his aggressor, who retires into the inn, he indulges in a very vigorous and effective dance. The little episode—if we may so call it—winds up with the favourite number, "Navaho," which is sung in bright and spirited fashion. There is more excellent dancing with the appearance of Susie and Protti, who give some spirited examples of the rhythmic steps of the Slav, and wind up with the everlasting cake-walk. Miss Bertha Pertina's toe-dancing is a speciality that is by no means common, and her grace and agility in her various solos are undeniable; and Miss Alma Gray also has a fascinating style as a Terpsichorean. Mr Dutch Daly, Mr Arthur Prince, and Mr Phil Ray are all immense favourites, and in their own particular lines sustain their excellent reputations; the Patty-Frank acrobats accomplish the most difficult shoulder somersaults with ease and smartness; Alethea is a graceful contortionist and gymnast; Ergotti and King Luis are clever Risley performers; and the Brothers Artois introduce an element of quaintness into their horizontal bar performance. Early in the bill Mr Nat Travers shows the audience how cleverly he can reproduce the methods and mannerisms of another coster comedian; Miss Marie Wilton sings of the adventures of a girl from the country; and Mr Johnny Johnston plays the 'cello. Mr Will English, a gentleman of colour, winds up the bill, to which Miss Nina Martino also contributes. Mr William Cobbett agreeably assists in front; and Mr Bond Sayers has an excellent orchestra under his capable direction.

BARNARD'S, GREENWICH.

A most attractive programme is being submitted to holiday-makers at this popular hall, where clever and courteous management is rewarded by full houses. After the overture, "A Happy New Year to all," by Mr Archie Howells, has been done full justice to by the composer and his excellent orchestra, Miss Minnie Claney appears and immediately wins favour. She is followed by Will Driscoll, styled the new comic, who sings "Where is that dicky-bird?" and "Lucy Loo," and winds up with a smartly executed dance. Hague and Russell are exceedingly good in their laughable duologue, entitled, Your Aunt. The bright particular star of the programme is Mdlle. Kloet, whose performance is highly artistic and pleasing; she is loudly applauded for her representation of Mercia in various scenes from The Sign of the Cross, and for her posings as the statue of "A Blind Flower Girl," the Marli Horse group, "The Genie and the Swan," "Joan of Arc," "Captive Slave of Cairo," and "Melody." The electrical effects add greatly to the success of the entertainment. The Brownson and Ellis company is appearing with considerable success in an interesting dramatic episode, in three chapters, entitled Justice. This concludes the first part of the programme, and is followed by a selection, "Zampa," by the band, after which Angelo causes much admiration and wonderment by his marvellous lightning oil painting entertainment. Many of his portraits of well-known persons are instantly recognised and applauded. Charles Beanland comes next, and is well received in "Was there anything funny in that?" "Return good for evil when you can," and "Nursery Rhymes." Austin Lawd is responsible for a monologue, entitled Condemned to Die, which he presents in a highly dramatic and powerful fashion. Miss Edie Anderson, who is warmly welcomed, sings about "A Girl from Gay New York" and "Navaho," winding up with a gracefully executed dance. Dan Filmer gives a clever burlesque of an eccentric female who sings about "Reginald;" two other songs of his are entitled "I wonder what more you want?" and "Cancelled for Ever." Messrs Kier and Allen are clever knockabouts and comedy boxers, and cause much amusement. The performance concludes with Ruffle's Bioscope, on which are exhibited some excellent and original subjects.

MR. F. V. ST. CLAIR.

Mr F. V. St. Clair, who has been quite a number of years on the halls, is a Yorkshireman, and comes of an old Quaker family. He was brought up to the profession of chemist and druggist, and is an A.P.S. by examination. Even when behind the chemist's counter he had composed a number of popular songs for the pantomimes. He made his first appearance at Paul's Concert Hall, Leicester, and he can tell any amount of funny stories about the famous Paul, who was one of the most eccentric proprietors of his day.

Mr St. Clair stands almost alone as a writer and singer of patriotic songs. At the time of the Russo-Turkish war he wrote, when but an apprentice, such songs as "The European Dance," "Stand by the Flag," "The Road to India" etc. Then came Hyram Travers' big success "Bradlaugh," and shortly after Miss Vesta Tilley's great hit at Drury-lane "When will Old England be herself once more?" Mr St. Clair had composed this song for himself, but one day as Mr Harry Ball (Miss Tilley's father) and he were taking a walk at Cardiff, St. Clair hummed the song over, "That's the song for Tilley," said Mr Ball, "come back home and we will send it right away to Mr Augustus Harris and see if he will let her sing it." Next day a wire came, "Secure the song for Miss Tilley. Just the thing I wanted.—HARRIS."

Miss Vesta Tilley made the hit of the pantomime with the song. Judy, the comic paper, termed her "The London idol, the heroine of pantomime." The publisher of the song offered to purchase all St. Clair's writings for the next twelve months, and Mr Harris wrote him a flattering letter praising the song, but the grand climax came in the shape of a cheque for £100, from a Captain Anderton, who said, "The enclosed has been subscribed by a few staunch Conservatives as a mark of admiration and esteem for the author of the song 'When will Old England."

Mr St. Clair has many times since received £100 for a song, but this has been in payment for advertising songs for the big patent medicine and other advertisers, Mr St. Clair having produced a great number of compositions of this class.

Most of the leading artistes have at one time or other warbled his ditties. Ada Reeve, Dan Leno, Marie Loftus, Maggie Duggan, Katie Lawrence, Fred Eastman, Victor Stevens—these names will show the versatility of the writer, for he has written songs to suit all and every class of artist. He has also written something like three hundred popular recitations, which have been published by various firms, his latest by Abel Heywood and Sons, Manchester. He has a splendid memory, and can write a song or a recitation and produce it the same night. He did so in the case of the Baltic Fleet outrage, and again on the death of Fighting Mac. Verses he never writes, but just makes them up as he is going to the hall—he gets them much better this way.

He is never at a loss for a subject, though he rarely asks for topics from the audience now, as that way of working an extempore song only induces the audience to shout long after the singer has left the stage. Mr St. Clair, however, has always made it a rule never to leave an audience clamouring to the detriment of another turn. He goes on again and sings a verse informing the audience that "So and so will follow me and amuse you better than I've done in the twentieth century." Mr Oswald Stoll once recognised St. Clair's talent as regards being up-to-date. It was the day Mr Gladstone died. "F. V.," was taking a week's rest at Windermere when a telegram came. "Can you open here Monday next with song on Gladstone? Wire, Stoll, Cardiff."

And only the other week Mr Barrasford, knowing his abilities in the elocution way, got him to put together a speech, and introduce the Bohemian Sisters for the first time to a British audience. This was at the Hippodrome, Brighton, where, after doing his own turn, he humorously introduced Mr Barrasford's latest capture in the way of novelties. Mr St. Clair has never touched one penny he has earned by his pen for over fifteen years; he has always looked upon this as "overtime," and during that time over fourteen hundred of his songs have been published—some by political parties, some by great advertising firms, and over five hundred music hall songs by music hall publishers.

He is a great believer in advertising, and boasts that he has only three times missed his advertisement on The Era back page in twenty years. Mrs St. Clair, who always accompanies her husband, acts as his amanuensis, and he relies on her sound judgment regarding songs. Among his recent successes have been "Cheer up, Buller," "John Bull's Letter Bag," "Little Jap Horner," &c. He wrote several of the late Dan Leno's songs "The Railway Guard," "The Ice-cream Man," "All through a bit of bacon," and others. He does not send songs out now, but if he strikes any special idea he picks his vocalist.

His only relative is a half-sister, who is one of the best-known lady lecturers in America, and who has spoken at Exeter Hall. She devotes her life to religious work, and at one time toiled in the East-end slums as a member of the Church Army. Mr St. Clair makes his own engagements, and is booked far into 1908. In twenty years he has not made a dozen engagements through the agents, though he is friendly with them all.

THE LATE E. S. BARNES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—As one of the oldest friends of the late Mr Barnes I am desired by his widow to express her thanks to you for your kindly obituary notice in your last issue. However, I would like to mention that Mr Barnes, besides leaving the young widow, has also left her with two sons by his first wife, aged fourteen and seven respectively, practically unprovided for.

Yours faithfully, W. F. WATTS.

THE TIVOLI.

The generous provision made here for the entertainment of holiday crowds has resulted in excellent houses, and though competition is keener than ever, the Tivoli, with its established reputation for the best possible programmes, has not suffered. Many of the popular favourites whose turns were noticed by us last week in our article on the Oxford are also fulfilling engagements here. Miss Vesta Tilley is excellently served by the same songs, "The Seaside Sultan," "The Wise Old Owl," and "Following in father's footsteps," which she gives with unfailing command of her artistic resources; Miss Vesta Victoria's "Golf girl" is an interesting figure, though not so amusing as her low comedy creation of a model whose experiences as a poseuse in the backyard are "all right in the summer time;" and Miss Louie Freear—the clearness of whose "top note" is at present slightly obscured by a cold—repeats her success in "Twiddley Bits," "She just walks on," and "John James Perkins." Mr Bransby Williams, as at the Oxford, has the Tivolians quite under the spell of his histrionic powers, when he delineates the dear old boatman, Dan'l Peggotty—one of Dickens's finest and most human creations. Mr Williams chooses the episode wherein the devoted old sailor utters a curse on the man who has robbed him of the sunshine of his life—Little Emily, and then departs in search of her. The scene has been enacted many a time and oft at the theatres, and Sam Emery's treatment of it is not forgotten by the older generation, and to say that Mr Williams reminds one strongly of that excellent actor is to give him high praise. His pathos is penetrating, and his final exit is followed by loud applause. In the early portion of the programme Miss Dolly Harmer's versatility finds excellent scope in a scena, which may be called "Proposals." The methods of declaring the tender passion, adopted by a dude, a down-East cockney, and a Yorkshireman are amusingly hit off by the clever actress, who has an excellent sense of humour. Mr Tom Leamore's ancient lady of the ballet, whose dilapidated appearance may be attributed to "frost bite," is one of the most extravagantly ludicrous impersonations he has given us. Mr Will Evans has a companion picture in his droll and clever impersonation of the serio of many winters, who "knows her business" and does not quite recognise the inexorable fact that she is a "back number." "Lucinda Wriggle" has had huge successes in her day; but now when she asks for "dates" the agents tell her they are not giving away "stone fruit." Lucinda's coquetry and final dance are things to be seen and enjoyed. Clark and Hamilton, after a somewhat lengthy absence, return with their comedy duo entirely unaltered, nor is there any apparent necessity for any deviation from their most successful number, which brings down the house in the old sweet way. Mr Clark appears as a New York tramp millionaire with a decided taste for the pianoforte, and most ungallantly pelts his partner Hamilton—otherwise Miss Venie Belfry—with bread. Of course, he easily succumbs to her charms, and his capitulation synchronises with that of the audience, who applaud in the heartiest possible manner. Miss Radie Furman, a newcomer, has a very successful interlude as the jolliest of Dutch girls, her dancing and business being in much the same vein as Miss Fanny Fields'; Mr Harry Freeman has a characteristic song in "That's him;" and Mr George H. Elliot, the coloured coon, breathes into his songs something of the romance of the cane brake. Mr Whit Cunliffe, one of the new brigade of comedians who forswear a red nose, loose trousers, and flap shoes, is entitled to our heartiest congratulations on his success. His command of quiet humour is first displayed in a song which we may call "Problems," a number that by its subtle humour gets quite away from the beaten track of the ordinary music-hall lyric. He scores an even greater success in his second item, "I would," the words of which are set to an old American tune that has before been utilised in the halls. It serves its purpose quite well; and the topical nature of the rhymes suggests endless possibilities for the comedian, who has been adding encore verses every night. Mr Cunliffe has a buoyant, light-hearted style, and never works hard, his quiet confidence in the appreciation of his audience being always justified by the most gratifying results. It was at the Tivoli that the writer first heard Miss Ray Wallace, the lady mimic, at the piano—an instrument she plays so well that one would willingly hear her in a solo. She, however, still fascinates her audiences by her mimicry. The lovers of sentimental singing at the Tivoli are highly delighted when they listen to Mr Ian Colquhoun's fine voice in such popular selections as "The ould plaid shawl" and "Father O'Flynn," and other excellent turns in a programme of good things are George and Gusti Edler, in their Alpine scene; the Five Julians, lady singers and dancers; the Harvey Boys; the versatile Royal Six, vocalists, instrumentalists, and cyclists; and Dandy George and his dog Rosie.

STRATFORD EMPIRE.

A strong and well-varied bill is this week being submitted at this highly popular and select variety theatre, and crowded audiences at both houses tightly are being attracted. Mr Sam Gething, the experienced and urbane manager, who has done much to further the interests of the Stratford Empire, leaves nothing undone to conduce to the comfort of his numerous patrons, and he has the able assistance of his courteous lieutenant, Mr W. Beeslengh. Early comers are this week regaled with Sousa's march "Stars and Stripes," rendered in spirited style by the able orchestra under Mr Augustus Greco's skilful guidance. A favourite this week is the ever-popular Harriett Vernon, who, looking very bright and charming, picturesquely attired, and in excellent voice, sings very successfully a pretty Japanese song which gains loud applause, and afterwards appears in an elaborate "boy" costume, and renders a more serious item entitled "Don Giovanni," which is remarkably well received. O'Gust, the Parisian mimic, interests and amuses during his occupancy of the stage with his wonderfully faithful imitations of birds, animals, and instruments—in fact, the mimicry of no sound seems to come amiss to him, and his turn pleases the audience greatly. The character boxing sketch contributed by the Brothers Horne, in which they have the assistance of a comely damsel with song and dance, seems to lose none of its attractiveness with age, and never fails to arouse great hilarity. Carrie Laurie's Kindergarten, which appears to be always kept up to date by the introduction of new songs and fresh "business," in an immensely popular turn, and gains some of the heartiest applause heard during the evening. Alf Gibson easily succeeds in eliciting mirth in his songs, "He got what he wanted!" followed by "All of a sudden he stopped," and in response to vociferous applause he contributed a third ditty, "I never let it upset me." The Bohemians exhibit considerable skill with various musical instruments, and their turn proves most entertaining. Charles Deane has an excellent song in "Whizzing along the wires," descriptive of a telegraph clerk who sends love messages to the object of his affections whom he has never beheld, but when they do eventually meet his love dreams have a rude awakening, for she far from comes up to expectations. His second ditty, "Follow the Tram lines," being a policeman's philosophic advice to a party desirous of reaching home who have imbibed not wisely but too well, might prove a worthy successor to "All along the rails," so exceedingly mirth-provoking is it. Ethel Ra Leslie sings a well-known ballad very charmingly; and the juggling performance contributed by the Alfonso Trio is watched with keen interest. The Bioscope provides some interesting pictures, the views including the Miser's Home and a Race for a Wife, the latter especially being greatly admired.

"THE ERA" SHILLING FUND FOR THE MUSIC HALL HOME.

MR. THOMAS BARRASFORD APPEALS.

The words Music Hall Home bring to the minds of our readers the necessities of the aged members of the profession who did their work on the variety stage in its early days long before the era of prosperous empires and palaces. These were the times of hard work and small salaries; when, indeed, the remuneration of stars rarely reached double figures. The benefits of the Home are well known to the variety entertainer, by whose exertions it was established; but its work is unobtrusive, and at this season of charity, when the blessed message "peace and goodwill" wings its flight through the world, it is our privilege as well as our duty to once again emphasise the usefulness of a refuge for the aged and the real need of help to its exchequer. We appealed to the profession three years ago with a success that encourages us to repeat the experiment, and we have the warm approval of Mr Thomas Barrasford, the excellent president of the fund, in opening our columns for another appeal for shillings. We have before us a letter from Mr J. J. Fruin, in which he states that there are now six inmates in the Home, which is at 31, Wilson-road, Camberwell, S.E. "Two of them are cripples, and the others very old, the majority being over seventy, and quite unable to work!" What a pathetic record! Imagine, if you can, the hopelessness of the performer, once a favourite of the footlights, stricken with age and infirmity, and then think of the blessing of his being able to spend his declining days in comfort, supported by an institution that is financed by his brother and sister artistes. No one was more alive to the need of such a charity than the late Mr Dan Leno, who had in his early days one of the hardest struggles that ever fell to the lot of an entertainer. We can never forget the eloquence of his appeal for the Fund, to which he was a constant contributor. It is gratifying to think that other staunch friends have been stirred by his fine example, and to their noble exertions the report of the annual meeting which appeared in our issue of Sept. 17 bears witness. Mr Thomas Barrasford, the president, has shown, too, a great interest in the Home. In every one of his halls he has had collecting boxes placed, and on two occasions, when damages have been awarded to him in actions at law, he has arranged for the amounts to be paid to the Fund. In this way no less than £35 has found its way into the exchequer. A pleasant experience for the committee was the visit paid to the Home on Christmas Day at the dinner hour. The inmates were enjoying roast goose, which was followed by the traditional pudding; and beer and spirits were also provided. The hearts of the old folk were cheered, too, by a bit of bacca, given to them by a veritable little fairy godmother, Miss Nelman, daughter of Mr Fred Nelman, the well-known ventriloquist, and each of the smokers was endowed with a brand new briar pipe. We have said sufficient, we think, to bring the claims of the charity to the attention of our readers. The institution is in great need; and we ask the thousands of our readers to send their shillings to us, and to remember that "he gives twice who gives quickly." There is no greater pleasure in life than giving, and each contributor will have the satisfaction of knowing that every penny will be wisely spent. Collecting cards may be obtained from Mr J. Fruin at the Home, 31, Wilson-road, Camberwell, or that gentleman will be pleased to forward them to applicants.

MISS LILY BURNAND,

We may add that parcels of cast-off clothing are very acceptable. We appeal to the variety profession at large, but more especially to those now fulfilling lucrative engagements in pantomime. Surely among these there are numbers of generous hearts who will start a card collection and appeal to their brother and sister artistes. In this way they would promote an interest in a charity whose care for the aged and afflicted of the profession should be proclaimed from the housetops. United effort, just a little organisation, and real persistency in so excellent a cause should result in shoals of shillings. In our charitable crusade we have great faith in the influence of the ladies of the profession, for a reference to the annual report shows that they are capable of excellent work. In this connection we may mention Miss Lily Burnand, who again shows her kindly interest in the Home by sending along forty-two shillings. Subscriptions may be forwarded to F. H. Pedgrift, hon. treasurer, care of The Era. They will be duly acknowledged in these columns.

VOCALIST'S HIGH ART.

The well-meaning people who regard the music hall as a short cut to perdition would probably revise their judgment if they heard Arthur Lennard, who is singing at the Newcastle Empire this week. His style is refined, his vocalism good, and the sentiments of his songs above reproach.—North Mail.

AT the Hippodrome, Birmingham, this week the Ytulians give their smart Risley acrobatic performance. The Schutzenliesserl'n Quartet of singers and dancers and the Sandro Duo of equilibrists are strong features of the programme. Charles Steuart and company in their comedy sketch, The Water Cure, are amusing; and George M. Schilling, who is walking round the world for a wager; Lily Flexmore, the Sandor Trio, Dusky Rhodes and Gardner, and Griffin and Gardner, in their musical absurdity, The Ratcatcher, complete the bill.

THE ROYAL.

One of the most important engagements at the Royal this week is the lady known as "Mahatma." There is nothing mysterious or mystical in her appearance or manner, and she makes her entrance from the wings in quite an ordinary business-like manner. Seated on a chair in the fore-part of the stage, she is blind-folded, and two members of the audience are invited to come forward to act as a committee and to assist. At the request of the gentleman who introduces "Mahatma," and has the direction of affairs generally, one of the committee writes upon a black-board several rows of figures, which the lady adds up correctly. She also names each figure which is pointed at, and can tell if the assistant's wand is placed upon a blank space. Next the committee play a game of Nap, and "Mahatma" correctly foretells which one will be the winner. She also tells each gentleman which card to play. The mysterious nature of the performance greatly impresses the audience, who are fairly puzzled as to how it is done. Those who take a delight in attempting to solve mysteries should not miss "Mahatma." Mr V. L. Granville, an artiste who is, we believe, new to London music hall patrons, appears in some well-known character sketches, beginning with Wilfred Denver, in The Silver King. The next portrait is that of Svengali, in Trilby, and finally he represents Mathias, in The Bells, in the scene where the burgomaster yields to the temptation to murder the Jew so as to secure his gold. Each scene is powerfully portrayed, and there is no attempt made to closely imitate any of the popular actors who are identified with the three characters mentioned. Mr Granville obtains a very good reception. And so, too, do Burke and M'Voy, comedy acrobats and Arab tumblers, whose business is very clever and amusing. One of the two, who has a comic make-up, introduces some laughable burlesque on the strong man's performance, using for the purpose an immense chain, which he proceeds to break with the greatest ease. As tumblers they also excel, and at the conclusion of their turn they are enthusiastically recalled. Mr Frank Pate and Miss Violet Pate are seen in a duologue, the former representing a young gentleman who is fond of attending races, and the lady impersonating a wife who objects to her husband's hobby. He receives a telegram which he refuses to let her see, and in order to arouse his jealousy she tells him that she has been to the races with a gentleman friend. The husband, hitherto so calm, flies into a passion and knocks the furniture about in his mad rage. When, however, he cross-examines her concerning her knowledge of the horses which ran she betrays such ignorance that he comes to the conclusion she has been fooling him. This she admits, and all ends happily. The duologue is played with considerable spirit. Mr Will Godwin scores with a song containing that homely sentiment which always appeals to a popular audience. A little girl, seated in the front row of the balcony, takes up the refrain, and the effect is very pleasing. Mr Charles Beanland, comedian, makes capital out of some new versions of old nursery rhymes, and Mr Tom Hughes in the character of a dilapidated dude sings "I'm one of the upper ten" with much success. Frank and Free, duologue artists and acrobatic dancers, are heard to advantage in a quarrelling duet. The couple of acrobats known as Los Rupertos accomplish some remarkable feats as hand balancers, and the Sisters Hayward are applauded for their Spanish coon and skipping-rope dances. Miss Alma Gray is a charming speciality dancer; Mr Chas. Somers is a quaint comedian; and the Sisters Hall are acceptable duettists. Mr H. Ketteman is the efficient manager here, and the orchestra is under the able direction of Mr Frederic D. Wood.

THE PARAGON.

Fame and fortune have attended Dr. Walford Bodie on his triumphal tour of the metropolis, and his popularity among the poor has been phenomenal. Overwhelming crowds flock to witness his marvellous experiments in hypnotism and electricity combined, and when he began his second week at the Paragon on Monday every available space in the vast auditorium was filled, while crowds lined the sides of the hall. The Doctor prefaced his demonstrations on Monday with a scathing reference to an attack made upon him last week by a half-penny daily journal, which he denounced as grossly unjust. The writer, said the doctor, after meeting him in a friendly way, and expressing satisfaction with the results of his work, had gone away and written an article hostile to him, in which he was charged with "imposing on the ignorant poor." Two solicitor's letters addressed to the paper had been ignored, but Dr. Bodie was determined to press the matter home and to obtain justice in a court of law. Evidence of the lasting effects of Dr. Bodie's treatment was supplied on Monday, when a girl of five years, whom he had on the previous Saturday cured of paralysis lasting four years, appeared on the stage accompanied by her aunt, who spoke earnestly of the happiness which the Doctor had brought to her home. The mother of the child was too nervous to face the audience, but she was present in the house. "Thank Dr. Bodie, Annie," cried the lady on the stage to her sister, and from the remote heights of the gallery came a faint but fervent "Thank you!" This affecting incident was seized upon by the audience, who cheered wildly. Three cases of paralysis were taken by Dr. Bodie, the first being that of a young woman from Poplar, aged twenty-six, whose leg had been paralysed almost since birth. A successful operation was performed in her case, as also in that of a girl from Spitalfields, a paralytic for twelve years, who had been discharged from two hospitals as hopeless and incurable. Too young to be hypnotised, a large magnet was passed over the affected parts to deaden the pain, and having loosened the adhesive ligatures Dr. Bodie administered the curative current, and in a few moments the smiling girl was walking and running across the stage. The third case was a very bad one, that of a boy of eight years, whose foot was a shapeless piece of flesh, so terribly had it suffered from the surgeon's knife. With a strong twist of the wrist Dr. Bodie broke the adhesions, and the foot could be freely moved. "No knife used, not a drop of blood spilt, not a bit of pain," said the Doctor in a tone of triumph, and the applause of the audience grew more boisterous than ever as the boy, discarding leg-irons and crutches, walked off unaided. The serious business of the séance was succeeded by "a little fun," the laughter becoming riotous at the ludicrous antics of incautious individuals who presented themselves for treatment. Among the good things of a liberal bill Mr Tom Leamore stands out prominently with his mock serious ballad of "Heroes," which bristles with witty lines, and the merriment inspired by his appearance as "Sally, the pride of the ballet," lasts unabated throughout the whimsical turn, which an odd pas de seul at the close renders quite irresistible. Miss Rosie Lloyd successfully courts the favour of mere man with a song descriptive of the superiority of the fair sex, but it is her picture of coster pathos in "You're not ashamed of me, are yer, Bill?" that reaches the hearts of all, so full of homely truth is it, and so naturally rendered by the comely vocalist. The Brothers Kroney are remarkably active as the "lazy coalmen" doing a number of acrobatic feats in the course of an act that elicits constant mirth. Radiant in a dress of prismatic hues, Miss Victoria Monks sings of "The girl inside," under whose influence the world apparently revolves. Miss Monks' fame at the Paragon is unbounded, and great is the joy when she yields to the popular demand and gives with well-studied emphasis her imitation of an American coon songstress in "If you want to have a row wait till the sun shines." A half-dozen young lady cyclists, known as the Royal Six, make a pretty display astride the wheel, singing cheerfully a chorus in the French tongue. They afterwards appear as a "military band," each one armed with the instrument she is intended to represent and singing a song descriptive thereof, their marching and countermarching having a pleasing effect. Miss Radie Furman is all liveliness and jollity as a "Deutscher" maiden, who overflows with funny sayings, her expertness in clogs, which includes an imitation of the drum, calling forth the most enthusiastic applause. Miss Ella Lane sings a couple of songs with taste; the quaint method of Mr Dion Wade finds employment in two well-written comic effusions; and others in the programme are Mr James Fawn, Dandy George and his dog Rosie, Miss Dolly Harmer, and Miss Ethel Loftus, comedienne. Mr and Mrs Harold Finden create abundant mirth by their artistic comedy, in A Desperate Remedy; the droll personality of Mr Will Evans is utilised for a Christmas pantomime of Robinson Crusoe; and a hilarious finish to a long evening is assured by Mr Joe Elvin and company with Two for Three-ha'pence. Mr Geo. Adney Payne is fortunate in the possession of a general manager like Mr Fred Miller, the more immediate duties being ably discharged by Mr Chas. Beecham.

SHEPHERD'S-BUSH EMPIRE.

At this handsome and increasingly popular place of amusement opposite Shepherd's-bush-green excellent business has been the rule during the week, not a seat being obtainable soon after the opening of the doors. Largely responsible for this gratifying state of affairs is no doubt the engagement of the favourite comedienne, Miss Marie Lloyd. On the night of our visit this ever-welcome artist, although suffering from a cold, was otherwise in the very best of form, and ere she was allowed to depart was called upon to contribute no fewer than four numbers. The first dealt with a certain fascinating Virginie, a smart young damsel who flits from one fashionable resort to another, mainly in quest of enjoyment. Her male acquaintance is extensive, and that she is popular with the men is easily understood, as is also the disfavour with which this extremely vivacious damsel is regarded by strictly proper married ladies. Miss Lloyd sings the number—a well-written one—with all the requisite delicate point. Her acting abilities are well displayed in "The Tale of the Skirt," a song which in the hands of a less clever artist would be almost meaningless. She also gave with her customary success "Eh—what! what! what!" and "There was something on his mind." It is scarcely necessary to add that Miss Lloyd wore three exceedingly handsome and tasteful gowns. Clown Zertho's dogs are responsible for some of the heartiest laughter heard during the entertainment, the wonderful intelligence and cleverness shown by these smartly trained animals evoking continuous applause. Considerably over a dozen dogs, mostly of a small breed, take part in this interesting show, which includes all the usual tricks and some exceptionally smart back somersaulting. The two clown dogs are remarkably knowing animals, and some of these clever canines, in appropriate costumes, drive miniature motor-cars and wheel toy perambulators about the stage, besides falling down apparently dead when their master fires a pistol. Truly a wonderful family of learned dogs, and a really enjoyable and clever show. Mr Syd May, the well-known mimic, gives an admirable impression of Harry Lauder, the popular Scotch comedian, in "Stop yer ticklin', Jock," and, made up remarkably like George Robey, gives a verse of that eccentric artist's ditty, "I had to be cruel to be kind." He also gives his ludicrously funny burlesque of Hackenschmidt, the dummy figure with which he wrestles being most ingeniously worked, and the mock contest causing roars of laughter. Lotto, Lilo, and Otto perform many smart tricks on cycles, the member of the troupe who impersonates a policeman being responsible for much amusement. A game of ball by two of the performers on cycles is also skilfully managed and loudly applauded. Miss Ada Cerito, most becomingly costumed, sings a capital topical ditty, "Then he left off wondering," with some verses bearing on the Beck case, the distress in West Ham, and the capitulation of Port Arthur. The Five Delevines in their pleasing interlude combine melody, mirth, and clever pantomime, all being well blended, and the entire entertainment refined and attractive. The Sisters Klos, three fine specimens of young womanhood, submit a graceful and up-to-date gymnastic act, exhibiting marvellous strength of arm and wrist. The culminating feat is reached when one of these muscular ladies hangs head downwards with her arms extended, her two sisters using them as bars on which to perform. Ike Scott and Son present an amusing little trifle in which the youth impersonates a smart young officer and his father a lubberly soldier. Miss Alexandra Dagmar continues to meet with well-deserved success in her burlesque scena, The Duchess of Dantzic, assisted by a youth who impersonates the great Napoleon. Miss Dagmar's fine stage presence and refined artistic style are much appreciated. Bella and Bijou in a bright, breezy little sketch win the favourable verdict of the audience, and the couple known as Cabby and Shirker do well in their eccentric bar act. Mention should be made of the very useful services rendered by Mr George Richardson as conductor of the orchestra and Mr E. H. Dobson as acting-manager.

CHELSEA PALACE.

One can always be sure of a cordial welcome at the Chelsea Empire from the genial Mr Edward Swanborough, the acting-manager, whose experience in the world of amusement extends over many years, and who can number countless friends in all branches of the profession. One of the principal turns in this week's programme is the sketch entitled Our Curate, played by Mr Fred Eustace and company. To cut a ridiculous figure on the stage is too frequently the fate of the minister of religion introduced as a character in a modern play; but happily the curate who is the leading character in the sketch above mentioned is a manly young fellow of the "fighting parson" type, who is not afraid to speak plainly when the occasion demands it. For instance, when the vicar treats his poor parishioners in a contemptuous manner, and one of his lady guests calls them "scum," the curate gives his superior in rank a piece of his mind. The offended parson retorts, and the young man, showing a commendable spirit, thereupon resigns his curacy. His subsequent career is marked by some sensational events, and the audience follows the story with the closest attention until the happy ending is reached. Mr Fred Eustace imparts to the character of the bold, outspoken curate a manly feeling and spirit of muscular Christianity that are bound to appeal with force to the ordinary audience. He has the support of a thoroughly capable company, and the sketch meets with a most favourable reception. Amongst the single turns engaged here this week is Mr Harry Bancroft, an actor-vocalist with a capital voice and style, who nightly has met with the heartiest of receptions. He opens with a song which tells the pathetic story of two dear friends who went to the wars and died fighting "side by side." Mr Bancroft sings the verses with force and expression. His second essay has a touch of comedy. A rich girl and a poor girl meet, and when the former boasts of her relatives, the penniless lass asserts that she has just as good a father and mother as the aristocrat, and as to her "uncle," well, he is a friend that can always be depended upon for a loan when the family are in need of help. Mr Bancroft retires amid renewed applause, and is compelled to return to bow his acknowledgments. Quite a favourite is "My Fancy," who is described as "the queen of sand dancers." She appears first in a becoming Scotch costume, and gives a dance characteristic of the "land of the heather." Next she delights the audience with a sand dance, her skill being acknowledged by prolonged applause. A conspicuous object in the background is the illuminated scene painted by Mr Dan Leno, an excellent specimen of the ability of the late comedian as an artist. Miss Arabella Allen, a young and graceful girl, undertakes a difficult task in portraying characters from the works of Charles Dickens, and succeeds far better than one could reasonably expect. She depicts Smallweed, the old miser in "Bleak House," and Nelly's grandfather from "The Old Curiosity Shop." The last-mentioned is the best and most artistic piece of work, the make-up, too, being quite admirable. Mr C. Emlyn Jones and his Emerald Ladies Quartet sing part-songs in very pleasing style, the selections including "On Erin's Shore," "Killarney," and "The Holy City." Their contributions are received with much favour. Mr Charles Pastor scores with "Do come along and see" and his laughing song, which causes general merriment throughout the house. Mr John Terry and Miss Mabel Lambert, variety artistes, were to have appeared this week, but have been prevented by a regrettable accident which has happened to the lady. Their place in the programme is taken by Miss Marie Burdell, a serio, who appears in a stylish principal boy's dress. Miss Ella Lane, comedienne, is also in the bill; and Ruffell's Bioscope depicts a sensational bank robbery which recently took place in America. The orchestra here is under the very competent direction of Mr Angelo Asher.

GRAND, CLAPHAM.

Mr Walter Gibbons, the enterprising and energetic proprietor of this luxurious variety theatre, has made an engagement of importance this week in the Great Rubie (La Femme Mesmer), programmed as the only lady society hypnotist and electrician in the world, with her "bevy of beautiful hypnotic belles and merry mediums." The lady is the wife of the celebrated Dr. Walford Bodie, and it was soon apparent at her opening performance that she possessed much of her husband's remarkable influence as an electrician and hypnotist. In a brief introductory speech the lady invited members of the audience to step on the stage and test her powers, at the same time remarking that she wished no one to do so unless they believed in hypnotism. The lady first gave an interesting and loudly applauded demonstration at a powerful battery, stating that she was the only lady who had ever dared or attempted to experiment with the deadly electric current. Her hypnotic exhibition created the greatest wonderment and almost continuous laughter, the ten "subjects" who had the temerity to place themselves under her influence having a particularly lively five minutes or so. No sooner had they seated themselves on chairs than they experienced a "shock" which sent them—and the audience—into convulsions. An orange and a rose charged with electricity were handed to two fair damsels, and the result was most ludicrous, as was also a duel between the Great Rubie and a "merry medium." With a few passes of the hand the clever hypnotist persuaded half a dozen or so of her subjects to imagine they were great operatic artists, actors, and mimics, and if the result was anything but harmonious it was certainly ludicrous. Rubie also made those under her control laugh and weep at will, and indulge in numberless grotesque antics, eventually sending them to sleep, the look of wonderment on their faces when they were brought to their senses evoking much merriment. That the audience was greatly impressed and amused by the exhibition of the Great Rubie was evidenced by the prolonged applause which greeted the conclusion of her interesting and novel turn, the success of which was much enhanced by her easy and confident manner and the smart way in which the entire "show" was worked. Another item in the fine programme which makes for hearty laughter is Astley's circus, the attempts of a number of youths to manipulate a revolving table and keep their seats on a vicious mule creating much mirth. A cleverly trained pony and an exceptionally expert canine performer are included in this miniature circus exhibition, which constitutes a keenly enjoyed little entertainment. Mr G. H. Elliott, the chocolate-coloured coon, sings of "Lazy Maisie," his other number, "My Havana Queen," also enabling him to score heavily as a vocalist, his concluding dance being warmly applauded. Intricate and original dancing is the outstanding feature of the turn presented by Mr Herbert La Martine; a clever and effective gymnastic display is given by Lezelle; and the snatches of song, humorous anecdote, and neat dancing of Maxwell and Francis make up an entertaining and popular interlude. The Fighting Dummy, a humorous boxing sketch, is smartly worked by the Harvey Boys, and played to continuous signs of approbation; Frank Seeley, a comedian with a quiet and quaint style, arouses laughter with his two comic effusions, "Coming in" and "Ri-tidde-fol-lol;" and an expert dance is given by Maggie Rennie. The pictures thrown on the screen by Ruffell's Bioscope include "The Only Man," a humorous and clearly shown series of films; "Cruelty to a Horse," and "The Coal Heavers." Miss Jenny Lynn, comedienne, is also on the programme.

CAMBERWELL PALACE.

The customary crowds have assembled at the hall by Camberwell-green, where Mr Jesse Sparrow has provided such a well-assorted programme that the elegant house has been full to overflowing soon after the opening of the doors. A most acceptable item of the bill is the sketch The One Too Many, upon the presentation of which some gorgeous scenic display is lavished. Mr Percy Murray, in the title-rôle, is fitted with a character that is eminently calculated to bring out prominently his dramatic skill and admirable elocutionary gifts, and support of a valuable kind is rendered by his excellent company. Early in the evening Master Jack Charman, the boy vocalist, although apparently suffering from a cold, won loud applause for his rendering of "Playmates" and a song of Yuletide; and Miss Annie Laurie, dressed in a most becoming red costume, sang with considerable point "I am the smartest girl in town" and another very acceptable number. A very attractive gymnastic exhibition was given by the Fitzroys (Fred and Lilian). The pair perform many difficult feats on the trapeze with apparent ease, and the dexterity with which they climb a rope and pose thereon won for them the loudest of applause. The bill is especially strong in comedians, a big favourite being Mr Walter Stockwell, who had the huge audience entirely with him while singing "Noah," in which he impersonates a white-bearded nonagenarian who evidently creates much amusement whenever he takes his walks abroad. Rude boys suggest that he's been stuck in the mud ever since the Flood, and make anxious inquiries for the animals, his wife, and the Ark. Mr Stockwell also has a decidedly popular number in which he sings in praise of the "Dear Homeland," mention of various notable personages calling forth the loudest of plaudits, and the comedian being frequently recalled to add encore verses. A wire-walker of exceptional ability is Mr Rex Fox. Without the aid of balancing poles or huge umbrellas he passes along the almost invisible thread of steel with the assurance and unconcern of an ordinary individual crossing a road. He also walks the wire on stilts, plays the mandoline very creditably while standing on one foot, dexterously balancing a lamp on the other, and performs many other difficult tricks with marvellous expertness, his wonderful display earning for him continued and well-deserved plaudits. Mr T. C. Callaghan, comedian, has a ditty that evidently appeals to his auditors in "All amongst the sawdust on the floor," a song that told of much eccentric behaviour on the part of a number of revellers at a wedding celebration, and his other number, "On a bright summer morning" also compelled abundant merriment. Another comedian who was responsible for considerable hilarity was Mr Walter Wallis, whose funniest contribution was a policeman impersonation; and Mr Jack Lorimer, Scotch comic, gave a humorous ditty and eccentric dance of exceptional quaintness, an item which secured for him a reception which must have been most gratifying. The Three Sisters Chester, vocalists and instrumentalists of decided ability, were heard with much pleasure in their mandoline song and dance; the popular trio also winning much favour for their selection of familiar airs on the banjo and their accompanying dance; and Spot, in his travesty, "The Cake Walk Craze," with his merry and motley crowd of assistants, was loudly acclaimed. Miss Dora Clifford has a pleasing song in praise of "Norah," a neatly executed dance greatly enhancing the attractiveness of the turn; and others in the fine and large programme are Mr Tom E. Hughes, comedian; Miss Emma Don, with her black-and-white quartette; Mr Joe Peterman's company, in the musical scena The Factory Girl; and the Groves Duo, dramatic duologue artistes. An exhibition of the noble art of self-defence has been given by Ben Jordan and Pedlar Palmer, a couple of light-weight boxers of renown; and the series of interesting and amusing pictures shown by the Edisonograph has been keenly enjoyed.

MUSIC HALL CELEBRITIES.

PAUL CINQUEVALLI.

Taking advantage of the fact that the world's incomparable juggler, Paul Cinquevalli, is performing at the Theatre Royal, Belfast, in Mr Fred W. Warden's pantomime, Puss in Boots, in which he plays Fritz, the waiter, our Belfast representative took occasion to get a few of Mr Cinquevalli's recent experiences in South Africa, from which he has just returned. In reply to inquiry, he said he was in the best of health, and thoroughly enjoyed his tour through the most recent addition to his Majesty King Edward's dominions. The visit just terminated was, however, not the first Mr Cinquevalli has paid to South Africa, for six years ago he had a most successful time, and so vivid was the impression he made at that period, general regret was expressed that he could not, owing to his European engagements, come South until this year. But the reception accorded him when he opened at Johannesburg Empire on Aug. 22 last was of such a kind as to prove he lived in the hearts and affections of the people, who, after undergoing the horrors of a long and bloody war, could not forget one whose feats of juggling have always led the profession in our time. Mr Cinquevalli referred with pride—as well he might—to the supper accorded him on the opening night referred to, attended by all the leading men and mining magnets of Johannesburg and district. The chairman on that occasion—a Mr W. E. Park—said that Mr Cinquevalli had by his courtesy and demeanour in all his dealings with those he came in contact made himself both respected and liked. While in Johannesburg Cinquevalli introduced a new art, that of balancing a Ralli cart, 200lbs. weight on his chin, making it revolve with the wheels going in different directions. This art created quite a sensation, and the Rand Daily Mail, referring to the feat, said it "almost seemed impossible, but it was done with astonishing ease and accuracy." Our correspondent further learnt that Mr Cinquevalli's reception at the Cape itself was a glorious one, and the clever juggler could not but feel happy at such glowing tributes to his abilities as an artiste. Opening at the Tivoli, Cape Town, on Oct. 5, the management there out of compliment to the great "little man" decided that the night he first performed should be set down as the first anniversary. In reality, the date was Sept. 23, but it was, as mentioned, made Oct. 5, and it was very gratifying in every way to be hailed, as the South African News put it, "the hero of the evening," and later in another issue to say "he was the 'lion' of the Tivoli for weeks." Altogether his visit to South Africa was in every sense a triumph such as any artiste might well feel proud of.

It was in reality a health voyage—at least the sea portion was—and Mr Cinquevalli returns restored, he assured our representative, to full health and vigour. He certainly "looked it." Belfast is indeed fortunate in having first call of his services since his return, and on this fact Mr Fred W. Warden, managing director of the Theatre Royal, Belfast, is to be heartily congratulated. Of course it is not Cinquevalli's first appearance in Belfast, as he has several times appeared at the Empire, but the discerning Belfast public know old favourites and always retain a warm corner in their Irish hearts for the man who, so to speak, revolutionised the modern juggling art. As Fritz the waiter he has a part in Puss in Boots which will give him every chance to display his noted abilities, and the attraction of the pantomime is greatly increased by his inclusion in the cast. Mr Cinquevalli came home in the Belfast-built boat Norman from the Cape, a distinguished passenger on board being Lord Roberts, V.C., the ex-Commander-in-Chief.

THE death is announced of Mr Enoch, the well-known writer of ballads, who was buried at Ringmer, Sussex, on Thursday. At one time he was associated with Thackeray in the editorship of the Cornhill Magazine, and was personally acquainted with Douglas Jerrold, Charles Dickens, Gilbert à Beckett, Mark Lemon, and John Leech. He was also on terms of friendship with Thomas Carlyle and many other literary celebrities. He wrote upwards of 800 ballads, of which the best known, perhaps, was "My Sweetheart when a Boy." This was set to music and sung for years by the late Mr Wilford Morgan, son-in-law of Mr Charles Morton, who predeceased the author of the verses by a few months.

UNITED KINGDOM SHOWMEN AND VAN-DWELLERS' PROTECTION ASSOCIATION.

ANNUAL REPORT,

Year ending Dec. 31, 1904.

The past year has been distinguished by events as remarkable as any previous year since the establishment of "The Showman's Trade Protection Society." The signal victory of the Guild Executive over the District Council of the Metropolitan suburb of Acton marks the beginning of the end of Parliamentary work and grave anxiety.

Your Executive Committee and officers have more than justified their steady and persevering policy of the past eight years. It is necessary here to briefly recapitulate that policy. In the first place, to justify and to vindicate those loyal friends of the Guild who, in both favourable and adverse circumstances have supported loyally by voice, pen, time, ability, and means, the work and aims of "The Showman's Guild."

Pre-eminently amongst these we must place the esteemed and revered president, Lord George Sanger, doyen, leader, and father of his people, who for years past has generously given of his wealth to the defence of the trade interests and the betterment of the people journeying from fair to fair, to provide amusement and recreation for the toiling millions of the empire.

And in the second place to convince traders, manufacturers, and others concerned in the well-being of the fair ground industry that it is to their interest to maintain in the highest state of efficiency the organisation that is the recognised defender of the open-air amusements of the people, and to champion before the Senate and in the councils of local government bodies the showman's business and avocation in life.

There is a third body—we are glad to think a rapidly decreasing one—who need to be reminded that it is their duty to support the Guild. We refer to that selfish class who, thinking (very erroneously) that their individual interests are safe, begrudge either time or money in the defence of the more general interests of the whole travelling community.

To such narrow-minded people the lesson of the past year's work is of the most patent and obvious character. Briefly put, and for their edification alone, the position is this—it was discovered eight years ago that a peril of the most terrible kind existed, aiming at nothing less than the gradual extinction of the show business by public bodies in Private Bill legislation. The attention of the Guild was drawn to this matter by two of its oldest executive officers, the Rev. T. Horne and Mr Frederick Millar, Parliamentary agent to the Guild.

A conference of the Guild executive officials and the friends of the travelling showmen took place in Manchester midsummer, 1898. The result was the appointment of Mr Frederick Millar, of 25, Victoria-street, Westminster, as the Guild's Parliamentary agent, and Mr T. Watson Wright, of Leicester, as Parliamentary solicitor.

All Bills entered by corporation at the Private Bills Office of the House of Commons were to be examined, and all necessary measures taken to oppose all encroachments upon the business rights and privileges of the fair ground traders and entertainers of the kingdom.

Any Private Bill containing clauses detrimental to the trade interest or curtailing the liberty of the individual may be opposed by the trade or person concerned. First, the opposition to the Bill must set out in a petition its grievance. The petitioners must establish a locus standi, or right to appear and object. Then they must employ Parliamentary solicitors, agents and counsel.

All must be done in conformity with the Standing Orders of the House of Commons governing Private Bill legislation. Any error in these forms is fatal to the cause of the petitioners. The petitioners apply to be allowed to appear by counsel, and to tender evidence in support of the grievance alleged. Then, when the Bill is before the Committee, the next stage is to prove the case as set out in the petition.

This work has been continued with unfailing success since its inauguration. In the Parliamentary Report issued for the Session of 1904 we demonstrated that the paid agents of the Guild were the best experts money could obtain; that the work had been done with the strictest regard to economy, yet with the most gratifying success; and that no record of work in the public interest could give as they could so good a story of unbroken success.

In every case, either by private negotiations or by determined and skilled opposition, the Guild had caused the bad clauses in Private Bills to be thrown out, the position to-day being that the showmen's trade interests and the people's interests in their popular fairs were duly recognised and safeguarded by the House of Commons, the last notable victory being that the Urban District Council of Acton were ordered by the committee of the House considering their Bill to pay the costs of the petitioners (the showmen) against it.

We remark here that, though the Acton authorities had to pay the piper for the tune they desired the unwilling showmen to dance to, yet there was—and must always be in these cases—a considerable expense connected with defence work that cannot be charged to the enemy. The difference is, of course, largely in our favour in the Acton case. The council had to pay the whole of the legal charges, Parliamentary fees, and the fees of the counsel on our side as well as their own. Our only expenses in the contest were preliminary to and in preparation for the statement of our opposition by counsel, agent, and solicitor before the Parliamentary Bills Committee of the House of Commons.

The victory was signal, conclusive, and of consequence of the most far-reaching moment. Your executive confidently anticipate—nay, they have evidence already—that corporations will carefully consider, in the drafting of private Bills in the future, the organised and effective opposition of showmen to all injurious proposals affecting the business of the fair ground and the popular amusements of the toil-worn people of the kingdom.

The establishment of the Parliamentary Work Expenses' Fund has not met with the success it deserves and that its promoters confidently anticipated.

Your executive paid over the whole of your available funds at the end of the year 1903, amounting to £190; they also immediately, for the necessity was urgent, allocated the president's munificent donation for 1904 with other goodly sums received at Manchester, Bolton, Lynn, Treorchy, and all the bigger subscriptions of the past year, to meet the debts of the Parliamentary fund.

We are confident that the lack of financial support is largely, if not entirely, due to the highly technical nature of the work of Parliamentary defence. It is almost impossible to popularise a matter so essentially the business of experts in Parliamentary procedure.

You cannot "enthuse" an audience with the dry-as-dust technical legal arguments that to the expert constitute a most interesting study.

We have at last succeeded in bringing home to the minds of our people the imminent danger threatening their very existence that this attack by private Bill legislation means.

A most interesting correspondence in The Era reveals a rapidly growing and most satisfactory sense of responsibility on the part of all sorts and conditions of show folk. The responsible leaders of the various trade societies concerned with fair-ground business are unanimous in their desire to find a practical method of uniting in support of this necessary branch of showmen protection and defence.

The practical outcome is that delegates from all the societies will meet and form a joint committee to provide the funds for the work.

During the past year the usual meetings at Manchester, London, King's Lynn, Wanstead-flats, Treorchy, and Longsight took place, and because of the signal success of the Parliamentary work were characterised by great enthusiasm and a considerable rally to the member roll of the Guild.

The honorary chaplain visited a number of the fairs in mid-England in the early part of the summer. His contemplated scheme of visiting other fairs fell through, owing to his inability to break his settled work in Manchester. This, we are glad to say, led the Rev. T. Horne to remove his home and take up lighter clerical work in London, so that now the Guild has its chief office in the metropolis.

Your executive record with pleasure the continual and loyal support of the Guild and its work by the leading showmen of the Empire, and with peculiar pleasure rejoice in the continuance in his high and important office on the part of Lord George Sanger, and takes this opportunity of according its sincere thanks to the president, the hon. chaplain, hon. secretary, treasurer, and other officials.

Questions of great moment have been considered and dealt with by the officials of the Guild and its agents; notably out of some fourteen private Bills lodged in the House of Commons, and each of them threatening the show business, only one, the Acton Bill, to which we have already referred at length, came to a definite fight; all the rest were settled by friendly intercourse or negotiations.

The past year has been one of considerable commercial depression; the margin of spending money, never a very great quantity with the workers, has been extremely small. This has been especially so in Lancashire and some parts of Yorkshire. Your executive, therefore, recognising this economic fact, attach no blame to the poorer section of the great industry centred in the fair ground.

Better times, we trust, are ahead of us, and we have every confidence that show-people will be amongst the first to participate in the revived national prosperity.

The executive congratulate the southern members of the Guild, and, in fact, the whole travelling community, on the settlement of the hon. chaplain in London. They recognise that this will be of great usefulness to the religious, the educational, and the Parliamentary work of the Association, and that in and through his permanent work on The Era, the Press work, an extremely important branch of Mr Horne's enterprise, will be all the better done from London, as the centre of the world's press. We again plead with the half-hearted, the wavering, and the undecided to rally to the support of the oldest and most successful of all trade societies dealing with the world of shows.

Signed, on behalf of the executive,

LORD GEORGE SANGER, President.
Rev. T. HORNE, Hon. Chaplain and Organiser.
T. HURST, Hon. Secretary.

"To amuse and entertain is good; to do both and instruct is better" is the motto that has been adopted for the entertainment, specially designed for the young folk, which was presented at the Alhambra for the first time on Monday afternoon under the generic name of "Urbanora." This new title is happily appropriate, for the genius and originality of Mr Charles Urban will, in this instance, as in others, be responsible for many pleasant hours with the Bioscope. His voyage to New York and back by the splendid Norddeutscher Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm II. (the fastest mail steamship afloat) may be quoted not only as an instance of his wonderful enterprise, but as a proof of the power, in skilled hands, of vivid reproduction belonging to the "cameraic" machine which he has done so much to perfect. Mr Urban virtually takes us with him on his trip across the Atlantic, and pictures the real jollity and knowledge to be derived from such an enjoyable form of holiday in a number of remarkable films. We see the great floating hotel leaving Southampton Water, and are borne away on the mighty main at excellent speed. We have a view of Captain Hoegeman and his officers taking observations, and watch the mode of using the sextant. We are present, as it were, at the closing of the water-tight bulkhead doors, and see one of the thirty safety Stone-Lloyd bulkhead doors in operation. Soon after assisting at a band concert on the upper deck, we enter New York Harbour and view the Statue of Liberty, and visit various well-known scenes in the Empire City. On the return journey the vessel runs into a storm, which gradually subsides, and a beautiful seascape in the moon rising on a vast expanse of water. The life of the passengers on board is depicted in various ways, and the interesting voyage concludes with the arrival of the Kaiser Wilhelm II. in Plymouth Harbour. Between the two series of pictures was sandwiched the Tschin-Maa Troupe of Chunchusen from Liao-Yang, whose show is exceedingly versatile. There is a remarkable basin spinner, whose uses bamboo rods for his surprising tricks; a daring acrobat who somersaults from a tier of tables without breaking a single piece of china from the load he holds in his arms; and a youthful contortionist who ties himself up in knots. The conjuror-in-chief creates quite an appetite by the numberless attractive-looking plats he produces from under a cloth; there is a knife-thrower who quite in the most light-hearted manner fixes his weapons round a comrade's head; and the juggler accomplishes a number of clever feats with a sort of trident. A really beautiful Chinese scene has been painted for this act—a dream of pagodas and fairy lamps. The Urbanora second series of films depicts chiefly animal, bird, and reptile life in the Zoo, and is as instructive as it is amusing. The delights of a visit to the celebrated gardens in Regent's Park begin with a view of the dens of the larger carnivora, including that interesting creature the polar bear. A general view of the lake is taken, with the foreign ducks and geese enjoying themselves. A comic picture is a tug-of-war between storks; and it is an intensely curious experience to assist at the luncheon of the Brazilian toads, whose batrachian palates relish a good fat mealworm. Another "amoozin' cuss" is the chameleon, for when at his feed his length of tongue and the way he takes his food supply a very diverting picture. The boa constrictor, we know, never exceeds the bounds of good digestion, and is taken in the company of a rat—his next meal. A number of bison on Lord Strathcona's ranch in Manitoba and a herd of elk on the same nobleman's estate give a capital idea of these animals in their semi-wild state. The greatest patience, care, thought, and resource have had to be employed so as to show successfully the creatures in their natural and characteristic movements, and for much of the work special costly apparatus had to be designed and constructed, and many elaborate and delicate experiments carried out. But the results of the labours of the operator, Mr F. Martin Duncan, F.R.H.S., Mr Joseph Rosenthal, Mr H. M. Lomas, Mr J. G. Avery, and others, have yielded the highest perfection. The co-operation in these pleasant entertainments of the band under Mr G. W. Byng must not be passed over; and the selections, accompaniments, and incidental music on Monday added much to the children's enjoyment.

AT the Empire Music Hall, Wrexham, Mr Harry Barker, a popular star characteristic vocalist, has made a big hit this week, and he is well supported by the Brothers Hannaway, comedians and artistic dancers; Mr Billie Sivane and Miss Pollie Fielden, in their original comedy act, "The Park-keeper and the Nurse Girl;" Mr Abe Laxey, eccentric comedian; Mons. Silvo, in his novel ladder and ring act; and Miss Louie Duval, comedienne and dancer.

THE SHOWMAN WORLD.

FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

THE forthcoming meetings at both Manchester and London of the United Kingdom Showmen and Van-dwellers' Protection Association are of the utmost moment and importance to the fair ground industry and profession. At the same time the British Roundabout Proprietors and Showmen's Union holds its big annual gathering, the two societies forming the largest congress of showland in the world. As we briefly indicated last week, the very important matter of Wigan Fair will come before the assembled showmen for consideration and for federated action.

THE majority on the Wigan Borough, whose votes were given for the abolition of the fair, have been misled. They are informed that under an Improvement Bill of 1874 power was given them to abolish the fair at their own will and pleasure. The showmen are armed and well prepared, and measures to meet the emergency are now in train, and the principal business at the Manchester meeting will be to discuss them. A public meeting of protest is to be held in Wigan organised by the allied trade societies interested in the retention of the fairs. Showmen are not without friends at Wigan. The people of Wigan are with them, and will have to be reckoned with. The local traders, no small body, have also interests in the fairs. The prejudice created by the Bill, and by the statements of certain members of the Borough Council, must be met and overcome.

AT Sheffield for the fair were the well-known concerns of Buff Bill's menagerie, Baker's circus, Captain T. Payne's Bioscope, Cinématograph shows of Messrs Proctor and Twigdon, the ghost pavilion of Messrs Halliday and Stewart, Farrer's fine art gallery, and the novelty and ground booths of Messrs Cooper, J. Smart, Buckley, Howard, and S. Smart. The machine list, always a goodly one at this fixture, included concerns by Tuby, the two Marshalls, the two Waddingtons, Amor, Shaw, and Holland. The shooting concerns were provided by the two Corwells, Lever, Burton, Bentley, Richards, Ratcliffe, and Lieskie. Varieties of all sorts were supplied by an excellent crowd of caterers, amongst whom were Messrs Lever, Middlebrook, Shaw, Smith, Ackroyd, Young, Baines, Whatmore, Farrar, Johnson, Steward, Peters, Westropp, Chapman, and Fawcett.

AT the Pavilion, Carnarvon, for the Carnival Fair, were found Codman's Cinématograph, Thomas's fine art gallery, and the steam roundabout and Winchester range of the lessee, Mr Wildman. Other novelties and varieties were supplied by the Seago Family and Messrs Symonds, Addloms, and Smith.

AT Handsworth, Birmingham, were Mrs Shepherd's switchback, gondola, and range of park swings; P. Collins, Limited's, steam gallopers; and Humphrey's coker sheets.

IN the Bull Ring there is C. Birch's excellent show, the midgets.

THE Plinston Brothers, with their novelty overboats, are at Ton-y-Pandy, in the Rhondda.

MR ALBERT BRANDON is the general manager of the Christmas and New Year Carnival Fair, held under the management of Messrs John Collins, jun., and F. J. Wallace, in the great North Market, Liverpool. This big fair, organized on World's Fair lines, has been a huge success, the great advantage of being under cover to a very great extent accounting for this popularity. Amongst the great free sights were Fossett's circus and hippodrome of fifty star artistes, in their equestrian and variety turns; and the one and only Hardy on the great high rope was an especial feature of this gigantic enterprise. A perfect galaxy of roundabouts, side shows, shooting concerns, throwing games, and, in fact, all the fun of the fair, is delighting the Liverpudlians young and old. Messrs Collins and Wallace and their capable manager, Mr Brandon, are to be congratulated upon the undoubted success of their 1905 Carnival Fair.

THE Mayor of Norwich, finding himself unable to get sufficient subscriptions for his unemployed fund, recently gave his patronage to a merry-go-round show, and its profits for the day were handed over to the fund.

MESSRS BARKER AND THURSTON continue their successful enterprise, "The Winter Carnival," at the Agricultural Hall, Norwich. On Tuesday afternoon and evening the Mayor, Mr H. Z. T. Flowers, J.P., accorded his patronage and presence, and was accompanied by several members of the Corporation, who took a round upon the gondolas, and also visited the cinématograph show. Messrs Barker and Thurston kindly placed at the disposal of the Mayor the entire proceeds of the afternoon and evening shows towards his fund for the relief of the unemployed in Norwich. Needless to say, the nimble pennies reached many pounds, and many thanks are due to the Mayor and Corporation for their encouraging presence, and also to Messrs Barker and Thurston for their generous act.

THE following subscriptions to the Showmen's Guild have been received:—Mr John Collins, £5 5s.; Mr George H. Kemp, £2 2s.; Mr R. H. Miller and Sons, £1 1s.; Mrs Thornley Bolton, £1 1s.; Mr John Hastings, 10s. 6d.; Mr Harry Hughes, 10s. 6d.

INFORMATION relating to Shows and Fairs, suitable for this column, should be addressed to THE EDITOR, "The Showman World."

SHOWS AND GALES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—At Yeadon, near Leeds, Rhodes's portable theatre, which was stationed on a piece of vacant ground fronting the local High-street, suffered greatly in the recent gale. The wooden and canvas erection was blown completely over, the wood-work was considerably damaged, and the canvas torn.

Mr James Rhodes, a son of the late veteran showman, has been ill in bed for four days. He only buried his mother last week, and he has been doing wretched business lately. Some of your readers will know from painful experience what such a calamity means at this season of the year; and I am sure that any contributions through the medium of your office towards alleviating the sad plight of the distressed manager and his company will be most gratefully received.

Yours faithfully, CLARENCE FOSTER.

Leeds, Jan. 9.

P.S.—Mr Rhodes's address is 68, Cavendish-street, Kirkstall-road, Leeds.

At the Empire Palace, Birmingham, this week, Hermann Melot, French conjuror, has been loudly applauded for his mystifying entertainment. The selections rendered by the Caledonian Boys' orchestra are also appreciated. Excellent turns are done by Margaret Ashton, Signor and Madame Borelli, the Wotpert Trio, Ohm's Animals, Neilson Sisters, Barney Vox, George Adams, and M'Phee and Hill.

MR CHARLES CLIFFORD'S harp solos have been a feature this week of the programme at the Opera House, York. They are good judges of music in the Minster city, and they have applauded without stint Mr Clifford's selections of old melodies and new.

MISS MAUD FITZSIUBBS, a native Australian pianiste, has left Sydney for England. She intends placing her twin daughters Aileen and Doris and her third daughter Lenore on the London variety stage.

The Building (which is 127ft. in diameter, 41ft. high to the eaves, and 83ft. to the Lantern) is Lighted by Electricity, and as a place for Animal Entertainments is unique, it being the only building in Blackpool that, in consequence of its being free from pillars and other obstructions, afforded the necessary height and space for Diavolo's performance of "Looping the Loop."
The Walls are covered with the World-renowned picture "Niagara" painted by the great artist Phillipoteau.
For the last eight or ten years Blackpool has been extending around and for miles south of the Colosseum in a marvellously rapid manner. Thousands of houses have been built and are occupied, and there has not been any place of Public Entertainment provided for the Masses of the People south of the Tower.
The Colosseum provides a long-felt want in this New and Populous Neighbourhood.
The Authorities estimate that about Four Million Persons visited Blackpool last Season.
The great Popularity of the Colosseum is shown by the fact that, although only partially occupied during a part of a Blackpool Season, upwards of 160,000 paid for Admission during the remaining part of the Season.

THE DRAMA IN PITTSBURG.

PITTSBURG, PA.—DEC. 26, 1904.—A welcome visit was paid to the "Nixon" last week by Miss Ada Rehan, supported by Mr Charles Richman and company, when The Taming of the Shrew and The School for Scandal were presented. The former play, being one of Miss Rehan's "chevaux de bataille," was excellently performed, and brought a rich harvest of applause for the leading actors; Mr Richman's Petruchio being a finished work of art. The company was less successful in the presentation of The School for Scandal, which lacked vivacity and elegance.

Manager Harry Davis was not very fortunate in his choice of Mr Eugene Walter's new military play, entitled Sergeant James, as a farewell performance for his leading man, Mr William Courtenay. The play, which is the work of a Philadelphia newspaper man, is a conventional melodrama, not possessing a single original situation. A young man who enlists because the girl of his heart is forced into a marriage with another man in order to save the family from ruin, the marriage turning out a failure, and the man a villain. The hero proves [illegible] good soldier that he is promoted ser[illegible] creates roars of by his troop. The villains p[illegible] and James are expert by breaking into h[illegible]ell and James are expert placed his [illegible]Cameron, described as the 'kerchief many surprises for his audience. Harry hande[illegible]er, comedian and dancer, is praiseworthy; Lil Hartley is a pleasing vocalist and comedienne; and Will Harvey, character comedian, is also well received. The Bioscope, with several up-to-date films, is also an attraction.

DOVER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Dover Theatres, Limited; Managing Director, Mr F. C. Dew.—Mr George Kirk and Miss Mary Neil's company opened to a crowded house on Monday with Judy. Miss Florrie Groves plays the title-rôle in a wonderfully intelligent and versatile manner; Miss Mary Neil in the dual-part of Alice and Polly received a well-deserved ovation for her brilliant portrayal; and Miss Annie Mitchell gave prominence to the part of Becky. The popular character of Mr[illegible]rip, the detective, certainly loses none of its very [illegible]tensity as played by Mr George Kirk, who proves [illegible]ective foil to the villainies of Duburg as por- Agnes [illegible] by Mr Richard Ferris. Mr William Vane is Mr Fra[illegible]il as Sterling; Mr Will Casey is cleverly satisfacto[illegible] of Mr Jules [illegible] as the coster Jim; Mr H. Landeck as scenery were [illegible]formances, and Miss Violet Langley "BUSTER BR[illegible] A well-rendered character study of crowded houses d[illegible] Duquesne, the addition[illegible]ERMLINE. improved chorus makin[illegible] OPERA HOUSE.—Sole more enjoyable. UNDER the title of A Desperate Chance a Germ[illegible]arian company are Kremer has dramatised the famou[illegible]ted on Monday. case, which at the time created such[illegible] was worthy of the United States in general and [illegible]d with his particular. The story runs as follows: [illegible]ccess- brothers, Jack and Ed. Biddle, in attempting [illegible]to rob a shop, shoot and kill the proprietor and a detective who comes to arrest them. They are sentenced to be hanged, but during their incarceration, Ed, who possesses strange hypnotic power over women, makes love to the wife of the prison warden, who not only furnishes them with means of escape but also joins them in their flight. Their escape is soon discovered, and after an exciting chase they are overtaken and mortally wounded. Once beyond the baleful influence of Ed's eyes, the woman regrets her action, and is reunited to her forgiving husband through their little girl. Messrs Forrester and Mittenthal's company presented this play at the Bijou last week, and though the drama has through time lost in interest to a certain extent, the theatre was well patronised throughout the week, and the various thrilling situations were followed in breathless silence by the audience. The rôles of the brothers Biddle were taken by Messrs Edwin Forsberg and Jack Sharkey, while Miss Eugenie Besserer portrayed Ka[illegible] Loffler, the warden's wife.

PITTSBURG, PA.—JAN. 9.—Mr J. M. Barrie's delightful fantasy The Admirable Crichton was last week's attraction at the Nixon. The piece was presented by Mr Charles Frohman's competent company, headed by Mr William Gillette, whose acting, appearance, and reading of the part of Crichton were excellent. Mr Owen's Earl of Loam was a clever piece of characterisation, and Miss Sybil Carlisle's Lady Mary Lasenby was especially commendable.

MR HARRY DAVIS, of the New Alvin, chose Jules Verne's story, "Around the World in Eighty Days," for his annual Christmas spectacle. Among the specialities which have been introduced into the play is the Pony Ballet of English girls from the Empire Theatre, London; the Hassan Ben Ali Troupe of Arabs from the St. Louis World's Fair; and Blockson and Burns, eccentric acrobats, and the Kiralfy ballet. For the part of Phineas Fogg Mr Harry Glazier has been engaged, and portrays it admirably. Another new member of the company is Mr George Mack, who plays Passe Partout, the funny French valet.

THE GAIETY had a charming play on its bills last week, David Harum, adapted from the famous novel by Edward Noyes Westcott. Mr Julius Cahn's company, with Mr William H. Turner in the title-rôle, gave a finished interpretation of this touching comedy, to the delight of the numerous audience present. Of course David Harum, the banker and horse trader, is the principal figure, but everyone of the thirteen characters that surrounds him is a realistic personality.

MR WILL C. MURPHY'S melodrama, Why He Divorced Her? which has been presented by M. W. Taylor's company at the Empire Theatre in the past week, is founded on a scandal that attracted considerable attention here not long ago. The corpus delicti is a bunch of violets, which stain a lover's waistcoat and betray to a wronged husband his newly wedded wife's secret. The chief characters were cleverly handled by Mr Wayne Arey and Miss Lorna Elliott.

THE Duquesne has been occupied by Nixon and Zimmerman's Opera Company, the work presented being a comic opera adapted from the German of Kren and Lindau, and entitled The Strollers. The story of the play deals with the adventures of a gipsy fortune-teller called Bertha and a grocer called August Lump. Some of the situations are extremely funny. The music is tuneful throughout, and Mr Robert Lett as Lump and Miss Gene Luneska as the sly Bertha keep the audience in good humour. Miss Maida Snyder is a sweet Mimi, and danced "divinely."

THEODORE KREMER'S latest work, The Great Automobile Mystery, which was performed here for the first time at the Bijou Theatre last week, reminds one very much of his A Desperate Chance. In both cases the hypnotic power of a man is responsible for all the mischief, with this difference, that while in the former a prison is the scene of the action, an automobile furnishes the means of action in the latter. The company under the direction of Messrs Hurtig and Seamon, which presented the melodrama, did its work conscientiously.

THE Grand offered a good entertainment to its habitués last week, the chief attraction being Paul Spadoni, juggler and cannon ball manipulator, who was much admired. The St. Onge Brothers appeared in a clever cycling act, and [illegible] Idol Dresser, comedienne; John Burch, the [illegible] hearts of the hats; and the Three Madcaps, novel entertainments dancers, were in the company. [illegible]no has worked "THE WORLD BEATERS" company, and on the boards of the Harry Williams [illegible]Melo[illegible]om- senting two sparkling comedies, other [illegible]akes a Out and Pong, Pang, Tong, which grand [illegible] ventri- applauded. (FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDARE.

NEW THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Z. Andrews.—Mr John H. Tomkinson's Royal Gipsy Children are here this week, and are delighting crowded houses nightly. The Lizette Troupe of lady acrobats are especially clever, and the same may be said of the Musical Keiths in their novel entertainment. Mr Fred M'Lean, a quaint comedian, keeps the house in roars; Miss Elsie Rubins, wire dancer, is worthy of special note; and Misses Evie Lynn, Gracie Bard, Lotta Star, and Alice Dunn render various songs in a capable manner. Mr Sam Paul also adds to the evening's enjoyment.

ABERDEEN.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr H. C. Cavanah.—The Belle of New York has followed the important Shakespearian presentations of the Benson company. The piece is as popular as ever. Miss Mora Hersee as Violet Gray, the Salvation Lass, sings and plays her part with much charm; A. Meymott is successful as Ichabod [illegible] familiar parts of Fifi, Cora, and [illegible] by Miss Ada Elliston, [illegible]ter Emro. [illegible]-Director, [illegible]lent [illegible]ess [illegible]. Mill; [illegible]d bill is [illegible]and Miss [illegible]kins; Rice, [illegible]nton, Flemine, [illegible]AM. [illegible]STIES.—On Monday the [illegible]ablishment produced their [illegible] libretto is by Mr Fred Budd. [illegible] conductor of the orchestra, [illegible] music. The title-part is sustained Fairley, who as Aladdin has com[illegible]on the approval of the audience. [illegible]ngs in a charming and animated manner, her [illegible]gest hit being with "Old man moon." Miss Fairley was suffering from indisposition on Tuesday, and at very short notice her part was undertaken by Miss Dorothy Ryder, who acquitted herself admirably. Miss Florence Budd made a graceful and winning Princess Alice, and gave a good rendering of the song, "Under a Panama hat." Mr Eddie Howe as Widow Kelly creates much fun; and Messrs Wernier and Bields proved themselves a clever couple of knockabouts. Abanazar is amusingly embodied by Mr F. Budd, and Mr Harry Taylor gains sympathy by his impersonation of the Emperor of Japan. Mr Arthur George, a coloured artiste, is the Slave of the Lamp. In the Palace scene he is cheered to the echo for his song "The Music Hall." Some smart speciality dances are arranged and produced by Miss Dorothy Ewins, and Mr Arthur Gilman makes an excellent acting-manager.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr Armstrong Fairbairn.—The revels of pantomime have again been renewed here with the arrival of Messrs Dottridge and Longden's attractive New Year's burlesque of The Forty Thieves. Some good specialities are introduced. The world-famed Ahmed Ibrahim and the Original Troupe of Bedouin Arabs present their marvellous bounding exhibition, "Fantasia Arabs." Then there is the original man-monkey Pongo, Jas. Dubois, in his rope performance, as well as the Reed-Oetzmann Troupe (six in number) of dancers. Ali Baba is played by Mr Jas Danvers, a most amusing actor of burlesque, whose absurdities are very laughter provoking. His efforts are cleverly seconded by Messrs Ernie Myers as Hassarac, Cliff Dover as Cogia, Forsyth Bruce as Cassim, Phil Leonard as Mustapha, Misses Dolly Elsworthy as Ganem, Lily Lonsdale as Morgiana, Cissie Kingsley as Abdallah, May Fallowfield as Zorilda, Ada Beaumont as Fizzali, and Dubois and the Oetzmanns in other parts.

ASHTON HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr C. Revill; Director of Entertainments, Mr F. Wilmot; Acting-Manager, Mr L. Campkin.—At the variety hippodrome this week there are a number of star turns. The celebrated Moxon Family accomplish daring and difficult feats; farcical business is displayed by the clever continental grotesques Ray and Miles; an amusing speciality act is given by Monks and Wood; the Anglo-American comedian J. H. Bowman pleases immensely with his song and patter; Kioto, the clever Japanese hand-balancer, is wonderfully adept; Bromley and Fontein are attractive vocal entertainers; Tom W. Royal introduces some artistic movements into his Lancashire stepping; Craig, Rose, and Craig, the gymnastic experts, are remarkably adroit; the Marvellous Mannikins are manipulated by Mdlle. Hayde; and the pictures of the Bioscope are attractive.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr W. Leech.—In the domain of mystery and illusion we have the remarkable phenomenon, Aga, the suspended maiden, presented by Herr Albert Winckler. Chris Masters elicits deserved applause; Harry Wenburn, the popular eccentric, also is welcome as a vocal humourist; Juma's Ostoroons are a clever company of juvenile minstrels; Robins and Collier, "The Photographer and the Lady," are remarkably funny; Wilfred, the flexible marvel from [illegible] States, is the puzzle of the doctors; Alba and [illegible]a do some wonderful juggling acts; Andy [illegible]rgiuson, vocal comedian, introduces some of his latest song successes; the Lyons Trio are diverting pantomimists; a novelty perch act is performed by the Itrams; and the pictures of the Cinématograph are enjoyed.

ATTERCLIFFE.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr Claude Seaton.—That spirited and interesting racing drama Bound to Win, under the direction of Mr and Mrs F. G. Kimberley, is paying a welcome return visit. As Harry Lyndon Mr F. G. Kimberley plays with quiet and dignified force; Mr James Hont gives an excellent portrayal of Ned Oakley; the Squire Forbes of Mr Sydney Rennef is a good performance; Mr F. Strickland plays with care and finish as Phillip Ayre; Mr Fred Tensur is well placed as Joe Blake; and Mr Horace Custins is good as Willie Wilkins, and, with Mr Edgar [illegible]n as Horatio Buffett, furnish the necessary [illegible] which is judiciously interwoven in the plot. [illegible]y Forbes Miss Nina Blake Adams plays [illegible]thetic grace; Miss Edie Macklin as [illegible]y is vivacious and full of charm, sings songs in good style; Miss Kathryn [illegible]omplimented on her rendering of [illegible]s Orme; and Mrs James Hont [illegible] Forbes. Mr Harry Lyndon is seen to advantage in the [illegible]art of Detective Shirley; and also combines the duties of acting-manager.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr T. Allan Edwards; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Lacy Lyne; Assistant-Manager, Mr W. Massey Baker.—The principal item here is furnished by the Magic Kettle. Kavados gives a smart and clever show as juggler, equilibrist, and cannon-ball performer; Slade Murray is an acceptable actor-vocalist; Flo Melville is a winsome comedienne; the Sheffield Photo Company shows some good films with the Bioscope; Ossi Souplessi is a skilful gymnast on the silver rings; and Elgar and Gaskill are seen in a musical sketch entitled The Bobby's Temptation.

AYR.

NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry W. Day.—On the first three nights of this week the theatre was occupied by Mr C. P. Levilly's company in Amorelle. Miss Dot Stephens, with her dainty and charming style, was an admirable Amorelle, singing with acceptance, and received repeated encores. Miss Ada Grey in the part of Lesbia made a good appearance and vocalised well. As the innkeeper's daughter Miss C. Blondin was very clever. Mr Leo Simpkin as Dr. Crow had a part which fitted him exactly, and showed much humour. Mr Arthur Cozens merited praise as Jules, and admirable assistance was supplied by Messrs A. Elwyn, E. Granby, and F. Carrington.

BACUP.

NEW COURT THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr [illegible]nk Denman-Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr [illegible]hard Nightingale.—Life's Sweetest Sin is being [illegible]yed here this week by Mr T. Arthur Jones's [illegible]. 1 company. Mr T. Arthur Jones makes a hit Captain Marston; Mr A. Bartlett Garth as Dr. [illegible]brooke brings out the villainous traits of his [illegible]acter well to the fore; as do Mr George R. J. [illegible]stin as Flash Jim and Mr C. Vernon Proctor as [illegible]am the Scribe. Miss Madge Moreley gives evidence of her undoubted ability as Doreene Rivers; Miss Amy Rudd shows much feeling as Fay Colbrooke; Mr Edward Russell is comical as Bob Tanner; and Miss Sara Dudley gets some fun out of the part of Bess Grayson.

BARNSLEY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr A. C. Mitchell.—A visit of The School Girl is the attraction here this week, the popular musical comedy being played by Mr Charles Macdona's company. Miss Nellie Hodson makes a winsome Lilian Leigh; Miss Kate Forster charmingly sustains the double rôle of Mother Superior and Mrs Marchmont; Cicely is made the most of by Miss Jenny Bonney; Mr Alec Chentrens is a typical Edgar Verney; General Marchmont is well presented by Mr Charles Adeson; Mr Max Copeland is an excellent Sir Ormsby St Leger; Mr Alfred Leslie also scores in the part of Tubby Bedford. The piece is well staged and a great success.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.

ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr George Stone.—Mr Charles Frohman's company, in Sherlock Holmes, is here. The title-rôle is again ably taken by Mr H. A. Saintsbury, who is as brilliantly successful as heretofore, Dr. Watson being exceptionally well presented by Mr Lawrence Leyton. John Forman has a capable representative in Mr Marc M'Dermott, and the exceptional villainy of Professor Moriarty is finely pictured by Mr W. F. Stirling. Mr Leslie Carter as James Larrabee and Mr Pelham Rayner as Sidney Prince are distinctly effective. Miss Vere Longden is a sweet Alice Faulkner, and the Mrs Faulkner of Miss Clarice Doncaster, the Madge Larrabee of Miss Maud Linden and the Mrs Smedley of Miss Ethel St. Leger are quite artistic.

TIVOLI.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Stage-Manager, Mr Tom Whiting.—Miss Madge Gray, who tops the bill here this week, is very successful in her singing, and her mimicry is exceedingly clever. W. Belloni's performing cockatoos are undoubtedly extraordinary; J. C. Manly is a clever comedian; Miss Sheila M'Neil creates roars of laughter with her songs; Mellie and Nora give a very pleasing musical act; Bruce and Ross do a capital comedy acrobatic act; and Charlie Bayman is an excellent Negro comedian.

BATH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr Lewis A. Long.—Mr Peter Davey's pretty production of Goody Two Shoes concluded on Saturday last its short run of three weeks before a crowded and enthusiastic house. The lady principals all received choice bouquets, and during the evening Mr Egbert Lewis, the lessee, addressed the audience, expressing his thanks for the patronage bestowed. On Monday My Lady Molly was received with every token of approval. The company is under the direction of Mr Fredk. Mouillot. Miss Beatrice Edwardes presents a captivating impersonation of the title-part, and is closely followed in popular favour by Miss Zoe Gilfillan as Alice Coverdale. Both ladies have powerful and cultivated voices, and the pretty musical numbers that fall to their share are given in admirable fashion. Two other parts that are in good hands are those of Hester and Madaline Mirabeau, played respectively by Miss Mabel Carr and Mdlle. Ella Darcier, each of whom meet with cordial recognition. Miss Hilda Marks and Miss Kate Holmes are bright and winsome serving-maids. Amongst the gentlemen honours are secured by Mr George M'Closkie as Mickey O'Dowd, who raises the audience to keen hilarity. Mr H. Godwin Hunt is well suited to the character of the country squire, Sir Miles Coverdale, a word of praise likewise being due to Mr Frederick Silverstone as Reuben Oates. The rôles of the two young suitors, Captain Harry Romney and Lionel Bland, are in the hands of Mr A. T. Hoare and Mr Ernest Mozar. Mr Leonard Leslie is a capital musical director, keeping his forces, both on the stage and in the orchestra, well in hand. The general manager for Mr Mouillot is Mr F. Leslie Moreton.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr W. Trussell.—The newest mystery, "Dida," is bewildering large audiences here. Charles Mildare's bird imitations appear more natural than ever. Valoni juggles as neatly as before, his pigeons being admirably trained. The Walonells' comic and daring act on the triple bars is loudly applauded. The Three Sisters Lee are flexibility itself, and their acrobatic feats are received with acclamation. Frances Haskoll, illustrated song artist, scores as usual a great success. Fatmah Diard sings a trio of ballads pleasingly; and George Foyle, character vocalist, is cordially received.

ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Lessee, Mr Edward Michel; Resident-Manager, Mr H. Cowper Smith.—The lessee is week by week putting forth high-class attractions, and his programme this week includes a ballad concert by such popular artists as Miss Alys Bateman, Mr Gregory Hast, and Mr Watkin Mills, and a pianoforte recital by Mr Harold Bauer.

BILSTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Harry Battersby; Manageress, Miss Grace Battersby.—Messrs Montague Beaudyn and Sidney Crowe's company in The Way of the World is here. Mr Beaudyn as Cecil does excellent work, and Miss Crowe as Adele is quite admirable. Mr Herbert Skardon gives a sound performance as Captain Fred Slade, and very important service is rendered by Miss Irene Munroe as Kate. Miss Violetta Vivienne is quite characteristic as Polly Bell. The Matthew Malyon of Mr W. Robertson Foulis is worthy of praise, and Mr Ernest Turner as Joe Sparrow keeps the house in good humour.

BATLEY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Mr and Mrs J. Edward Whitty; Resident Manager, Mr G. M. Hurst.—Mr Peter Eland's pantomime company is here with Little Red Riding Hood. Miss Dollie Hook makes a dashing Robin Oak Apple, and Bluebell Buttercup is charmingly represented by Miss Rita Vincent, her singing and dancing being greatly admired. The title-part is admirably performed by Miss Mabel Manley, and Mr George Royle causes hilarious laughter as the Widow Bailey. Miss Annie Swires wins much applause by her singing and acting as the Fairy of the Hood. Master Lennie Aukers and Mr G. R. Wontnor Hill give humorous representations as Police-constables, and Mr Charlie Howarth creates uproarious laughter as John Williams. Mr W. Raynor, who is the possessor of a fine voice, renders some fine songs as the Were-Wolf, and Sir Seely Chump is well played by Mr H. Flockton-Foster, with smart songs and droll speeches.

BEDFORD.

ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr E. Graham-Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter R. Wilson.—This week the boards are occupied by Mr E. Graham Falcon's pantomime The Forty Thieves. There is plenty of drollery, and a judicious array of gorgeous effects, so that the child's sense of fun and sense of beauty are both amply catered for. The book has been specially written by Martin Byam, whose previous pantomimes have been so well received in Bedford, and Mr Graham-Falcon supervises its production. Morgiana finds a sweet presentment in Miss Cissie Harcourt, who can sing and dance in good style. Miss Frances Manners is an old favourite in Bedford. She has a commanding presence and possesses an excellent voice. Miss Amy Randolph as Ganem obtains a warm reception for her sympathetic rendering of "Poor Little Ugly Duckling." Miss Rosa Charles, who gives some good coon songs, Miss Maude Cyrus, and Miss Minnie Parker are all well suited in their respective rôles. Mr Arthur R. Carlton is irresistible as Cogia Baba. Mr Willie Klof makes the most of Hassarac, and with Mr Hyam Good as Cassim Baba introduces some laughable "gags." The Brothers Raynor gives a good acrobatic and contortionist performance. Mr George Dix maintains the reputation of John Willy, the donkey. Mr Charles Gascoin is the musical conductor.

BELFAST.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr James M'Cann; Assistant Acting-Manager, Mr Wilfred Stanford. To the great regret of local playgoers, the highly successful pantomime Puss in Boots must be withdrawn to-night in view of other important engagements made by Mr Fred Warden. There is no gainsaying the fact that Puss in Boots has been a veritable triumph during the whole of the run here. With characteristic kindness Messrs Warden gave a benefit matinée of the pantomime on Thursday last in aid of the Lady Mayoress' relief fund, all the artistes, band, staff, &c., giving their services gratis.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr John P. Beardmore.—Owing to a very severe snowstorm in Belfast on Monday the management decided not to open the theatre on that evening. On Tuesday the attractive programme arranged by Mr Warden was presented, the leading feature being La Loie Fuller in her famous creations, including "The Bottom of the Sea" and "The Aurora Borealis," which were presented by this clever artist in capital style. Boswell's Circus, including his educated ponies and clever dogs, furnish a capital entertainment, their feats being quite remarkable. The Solari Duo play mandolines and guitars cleverly, and a hearty reception has been accorded to that humorous comedian Little Barney. Zuma, in his original act, entitled "Gymnastics on the Lawn," does some difficult feats with ease, and Mr J. P. Carroll is a clever tambourine player. Others appearing are the Hamiltons (Jack and Alice), comedy dancers; and Messrs Charles Somers and Herbert Maden.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Brock.—The chief attraction here is provided by Robertus and Wilfredo, in their unique ball act, many of their feats being very clever. Another feature of the bill is the remarkable performance of Mr Frank Hilbert, whose speciality, consisting of freeing himself from handcuffs, &c., has created quite a sensation. Driscoll and Beattie appear in their mirth-provoking sketch Two Old Rogues, and Miss Ella Retford is a clever comedienne with a good voice and a first-class dancer. Mr George Bohee, the expert banjoist, has made a big hit, and the Raies, remarkably clever dancers, well deserve the success achieved. Miss Rose Archer is a good mimic. The tuneful vocalism of Miss Alice Simmons gains admiration, and Mr Charles Vincent, comedian, also appears.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr Henry T. Downs.—The clever comedienne, Miss Peggy Pryde, tops the bill at this popular theatre. The droll eccentric Negro comedian, Mr Charles Williams, pleases all with his smart songs; and Mr George Prince, styled 'the crazy comic," creates much laughter. Mr M. Reklaw, assisted by Mdlle. Minetta, presents a remarkably smart rolling globe performance; and Comical Walker, knockabout comedian, evokes much merriment. The pictures presented this week by Welsker Brothers' Bioscope are a decided acquisition, and also here are Miss Molly Doon, a vivacious comedienne and dancer; Mr J. E. West, a talented Scotch comedian; and Miss Bessie Lind, comedienne.

IMPERIAL HIPPODROME AND CIRCUS.—Proprietors, Messrs Carter and Bosco; General Manager, Mr Irving Bosco; Assistant-Manager, Mr Geo. Dobler.—On Monday commenced the last week of the remarkably successful spectacle Siberia, which has been visited by thousands of people in Belfast and the North of Ireland with infinite pleasure. The Three Seabornes present an amazingly clever act, and the Sloan Family of equestrians are pronounced favourites, and deservedly so. A new idea in Photography is also exhibited, being snapshots of various local individuals, those recognised by the originals, if present at the Hippodrome when exhibited, receiving valuable prizes. Miss Annie Sloan, the famous equestrienne; Almer, hand balancer; and the marvellous feats of horsemanship of Mdlle. Melba and Mr H. Sloan complete the programme.

BLYTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr George E. Good.—Mr John Leopold's company has appeared here with the ever-popular pantomimic piece entitled The New Frivolity. Mr Herbert Lewis as Oliver Buckwheat is a prominent figure; Mr John Leopold, jun., has a good part as Daniel Teething; Mr Wilfred Vaughan does well as Jules Vermiglio; Mr Barry Lupino acts cleverly the part of Samuel; and the Professor Fumble of Mr Tony Leopold has a good reception. Miss Ruby Wyndham is quite a success as Madame Cobweb. Miss Amy Hall gives an admirable impersonation of Lucy Buckwheat.

BOSCOMBE.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr F. Mouillot; Manager, Mr Rowland Stewart.—The Manxman is being presented here this week by Mr A. B. Cross and company. Mr Cross himself is seen as Pete, a rôle in which he achieves great success; Mr Harry Hiller contributes a capital impersonation of Cæsar Oregeen; Mr William Burchill's representation of Philip Christian is also an excellent piece of work, the part of Ross Christian being well placed in the capable hands of Mr Edward M'Lean. Miss Minnie Watersford displays considerable ability in her rendering of the important rôle of Kate.

BIRKENHEAD.

THEATRE METROPOLE.—Lessee, Mr W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Pell.—Mr Leslie Norman's company is here in A Trip to Chinatown. Welland Strong is cleverly played by Mr Charles Sequin, Mr Jerrold Manville is an excellent Ben Gay, Mr Oswald Grey is well suited as Saxon Blood, and Mr Leslie Norman is an efficient Rashleigh Gay. Miss Kitty Marion distinguishes herself as Mrs Guyer, Miss Francis Errol is an admirable Willie Grow, and Flirt is well impersonated by Miss Daisy Revett. Other parts are in capable hands, and the Three Canadian Belles give some pretty dances.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Pell.—Mr Gus Levaine's pantomime company is appearing in The Babes in the Wood with pronounced success. Miss Lily Ennis is a capital Robin Hood, and is well supported by Miss Beatrice Wilson, a charming Maid Marion. Mr Harry Levaine is a capital Dame Durden, Baron Badlot is in the able hands of Mr Will Butler, and the Ruffians are appropriately acted by Messrs Anderson and Granville. Specialities are introduced by Leon and Leoni, the Zemblas, and Vulo; and the scenic effects are good.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr D. J. Clarke.—An attractive programme is supported by Mr Pat Rafferty, Irish comedian; Haidee Lee and Wallace Kingston, a versatile comedy duo; Miss Maudie Ford, an accomplished comedienne; Swan and Bambard, in an eccentric acrobatic act; Brothers Ralston, entertaining vocalists and dancers; Mr Ted Waite, the long comedian; Mr Alec Kennedy, actor-vocalist; and the Bioscope.

BIRMINGHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing Director, Mr Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr Philip Rodway.—The Babes in the Wood continues to score nightly, and the matinées on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays are well patronised.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Rodgers, Limited; Manager, Mr J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr Henry Johnston.—The Forty Thieves is another popular success, enthusiastic demonstrations of appreciation attending the evening performances as well as those of the matinées on Mondays and Thursdays.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr J. W. Turner; Manager, Mr Victor Turner.—The Turner opera season continues to flourish, and on Monday Hansel and Gretel were repeated with excellent and most enjoyable results. On Tuesday Mr J. W. Turner was indisposed, Mr F. J. Hargrave as Myles, in The Lily of Killarney, filling the breach with admirable success. Mr Chas. Le Sueur as Hardress Cregan, Mr Tom Griffiths as Danny Mann, Mr Sidney Clifford as Father Tom, Mr Geo. Ridding as Corrigan, Miss Mabel Dennis as Mrs Cregan, and Miss Constance Bellamy as Eily were among those who added to the success. The Bohemian Girl followed on Wednesday, with Mr F. J. Hargrave winning more honours as Thaddeus, and on Thursday we had a welcome revival of Tannhauser. Faust and Maritana have also drawn appreciative audiences.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Lester Collingwood.—Dick Whittington has taken a prominent place amongst the season's successes, full houses being the vogue, the matinées on Wednesdays and also Saturdays being crowded to the utmost limit. The bells (Bow Bells), which have hitherto escaped mention, ring out a joyous peal without one strident note, and reflect much credit on the local firm, Messrs Charles Carr, Limited, of Smethwick.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Walter Melville; Resident-Manager, Mr J. Hindle Taylor.—The Girl Who Lost Her Character is fulfilling a successful two weeks' engagement here. Leading honours are shared by Miss Ada Marius, for her powerful, albeit pathetic, representation of the title-rôle, and Miss Marie M'Aulay, who, as Marian Franklyn, acts vigorously her base part. Mr Edwin J. Collins is cheered as the valiant and virtuous cleric, Robert Everton; Mr Wingold Lawrence acts with excellent effect as Jack England; Miss Ethel Bracewell is most charming as the heroine, Rose Seymour; Mr Frank Adair plays the unpopular rôle of Capt. Geoffrey Caversham with much distinction; and Mr Wm. Fraser Brunner does good service as James Sutton. Mr G. H. Asquin as Dick Punch and Miss Daisy Maynard as Isabella Jones also do well.

CARLTON THEATRE, SALTLEY.—Owner and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr Ben Sydney.—Sinbad the Sailor, as presented here this week by Mr Gus Levaine's company, is likely to enjoy much popularity. Miss Kitty Bishop assumes the title-rôle with commendable spirit; Miss Marie Harding is successful as the Princess; Miss Florrie Clinton is deservedly a favourite as Davy Jones; and Miss Letty Young is much admired as the Fairy Queen. The comedians include Mr Ernie Clyde as the comical Tinbad; Mr Charlie Howard as Mrs Sinbad; Mr Edward Haswell as Captain Kettle; Mr George Thomas as Rajah Rhum; and Messrs Chas. Arnett and Tom Ashby as the two mates.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Lessee, Mr Charles Barnard; Manager, Mr Dan Barnard.—Napoleon the Great shines to much advantage here, and Mr Hugh Montgomery, in the illustrious name-part, receives the acclamations of a delighted audience. Mr J. G. Maine gives a clever study of the Pole, Paul Laczinska; Mr Henry Earlesmere acts commendably as Col. Lavarennes; Mr Phil Harper, in the heroic part, Jules Meuron, scores heavily; and Miss Chrissie Dunbar also appears on the side of virtue as Marie Waleswka, with conspicuous charm and success. Miss Maud Russell, in the heroine's part, Leonie Marbœuf, meets with a sympathetic reception, and Miss Florence Thorne is applauded as Mère Dumont. Mr Frank M. Thorne, who brings the company, plays divertingly as Pierre, and is well supported by Miss Marie Harcourt as Marcelle Choupin.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr A. W. Matcham.—The singing and dancing of the Dandies is loudly applauded here; Mdlle. Diane De Fontenoy pays a return visit here in her series of artistic tableau; the smart juggling of Prince Hokin is highly appreciated; Hermann Melot remains another week; the Sisters Neilson and Little Uipts are responsible for some clever dancing; and Cole de Losse, B. F. Gallagher, Sid Doody, Ireno Hill, Edie Wright, and the Tourbillon Troupe of acrobatic cyclists complete the entertainment.

GAIETY THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr Albert Bushell.—The Five Sisters Emilias have a musical entertainment of a high order, and "The Mysterious Lilith" is a remarkable performance; Prof. Harcourt goes through his legerdemain act with spirit and artistic finish; the Sisters Oswald contribute songs and dances in their happiest manner; Rose Elliott and Hamilton Hill are responsible for some excellent ballads; Lilian Warren, whose voice is one of purity and power, evokes much enthusiasm; Harry Lynn and company have a sketch, Dead to the World, which goes well; as also does another, The Quack Doctor, by the Rayfords. Spring and Spring, and Rose Carlo are extremely smart acrobats.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrisford.—The principal item this week is the selections rendered by the Hebburn Band, who won the thousand guinea prize at the Crystal Palace. Lind is responsible for a smart entertainment; Alfonso Silvano has a daring balancing act, and the feats of Browning and Wally denote remarkable strength. Alexander, in his trick cycling feats, and the Four Cliftons, Olympian acrobats, are clever. Mons. Slippere and Miss Ramsay have a refined entertainment. Other turns include Elsie Morgan, comedienne; Brothers Ashley, comedian; and the Athlones, Herculean athletes.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr Edward Foster.—George Gray and company are attracting crowded houses with The Fighting Parson. May Geraldine, comedienne; Bijou Russell, sand dancer; Charles Pastor and the Knick Knacks, comedians, are most entertaining. Joko and Koko, in their equestrian act, consisting of monkeys, dogs, and ponies; and the Bioscope, representing French workpeople on strike, are interesting items.

CURZON HALL.—Manager, Mr W. Stirling.—The Harry H. Hamilton's excursions are being largely patronised here, the pictures being of an interesting nature. The variety turns include the celebrated Chinese conjuror, Foo Choo.

BLACKBURN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr Harry Yorke; Business-Manager, Mr Reginald Yorke.—Florodora is here on a return visit, and playing to crowded houses. Mr Albert Bruno causes much amusement by his impersonation of Antony Tweedlepunch; Miss Daisy Byford makes a charming Angela Gilfain; Cyrus Gilfain is played by Mr T. E. Buxton; Mr Cyril Dane appears as Frank Abercoed, and Mr Derick Knowles as Captain Arthur Donegal. Lady Holyrood is acceptably played by Miss Rene Steadman.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr E. H. Page.—Why Men Love Women is the attraction here this week. The principal parts are played by Miss Annie Saker. Mr Alfred Paumier, Mr Bensley Evans, Mr Harwood Roberts, Mr W. S. Hardy, and Mr Edwin Lever.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr F. Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr Will Murray; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry Drury.—The bill this week includes Tschernoff's Dogs, Sylvo, comedy juggler; Florence Gwynne, Clarke's banjo duo, Joe Almario, jumping juggler; Lade Henderson, vocalist; Tom Parker, comedian, and Jordan and Harvey, American comedians.

BOLTON.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Hermann.—Dick Whittington pantomime is now in its second week, and is attracting large houses nightly. The principal artistes, Miss Ethel Newman as Dick, Miss Clara Reid as Alice, Mr Tom Foy as Idle Jack, and Mr Bert Byrne as the Cook ably sustain their respective parts. The chorus is a strong one, and the orchestra is under the able leadership of Mr Somerlad.

BOOTLE.

ROYAL MUNCASTER.—Proprietors, Messrs Pennington; Manager, Mr Albert E. Wilson.—Mr Gus C. Livesey's company is here this week in The Crimson Club, and drawing large audiences in spite of the inclement weather. Mr Lionel Thompson gives a powerful rendering of the villainous Sir Philip Garside, and Mr Gus C. Livesey is a manly Richard Fenton. Mr Herbert Belmore gives a fine character sketch of the Hon. Herbert Selby, and the comedy parts are in the able hands of Mr Percy Shaw (Reginald Adolphus Garside) and Miss Lily Day (Soponisba Garside). As the adventuress, Julia Maraden, Miss Bertha Cousins is splendidly suited, and in the realistic struggle scene rouses the audience to breathless excitement. Miss Katie Cameron is a sympathetic Muriel Lockwood.

BOURNEMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietors, David Allen and Son; Sole Lessee, Mr Mouillot; Manager, Mr Rowland Stewart.—Nothing succeeds like success, and The Cingalee, as produced by Mr George Dance's chief company is an illustration in support of this. The crowded and enthusiastic audiences filling the theatre this week testify that, given No. 1 companies, Bournemouth is rapidly becoming qualified to rank as a first-class town. Mr Francis Ludlow has a capital voice, and plays Harry Vereker successfully; Mr Fred W. Palbrick is well suited as the unctuous Boobhamba; Mr F. W. Ford is very humorous as Sir Peter Loftus; and as Bobby Warren Mr George Mudie, jun., is a distinct success. Too much praise cannot be awarded to Mr Laurie De Frece, who as Chambhuddy Ram is excellent. Miss Madge Temple, with a pleasing voice, plays Lady Patricia Vane in lively style. High praise is due to Miss Mabel Sealby, who as Peggy Sa[illegible] the line. Miss Ethel Negretti do[illegible] the rôle of Nanoya, and has ample op[illegible] displaying her vocal talent. Miss Trissie [illegible]aron, who contributes a characteristic dance, is encored nightly. Two picturesque sets are shown, and musically the piece is a great success. The orchestra, under the direction of Mr E. H. Whitehall, with Mons. Jules Guitton as principal violin, is a distinct feature.

BRADFORD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr John Hart; General Manager, Mr T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr F. Pemberton.—Since the first week of the production of Cinders, packed audiences have been the rule to witness one of the brightest, merriest, most charming pantomimes Mr Hart has ever presented here. Miss Leonora Grieve, the principal boy, and Miss Katie in the title-rôle have won golden opinions. Excellent work is done by Miss Eida Burman as Dolly Daisy, Miss Ivy Roze as Periwiggi, and Miss Maud Holland as Graciosa. Mr Dennis Drew sings well in his character of Mischief. Carlton, with his "spoofing," elicits roars of laughter; Grell and Grey are funny as the acrobatic flunkeys; and Mr J. W. Rowley and Mr J. E. Nightingale, in their respective parts of the Baron and Baroness, are screamingly funny. Mr Frank Calvert's Chump is a capital performance, and with Mr Fred Fowler as Dandini there is no lack of bustle and fun.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Francis Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr N Hepworth.—There is now a decided improvement observable all round in the pantomime Robinson Crusoe. The comedians have settled well down to their parts, and some telling business and capital gags have been introduced. The fun is prolific, and for this Mr C. Belrose as Davy Jones, Mr Tom Fancourt as Dame Crusoe, Mr Ernest Stevens as Friday, and Messrs O. Conroy and Billy Elliott as Sackless and Drymeath respectively are mainly responsible. Miss Ruby Winstone has won approval for an excellent performance at short notice of the title-rôle, and she is prettily supported by Miss Lily Black as Polly Perkins, Miss Maud De Velin as Fairy Coral, and Miss Lily West as the Princess.

EMPIRE.—Moss Empires, Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr J. J. Kelly.—There is a very attractive programme here this week, a prominent feature being the return visit of Staley's Novelty Transformation Company, introducing a cleverly worked quick-change scene, novel music, and excellent dancing. The Union Gatling Guards, too, give a realistic display in a battle scene, in which quick-time drilling and the Gatling gun are features which do not fail to arouse unstinted applause. H. F. Wilson, tenor vocalist, submits a good song, and the Two Bosbons are entertaining as showmen. Pia Carozzi, harp virtuoso, submits a cleverly executed performance. In their glees the coloured Meisters win hearty applause. The Labakans go through a clever acrobatic performance, and their intelligent toy terrier shares in the applause. Albert Whelan, the Australian entertainer, gives some clever imitations of music hall celebrities, and Mdlle. Emmy with her pet performing dogs provides a very pretty and enjoyable entertainment.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr J. W. Berry.—Foremost in an excellent bill-of-fare here are Pickard's Troupe of Parisian Burglars, who give a clever and grotesque acrobatic performance. Another acrobatic display of the comedy type by Steel and Laing finds favour. On a mounted platform Charles Serra, equilibrist, gives a fine performance. In the manipulation of banjos Mirzah, "the man in green," displays wonderful skill, and there are capital contributions to the evening's amusement by Jennie Reeve, comedienne; Dolly, Agnes, Maud, the "singing boxmakers;" Baker baritone; and Nellie Elder, vocalist.

BRIGHTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager, Mr Harcourt M. Beryl.—Miss Olga Nethersole and company are here this week with Sapho. Miss Olga Nethersole gives a very artistic and impressive portrayal of Fanny Legrand; Mr Hamilton Revelle displays masterly acting as Jean Gaussin; Mr Robert Pateman is highly successful as Uncle Césaire; Mr Nix Webber's Déchélette and Mr Slaine Mills's Caoudal are admirably played; Miss Rosalind Ivan makes a pleasing Divonne; Miss Frances Ivor is well suited as Madame Hettema and Miss Irene Wakefield is praiseworthy as Joseph.

AQUARIUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Bernhardt; Acting-Manager, Mr H. De Groot.—The fairy play The Old Woman who Lived in a Shoe and the Spelling Bee is still doing good business here.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr W. F. Crowe.—The pantomime, Little Red Riding Hood, has thoroughly established itself in favour, and the performances continue to attract crowded audiences.

ALHAMBRA.—Managing-Director, Mr J. L. Graydon; General Manager, Mr Ernest Lepard.—On Monday the policy of giving two performances nightly was inaugurated here, and with satisfactory results. Those here this week include the Four Jumels, in a musical act; the Sisters Reveni, ballad vocalists; the Five Ashleys, in their comedy act, Fun in a Laundry; Flo Penley, comedienne; the M'Connell Trio, in the operetta A Musical Mistake; Elly Adair, comedienne and dancer; Herr Fritz, mystifier of mystifiers, in his sensational illusions; Russell and Roper, in The Opera Singer and the Sandwich Man; Mr Joe Peterman's company of comedians and burlesque artistes in the musical comedy extravaganza, The Belle of the Orient; and the Alhambra pictures.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—The following are here this week:—Miss Alice Lethbridge and Mr Stratton Mills, in The Strange Rehearsal; Barney Brittan, comedian; Marquis Iton, in Scenes Outside Port Arthur; Michele and Sandro, equilibrists; Joe Hayman and Mildred Franklin in A Matrimonial Agency; Sidney James, society entertainer; Gardner, Griffin, and Gardner, musical trio, in their absurdity, The Rat Catcher; Amiel, contortinnist; Clementina, in her sporting act; and animated pictures.

WEST PIER.—Secretary and Entertainment Manager, Mr A. D. Norman.—Bluebell in Fairyland is having a successful run here, and crowded audiences are the general rule.

COLISEUM.—Licensee and Director of Entertainments, Mr Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr C. Smith-Wilkes.—The following are this week:—Lulie Evans, comedienne; Ars, Zebra, and Vora, in their novelty, Indian Pastimes; Carl Howard, the crazy conjuror; the Sisters Redfern, duettists, dancers, and banjoists; Newling Major, ventriloquist; the Japanese Princesses, speciality artists; the Melvernes, Lilliputian wonders; Thelma, clay modeller; and the Coliseum pictures.

BRISTOL.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr James Macready Chute.—There was a large attendance here on Monday evening in all parts of the house. The Sleeping Beauty continues to increase in popularity, and all the artistes are very successful. Miss Lil Hawthorne has a new song "You can't stop the sun from shining." The song is appropriate to the part of the Prince, and Miss Hawthorne obtained much applause at its conclusion.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Ernest Carpenter.—Robinson Crusoe increases in popularity each week. The company is a very competent one, and the mounting, both in the way of scenery and costumes, is liberal and effective.

PALACE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs Livermore Bros.; Resident-Manager, Mr Horace Livermore; Secretary, Mr F. J. V. Welchman.—The entertainment here is headed by the Mannon Troupe of American pantomimists, in their amusing speciality sketch, Uncle Yank. Les Francois (three ladies and one gentleman), present a good acrobatic and jumping act; Walker and May (coloured artistes) do a smart turn of song and eccentric dancing; the Great Northern Troupe of dancers are clever in their line; the Two D.'s (Dorothy and Dora), are refined and pleasing duettists; Wake and Dean, comedians, amuse with their cross-talk, &c.; Arthur Elvey, comedian, has some good songs; Miss Edie King, comedienne, does a pleasing turn; Venola Brothers are smart comedy ring performers; and Miss Minnie Dare has some pretty songs, and dances well. The entertainment concludes with animated pictures. The matinée on Thursday was for the benefit of the Royal Naval Volunteers of Bristol.

EMPIRE.—Proprietor, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—Al Lawrence, American comedian, heads the programme with an excellent turn of song, patter, dialect, and ventriloquism. The Yiulians present a clever act as Risley acrobats; Ed. F. Reynard is an expert ventriloquist; Charles Steuart and company have an amusing sketch, The Water Cure; Akimoto's Japanese Troupe have a good gymnastic act; Brothers Forrest are amusing as musical eccentrics; the Raffelo Trio have an effective musical speciality; and Miss Edna Groves is a pleasing comedienne and dancer. The programme concludes with a new series of animated pictures.

BROUGHTON.

VICTORIA, LTD.—Managing-Director and Licensee, Mr James W. Haworth; Manager and Secretary, Mr James M. Hardie, jun.—Messrs Frank Nelson and Chas. Cautley's company, in the musical comedy The Scilly Girl, is here. Miss Bessie Pellisier as Muriel, the maid from Scilly, cleverly sustains the character, and her songs are well received. Mr Charles Cautley as Cecil Trevelyan is successful in the heroic part and sings well. Mr Alfred Donohoe as Heiro is very droll, and he has a most vivacious supporter in Miss Dorothy Vernon as Pattie Pepperjoy, a graceful dancer and pleasing vocalist. Miss Ada Palmer as Miss Catherine Wheeler, a giddy spinster; Miss Ella Kitson as Madame Endora, a crystal scientist; Mr Milroy Cooper as Cyrus Wheeler, a potato potentate; Miss Susie Oak as the Duchess of Ayrshire, and the other members of the company contribute to the pleasurable entertainment. The choruses are good, and the Misses Duncan, Hill, Wyndham, and Harrison dance well.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.

NEW THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr John Waller.—Messrs Forge and Dalton's fairy pantomime, Cinderella, is here this week. In the title-part Miss Lizzie Primmer gives a dainty representation, and is well received. Miss Chummie La Mars, who has a fine presence, makes a dashing and realistic Prince. The rôle of Dandini is well placed in the hands of Miss Julie Alexander. As Fairy Sunshine Miss Louie Denniston is thoroughly attractive. Mr John Chippendale makes an amusing Baron Bunker, and receives able support from Mr Fred C. Brooks as Angelina and Little Tony as Seraphina. Mr Chas. T. Chaloner is "up to date" as Peter Pickles, and Mr John Forge and Mr Ted Lemiere do well as Nabber and Nailem. Good speciality acts are introduced in the Palace scene by Gertella, the Quartano Troupe of dancers, Forge and Lemiere, the Swift Trio of bicyclists, and the Original Japs.

BURY (LANCS).

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—Messrs Carson and Granville's company are here playing A Modern Adventuress. Miss Beatrice M. Anderson gives an excellent impersonation of Violet Meredith, and the part of Vivette Delby is well played by Miss Alice Defoe. Mr Leonard Aardale is a fine Pietro, and Mr Royce Carleton undertakes with [illegible] the character of Delby. Mr Evan Roland Lizzie Unas, Emily Constance are good as Mr and is well mounted.

BURNLEY.

GAIETY.—Proprietress, Mrs T. Culcen; Manager, Mr Jas. Culcen.—Miss Blanche St. Albans and Mr Leicester Jackson's company is here this week in Dishonoured, which has proved a great attraction. Miss St. Albans still maintains her reputation as an actress of ability, and gives an excellent interpretation of Leslie Maynard. Mr Roy Fortescue plays with telling effect as Philip Cunningham; Mr Charles E. Lambert is responsible for a capital portrayal of Sir William Cunningham; the part of Captain Bryntland is successfully performed by Mr J. Leicester Jackson; Mr J. Parker Royston makes a good Captain Cholmondely; Mr A. W. Thompson and Mr Fred Hodson give good renderings of the Stokes; Mike Farthing is capably enacted by Mr Harold Ford; Mr H. Victoire is an entertaining Jeremiah Jones; Mrs Allen is a bright Katie Stubbs; Miss Nellie Lambert and Miss Louie Walton render valuable service as Sybil and Lady Cunningham; and Mr A. T. Gates contributes valuably as Bill Clarges.

EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr W. C. Haines.—The chief artist here is Mr Imro Fox, comic conjuror, who does a number of mystifying tricks, and has an enthusiastic reception. The Bros. De Wynne provide a really clever equilibristic act; Erle and Erle contribute several banjo selections, in which they show remarkable skill; Miss Lilian Travelli, vocalist, is popular; Hall and Earle display strength and daring in their acrobatic entertainment; Mr Nelson Hardy, ventriloquist, and Mr Sam Dalton, comedian, are worthy of praise; and the Empire Biograph contributes an excellent series of pictures.

CAMBRIDGE.

NEW THEATRE.—Manager and Director, Mr W. B. Redfern, J.P.D.L.—Mr Arthur Lilford's company is here in Jones's Jaunt. Mr Charles Collette is responsible for most of the fun, and as Stanley Jones he had a part that suited him admirably; while Mr Aubrey Mallalieu was hardly less successful as Catesby Duff. Miss Ruby Chester was delightful as Dollie Bonde. Miss Rosamund Bury (Kato) and Tom Breeze (Mr David Sellar) were all that could be desired. The curtain-raiser was a musical monologue entitled Hard Luck, and in this Mr Collette was also seen and heard to advantage.

CARDIFF.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Robert Redford.—The closing week of the pantomime Dick Whittington opened on Monday to a full house, despite the severe weather, turning up to witness the piece. The run this season has been short, and it will be with genuine regret that patrons of the Royal will bid adieu on Saturday evening to the artistes who have become such well-known friends. The pantomime has been pronounced a great success, and Messrs Robert Redford and Milton Bode are able to add one more triumph to their list of successes. An artisté who has gained a host of admirers and friends is Miss Madoline Rees, whose performance of Dick has been such an attraction since the opening of the pantomime. It is sincerely hoped that we shall see Miss Rees as the principal boy in next year's pantomime at the new theatre. Mr Bob Hutt has undoubtedly worked hard, and has contributed his share towards making the production a success. Mr Arthur Godfrey and Miss Minnie Duncan have been all that could be desired. Miss Florence White and Miss Janet Reynolds deserve the highest praise for their charming portrayals of Tommy Trott and May. Mr Fred Dark as the Dame and Mr Alfred Lester as Captain Scupper have created endless fun. Mr Clifford Morgan as Bill Oakum has been a valuable requisition. Mr Morgan's fine voice has been heard to great advantage, his rendering of "Farewell, my little Yo San" being praised by all. Miss Nellie Lawrence has been exceptionally good as the Empress Fatima, and dainty Lillian Graham's clever toe dancing has been much admired, while Mr Tom Gilmore's antics as Mausa, the Cat, have caused great amusement. Congratulations are due to all, both on the stage and behind the scenes.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Bateman; Business Manager, Mr Robert Sawin.—The Heart of a Hero is capitally staged here this week by Messrs Carson and Granville's company. It is seldom that such a fine piece of acting as that given by Mr Fred W. Goddard is seen here. Another excellent impersonation is that of Mr Eric Forth as the detective, Dave Prichard, and Mr Wilfred Marl has a reliable exponent in Mr Chas. E. Johnson. Miss Cissie St. Elmo gives a fine portrayal of Nell Resdale; a charming heroine is found in Miss Lily Langley; and an excellent Mrs Ryder in Miss Beatrice Hudson. Mr Hugh Brady is undoubtedly a born comedian, his antics as Timothy Heighno being really funny. Miss Ida Mackay as Susie Slack renders him substantial help.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Lea.—The excellent programme here includes the following:—Bella and Bijou, society entertainers; Ike Scott and Son, comedians; the Five Delevines in their musical mélange, "Flirtation;" Clown Zertho's Dogs, Syd May, mimic; Lotto, Lilo, and Otto, trick cyclists; Ada Cerito, comedienne; Cabby and Shirker, in their eccentric bar act; Sisters Klos, athletic wonders; and Alexandra Dagmar, in a burlesque scena, "The Duchess of Dantzic."

CARLISLE.

ALGIE'S HIPPODROME.—Proprietress, Mrs P. E. Veltch; Manager, Mr C. Algie.—The Elliotts and Savonas are still the centre of attraction here, and their wonderful performances as trick cyclists and musicians fill each house with enthusiastic and delighted admirers. They are presenting this week an interesting souvenir in the shape of an attractively got-up booklet containing an interesting account of the troupe and some admirable portraits. Senorita Eloina, a handsome and accomplished young lady, contributes a smart trapeze act. Silvo's novel ladder and ring act also finds favour, and Mr J. H. M'Cann gives a startling performance of acrobatic roller skate dancing. Tom Hall's amusing clowning with his dog, monkey, and nippers, and Mr Harry Benet, vocal comedian, are also much in evidence. The Biograph pictures are exceptionally good.

CASTLEFORD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr Chas. Gadsby; Business-Manager, Councillor Hy. Masterman.—Messrs Griffin and Drake's pantomime company opened a short engagement on Monday with Dick Whittington and His Cat. Miss Lily Jackson ably sustained the part of Dick, and sang well; Miss Emmie Lands played Alice with vivacity; Mr Jack Simpson, a clever contortionist, was excellent as the Cat; and Mr Ben Ford as Fitzwarren; Mr Mark Lane as the Cook, and Mr Will Dennis as Idle Jack made a capital trio of comedians. Mr E. Jason (general manager), essayed the rôle of the Emperor of Morocco successfully; Mr Bert Allen was highly amusing as Captain Seabreeze; the Sisters Flo and Grace Brenton as Prince of Abyssinia and Lucinda danced merrily; Mr Ted Lambert was a first-rate Demon King; and the vocal efforts of Miss Lily Drake were well received.

COLNE (LANCS).

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Gerald Harding.—Mr Frank Lindo's company has played Home, Sweet Home, here this week. As Stephen Armitage Mr Lindo embodied the part cleverly; Mr Lyle had a smart impersonation in Mr Wilson Coleman; David Armitage and Dick Redmayne were capably portrayed by Mr Geo. Jervis and Mr Geo. Overs; and Captain Gerald Gambier was well suited as the Duke of Ancaster. As Joan Miss Marion Wakeford was very good, and the parts of Lady Summerton, Sybil Fay, and Dora could scarcely have been better filled than they were by Miss Amy Carlton, Miss Gertrude Bingham, and Little Madge Bingham.

CHATHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr Lionel Barnard; Secretary, Mr Geo. G. Ridley.—This week marks a return visit by Mr George Dance's A Chinese Honeymoon company. Miss Vera Vere is the liveliest Fi-Fi yet seen at the Royal. Miss Nellie Wigley is a delightful Soo-Soo, while Miss Jose Collins is untiring in her efforts as Mrs Pineapple and proves a big favourite. Mr Percy Yorke is very natural as Tom Hatherton; Mr Philip Haydn cuts a fine figure as Hang Chow and acts with discretion, and roars of laughter greet each appearance of Mr Foster Courtenay, the Mr Pineapple. The chorus are enthusiastic, and the local orchestra, under the direction of the visiting conductor, Mr Claus Bunz, work loyally for the success of the performance.

BARNARD'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor, Mr L. B. Barnard.—The Brothers Hersleb top the bill, and get a good reception nightly. Peggy Fame is making many friends here; Leonard Mortimer's sketch company create plenty of fun with The Motor Man; and others appearing are Gillin, ventriloquist; Harry Luck, eccentric comedian; the Wedburns in patter and song; and a fresh series of pictures projected by means of Mr Lacey's Erascope.

GAIETY THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Captain H. E. Davis; Manager, Mr Frank J. Donne.—Here we have Winifred Eyre, serio; the Denmark Pair, with song, dance, and patter; the Sivronis, who score heavily with Opera Gone Mad; the Five Bandurrias, whose selections on guitars and mandolines afford considerable pleasure; Walter Stockwell, in "Noah" and "The Dear Old Land" going strong; and Harry Allan and Rose Hart, with songs and spirited dancing. The Edisonograph continues with a change of pictures, and Mr Clements and his orchestra deserve a word for their rendering of Supp'és "Bandit in Streiche."

CHELTENHAM.

OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr H. Oswald Bedford.—Mr Wm. Greet's excellent company in The Earl and the Girl opened a week's engagement here on Monday, when, notwithstanding the boisterous weather, a huge house assembled. Mr Reginald Switz in the arduous part of Jim Cheese was a favourite from the commencement. In the topical song "I fancy I'd be satisfied for life" he made a great hit. Miss Cynthia Carey as Jim's sweetheart, 'Liza, acted brightly and sang well. Mr Alec Fraser and Miss May Fraser were exceedingly smart in their character duet as Dick Wargrave and Elphin Haye, and Miss Fraser rendered "Zanzibar" in a charming manner, Mr Fraser also scoring well in "The Cosy Corner Girl." Miss Maude Aston as Daisy Fallowfield made a good impression, especially in her rendering of "Sammy." Mr Haddon Cave as Crewe Boodle contributed some excellent singing, his "Here come the Grenadiers" being especially taking. Mr Tom Edwards did well as the American solicitor; Mr H. B. Brandreth as the bloodthirsty uncle caused great amusement; Miss Maud Adams as the strong Mrs Shimmering Black was convincing; and Miss Mary Morison as Miss Bliss, Mr W. T. Hybert as the English solicitor, and Mr Greville Hayes as mine host gave good studies. Mdlle. Maud Switz contributed some graceful dances. The chorus was good, and the augmented orchestra under Mr Arthur L. Spittle performed admirably.

CHESTERFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing Director, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr Holbery Hardy.—Mr George Dance's company is paying a welcome visit here with A Country Girl. Miss May Glen is a chic Nan; Miss Maud Harvey is a dainty Marjory; Miss Nina Carlton as the Princess is exceptionally good; and Miss Addie Lennard as Sophie evokes great applause. Mr Cyril Thompson possesses a voice which he knows how to use and is a warm favourite as Geoffrey Challoner. Mr J. Osborne is admirable as Barry; Mr St. John Hamund gives a capable representation of the Rajah. Others who fill with credit their respective rôles are Miss Edna Knollys; and Messrs H. C. Morton, Arthur Hayter, and Willie Hartill.

CORPORATION THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Samuel L. Urwick.—Mr A. E. Smith's pantomime The Babes in the Wood proves a great attraction here. Miss Lily Colman makes a good fairy queen, Flora; Miss Edith Wallis as Robin Hood soon becomes a favourite; Mr Arthur Slater is a most amusing Baron Balderdash, and is well supported by Mr Charles Gladwell as Dame Quisby-Digga; Messrs Bob Padley and F. Wheatcroft show good work as Weary Willie and Tired Tim; Mr John Mathews is both seen and heard to advantage as Friar Tuck; the Edna Trio receive well-merited encores for their speciality dancing; and the Colleys, contortionists, execute some clever feats.

CHORLEY (LANCS.).

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr G. T. Sante; Secretary, Mr J. Clay.—Messrs Mathew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond's company is here this week in The Still Alarm. Mr Glenville gives an admirable impersonation of Jack Manley; Mr Fred Osmond presents Doc Wilber with considerable success; Mr Tom Beasley is good as Willie Manley; Joe Jones is cleverly rendered by Mr Milton C. Curtis; Mr Lewis Gordon is capital as Franklyn Fordham; as is also Mr Paul Lovett as John Bird. Miss May Lovett as Elinor Fordham wins entire approbation; Carrie Wilber is vivaciously undertaken by Miss Connie Meadows; and Miss Mable Veriton gives a capital rendering of Mrs Manley. There is an excellent quartet (the Lyric Comedy Four) and the horses are perfectly trained.

CLYDEBANK.

NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Wilson.—The attraction here this week is Mr Fred Karno's company with His Majesty's Guests. The principal comedian is Mr R. H. Kitchen, who undertakes the part of Sergeant Lightning in a manner that calls for special mention. Mr Charles F. Howard is highly successful as Lord Easem; and as her ladyship Miss Jessamine Newcombe is highly commendable. Mr W. Smith enacts Mr Miffin very smartly; Mr James Ross is highly entertaining as Selina; and Bunker is well played by Mr C. Leoville.

CONSETT.

NEW THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr Lloyd Clarance.—Mr F. S. Gilbert and his English opera company are here this week paying a return visit. On Monday night The Bohemian Girl was produced. As Thaddeus Mr F. S. Gilbert was exceptionally good, and Mr F. Halpin scored as Count Arnheim. Mr Fletcher Sansome as Devilshoof was well suited to the part. Miss Grace Parish was a dignified Gipsy Queen, and as Arline Miss Faith Laborde was very pleasing. Satanella was produced on Tuesday, The Daughter of the Regiment on Wednesday, Faust on Thursday, and The Bohemian Girl was repeated on Friday.

CORK.

OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr John Horgan.—Mr Henry Hare's company on Monday opened a week's engagement here with The Girl from Chicago. Mr Clarance Ibbotson as Brother Obadiah Cackles keeps the audience in good humour. Miss Ida Kessanly as Flora Boomer, the girl from Chicago, is sprightly and amusing; Mr Buckstone Clair as Judge Hussell is capital; and Mr Edwin Dodds as Billy sings and dances well. Mr Henry Hare as General Boomer fills the part capably, and Mr George Doyle makes an excellent dude.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Henry Kemble.—The principal turn here is the Seltina Troupe of acrobats, who win much applause. As a juggler Hurman pleases; the Brothers Levett vault and somersault over a number of chairs; Barton Howard cleverly imitates animals and musical instruments; Arthur Albert sings well; Rick and Laurie as comedians and dancers are successful; the Three Sisters Adrienne are excellent vocalists and dancers; and some entertaining animated pictures are also introduced.

COVENTRY.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr Wm. Bennett.—A very good audience assembled on Monday, in spite of the blizzard, to witness Mr Godfrey Lamplugh's company, in Miss Mischief, a musical comedy. The part of Kitty Malone is admirably taken by Miss Evelyn Hughes, and her singing is very creditable; Mr Harold Stanley makes a dignified Admiral Sir Hannibal Bethune; Mr Cecil Curtis scores in the part of Captain Jack Bethune; Mr Fred Sandy is highly amusing as Hiram Q. Pegg; the same remark applying to Mr Fred Mantel as Lord Percy Fitzsherry. Mr T. E. Conover is successful as Private Harris; Miss Crissie Francess gives a capable rendering of Mary Ann Smith; and Miss Eileen Guilbert is satisfactory as Lady Orrery.

CREWE.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Henry Taylor.—Miss Mary Austin and company, under the direction of Mr E. Vivian Edmonds, have been paying another welcome return visit with The Cotton Spinner. Miss Austin in the character of Mary Prescott played with her usual success, and was most notably assisted by Mr John S. Haydon as John Prescott, a part in which that actor always shows to advantage. Mr E. Vivian Edmonds portrayed the rôle of Arthur Northbury with great discrimination, and Constance Harrington was ably depicted by Miss May Grimshaw. Miss Bella Power did well as Lady Charlotte Needy. Mr Edwin F. Fysher and Mr Ernest C. Edwards were well suited to their respective parts.

CROYDON.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Lawson Lambert; Acting-Manager, Mr Reginald Lawrence.—The Babes in the Wood finishes a successful fortnight here this evening.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Samuel Jones; Acting-Manager, Mr Newman Maurice.—The English Rose is the attraction here this week. Miss Florence Dalton is excellent as Ethel Kingston; Miss May Congdon is first-rate as Bridget O'Mara; Miss Nelly Marler is clever as Louisa Ann Ferguson; and Miss Ethel Roberts is commendable as Judy. Mr H. H. Barrington makes an admirable Sir Philip Kingston; Mr Charles Langley does well as the Knight of Ballyveney; Mr Douglas Vigors is painstaking as Harry O'Malley; Mr Alfred Holles scores as Father Michael O'Malley; Mr J. J. Bartlett is praiseworthy as Captain Macdonell; Mr Herbert Williams is capable as Nickodemus Dickenson; Mr Henry St. Leger is adequate as Randal O'Mara; and Mr John Saunders amusing as Sergeant O'Reilly.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—Resident General Manager, Mr Eustace H. Jay.—The bill-of-fare here includes Annie Charman, a charming serio; Ashton Victor, a droll comedian; Jack Camp, a brilliant comedian; Flo Raynor, a neat comedienne and dancer; and Henry A. Moore, a sterling mimic. Maisie Mills, comedienne; Lea and Lovell, song illustrators; John Lawson and company, in A Bride for a Living; Mezzetti and Mora, on the triple bars; the Two Erolls; and an interesting item, "The Mistletoe Bough," "A Tragedy in Mid-air," and the match, "Karakoul v. Mark Time." Mr Fred S. Partridge's orchestra is of genuine service, and Mr Eustace H. Jay, as usual, looks well after the comforts of visitors.

DARLINGTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manageress, Mrs T. W. S. Jennings.—This week Florodora is being presented here by Messrs H. J. Callan and Wentworth Croke's company. Miss Maud Lake as Dolores pleases her audience with her sweet singing. Miss Cissie Sephton is successful as Lady Holyrood. Miss May Yates makes a vivacious Angela Glifain. Mr Arthur Lenville as Tweedlepunch works hard, and adds considerably to the success of the piece. Mr C. Young Pixott is an acceptable Cyrus Gilfain. Mr Frank Grans as Capt. Arthur Donegal and Mr Wm. Everard as Frank Abercoed are seen to advantage.

DUBLIN.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessees, Michael Gunn, Limited; General Manager, Mr Charles Hyland.—The pantomime of The Sleeping Beauty entered on its fourth week on Monday night, and is still drawing crowded houses.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr Arthur Armstrong.—On Monday the Moody-Manners opera company entered on the fourth and last week here, when Halevy's opera The Jewess was repeated before a large audience. Mr Joseph O'Mara appeared with his usual success as Eleazer, and the same may be said of Mr Charles Manners as the Cardinal. Madame De Vere was charming in the rôle of Rachael, Mr Wilson Pembroke as Prince Leopold acquitted himself admirably, and Miss R. Anderson was excellent as Princess Eudossia. The other parts were capably filled, and the choruses under the direction of Herr Richard Eckhold were well sung. On Tuesday, La Favorita was produced, and the following are also billed:—Il Trovatore, Mignon, Tannhäuser, The Puritan's Daughter, The Jewess, and Maritana.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. W. Whitbread; General Manager, Mr Kennedy Miller.—The boards are occupied this week by Miss Renee Glendower's company in the military drama, The Ladder of Life. The part of General Gordon is ably sustained by Mr Tyrone Power, and Miss Stephanie Baring is effective in the rôle of Olga Sobinsky. The part of Ivan Kirkovitch has an able exponent in Mr C. Finch Hatton, and as Mother Flint Miss Renee Glendower displays much ability. Mr C. H. Matthews is capital as Fergus Gordon, and Miss Flora Leslie makes a good Meg Merrilees. Colonel M'Gregor is capitally played by Mr Roy F. Gascoine, and the Messrs Archie, Ernest, and Will F. Feros cleverly acts the rôles of Bill M'Jones, Harry M'Smith, and Tom M'Brown.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr A. S. Figgis.—Topping the bill here is G. W. Hunter, comedian and raconteur. Diamond and Beatrice, instrumentalists, are an extremely interesting turn, and the Baldwin Brothers' acrobatic act meets with approval. The Three Victorias, song and dance artistes, have caught on, and Frank Harwood is a descriptive vocalist of more than ordinary merit. Bradley Warwick and company, in the sketch The Advent of Venus, is highly successful, and Harry Lawson is a capital eccentric comedian. Amber Austa, coon singer and dancer, is doing well, Tom Edwards, ventriloquist, who remains from last week, is still to the fore, and the Empire pictures are up to date.

TIVOLI.—General Manager, Mr Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr H. A. Murphy.—At this popular establishment the premier position is allotted to Michael Nolan, Irish comedian, who meets with a hearty reception. Mdlle. Florizell, the flexible lady, appears with success, as does also Chas. F. Best for his comedy act, "Mac Bunker, the Mountebank. The Brothers Zampah, in their pot-pourri act, are deservedly applauded, and Tony Iveson is as big a favourite as ever. Agnes Hazel, comedienne, has many admirers, and George Edney is a capital character comedian. Olive Vane as a male impersonator scores a success; and Harry Hayton, comedian, is also good; and Charles Ulrick, barrel jumper, is well received.

WORLD'S FAIR AND MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr C. A. James.—Pettigrove and Sons' marionettes are showing here in the pantomime, Babes in the Wood, and are well patronised.

SAMUELS' EXHIBITION PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr S. Samuels.—The pantomime of Mother Goose is being played by Chester and Lee's marionettes, and proving an attraction.

DARWEN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr E. L. Ormsby.—Mr William A. Armour and company occupy the boards this week with What a Woman Did. A capital portrayal of the part of Elise De L'Orme is given by Miss Dora Price; Miss Norah Waylett is all that can be desired as Nanette; and Miss A. Rayner is conspicuous as La Papillon. The part of Conrad De L'Orme is admirably sustained by Mr William A. Armour; Mr P. E. Wright satisfactorily impersonates Raffaelle Duroc; and Mr Will Simpson is amusing as Fritz. Mr Fred Rignold as Peter Pippin and Miss L. Lonora as Fanchon provoke roars of laughter.

DERBY.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and General Manager.—Mr J. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr Charles Denley.—This is the closing week of the pantomime Little Red Riding Hood. On Wednesday Miss Florrie Forde took a well-deserved benefit.

PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. Allan Edwardes.—James De Voye's educated pony occupies the head of the bill. The animal shows wonderful training, and its performance is exceedingly well received. Welland, an American comedy juggler, is decidedly clever, and creates roars of hearty laughter. Casselli and James are expert banjoists, and Cameron, described as the 'kerchief king, has many surprises for his audience. Harry Zetter, comedian and dancer, is praiseworthy; Lil Hartley is a pleasing vocalist and comedienne; and Will Harvey, character comedian, is also well received. The Bioscope, with several up-to-date films, is also an attraction.

DOVER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Dover Theatres, Limited; Managing Director, Mr F. C. Dew.—Mr George Kirk and Miss Mary Neil's company opened to a crowded house on Monday with Judy. Miss Florrie Groves plays the title-rôle in a wonderfully intelligent and versatile manner; Miss Mary Neil in the dual-part of Alice and Polly received a well-deserved ovation for her brilliant portrayal; and Miss Annie Mitchell gave prominence to the part of Becky. The popular character of Grip, the detective, certainly loses none of its intensity as played by Mr George Kirk, who proves an effective foil to the villainies of Duburg as portrayed by Mr Richard Ferris. Mr William Vane is successful as Sterling; Mr Will Casey is cleverly humorous as the coster Jim; Mr H. Landeck as Giddles and Mr Henry Rayburne as Trovitch give meritorious performances, and Miss Violet Langley is responsible for a well-rendered character study of Blake.

DUNFERMLINE.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr W. E. Potts.—Mr F. R. Benson and his Shakespearian company are here. As You Like It was presented on Monday. Mrs Benson's rendering of Rosalind was worthy of high praise. Mr Benson as Orlando acted with his usual ability. The part of the Duke was successfully sustained by Mr Cyril Keightley; Mr Philip Sanders acquitted himself admirably as Duke Frederick; Oliver was ably portrayed by Mr Clarence Derwent; Touchstone had a very quaint exponent in Mr George B. Weir; ample justice was done to the part of William by Mr P. D. Owen; Miss Gertrude Scott is to be complimented on her excellent portrayal of Celia; Miss Mabel Moore made a very acceptable Phœbe; and Miss Leah Hanman did well as Audrey.

EASTBOURNE.

DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Manager, Mr A. Standen Triggs.—Mrs Russ Whytal and company are appearing here in The Cardinal. The acting of Mr Philip Cunningham and his fine stage presence make his performance a very able one, and he is an imposing, dignified, and stately Cardinal Giovari. Mr Douglas Gordon is keen, incisive, and effective as the villain Strozzi. Mr Gerald Kay-Souper contributes a delicate and artistic performance as Giuliano, and Mr Oscar Adye as Bartolommeo Chigi exhibits the work of a sound actor. Efficient help is given by Mr George Ingleton as Baglioni, Mr H. S. Standing as Francesco, and David Denard as Beppo. Mrs Russ Whytal imparts much sympathy and feeling to the part of Filiberta, and she [illegible] particular success in her emotional efforts. Katherine Maude has a sweet voice and cha[illegible] manner, and she is a capital Claricia, and Miss Bramleigh is a capable Honoria.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr George Hayes.—Much variety and talent are included in the bi[illegible] offered here this week. Winona gives a wonderful exhibition of shooting, and she attains marvellous precision even when firing from a swinging trapeze. Atroy is a juggler and equilibrist of considerable merit, and he gains hearty applause. Viviana is a graceful and clever dancer; Miss Edith Eatherley is a pleasing entertainer; Les Voces are here again, and meet with deserved success; Violi gives a varied musical act; the Arizonas are clever gymnasts; Miss Maud Courtney is a favourite with her American songs and stories; Forest and King have a clever turn, and the juvenile member is a smart contortionist and dancer; the Don vocal scena company contributes vocal efforts; Steb is a clay modeller of ability; and Rosetti paints pictures rapidly. Alice in Wonderland is being performed at matinées every day during the week.

THE HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Samuel Lloyd.—At the top of the bill are the Three Romas, who give an interesting and smart exhibition of strength in their gladiatorial marvels. The Herald Comedy Four contribute well-sung solos and quartets, and introduce much fun; Miss Pollo Jerome carries out her clever gymnastic turn with commendable smartness and rapidity; the Haywards dance and sing in good style; Mr Charles S. Lee sings, mimics, and patters very amusingly; Miss Grace Lawn sings and dances to the delight of the audience; Miss Nina Elmo is a pleasing comedienne; new Hippodrome pictures interest the audience; and Gilbert's dogs and cats complete the bill.

EDINBURGH.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr H. E. Moss.—Two good sketches have been staged here this week, one, V.C., being quite an exciting affair, effectively played by Messrs J. G. Grahame, Harry Howard, Hodgson Taylor, and Miss Minnie Litchfield. The other, For Reform, is cast in a lighter mould, and is attractively presented by Mr Hugh Stanton and Miss Jessie Burgwitz. The Aurora Troupe of cyclists remain over from last week, and much diversion is caused nightly by the acrobatic feats and fooling of Keno, Welch, and Montrose. The brilliant musical gifts of Mendel, the blind pianist, are highly esteemed here, and on this occasion he gave an interesting exposition of his powers, both of execution and of memory. Mr Arthur Lennard is a tuneful singer of descriptive songs and a great favourite, and the charming style of Miss Lizzie Fletcher, comedienne, is much admired. Harry Martell, a smart dancer; Rastus and Banks, coloured comedians; and Jimmy Shields, one-legged comedian, complete the company.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Eade Montefiore.—This is the last week of Cinderella, which has had a satisfactory run. During the past fortnight Miss Ada Twibell has scored brilliantly as the Prince admiration as Cinderella. The night was under very distinguished military and social patronage, including Lieut.-Col. B. P. Portal, D.S.O., and officers of the 17th Lancers. Among other extras the popular Scottish comedian, Mr J. T. M'Millan, from the Royal, made a welcome appearance.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Tom Ellis.—Miss Lillie Mowbray's company commenced a short engagement at this house on Monday evening in Robinson Crusoe. There was a capital house, and the pantomime, which was effectively staged and well acted, had a first-rate reception. Miss Lillie Mowbray made a vivacious and cheerful hero, and Miss Tina Franks was a captivating Dolly Mayflower. Among the men Messrs J. C. Chant, Louis Martell, and Claude Morton distinguished themselves, while the whistling solos of Mr Vic Verney were received with hearty favour.

COOKE'S ROYAL CIRCUS.—Proprietor, Mr John Henry Cooke.—The sensational spectacle, Aqua-Wreck, is still the attraction here, supplemented by an excellent equestrian and variety company. Among recent arrivals are Rappo and Ella, in a high-class equilibristic entertainment, and Mozzetto, a youthful juggler of remarkable ability, whose feats have been well received. The horse Kentucky Beau, introduced by Miss Ernestine Rosa, is another feature, and Clown Domino and his performing donkey have provided a very amusing turn.

EDMONTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Edmonton has this week been visited by Mr F. Jarman's company, in the sensational Anglo-Russian drama entitled In Dark Siberia. Mr Wilson Howard is good as Major Waroff. The character of Princess Natalie Orloff is admirably rendered by Miss Carlotta Anson, and Mr W. T. Riley is excellent as Captain Victor Gordon. Messrs B. H. Ross and L. Weston and Mesdames C. Ransome and L. Riley are well fitted in the characters they impersonate. Bruin, the performing bear (Mr Harry Goodier), keeps the house in roars of laughter all the time he occupies the stage. The theatre orchestra, under the direction of Herr C. H. Paul Schafer, the new chef d'orchestre, render charming selections nightly.

EXETER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Secretary and Manager, Mr Fred Pollard; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy M. Dunsford.—Robinson Crusoe maintains his popularity to the last. On Monday evening, which commenced the last week of Mr Mouillot's pantomime stay here, a large and enthusiastic audience had a thoroughly enjoyable time. An additional attractive feature is the appearance of Bud Snyder, the trick cyclist, whose feats are, to say the least, sensational, and fully deserving of the applause they evoke. The Florodora Girls repeat their former successes, and the Almontes and Mat Melrose and Lalla Cowell fully maintain their hold upon the Exeter public.

FALKIRK.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr Horace W. Ebbutt.—The week's bill at this theatre is divided between musical comedy and detective drama. For the first three nights A Runaway Girl was produced by Mr Mouillot's company. This catchy and entertaining play brought out a capital house on Monday evening, and on Tuesday and Wednesday it was also well patronised. Miss Ethel Netherton, as Winifred Grey, whose escape from the Convent gives the title to the piece, made a vivacious and sprightly principal, and her singing was pleasing (although she suffered from a cold) and her dancing pretty. Mr Archie Croft as Guy Stanley proved very agreeable in the part of Lord Coodle's son. As a dancer he also showed himself to be an expert. Brother Tamarind found a suitable exponent in Mr Henry Latimer, who created considerable mirth in the rôle of a member of the Brigand Troupe with which he associated himself on discarding the monastic garb. The little interludes with Carmenita (Miss Marie Shields) served to add to the humour of the piece. Those mostly responsible for the live action of the play were Miss Amy Edmonds as Alice and Mr Howard Cridland as Flipper, and they made the most of their parts. The characters were all very well taken. The scenery was very effective, and the dresses pretty. The singing of the chorus was satisfactory. There was an augmented orchestra under the direction of Mr Gordon Stamford. On Thursday Mr Chas. Frohman's company appeared in Sherlock Holmes, Mr Kenneth Rivington taking the chief rôle.

TOWN HALL.—On Friday and Saturday last week Mr W. T. Rushbury, the veteran entertainer, appeared with his company in the comedy Fun on the Bristol, which afforded amusement to good houses each evening. As Widow O'Brien Mr Maurice Love was a huge success. Mr Arthur Cartwright in the capacity of John Waffles, alias Count Menaggio, deserved a special line for his fine singing and also his acting. The other principal parts were also well filled.

FARNWORTH.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr T. Morton Powell.—This week we have a return visit from Mrs Bandmann Palmer and her company. The play chosen for the opening night was Mary, Queen of Scots, Mrs Bandmann Palmer giving her usual finished performance of the title-rôle. She was well supported by Mr F. Skein as the Earl of Leicester, Mr Boyd Pearson as the Earl of Shrewsbury, Mr Sidney Bland as Lord Burleigh, and Mr G. Monroe as the Earl of Kent, and Miss K. Herbert was altogether successful in her portrayal of the part of Elizabeth. The scenery and costumes are excellent. Other plays for the week include Edit Lynne, Sapho, Jane Shore, and Hamlet.

FOLKESTONE.

PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr H. W. Rowland.—Messrs Dottridge and Longden's company, under the direction of Mr James Willard, is here this week in The Midnight Mail. Mr Geo. Harvard gives a good portrayal of the hero, Harry Steyne, Mr Fred G. Evison works well and hard in the trying rôle of Billy Brewer, Mr Alec Alves does well as Leonard Royle, Mr Arthur Gilroy as Hassan Padisha is extremely good, Mr Charles M'Cann proves an ideal Donald Craig, Miss Elsie Green admirably sustains the part of Lady Phyllis Eustace, Miss Mildred Carr plays cleverly as Nancy Brewer, Miss Ada Oakley's rendering of Mary Steyne is natural, and Miss Dolly Gilroy is capital as Patty.

GAINSBOROUGH.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton.—We had for three nights last week that amusing musical comedy Miss Mischief, and it was capitally played by Mr Godfrey Lamplugh's company. This week we have Messrs Geo. Mitchell and John Belton's company in The Conscript and The Unknown. In the former piece Mr Mitchell and Miss Mary Dawson gave powerful renderings of Karl Truevitch and Nadia. The villainies of Hardiski were well brought out by Mr Horatio Sinclair. Mr John Belton was successful in the difficult character of Dor Doggervitch. Mr Harry Tilbury and Miss Belle Tilbury supplied the comic element in Trotoff and Wands, and the rest of the characters in the hands of Messrs Howell Travis, Geo. Oliver, Frank Harvey, &c.; and Misses Helen Brinkman and Elizabeth Doone were capably portrayed.

GATESHEAD.

METROPOLE THEATRE, LIMITED. — General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Straughan.—J. W. Hall, comedian, is very popular here, and Fred Land creates much amusement by his entertaining and original songs. Lottie Siegenberg provides a good sketch, The Lazy [illegible] the Two Erras supply a smart acrobatic [illegible]ent; and George and Edwards are responsible for excellent turn. W. H. Morgan sings [illegible]ttractive turns are provided by M. [illegible]on, ventriloquist; and the Bros. Lee.

GLASGOW.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy Humphrys.—The pantomime here, The Forty Thieves, is going well, and the holiday rush is being well maintained. Mr Tom E. Murray as a raconteur keeps the audience in fits with his quaint wheezes, and Mr George Lashwood has now introduced several more of his catchy songs. Miss Annie Purcell is one of the daintiest principal boys we have had, and the other members of the company lend able support. A big favourite with the children is the donkey as played by Mr Fred Griffiths, who gives a wonderfully amusing performance.

ROYALTY, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr Wm. M. Downie.—The pantomime Jack and Jill is still running at this house, and, like all Mr Tiller's productions, is remarkably strong in dancing talent, the bulk of the fun being provided by Mr Harry Conlin as the Dame; Mr Leslie Stiles as the Baron; and Mr Freddy French as Ginger. In the title parts Misses May Merry and Mable Higson prove themselves talented little ladies; and as the Prince and Princess Miss Frances Earle and Miss Florence Burdett play their respective parts in capital style. Miss Jessie Templeton as Trim and Miss May Sharples as Fantim make an attractive second boy and girl; and the two immortals, Truth and Carl, the hunchback, are will represented by Miss Millie Warde and Mr Frank Woodville.

METROPOLE.—Managing Director, Mr Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr John Dunbar.—Mr Jefferson is this week presenting to his patrons his own well-known drama London by Day and Night. The company is well selected. Mr Riddell Robinson is successful in depicting the villainy of Gideon Snake; Mr Charles Burdon creditably sustains the popular part of Jack Hainsworth; Mr Alfred D. Adam plays with discretion and power as Richard Thorneycroft; and Mr Charles Osborne portrays the part of Edgar Thorneycroft with telling effect. Mr T. G. Davies proves successful as George Flemming; Beatrice Thorneycroft is sympathetically impersonated by Miss Jessie Robertson; Miss Beryl Mercer does excellent work as Dick; Nicodeemus Sneezer as played by Mr Percy Bell is humorous; and Miss Amy B. Ellis is a pleasing Maria Pink.

LYCEUM.—Proprietor, Mr Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr J. H. Oakden.—A powerful company is here this week playing Dan the Rake, in which Mr J. Rice Cassidy appears as Dan, which he plays with much rollicking Irish humour. Miss Lilian Clare as Madge gives a lively impersonation of the picturesque gipsy girl; Miss Ada Roscoe gives a feeling rendering of the blind mother of Dan; Miss F. Halton pleasingly interprets the character of Helen; and Mr Frank Orchard is manly in his rendering of the erring Colonel Flamer. Mr F. Copeland as Lieutenant Kavanagh is an ideal lover, and Mr Frederick Biron acts the villain with less than the usual melodramatic depth of dye.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss's Empires, Limited; Resident Manager, Mr Arthur Aldin.—Fred Karno's company in Early Birds cause roars of laughter here by their clever and amusing antics; Peppo's monkeys give an exceedingly smart and original turn; the musical act of the Leslie Brothers is one of the best comedy acts of its kind; the Rossow Midgets in their varied turn, and especially in their boxing, are really smart little men; Sisters Hayden contribute a lively medley trio as street song-sellers; the Korries give a pleasant musical turn; Mueller and Coyne are clever patterers and dancers; and Charles Adams, comedian; the Mascotte Trio of lady acrobats; and Edie Veno, comedienne, complete the programme.

TIVOLI AND QUEEN'S, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr S. King Alexander; Acting-Managers, Messrs T. J. Colquhoun and Fred C. Ewing.—Excellent business is being done at these houses, both of which have special attractions, Willie Withers Bain, the 12st. champion wrestler of the world, being at the Tivoli, where a nightly amateur wrestling contest, for special prizes, is also being conducted. At the Queen's the Three Musical Shipbuilders create a furore by their solo and concerted playing of high-class music, the cornet solos by two of the team being particularly fine. The Karno Trio in The Travellers' Rest are very funny; and Fiske and M'Donough, in a sketch of American slum life, are also very attractive; Rodin, a truly comic cyclist; and Hess and Lisbon, in a funny skating act, lend variety to the programmes; Kisbey, "the call boy," a clever mimic; Carle and Carminelli, in a unique musical turn; George Ray, Scotch comedian; Onda and Arteli in a daring gymnastic act; Collins and Rice, in a clever comedy sketch; and the Two Rubies, attractive dancers, all contribute to the varied programmes. The Zaros, champion tumblers; and Mike Cray and his dog lend additional interest. A fine selection of entirely new pictures by Bendon's Bioscope gives unusual satisfaction.
